BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection House Bill No. 51 was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to make a small statement on bills 77, 78, 79 and 80 before we get to them.

Mr. Speaker, for the information of the membership of the House, I believe there is one gentleman in this House who served on the Constitutional Revision Commission who is a member of this House now. House bills Nos. 77, 78, 79 and 80 are part of that Constitutional Revision Commission report headed by Judge Woodside. There are other bills that also take the Constitutional offices of Secretary of the Commonwealth and the Attorney General out of the Constitution. I believe, I want the gentleman to correct me, these are called the class 2 recommendations of that Commission. We are going to recommit House bills 77, 78, 79 and 80 and we are not even going to introduce the bills on the same subject dealing with the other Constitutional offices, even though this was recommended by the Constitutional Revision Commission headed by Judge Woodside, and the only member in this House who is now a member serving on that Commission is the Honorable Edwin Tompkins of Cameron County. Therefore, we are going to recommit and not introduce the other legislation.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I served on that Constitutional Revision Commission. This was among the bills known as class 2 recommendations. We have three classes of recommendations. Number one recommendations were the ones that we felt absolutely should be done; number two, it was questionable, or did not make much difference whether they were done or not; and on class 3 recommendations, we did not think the Commonwealth would fall apart if no action was taken.

Although this was a class 2 recommendation, the reports do not indicate the vote of the commission members on these things, but if you could go back into the documents I think you would find that personally I was against even recommending the abolition of this particular office from the Constitution.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 40, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article nine of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania repealing section seventeen thereof which authorized the borrowing of money to deray State Government expenses for the biennium beginning June 1, 1933.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I know this is out of order, but in case some of the Members do not understand this bill, this was a Constitutional change authorized for 1933 only, used at that time for the loan of the money. It can never be used again. It was only for that one purpose. This is simply removing it from the Constitution. If there are some negative votes, it is all right, but so they know, because it serves absolutely no purpose in the Constitution. Your legal advisers will so advise you.

Shall the bill pass finally?

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 6

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 6 on page 5 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 16, 1961.

No one knows exactly how many of the mentally ill could be discharged from our hospitals unless there is an opportunity to find out. The Philadelphia State Hospital (Byberry) carried out a small project in 1947 to find an answer to this most important question by taking 20 of its most disturbed patients from the worst building and gave them enough attendants to meet their needs to teach them to take care of themselves, to take them for a walk, to talk to them, to help them back to reality.

At the end of six months five of the 20 were out of the hospital. Another five were able to take care of themselves and were allowed the freedom of the hospital. Over the next year several more were discharged. This result is highly encouraging. In fact, many authorities estimate that with good treatment and care almost 85% of all patients in the average mental hospital can be released in a year or two.

Why cannot the successful pilot project carried out by the Philadelphia State Hospital (Byberry) be applied to all mental patients. The answer is simple; it can, provided sufficient funds are available.

The American Psychiatric Association has set standards for the number of doctors, nurses and attendants needed to give patients good treatment. To meet these standards the Philadelphia State Hospital (Byberry) which currently operates on $3.10 a day per patient would need to spend about $6.00 per day per patient. Pending legislation will raise the amount to $3.45 per patient at Byberry and all of the other 16 State hospitals in Pennsylvania will receive $4.00 or more.

Byberry cannot do more for less just because of its size. Each of its 6,600 patients needs as much care as any other patient in a smaller hospital. Byberry, the largest State hospital, has long past the point where large purchases result in reduced prices.

Insufficient funds mean improper treatment for our mentally ill with a proportionate decrease in the number of persons who can return to normal living, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission make a study of the cost of caring for the mentally ill in the Philadelphia State Hospital (Byberry) and investigate and compare the financial aid supplied to the Philadelphia State Hospital (Byberry) with the amount of assistance given other State Hospitals, and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report its findings and recommendations for supplying the Philadelphia State Hospital (Byberry) with ample funds for its proper operation and maintenance together with drafts of such legislation as may be necessary to carry its recommendations into effect to the next regular session of the General Assembly.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 7

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 7 on page 5 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 17, 1961.

During the early part of the month of January, 1961, it has been reported that fourteen people have died from Serum Hepatitis. Of these unfortunate people who have succumbed, four have been residents of Pennsylvania, particularly Levittown and Bucks County.

It has been reported by officials of the State of New Jersey who are conducting an investigation in this matter that the deaths were due to injections. They state that these people contracted this disease, Serum Hepatitis, after receiving injections of drugs used in the practice of psychiatry. The Attorney General of New Jersey has uncovered the fact that a person known as a "carrier" of the disease received injections of drugs from the same source, and subsequent to this other patients were administered drugs with the same instruments, thereby transmitting the disease to other patients and causing the unfortunate death of these fourteen people. It is a medical fact that Serum Hepatitis can only be contracted by injection into a person's bloodstream. The use of improperly sterilized instruments can cause this to happen. Attention should be given to the fact that other deadly diseases can be transmitted in the same manner to unsuspecting people; therefore, be it

Resolved That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby directs the Pennsylvania Department of Health and all of the regulatory licensing boards, i.e., the State Dental Council and Examining Board, State Board of Medical Education and Licensure, State Board of Osteopathic Examiners, State Board of Nurse Examiners and Practical Nurse Examiners of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to investigate the possibility of requiring the use of a newly developed instrument known as a "sterile disposable syringe" as a means of preventing a recurrence of this disaster and that the Department of Health shall compile a report of the findings of all such boards and shall make a report to the House of Representatives as soon as possible. In the event legislation is necessary to correct this problem, this fact should be clearly stated in the report; and be it further

Resolved, That the House of Representatives direct the Chief Clerk to transmit a copy of this resolution and a copy of the report of the Department of Health to the Governor of the State of New Jersey and to the State Legislature of New Jersey.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 10

Mr. McCANN. I call up House Resolution No. 10 on page 5 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 17, 1961.

The Tall Cedars of Lebanon of the United States of America, an organization of Master Masons, promotes as its national charitable objective muscular dystrophy research and in connection therewith sponsors a research metabolism unit for muscular dystrophy occupying an entire floor of the Institute of Muscle Diseases in New York City.

During the week of March 5 of this year the Tall Cedars of Lebanon will sponsor various activities including emphasis on programs promoting muscular dystrophy research.

Every assistance should be given to any program which has as its objective the reduction and elimination of the crippling disease of muscular dystrophy; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth is hereby requested that he issue a proclamation setting apart the week of March 5, 1961, as "National Tall Cedars of Lebanon Week" in order to promote muscular dystrophy research and to urge that the occasion be appropriately observed by the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 21

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 21, which is not on the calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 31, 1961.

President Dwight D. Eisenhower is now a private citizen of this Commonwealth, having established a residence in Cumberland Township, Adams County, near Gettysburg.

He has completed two terms as President of the United States, leaving behind him a record of unselfish devotion to the people of this nation. His record as a distinguished statesman and world leader for peace and international unity is outstanding.

It is both fitting and proper that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should welcome President and Mrs. Eisenhower to their adopted home; therefore, be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That President and Mrs. Eisenhower be welcomed to this, their first permanent home; and be it further

Resolved, That President Eisenhower be commended for his extraordinary efforts on behalf of world peace and international harmony; and be it further

Resolved, That President Eisenhower be invited to address a joint meeting of the House of Representatives and the Senate; and be it further

Resolved, That a joint committee be appointed consisting of three members from the House of Representatives and three members from the Senate to escort President Eisenhower to the rostrum of the House; and be it further

Resolved, That the three members from the House shall be Mr. Worley, Mr. McCann and Mr. Tomascik; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate committee consist of Senator DiSilvestro, Senator Berger and Senator Weiner as members of this joint committee; and be it further

Resolved, That Mr. Worley, the Representative of Mr. Eisenhower's district, is hereby made Chairman of this committee; and Mr. Worley shall proceed at his earliest convenience to the home of President and Mrs. Eisenhower and personally present the former President with a copy of this resolution and make full arrangements for the address by the President before a joint meeting of the House and Senate.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. SHERMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additionl asponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Eilberg for Mr. MULLEN for today because of illness.

Mr. Eilberg for Mr. BOIES for today because of illness.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the Minority Leader.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the Majority Leader would be so kind as to announce the schedule for next week before too many Members get out.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would be most pleased to announce the schedule for the next two weeks. Next week, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, 3:30, 1:00 and, I hope, 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday.

The following week: I believe the week starts on Monday the 20th, sessions Monday the 20th and Tuesday the 21st, but on Tuesday the 21st at 10:30 a.m. there will be a Joint Session of the House and Senate observing the 100th Anniversary of President Abraham Lincoln speaking at this Capitol. I believe the program is about 45 minutes long. I am not quite sure of that time. There will be no session on Wednesday, February 22nd. So, for the next two weeks, three days and two days, and then right back into a three-day schedule if the hotels will be available.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the Majority Leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, at this point, if we are complete with all business I will move that this House will now recess until some hour later tonight.

The SPEAKER. The Chair prefers an adjournment until tomorrow. The Chair is not going to sit up here all night again waiting for the Senate. We can just as well meet tomorrow morning and sign the bills, if there are any.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to that except that in discussing it with the Minority Leader I said there would be no votes, nothing concurred in, nothing adopted, only the signature of bills, but it is absolutely all right so far as I am concerned if he has no objection.

The SPEAKER. I would rather do that at 11 o'clock tomorrow than 11 o'clock tonight.

Mr. AGNEW. It is preferable to me.

Mr. McCANN. It is perfectly satisfactory to me.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wesdnesday, February 8, 1961 at 11:00 a.m. e.s.t.

Session 1961. 145th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 38. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1961. No. 17.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1961.

The Senate met at 12:00 m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Fred B. Rooney) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DONALD DOUDS, Paster of The First Presbyterian Church, Erie, offered the following prayer:

May we pray?

Eternal God, Creator of the Universe and Father of our spirits, we pause before beginning our work to ask Thy guidance and Thy help.

Thou, Who art all wise and perfectly just, send now Thy Spirit upon this Senate that these servants of the people may govern wisely and decide justly. Wilt Thou so inspire with Thy counsel, and prosper with Thy blessing, what is enacted here that it may truly further the well-being of all the people of our Commonwealth?

Thou, Who hast made us and knowest our weaknesses, keep us humbly mindful of our human limitations and draw us ever back to Thee for light for our decisions and overrule our mistakes. Make successful our efforts for a good and righteous Commonwealth. Give us a sense of what is necessary and important. Help us to accomplish effectively what is needful, and to leave undone what is not needful. Guide us not to dissipate our resources in overcomplex organization, not to lose sight of the common good in competing self-interest, and not to burden the people with unnecessary law, but may all that is done here be of real and lasting benefit to all the people.

Now, O God, be with these Senators. Bind them all together by their love of the common good. Give them charity toward one another. Help them so to fulfill their high trust, that they may come to the end of their duties with a clear conscience in the knowledge that they have done what is best for all their fellow citizens.

This we pray because we love Thee and we long for the coming of Thy Kingdom on earth. Amen.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. PECHAN, SARRAF and SHAFER presented to the Chair SB 161, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 18, 1949 (P. L. 512), entitled "Fiduciaries Act of 1949," changing provisions relating to the order of payment of claims against estates.

Which was committeed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, the bill I am about to introduce touches a subject on which attorneys in the State of Pennsylvania should be interested.

As the law is practiced today, an attorney, even though he may be admitted to the Supreme Court of the State of Pennsylvania, does not have the right to represent a client in any county other than the county in which he has his office without the necessity of taking in another attorney in that county.

The bill I am proposing now would establish the right of any attorney, who has been admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, to represent a client in any county in the State of Pennsylvania without the necessity of engaging other counsel.

BILL INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SILVERT and STIEFEL presented to the Chair SB 162, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 8, 1909 (P. L. 475), entitled "An act to provide that admission now had or that may hereafter be had to practice as an attorney-at-law in the Supreme Court of this Commonwealth shall of itself, without more, operate as an admission of such attorney as an attorney-at-law in every other court of this Commonwealth; . . ." further defining the right of attorney-at-law admitted to practice in the Supreme Court to practice in the courts of the several counties.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the bill which I am about to introduce elicited a most lively debate in September of 1959, in which Senator Pechan and Senator Seyler were participants. It dealt with a poem for Pennsylvania. You know, we have a bird, a hemlock tree, a pheasant and the laurel, but we do not have a poem.

For many years, I have always been an admirer of Kipling's immortal poem about Pennsylvania. There probably will be many other poets offering poems, but I feel Kipling is as much a part of Pennsylvania as anybody else. It is for this reason that I am introducing this bill.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. STIEFEL presented to the Chair SB 163, entitled:

An Act declaring and adopting an excerpt from Rudyard Kiplings' poem "Philadelphia" that could be entitled "All in Pennsylvania" as the official poem of Pennsylvania.

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article eight, section one of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, permitting citizens eighteen years of age or over to vote.

He also presented to the Chair SB 165, entitled:

An Act providing for group life insurance and group accidental death and dismemberment insurance for State employes; establishing the amount of insurance available; schedule of payments; rates of contribution; termination and authorizing the purchase of insurance and the regulation of the funds thereof.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

He also presented to the Chair SB 166, entitled:

An Act providing group insurance contracts and benefits for members and employes of the Senate, the cost thereof to be apportioned between the Commonwealth and such members and employes and requiring the Executive Board to enter into the necessary contracts for such purpose.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

He also (By request) presented to the Chair SB 169, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 24, 1939 (P. L. 872), entitled "The Penal Code," prohibiting the coloring or dyeing of chickens, ducks or rabbits, and the sale of colored or dyed chickens, ducks or rabbits.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Messrs. STROUP, YATRON and DEVLIN presented to the Chair SB 170, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," creating the State Council of Higher Education as a departmental administrative board in the Department of Public Instruction; defining its powers and duties; transferring certain duties to the State Council of Higher Education of the State Council of Education and defining and coordinating functions of the two councils.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. BELL presented to the Chair SB 171, entitled:

An Act requiring bills introduced in the General Assembly to be printed with punctuation.

FINAL PASSAGE CALENDAR

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

SB 53—On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 53 go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe today that we cannot be accused of rushing or pushing this matter or anything else, except having it before us and passing the bill. If we do not have the votes, it will then be defeated. However, I think, definitely, we should take up this matter. We have talked this matter to death. We have discussed every angle and every side of it. I think, therefore, we should get on with the business of the Session. If we do not have the votes, the bill should be defeated, thereby ending this measure. Holding it here one more day will not change anybody's mind nor will it make anybody act in any different fashion.

This is a matter of public policy and I think we should proceed on this measure. It is going to go over to the House, where it will remain for awhile. If there are any necessary changes to be made, I think that opportunity will be available to us.

The PRESIDENT. Objection has been made to this bill going over in its order.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the passage of this bill, as I did when it was defeated last week.

There is no question in my mind but that this bill will take away from the citizens of Pennsylvania a fundamental constitutional right to own and dispose of property as they see fit. The argument has been raised, and I recognize the fact, that there is the problem of human rights involved. Human rights are so closely interwoven with property rights that if we tear at the foundation of one, we may very materially tear at the foundation of the other.

I would like to say that I am not opposed to the objectives of this bill. However, I think some of the proponents of this bill have possibly gone overboard in their zealousness to pass it. I say to you, Mr. President, that the very things which they hope to attain are not going to be attained by the passage of this bill. I am afraid we will find a lot of renting and selling not being advertised on the open market. I think we will find, in many instances, when it comes to borrowing the necessary capital to erect these housing units, a very strong reaction against making the loans.

The proponents have said that this is not a punitive measure. They have emphasized the fact that it is educational. I think the only way in which we can proceed on this type of legislation is by education and by persuasion. If the proponents of the measure say that it is not punitive, then why do they put a punitive provision into the bill? If it is purely persuasive, why do we not amend the bill to the point that it is merely educational and persuasive? However, as the bill stands now, in my opinion, it will do far more harm to the citizens of Pennsylvania, as a whole, than it can possibly do good.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the gentleman from Allegheny that his concern for the constitutionality of this measure I think can be corrected. We have permanent institutions in this Commonwealth, as well as in the United States, known as the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth and the Supreme Court of the United States. Both of these courts have reiterated the policy which we are setting out in this measure. I do not feel that we are going beyond the statements which they have made in their cases, both in the case itself or in the dicta of the cases.

I would like to allay the gentleman's fears in the sense that these two bodies will be here as permanent institutions, to look after any acts of omission or commission which we might commit. I think they will take care of any problems which might arise in this area.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, unfortunately, I was absent last week. However, there perhaps may be some good come from it in that I am able to be heretoday.

I feel very strongly that this is a good bill. I think we can be proud of the fact that the evolution of human rights are outweighing the private, economic rights of individuals. I think that is important not only to the citizens of this Commonwealth, but to the Country and to the world, as a whole. Perhaps it is best phrased by a letter I received from a minister, stating that: "In a time of crisis, when our laws must match our ideals as Christians and Americans if we are to show the world a better way than communism, I am counting on you to support Senate Bill No. 53."

That, I think, sums it up pretty well. We are putting human rights against economic rights.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—30

Camiel,	Hays,	Mullin,	Seyler,
Confair,	Kalman,	Murray,	Shafer,

DiSilvestro,	Mahady,	Rooney,	Staisey,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 88—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I noticed during the previous roll call that Senator Hawbaker did not answer to his name. This reminded me that he had called me earlier in the day and said that he had about eight inches of snow and could not get out. Therefore, I would like to ask for a leave of absence for him.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the leave is granted.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

SB 3—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order temporarily at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 28—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as requested by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I wish to make my position explicitly clear with reference to Senate Bill No. 28.

As you probably know, last week I raised objection as to the number of petitioners with reference to the city of Philadelphia and the city of Pittsburgh. At that time, the figure was 5,000. Now the bill is amended to show the number of 25,000 petitioners before this legislation can be placed on the ballot for a referendum. I wish to state that although I am not in favor of selling liquor on Sundays, I feel it is my responsibility, as a Member of this Senate, to extend to the people of the city of Philadelphia and the city of Pittsburgh the right of a referendum. I also feel that when the so-called workers, who are going to sign up the petitioners, sample the will of the people, it will be very fair to all the rest of the people in this Commonwealth.

I might also say, Mr. President, if this were to apply to my Senatorial District, my position would be in the negative. However, since we have representatives in this Senate from Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, it is my responsibility to go along with these gentlemen and give their citizenry the opportunity to have a referendum.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, this bill will require a petition, signed by some 25,000 voters in the city of Philadelphia and the city of Pittsburgh. I do not know the exact number of electors in the city of Philadelphia or in the city of Pittsburgh. However, assuming there are about 900,000 electors in the city of Philadelphia, this would permit a referendum to be initiated upon petition of some two and one-half to three per cent of the voters. I do not think this is a good precedent to establish. If it were a higher percentage of the voters,—say, ten per cent of the voters— I think I could support this bill. However, in view of the fact this is establishing a precedent of two and one-half to three per cent of the voters in a district to establish a referendum, I feel obliged to vote against the bill.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I rise to oppose the passage of this bill, probably on a little different grounds than my predecessor.

I think this is bad legislation. I think this is only the opening wedge—and will be pursued further in later Sessions of the General Assembly—to further liberalize the liquor laws of Pennsylvania. Certainly, if we open the door and permit the hotels in two of the cities to sell liquor on Sunday, unquestionably the tavern owners and the other hotel owners in other counties of the Commonwealth, who are not presently covered by this bill,—and in the counties in which they are located where the opportunity has not been given to them to vote for it—will also want it. We will be opening the door to Sunday sales of liquor all over Pennsylvania.

I would therefore, submit to the Members of the Senate that this cannot make for a better place in which to raise your children or in which to live. I think we should observe the Sabbath Day to the best of our ability.

For that reason, Mr. President, I am completely and unalterably opposed to this or any similar bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think we are laboring here under a misapprehension, and I would like to correct it if I could. The problem of whether you can or cannot do this thing is not before us today. That has already passed in the previous Session, and that is finished business.

All that is before us today is: shall the people get X number of names as it appeared in the original bill, or shall they get 5,000 names or 25,000 names? That is all that is in front of us. You are not voting on whether you can or cannot do this thing in these different places. That has already been passed here. The only thing you are saying is: do you need 25,000 names to do it, or do you need 350,000 names, or whatever the number you need?

The Senate and the House have already passed this measure. It is already done. Whether the people want it or not is another problem that has to be taken up by the people in the local community.

I have heard—I hope it was from the same Senator, but if I am in error I am sure he will correct me—that they were asking that they have local referenda or local option on some of these other matters. Well here we are having local option on this matter. This is a matter that is perfectly and particularly appropriate to this particular area in itself. All we have before us here is: shall it be 25,000 names or shall it be the number that was originally passed in the bill?

We are not debating the Act. That is long since gone. We have already had that and it is done and finished. This is all that is left before us here.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, being in the hall of the Senate, and not hearing my name being called, I desire to be recorded as voting "aye".

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—26

Camiel,	Keller,	Murray,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Lane,	Ripp,	Staisey,
DiSilvestro,	Mahady,	Rooney,	Stiefel,
Donolow,	McCreesh,	Sarraf,	Van Sant,
Ehrgood,	McGinnis,	Scott,	Weiner,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Kalman,	Mullin,

NAYS—20

Bell,	Hays,	Miller,	Stevenson,
Berger,	Kessler,	Pechan,	Stroup,
Confair,	Kromer,	Propert,	Wagner,
Flack,	Madigan,	Seyler,	Ware, III,
Fleming,	Mallery,	Shafer,	Wolfe,

A majority of all Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

SB 3 CALLED UP

SB 3—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order temporarily, was called up, from page 2 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 3—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Majority Leader whether or not this proposed amendment to the Constitution does not, in substance, reiterate a similar amendment which was defeated by a vote of the people in 1959?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I might, I would like to defer to the Chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations. I believe he has had a discussion with the Attorney General on this matter. I do not know whether he sent you a copy, but I think he was getting an extra copy.

Mr. President, may we be at ease one moment so that he can look through his file?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease for a moment.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, the question that has been raised in connection with this bill, I believe requires some further research. For that reason, I am going to ask that the bill go over in its order so that this can be done.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, Senate Bill No. 3, Printer's No. 3, will go over in its order.

SENATE MESSAGE

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate:

Senate Bills for concurrence Senate Bills Nos. 136 and 137.

The SPEAKER. What is the pleasure of the Majority Leader?

The Chair recognizes the Majority Leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have nothing more at today's session except what has been completed at this point, and I was informed by the Parliamentarian that we are within the provisions of the Constitution since the Senate Concurrent Resolution for adjournment of the House and Senate is not required, because only three days remain and we will be back Monday which will comply with the Constitutional provision on adjournment.

Mr. Speaker, just one other thing I want to ask, does the bell ring that I keep asking about all the time?

The SPEAKER. I am informed that tests will be made over the week end to ascertain whether the bell rings.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, February 13, 1961 at 3:30 p. m. E. S. T.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 11:34 a.m. E. S. T.) The House adjourned.

Session 1961. 145th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 38. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1961. No. 18.

SENATE

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1961.

The Senate met at 3:00 p. m. Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplin, Rev. LUTHER H. HARSHBARGER, University Chaplin, The Pennsylvania State University, State College, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, Thou great Giver of the law, Who hast called us here to a place of trust and responsibility, we humbly thank Thee for all the ways in which Thou hast blessed and guided us. Among these blessings, may we reckon the demands, opportunities and issues of the day. As we discern them, urgent and difficult though they be, sustain us while we are trying to work out the tedious details and particular applications.

By the counsel of Thy Spirit, we beseech Thee to show to all who make, who interpret or administer the law its underlying meaning and purpose. Teach them, we beseech Thee, what is worth knowing, what is worth accomplishing and how to safeguard what is worth preserving, so that through the true reconciling of hostile forces, all of us may have a new wisdom and a new vision of the future of this Commonwealth.

May wisdom and knowledge be the stability of our time so that, in the words of him whose memory we celebrate this day, "government of the people, by the people and for the people may not perish from the earth." Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the proceding session, when, on motion of Mr. LANE and Mr. McGINNIS, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to addres the Senate.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, last Friday afternoon, southeastern Pennsylvania received very bad news. We received news that the Ford Motor Company had decided to completely shut down its Chester assembly plant. This means the loss of jobs for 1,500 employees, of which some thirty per cent live in the city of Philadelphia. The greater number of the remainder live in Delaware County.

This is heavy industry. When heavy industry such as this closes down, the suppliers, and the supporting industries, likewise, face an indefinite future. Therefore, we have here, at one fell swoop, the employmnt of some 6,500 employees. In other words, in southeastern Pennsylvania, 6,500 families face the fact of unemployment. This is pretty rough.

Today, Mr. President, I visited with the Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Davlin, who, despite a little personal difficulty which he has, gave me an hour of his time in order to tell me how deeply interested the Governor of Pennsylvania and his office are in the plight of our employees in southeastern Pennsylvania. For that, I thank the Secretary and I thank the Governor.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am about to introduce a resolution on behalf of Senator DiSilvestro and myself, and I ask for its immediate consideration by this august Body.

SENATE RESOLUTION

URGING THAT THE FORD MOTOR COMPANY RECONSIDER ITS DECISION TO CLOSE THE FORD PLANT AT CHESTER

Messrs. BELL and DiSILVESTRO offered the following resolution (Serial No. 12), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 13, 1961.

On Friday, February 10, 1961 Southeastern Pennsylvania was shocked to learn that Ford Motor Company was closing its Chester assembly plant.

For 33 years, Chester Ford has provided employment for many thousands of Pennsylvanians in the assembly plant and in its supporting service industries.

The proposed shut-down will cost the jobs of 1500 Ford employees. The jobs of 5000 others employed in service and supporting industries are likewise jeopardized. Sixty-five hundred families in Delaware County and Philadelphia face a dire future because of this shut-down.

Delaware County and Philadelphia are already critical labor areas with grave unemployment.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Senate of Pennsylvania the Ford Motor Company reconsider its decision to close the Chester Ford Plant; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of Labor and Industry and the Secretary of Commerce of Pennsylvania be requested to contact the Ford Motor Company to request such reconsideration; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of Commerce of Pennsylvania be requested to initiate plans and programs to bring new industry to this stricken area if Ford Motor Company refuses to reconsider its decision to close its Chester Plant; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Secretary of Labor and Industry be requested to initiate plans and programs for the re-employment of employees of Ford Motor Company and its supporting service industries if Ford Motor Company refuses to reconsider its fateful decision; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that copies of this Resolution be forwarded immediately after adoption to the President of Ford Motor Company at Detroit, Michigan, to the Secretary of Commerce, and the Secretary of Labor and Industry.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Bell has requested the immediate consideration of this resolution. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think a measure of this type is important in highlighting that I believe all of us know, but sometimes shut our eyes to; namely, that all of the area in this Commonwealth are intertwined and interbound in the sense that when a matter affects the city of Chester and the county of Delaware, many of the people who are going to feel the effects, and feel them very directly, are the people who live in Philadelphia, Montgomery and Chester Counties, all of whom are brought to this section of Pennsylvania to work.

Therefore, Mr. President, I hope this is a welcome type of resolution. I am sorry it is on this note that we have to speak in the vein of cooperating between the municipalities, the counties, the boroughs and the townships. However, it is with this type of item that you begin to see how government is intertwined and how it is not merely political units which are involved, regardless of their political affiliation or color.

When the gentlemen from these different counties introduce measures which would harm Philadelphia, they, in a sense, are harming themselves. I believe this highlights the fact that this is taking in not only the people of Chester, but the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia, the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and his Cabinet Officers, as well, to work on this problem affects all of us very directly and in a very harsh manner.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am very happy, indeed, to have the opportunity to support the resolution submitted by the distinguished Senator. I believe that what is happening in southeastern Pennsylvania has also happened in southwestern Pennsylvania. As a matter of fact, unless this august Body wakes up, we are going to have depressed areas all over this great Commonwealth. I believe, at a time like this, it calls for complete cooperation in doing the job of re-employing our people. The time will come very shortly when we will be talking about appropriations for P. I. D. A., which is Pennsylvania Industrial Development Authority. Let us hope that all of us will realize what that particular Authority has done for the Commonwealth, and what we hope it may do in the future. Let us support it in detail and let us give it the money to do the job.

Of course, the Members of the Senate know that we now have a bipartisan Committee of the House and Senate which has been working on the problem of unemployment. We have held a number of hearings. Our committee worked through the holidays and is working without funds. We are glad to do the job, however. We are going up into the hard coal area during the next week or two. We are going to meet either in Wilkes-Barre or Scranton and, from there, we are going to Pittsburgh.

Mr. President, I am happy, indeed, that Senator Bell fully realizes the problem of unemployment, now that it has come to his District. Let us hope that we will receive full and complete cooperation. I am also happy that the gentleman sponsored the resolution because it is going to bring home to all of the people of Pennsylvania the fact that unless we all work together, we are going to have a real depression in Pennsylvania.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

JOHN DAVIS PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, at this time, I would like to offer a resolution of welcome to the new, temporary employee of the Senate who is a very attractive young man whom I just met today, and who certainly gives every evidence of stemming from a distinguished parentage.

I would like to present to the Senate, John Davis, our temporary employee for the day, and welcome him back for another visit.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you very much, Senator Ware.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION
WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. McCREESH offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted.

In the Senate, February 13, 1961.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 20, 1961 at THREE o'clock P.M., E.S.T. and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene on Monday, February 20, 1961 at THREE-THIRTY o'clock P.M., E.S.T.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, there is in the city of Philadelphia an institution that is 130 years old. Recently this institution was brought to the attention of the public at large, due to a prison break attempt which took place.

Perhaps some of the people in this Chamber, who are not familiar with the city of Philadelphia, may not be aware of the fact that this prison occupies a five or six block square area, situated in a heavily populated area. There are a great number of schools in this area, and there are a great number of apartment buildings, small homes and businesses. In the recent riot or prison breach that was attempted, I think it was brought home very forcefully what might happen to this community if these people were to get away.

This building is old, and in 130 years there have been some additions and even some modifications, but there is very little room for recreation in this building. There is very little area for the programs that should be carried out in a correctional institution. We feel this institution does not belong in this area. The fact that the prison is situated in my District does not make me particularly attuned to moving it, but I think it is the fact that the city has grown. Incidentally, this prison is within four blocks of the museums which exist in this city and within four or five blocks of the parkways which exist in this city and the areas to which visitors come. I do not feel this is the type of thing for any city which is anxious to attract tourist business, which incidentally, is one of the large industries in the world today and not only in this Country. I would suggest that it be moved to a different outlying area, because when this prison was originally built, this was an outlying area. It was a farm district which was no longer used for farming, and it was felt this was the place for it to be built.

However, I do not want to be the one to state categorically that it should go to X or Y place. I feel a study should be made of this problem, not because I want to shift the responsibility, —that is not my desire at all— but I think all pertinent data should be gathered and anyone who might object to it going into a particular area would have an opportunity to come forth.

I understand that the same problem exists in the area surrounding Pittsburgh, in Allegheny County, where redevelopment is going on, where the Western State Correctional Institution now exists.

Therefore, in the resolution I am about to offer, I am asking that a study be made of both of these institutions and that appropriate steps be taken.

In the Philadelphia area, the prison is situated in one of the most lucrative areas, as far as land values are concerned. It is in center-city. I am sure that if this prison were razed, apartment units or public housing or things of that nature could go up which would, in a sense, help defray the cost of building a new correctional institution which could properly house the people, primarily as a correctional institution, and not merely as a compound.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of Senator McGinnis, of Allegheny County, and myself, I ask that this resolution be read and referred to the apropriate committee for appropriate action.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION
DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE RELOCATION OF WESTERN AND EASTERN STATE CORRECTIONAL INSTITUTIONS

Messrs. WEINER and McGINNIS offered the following resolution (Serial No. 108), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 13, 1961.

WHEREAS, on January 8, 1961, a prison break was attempted by some of the inmates at the penal institution known as The Eastern State Correctional Institution located in the city of Philadelphia. This outbreak was quelled. This prison is 130 years old. It houses 991 prisoners, of which 177 are maximum security cases, consisting of those who are serving life sentences, awaiting execution and others who require the utmost in security measures.

The facilities of this penal institution are outmoded and woefully lacking in the equipment and necessary facilities in taking care of inmates of this type. It also has become apparent to many that an institution of this kind should not be located in the heart of a residential section as it now is in the city of Philadelphia. There has been widespread fear of the residents who reside around the area where this institution is located.

It is the sense of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that a study should be made by the Joint State Government Commission of the facilities and security measures surounding this institution, as well as The Western State Correctional Institution, and also a study of removal of these institutions from the Cities of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh to a place better located for institutions of this kind; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission determine and recommend a suitable site to which The Western and Eastern State Correctional Institutions may be moved; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission determine and recommend the type of institution that should be built in order to accommodate the inmates of The Western and Eastern State Correctional Institutions; and be it further

RESOLVED, That the Joint State Government Commission make a report of its studies and recommendations to the General Assembly by April 15, 1961.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, to add more to the dramatization of what Senator Weiner said and pled so well, Charles Dickens, during his visit to the United States, spoke about the Eastern Correctional Institution and not in good terms. Despite that, it is quite an old problem in Philadelphia.

The PRESIDENT. This resolution is referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, the bill I am about to introduce deals with the problem of geriatrics. In most of the jurisdictions through the Nation, it is axiomatic that the subject matter of geriatrics is not only a question of custodial care of the aged, but it is also a question of research and thorough, exhaustive medical study.

Pennsylvania is blessed with one of the outstanding authorities on public health, Doctor Wilbar, our Secretary of Health. I believe that under the skilled hand of this man, the Office for the Aging, which is now under the Department of Public Welfare, will make finer progress and will inure to the advantage of the citizenry of Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, I made an omission. Senator Kalman is desirous of placing his name on this bill.

The PRESIDENT. If Senator Kalman will come up, the Chair will permit him to place his name upon the bill.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. STIEFEL and KALMAN, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 206, entitled:

An Act transferring the Advisory Committee for the Aging from the Department of Public Welfare to the Department of Health.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. LANE, STEVENSON, SCOTT, VAN SANT and ROONEY, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 207, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 9, 1949 (P.L. 927), entitled "Sheriff's Fee Bill, Second to Eighth Class Counties," changing fees, mileage and other costs chargeable by sheriffs and making editorial corrections.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the bill that I am about to introduce is a poor man's bill. It involves fundamental property rights.

Under the rules and regulations of the Department of Revenue, they refuse to list two names with the right of survivorship. In other words, they refuse to title motor vehicles for joint tenants, with the right of survivorship. In the case of many poor people, the only thing they own is an automobile, and when the owner dies, the survivors have to go to a lawyer, pay transfer tax and go through a lot of red tape to make the survivorship possible.

A fundamental right in this Country is to hold property as we see fit. If we elect to hold it as husband and wife by entirety, or by brother and sister with the right of survivorship, that right should not be arbitrarily refused by the Department of Revenue.

Therefore, Mr. President, I am presenting this bill on behalf of myself, Senator Mullin, Senator Ripp and Senator Kalman.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. MAHADY, MULLIN, RIPP and KALMAN, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 208, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P.L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code," providing for ownership of a motor vehicle, trailer, or semi-trailer by joint tenants, and requiring the Secretary of Revenue to indicate such ownership upon the certificate of title.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Messrs. YATRON, SESLER and ROONEY, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 209, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 29, 1959 (P.L. 58), entitled "The Vehicle Code," providing for school bus drivers' seminars; requiring school bus drivers to attend such seminars, and imposing duties upon county superintendents of schools in relation thereto.

Which was committed to the Committee on Highways.

Messrs. SESLER, SHAFER, BERGER, VAN SANT, KALMAN, MULLIN, HALUSKA, MURRAY, ROONEY and KELLER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 210, entitled:

An Act promoting safe boating, water skiing and similar activities upon the waters of this Commonwealth; establishing educational programs; improving waterway facilities and regulating the operation and equipment of vessels; conferring powers and imposing duties on the Department of Forests and Waters, the Department of Revenue, and the Boating Board herein created; prescribing penalties for violation; making an appropriation from the General Fund to the Boating Fund of the Department of Forests and Waters for use of the Boating Board; and providing for the reimbursement of the General Fund.

Which was committed to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

CALENDAR

FINAL PASSAGE CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 88—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 88, Printer's No. 88, go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, my explanation for making this request is, I think, a rather simple one; namely, that we do not have the votes. The basis for this is that we have the Members present on the Democratic side who are ready, willing and able to perform on these measures. However, we do not even have an opportunity, at this time, to test whether the President of the Senate, in this case, the Lieutenant Governor, can exercise his ability to vote on these measures. This is due to the fact that the Members on the other side are lacking one or more of their Members.

I would merely like to point out that we can continue in this vein of dragging these bills along or having them defeated. However, I would like to respectfully suggest to the gentlemen on the other side that two years ago we faced this very same situation. About in March sometime, the fourth class school districts and the third class school districts found themselves in the position where they needed their money and it was not available.

I would like to advise the gentlemen on the other side that the information I am giving to the Members of this Senate is also available to them from the same source as I obtained it. I have suggested on this floor before that they could have any of these people appear either individually or at their Caucus. However, I would like to advise the gentlemen that the cash position of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a precarious one, unless we get it in a position, by passing some of these measures, where we will be able to operate. Without this money in the till, or without money coming into the till, not only the State but any individual who has some care about his business and his affairs would not act in any manner except one which is prudent. I know that none of you would spend your money unless you knew where it was coming from. Until you pass these measures, many of you who have second, third and fourth class school districts are going to feel the pinch and you will find the same problems which you found two years ago.

I am also well aware that there are many gentlemen sitting on the other side who recognize their responsibility and who are willing to help us pass this tax program and let us bear the onus of it, as well as the responsibility for it. However, probably this is not the week for this to be. I am willing to yield or bow to this judgment, but I think it is not the type of thing which makes for the proper operation of the Commonwealth.

In reviewing the entire picture, as we did last week, I think you are willing to help us put taxes on the people generally. However, I think you are more or less evading the same responsibility which goes along with putting it on the other people in our society. In two of these measures, particularly House Bill No. 89, you are only increasing the rate of payment on corporations which are already paying their taxes. You are merely asking them to step up the time in which they are paying them. You are asking them to use their borrowing power on behalf of the Commonwealth because they can get it at a cheaper rate than we can. I do not know when the gentlemen will be willing to do it, but I think after you go back into your own areas and find out about some of the needed services, and that the money which is needed to operate this Commonwealth is lacking and not forthcoming because of this dilatory action, you will find that the responsible thing to do is to meet this responsibility today when the heavy pressure is not upon us.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am very glad that the Majority Leader touched upon the phrase "responsibility of this side." That is exactly what we feel we are exercising in wanting to obtain additional information about the acceleration bills.

Mr. President, we realize there has been no great opposition from the large corporations in Pennsylvania against the acceleration of their corporate net income tax and gross receipts tax. However, as it has been suggested, —and very correctly suggested, in my opinion—we have heard today about an industry which is leaving the city of Chester. This is a large, heavy industry, throwing 1,500 people out of employment. We are contemplating appropriating a large amount of money to the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce for the purpose of assisting industry in coming into the Commonwealth. Yet, we are saying to industry, by the passage of these bills, that as soon as you get into Pennsylvania, you are going to be hit by a tax which will be upon profits or upon business which you have not yet had an opportunity to make in the Commonwealth.

Mr. President, I understand there is presently an industry contemplating locating in one of our counties in Pennsylvania. It is quite possible that, because of the location of this county, this industry could locate in an adjacent State not very many miles away—probably a half a dozen. However, the passage of this anticipatory tax bill might have an adverse effect upon the location of that industry.

Mr. President, we are interested in giving employment. We do not want to create a climate which will discourage businesses from coming into Pennsylvania. We want to find out from statistics and from estimates as to what effect this will have on new businesses or small corporations, already in existence.—They cannot borrow money at a rate which is comparable to that which a large corporation can or comparable to what the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania would have to pay. They must go to the bank and probably pay through the nose in order to pay this accelerated tax. Therefore, Mr. President, we want that information. We want to know what effect this is going to have upon our small businesses. They are the ones which we fear will suffer by this. They are the ones from which we would anticipate the growth of industry in Pennsylvania.

Mr. President, in so far as the Republican Members of this Senate having any interest in protecting business by not passing these taxes, that is a fallacy for the reason that so-called big business is not opposing these taxes. We realize that. We have seen the Democratic Majority pass a tax upon the small people of Pennsylvania when they put an additional two cents on gasoline last week. We want to know what this is going to do to small business and to employment in Pennsylvania before we will be ready to vote on it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, in answer to the gentleman's question, I believe he answered it in his statement when he said that nobody has come forward to complain. All of us here in the Legislature realize that industry is not shy about writing any Member of the Legislature, nor are they shy about coming and seeing them in their home Districts or in Harrisburg, if necessary. The fact that nobody is complaining about it should be indication enough that there is no serious problem connected with this.

Secondly, you are not saying to this industry that they must pay more money than they ever paid before. Eventually, they will have to pay the entire amount. You are merely saying that they must pay it earlier.

I may not have been very clear when I pointed out to the gentleman last week that the department allows time for these people to obtain additional time, if necessary, and to get additional benefits, if that becomes necessary.

I think the record will prove there has never been an industry which ever moved out of an area because of the tax climate. I think your biggest problem here—and it is symtomatic of the times we are living in and symtomatic of the economic conditions, as we find them today—is that these industries are closing. They are closing down plants which are obsolete. It is cheaper for them, under the tax structure as it exists today, to build new plants and to write off a certain amount for obsolescence and depreciation. That is why many of these people and corporations are anxious to obtain this benefit. Most of them come under the fifty-two per cent bracket, if not higher, where the Government, itself, will pay better than fifty per cent in helping to build these plants. If they put money into an industry or plant which is thirty-eight years old, the benefit redounding to the corporation is very small, indeed. If they build a new plant and write it off over a period of years, they can certainly do well.

This is true in many of the areas. I think the climate that industry has enjoyed has been a good one. The fellow who really needs the help is the small businessman who has received little or no help. However, this bill pertains only to large industries. The first bill is even on foreign corporations which are not in this Commonwealth. To be reluctant to do something which no one objects to, hardly shows responsibility.

If further information or facts are needed, I think the same amount of information is available on these bills as was available on the gasoline tax, as was availble on the Bridge and Highway Authority when we raised that amount, and as was aviable on the realty tax. All of this information is aviable. I am even willing to make the people in the Administration responsible for availing some of this information to the gentleman on the other side. I do not know of anything further we can do. If we have overlooked anything, I will be very happy to supply that, as well.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I believe I was quite clear in my statement. If I was not, I will repeat myself, if the Senate will permit me.

I said that we understood so-called big business does not object to this acceleration of taxes. However, Mr. President, I must repeat that we are concerned with the small businessmen and the small corporations.

I am sure Senator Weiner would not say there is anything written into this bill to the effect that if a little corporaion wants an extension of time in order to pay these taxes, that the bill says he can receive it. I have no doubt that under reasonable circumstances, the department may grant that extension of time. However, so far as I know, the corporation must pay it when the bill says it has to pay it. As a consequence, what we want to get and what we intend to get, Mr. President, are some statistics as to how this may effect little businesses, for which Senator Weiner was properly solicitous, rather than big business which apparently does not object to it.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, in order to clear the air here with a definate statement, let me say that it is not a question of an additional burden during the year. It is a question of the tempory effect upon cash positions. That is the whole issue. You are paying beforehand and anticipating, just as individuals do. We anticipate on a quarterly basis on our Federal Income Tax. Here, the corporation is asked to anticipate on a yearly basis.

What is the effect upon the cash position of the corporations? They are paying no more. The answer is that someone doing approximately $1,000,000 worth of gross business in a year will find that their cash position is effected, temporarily, by approximately $800. You will find that this is probably the maximum figure which will affect them cash-wise.

Out of six corporations, doing approximately from $800,000 to a little over $1,000,000, I find that the change in their cash position is a maximum of $800. That is the effect on small or large businesses. The percentage-effect upon their cash position is the problem. The problem is not whether you are soaking them or making a different climate. The only climate which you have is a temporary effect for the first year on their cash position.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, House Bill No. 88 will go over in its order.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 3—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 3, Printer's No. 3, go over in its order. The reason for doing so is that I am advised by the Chairman of the Committee on Constitutionl Changes and Federal Relations, Senator Mahady, that he is getting augmentation on the opinion he received last week from the Attorney General, which he will give to the Members on the other side.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go go over in its order.

HB 89—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 89, Printer's No. 221, go over in its order for the reason mentioned earlier in connection with House Bill No. 88.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

HB 95, 96, 98, 99, 100 and 101—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 20—Without object, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL POSTPONED

SB 23—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 23, Printer's No. 154, be placed on the Second Reading Postponed Calendar.

The PRESIDENT. Is there a second to this motion?

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, in connection with this motion, I wish to state that we intend to hold public hearings on this bill, the first of which will be at 2:00 p. m. on Thursday, the 23rd of February, in the Governor's Conference Room in the Penthouse of the State Office Building in Philadelphia.

The second meeting will be at 2:00 p. m. on Thursday, March 3rd, in the Governor's Conference Room in the State Office Building in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.

We are extending invitations to people who have sent us telegrams—and we have recieved a great many—asking for the pubilc hearings. We are going to extend invitations to the Deans of the Law Schools and their faculties who may be interested in this in any manner, and to other different groups who have, by letter or telegram, manifested an interest.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I understood Senator Mahady to say that the first hearing will be on what date in Philadelphia?

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, on Thursday, February the 23rd.

Mr. BERGER. Thank you, Senator.

Mr. President, I might suggest—and I believe this is in order—that if the Majority Leader intends to call the bill from the Postponed Calendar, if this motion passes, and return it to committee next week, that would be proper. It is, however, taking two bites of the cherry for the reason that the bill should be in the possession of the committee at the time the hearings are being held, I believe.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I wish to second the motion made by the Majority Leader.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not believe there is any precedent for either one of those moves. If the bill is placed on the Postponed Calendar, it is in print. The actual measure, as far as the wording and the rest of it reflecting the original bill or the amendments that might have been put into it, will be in the hands of all of the members of the committee. By having it on the Postponed Calendar, when the Committee makes it report,—whenever that might be or if it never happens—you are in a position to then act on it without wasting a lot of time having it re-printed and going through all of the other motions.

I believe that either procedure is correct. If I am incorrect, I would like to be corrected.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not think it is a matter of burning importance except that the purpose of a public hearing is to develop information upon bills being considered by a committee or by the Senate. If such information and intelligence should develop a need for amendments, the bill is then in the possession of the committee and may be brought out on the same reading, as amended, on which it was returned to committee.

I am not pressing for it at all. I simply say this has been the proper procedure at all times when bills are being considered at a public hearing.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President. I agree with the Minority Leader that that is one way of doing it. I think it is not incorrect if we leave it on the Postponed Calendar and when we have all of our amendments,—if they become necessary—they can be introduced at that point, and the bill can be called from the Postponed Calendar and read for the second time and prepared for Third Reading so that we can get fast action on this measure.

There may be some problems connected with this bill and we hope that all of the Members of the Senate on both sides of the aisle will attend these hearings in order to make their wishes known to us.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I have made an error. In checking the calendar, I find the date should be Thursday, March 2nd. The first hearing is scheduled for Thursday, February 23rd, and the second one for Thursday, March 2nd. I said March 3rd. That was in error.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I have listened to this discussion concerning a committee holding a hearing on a bill which it does not have in its custody. I am also concerned a little bit that perhaps—although I do not know—if the committee members desire to be reimbursed for their travel and per diem expenses, I question whether financially they would be in a position to ask for such reimbursement.

Therefore, I would like to ask, if I am in order, for a point of order as to whether a committee can hold hearings on a bill which is not in its custody. I would like to ask that question.

The PRESIDENT. Senator Bell, that would be a matter for the fiscal officers of the Senate to pass upon when expense items were presented. However, the Chair has a motion to postpone a bill, which is not debatable.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I will withdraw my point of order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

The PRESIDENT. This bill will be placed on the Second Reading Postponed Calendar.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

SB 31 and 85—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 88—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that

Senate Bill No. 88, Printer's No. 88, go over in its order. There are amendments being prepared for this measure and I do not want to move this bill until they are all together.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

SB 93 and 94—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

TRIBUTE TO ABRAHAM LINCOLN

Mr. SHAFER. Mr. President, yesterday we celebrated the birthday anniversary of one of the greatest Presidents of the United States, Abraham Lincoln. Since the death of this great man, his name has grown and he has become a man of such stature that I think he is perhaps second to none in the esteem of all American citizens. In fact, his contributions to human relations, and the principles for which he stood, have given him such recognition that he is considered to be one of the first citizens of the world.

Perhaps nothing that I could say here today has not already been said before about Abraham Lincoln. However, I think it is fitting and proper that we, in the Senate of Pennsylvania, take a moment in silent tribute to this great man—one of the finest men who ever lived, Abraham Lincoln.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask you to request the Senate of Pennsylvania to devote a moment in silent tribute to Abraham Lincoln.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you, Senator Shafer. Will the Members of the Senate and those present in the Senate Chamber please rise for the observance of a moment of silence?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, in the past,—I would say during the last six years—a great honor has been bestowed upon me by this august Body to deliver remarks on the day of President Lincoln's birth. However, this year I have not prepared any address and did not ask to deliver one, because it is not my desire to detract from what will happen next Tuesday.

As everybody knows, next Tuesday, under a Senate Concurrent Resolution which we previously adopted, there will be a celebration in which we will try to reproduce that historical moment of President Lincoln's visit to Harrisburg on February 22, 1861. At that time, all of the dignitaries of the Commonwealth will come here and this entire scene will be re-enacted.

For this reason, I did not deliver an address today. However, I did not want it to appear as though I were remiss in my duty.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, entitled:

Weekly Adjournment.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I speak now merely as a Senator from the city of Philadelphia, and not on behalf of anyone and not on behalf of the Democratic Party.

The subject I am going to take just two minutes to discuss is probably one that most people would think we should say nothing about or just leave it pass. I do not think, when the people in your community elect you to office or ask you to represent them, that you ought not to speak out on problems that exist in the community or in the area, in the hope that maybe the people on the other side who are creating some of this problem might understand the other point of view.

I read recently in the newspaper that the Pennsylvania Railroad has now cut out dining cars on the trains running from Philadelphia to New York. I do not know if the people who operate that railroad ever ride those cars or ever ride the railroad. However, I think they might be interested in knowing that if they did so, they would learn quite a few things which apparently are not apparent to them.

I, and many other people in this room, have ridden the railroad and have gotten on the train in New York as early as seven o'clock in the morning, even on a Saturday, and there are never enough seats to take care of the people on the train. Of course, this is also true when you travel from Philadelphia. They have cut out a great deal of the services they used to render.

I would like to point out to them that at one time in this Country, they were one of the favorite industries. If you feel this is not so, all you have to do is walk into the downtown area of the city of Philadelphia, where Penn Center is built, and where millions and millions of dollars have been poured into the construction of beautiful office buildings and other facilities of that type. Who do you think is the owner of that area? The Pennsylvania Railroad is the owner. How did they get this property? It was not that they used great foresight in purchasing this land and sitting by, waiting for the city to grow up around it. This was given to them by eminent domain. Very cleverly, or good businesswise, they went along and obtained a complete release from the owners. So, when the land was no longer used for the purpose for which it was obtained, it reverted back to them as the owners and they are now in the real estate business and no longer in the transportation business.

This is true throughout the Country. The Pennsylvania System is one of the biggest railroads in the Country. However, I think recently they are taking the attitude of the public be damned.

Very recently, in one of the newspapers, there appeared a story that someone mentioned to one of the vice-presidents of the railroad that the weather was bad and they ought to put on extra cars. It was not felt this should be done, and the result was people crowding and pushing on the railroad.

It might well be that they are losing revenue. However, it also is interesting to note that the taxpayer is picking up some of the tab that the railroad is getting, both by subsidies from the Federal Government and I think, in this State, we have been rather generous to them as well.

I think it comes in ill-grace, at this point, to take the attitude—especially when people are moving out to various areas where they must depend upon the railroad, where there are not sufficient highways to carry the automobiles and where you have overcrowding as far as parking is concerned—of: "The public be damned. We do not care about them and we are just not going to stay in the passenger business any longer."

Many people do things they find are not attractive to them or find they are not happy with them, but I do not think they take the completely callous attitude of just not caring.

I think it might very well be that some of the executives who run the railroad are out of touch with what is going on. I also think it might be well if they sort of took a ride one of these days from New York to Washington and found out how late the trains run, how dirty some of those cars are, how ill-serviced they are and the general attitude of the people who operate them. It might well be that this is a problem for labor and management to look into.

However, I think the first problem is that the people who run the railroad should give service to the communities they serve and to the people at large. I think the people and the taxpayers have been pretty good to them. I think in their moment of need, they ought to be pretty good to the people who use the facilities.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, I want to add that they took the dining cars off not only from Philadelphia to New York, but we got on the five o'clock train from Latrobe yesterday—which I have used many and many a time—and, without notice, the dining car was taken from that train. Also, Members of the Legislature,—the House and the Senate—who were with me, were put into a car which had no lights in it. It had one emergency light that lasted a half-hour.

When we came into Altoona, everybody expected, as in the old days, that a crew of people would arrive and try to remedy that situation. However, nothing was done and nothing was said. The car was packed. There were no extra places; not even an empty seat. It was so dark it reminded you of the coal mines of western Pennsylvania. We all agreed that perhaps they kept it dark so we could not see how dirty it was.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I certainly do not wish to rise as a defender of the Pennsylvania Railroad. I have no stock in it. However, one of the previous speakers said that the Pennsylvania Railroad had an attitude of "the public be damned." That may be true in parts of Pennsylvania; I do not know.

I would like the record to show, however, that in Allegheny County, where we are presently attempting a study by the Port Authority of Allegheny County,—which reaches not only into the county of Allegheny, but into the five adjacent counties—the Pennsylvania Railroad has been most cooperative. The Pennsylvania Railroad has offered to cooperate with the Port Authority in solving the problem of mass transit. It has offered to give to the Port Authority, after proper negotiation, the rights of the commuter service and to furnish them with property along the side and to do it either on the basis of a rental or, through cooperation on their part, by only paying for the service which they render to the Authority, if and when that Authority takes over the problem of mass transportation.

In this particular instance, I would say that they have done a most excellent public service. I think I would be remiss in my duty if I would not let the Senate know that they have come forward and offered us—the members of the Port Authority—the utmost in cooperation.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I do not wish to admonish my Democratic colleague, Senator Weiner, but, quite frankly, I do not think the gentleman has a legitimate complaint. He has lost his dining service, but we have lost the entire service of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company from Bethlehem, Pennsylvania to New York. Consequently, I do not think the gentleman has too much of a complaint. If he lost his dining car, let it go at that.

Mr. President, I would like to make a few other comments about the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

I have been fighting the Lehigh Valley Railroad for the past two years. Finally, the I. C. C. has granted them permission to discontinue all passenger service which serves the entire Lehigh Valley. I think it is about time when both the State Government and the Federal Government become cognizant of this real problem which we have in our Country today. We are the leading Country of the world and we have a second-rate railroad service.

For the past two years, the Lehigh Valley Railroad has complained to the I.C.C., in Washington, stating that they lose a few million dollars every year with the passenger service from Bethlehem to New York. At the same time, the Pennsylvania Railroad controls most of the stock in the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company and, in turn, charges them a million and a half dollars for toll service between Newark, New Jersey, and the State of New York. This is part of the accounting procedures which the railroads are basing their case on. Quite frankly, Mr. President, I do not think they have a case.

I sincerely hope that our present Administration works in close conjunction with the Federal Government. This is a national problem which we have. In World War II, the railroads carried ninety per cent of our military personnel. If we retire all of the passenger trains, then we are going to have to do something about it during the time of emergency.

Mr. President, I also would like to say regarding the Lehigh Valley Railroad—and I guess I could say it about every other railroad which serves our community—they have not purchased one piece of new passenger equipment since 1938. Now they are faced with a bit of competition with the automobiles and with the air transportation. However, the only thing the railroads have ever done about this competition is to increase the passenger fare and decrease the service. That is no way to run an industry.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am not particularly anxious to enter into this discussion, but I merely want to observe that this is what happens when we do not time ourselves right.

Mr. President, the remarks which have been made here have some justification on both sides. However, I wonder whether, if we had not had forty or fifty inches of snow in the eastern part of Pennsylvania, there would have been so much griping about the railroad service. I do not think very many people would have ridden on the railroads. We expect the railroads to be there when the weather is foul, and then we completely ignore them when the weather is good.

I just want to make one other remark, Mr. President. I am guilty of the same thing. I wonder whether I am going to go home tonight and then wonder whether I will be able to catch the seven o'clock plane or not. It is just that way.

Mr. President, I believe this might be apropos of this discussion. I consider that the people who run the railroads are pretty good businessmen. I think probably the accounting procedures, about which Senator Rooney complained, are accounting procedures that are required by certain of our regulatory commissions. If these businessmen were allowed to run their business as other businessmen are allowed to run theirs,—to some extent, that is—then, Mr. President, I believe that you would receive more service and better service from the railroads.

Now, Mr. President, I am going to drop that subject and take up another one. This is not trying to admonish anybody, but I hope we are able, during the balance of this Session, to end our Sessions as early as we have today or, at any rate, end them by six o'clock. This has been the unwritten rule in this Senate. There have been complaints come to me from the Senators on our side, to the extent that they certainly hope that there will be no necessity, until the very closing days, for us to hold night Sessions in this Senate. The reason for this is obvious.

As I said before in discussing the same subject, it is dangerous to the health of a great many of our Members. If Senator Weiner and his colleagues will try to end the Session at six o'clock or, at least, by six-thirty, it will be appreciated a great deal by all of the Members of the Senate on both sides.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, in the interest of the health of the Senators, I will make my statement very brief.

Mr. President, I cannot help but concur in the statements made by Senator Rooney, from my neighboring county of Northampton. As a boy, I remember the famous Black Diamond of the Lehigh Valley Railroad. It was one of the prize trains in the entire Country. The railroad service in the Lehigh Valley area, which Senator Rooney and I represent, has become a shambles. It is not the fault of the people of our area in not patronizing the railroads. It is the failure of the railroads to compete with the other means of transportation.

I could not help but note that Senator Mahady said something about dim lights on the train coming into Harrisburg. The Lehigh Valley Black Diamond and their crack Wilkes Line, in recent years, have had dim lighting and dingy, dirty conditions, and they have done nothing to encourage the people to use them.

Out of the Lehigh Valley area alone, there was a time when the people could leave Allentown and Bethlehem between the hours of six and eight o'clock in the morning, go into New York, do a day's business and return to the Lehigh Valley area. This has been discouraged by the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company. Perhaps my statement comes in ill-grace because in my early years, I depended upon the Lehigh Valley Railroad for my substance.

However, Mr. President, I do feel that certainly if you go to the western part of the Country, and you look at the modern transportation which they afford the people out there, something could be done here in the eastern part of the Country in order to sustain the railroads.

I recall, coming out of Chicago last summer, that I saw a Burlington aluminum, double-decker, floating motel. It certainly was something which encouraged the people to use the railroads. If we are to continue railroad service, let us give the people service and I am sure that the railroads, just as our luxury liners of the airlines and our luxury buses, will be in competition with the rest of their competitors.

The PRESIDENT. Following the caution expressed by the Minority Leader, if it were not for that and the fact that the hour is growing late, I would have been inclined to call upon the fifty-first Senator for his comments on this situation.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I know the hour is growing late and I never make long speeches. However, I want to say here today, since we have heard the story on the Lehigh Valley Railroad and on the Pennsylvania Railroad, I am awfully glad that I do not own any railroad stocks.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mrs. HENZEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Over the past weekend we were made aware of the fact that the budget office has stated that there is a strong indication that the fourth class school districts of our Commonwealth are to be denied their full payment in the next State subsidies which they expect. The reason given is that there is just not enough money to pay them.

Many of these districts are striving hard to maintain their educational standards and are already taxing to their highest potential. Therefore, each penny is budgeted to its extreme. What, therefore, does this mean to them?

It means that they must borrow money to make their payments; to pay salaries to their teachers and other employes; to pay for instructional materials which have not yet been purchased; and to make payments on bonds for which they have committed themselves and other obligations which must be met without postponement.

Not more than four weeks ago the Legislature voted and passed certain deficiency appropriations, appropriations for public assistance, for welfare and, if I remember correctly, an appropriation for harness racing.

Certainly these areas, some of them, are worthy ones, and some of the causes are most needy, but if our country is to continue to exist with its philosophy of freedom, is not the education of those who are to guide the destiny of it in years to come of equal, if not more importance? Surely this particular deficiency must have been evident four weeks ago, yet not one word was said about its anticipation.

Because I charge that this is either a deception or an oversight, neither of which is acceptable, it is a real threat to the basic concept of our society and our educational system, because it will depreciate the confidence in the State and undermine the confidence of the people who have the commitments which have been made and accepted in good faith. It will also make apprehensive local districts in their efforts to go forward educationally and discourage the already discouraged persons who might choose to enter the field as it reflects itself in the inability to pay and maintain acceptable salary schedules payable at an expected time.

These payments from the State to the fourth class school districts were to have been made in March. Nothing has yet been said about the second and third class districts who expect their State subsidies in April. This payment, too, at this time is quite improbable.

Therefore, there are questions that I should like to have answered at some point in this week's session:

1. Why was not this area considered as deficient at the time of the presentation of the deficiency appropriations bills?
2. If the deficiency was not then known, only four weeks ago, why wasn't it?
3. What is to be done about making these current payments—our obligation just as strongly as to the areas upon which we voted and which have been passed?

These questions, Mr. Speaker, I should like answered.

Thank you.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall be most pleased to enlighten the lady and the membership of this House regarding the questions I believe she has outlined in her discussion.

There is no deficiency appropriation needed or required other than what was enacted in the deficiency bills. The question regarding the payment of the fourth class school districts in the month of March deals with actual cash balance, not appropriation. The payments due in April to the first, second and third class school districts deal with the same subject, cash balance, not appropriated amounts of money. There is the possibility at this point, as has been indicated, that the fourth class school districts whose subsidy payments are due in the month of March might not be able to be paid in full at that given date and time. There is prepared at this point the entire payment cards for every fourth class school district and there will be prepared in the next few days the first, second and third class school district payments card for the month of April. Now, other payments to institutions and other expenditures are being held back right at this point in payment of bills in order to have cash balance to pay the school districts on the given schedule.

Yes, the lady has raised a good point, if you care to talk about cash balance. If the tax program now in the Senate were enacted, the cash balance would be in an excellent position to pay these. There is no deficiency; it is only a cash balance transaction in paying this at a given date, that given date being March.

There is a possibility that we will have that answer very shortly for the lady, as well as all the members of this House, as to the exact amount of cash anticipated that can be available at any given day in March to meet this payment. This has been discussed and it is of deep concern to everyone, but may I assure the lady there is no deficiency appropriation needed. None was needed except what has been passed, and that point was thoroughly discussed at the time of the deficiency.

I would like to say again to the lady that that very question will be answered in the next few days as to the cash balance, so we will have the cash balance picture for the payments to the fourth class school districts which come due in the month of March and, also, provide for money for the first, second and third class school districts whose payments are due in the month of April. May I assure the lady again that there is absolutely no deficiency appropriation required at this point for the 1960-1961 payments to the school districts, based on the previous school records in the normal procedure by which we pay.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we are ready to vote on the one noncontroversial bill on the calendar today. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, if I am in order I call up on page 4, House bill 61, printer's number 61.

The SPEAKER. Is there a committee out as yet?

Mr. McCANN. I ask that the committee announcements be brought to the desk by all committee chairmen scheduling meetings tomorrow. Please get them to Mr. Eilberg and Mr. Lopresti immediately.

The SPEAKER. Tomorrow morning, forenoon, is a good time for committee meetings. Has the committee on law and order returned? The House will then be at ease awaiting the return of the committee on law and order.

We are going to have one roll call today.

The present instance illustrates why the Chair views with marked disfavor committee meetings off the floor unless there is a case of emergency. Situations such as this keep the whole membership of the House awaiting the return of committees.

Frankly, I feel that committee meetings could be held tomorrow forenoon. They might possibly have met earlier in the day. I doubt it, but it could have been tomorrow forenoon. Committee meetings off the floor that keep the whole House waiting are only justified when we face a real legislative emergency which demands that a bill be brought out and acted on.

The Chair cannot be arbitrary in such matters. The Chair would like to say no, unless there is a real reason why you must meet off the floor, but if that is what the majority of the members of this House want, the Chair must needs go along. But I repeat, we look at these meetings of committees off the floor with pronounced disfavor unless there is a real reason why they should be held.

Would it be possible to send word to the committee now or within the next few minutes?

Mr. McCANN. They are coming in the door, Mr. Speaker.

PHILADELPHIA DELEGATION AND DEMOCRAT CAUCUSES

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have been asked that the Philadelphia Democratic members of the House, immediately when the House adjourns, go to Room 149 for a Philadelphia Democratic caucus.

And immediately upon the adjournment of this House, the Democratic members will have a Democratic caucus immediately.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, there will be a Republican House caucus immediately after adjournment.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, could I ask the Chief Clerk to emphatically announce what he has written to every member regarding transportation to Philadelphia tomorrow before we adjourn today.

The SPEAKER. There is in the box of each member a communication from the Chief Clerk which the Chief Clerk will read.

The CHIEF CLERK. Mr. Speaker, arrangements have been made for the committee of the House of Representatives to attend the viewing of the late Francis X. Muldowny, as follows: A bus will leave from the main Capitol entrance at approximately 2:30 p.m., tomorrow, and will go directly by escort—being escorted by State Police—to the Parkway House in Philadelphia, 22nd and Parkway, at which time arrangement has been made to have some dinner, and then at about 6:30 we will leave for the funeral parlor at 1923 Spring Garden Street in Philadephia. From there those who must return to Harrisburg will be taken back either by bus or the way they came, with their own machines.

The Philadelphia Delegation and other members will remain, I understand, in Philadelphia to meet for breakfast the next morning so they can attend the funeral services on Wednesday morning, which will take place from the St. Francis Xaxier Church at 24th and Green Streets, Philadelphia. Then, we will proceed to have our ceremony and whatever arrangements the committee will make then, and some will proceed to the cemetery, the Holy Cross Cemetery. That is the arrangement that has been made as of now.

The SPEAKER. I presume the Chief Clerk would like to have every member who intends making the trip to Philadelphia to let him know so adequate arrangements can be made, for one bus or maybe two buses, but inform him in advance so he may know how many members desire to make the trip and adequate transportation will be furnished.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the Minority Leader.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, if the Majority Leader announced the plans for the rest of the week, I missed it. Are we to understand there will be a session tomorrow and there will be no session Wednesday, and the members can check out of their hotel rooms tomorrow?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, there will be a session tomorrow beginning at 12:00 noon, which will be completed by 2:00 p.m. There will not be any session on Wednesday in respect to Representative Francis X. Muldowney. All members who so desire may check out of their hotels tomorrow, Tuesday, February 14.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McCREESH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, one of the foremost problems which the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania must surmount in the future is the care of its mounting, aged population. Nothing is more distressing to a human being than to be discarded by his fellow men after his fruitful years of life are over and his service to mankind has come to an end.

Who is to care for Pennsylvania's aged? In most cases, families, burdened by the high cost of living and insurmountable circumstances, cannot sufficiently provide for their loved ones. In other cases, many aged citizens are without family ties and are left to confront the twilight of their years in utter loneliness and abandonment.

In accordance with these remarks, Mr. President, I am about to introduce a bill providing for a State Home for the Aged in West Philadelphia, to be financed through the General State Authority. I hope this will be just one of the several to be located in the Commonwealth, where sanitary living conditions will be provided; where qualified personnel, learned in the care of the human heart, will guide the needs of the aged; and where adequate supervisory and recreational facilities will be attained.

Yes, it is true that such an expenditure will cost the taxpayers money. All of us, as taxpayers, must grow old. However, we will grow old realizing that Pennsylvania has not forgotten those who helped to make it the finest State in the Union.

Mr. President, I am also introducing several other bills.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. McCREESH presented to the Chair SB 214, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 29, 1953 (P. L. 304), entitled "Vital Statistics Law of 1953," further providing for the registration of children born in countries other than the United States and the registration of foreign born children adopted in Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

He also presented to the Chair SB 215, entitled:

An Act providing for group life insurance for members and employes of the Senate; establishing a schedule; providing for payment and providing for reduction of insurance upon retirement.

Which was committed to the Committee on Insurance.

He also presented to the Chair SB 216, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372), entitled "The General State Authority Act of 1949," bringing State Colleges within the scope of the act and increasing the powers and the borrowing capacity of the Authority and allocating the proceeds of such increased borrowing capacity.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Goverment.

Messrs. STROUP and WAGNER persented to the Chair SB 217, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," regulating the number of school directors to be selected to serve on joint school committees.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

L. 589), entitled, as amended, "Barber's Lincense Law," altering the requirements for licensure; regulating hours for barber schools; permitting further regulation by health authorities; providing for the health, sanitation and management of barber shops; changing fees; prescribing penalties; requiring reports and making an appropriation.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

They also presented to the Chair SB 220, entitled:

An act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," regulating membership and compensation of the State Board of Barber Examiners and imposing duties on the board.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE ON EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. DEVLIN, from the Committee on Executive Nominations, further reported the following nomination, made by His Excellency, the Governor, which was laid on the table:

MEMBER OF THE PENNSYLVANIA INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPEMENT AUTHORITY

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

MAJOR GENERAL A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE, ADJUTANT GENERAL OF THE COMMONWEALTH, PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I know it might be in bad taste to interrupt the business of the Senate, but I think when a distinguished visitor comes into the hall of the Senate, he should be made known to the gentlemen here.

I think we would be remiss if we did not note the presence of General Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, who has been nominated by the President of the United States to be our Ambassador to Spain. We wish to congratulate him and also state that we are happy to have him here with us.

The PRESIDENT. I invited him for the purpose of presenting him to you. I have prevailed upon General Biddle to say a few words to you.

REMARKS BY MAJOR GENERAL A. J. DREXEL BIDDLE

GENERAL BIDDLE. Governor Davis and gentlemen of the Senate: I want you to know how deeply I appreciate your sentiments, Senator Weiner. Furthermore, I am most grateful to you for the kind greetings which you expressed by your applause. I am very touched by it.

I want to say that I am torn in my emotions, naturally, because it is a mighty hard thing to pick up and leave your good friends and associates, made over these past six years. My experience here has been an enriching one and a rewarding one. I cannot tell you how much I appreciate the wonderful cooperation we have received from you gentlemen in this illustrious Senate. I know that it has meant great progress for the military forces of our Commonwealth. I am happy to report to you that they are at a standard of training now which they have never achieved before. Therefore, you may be really and truly proud of both the Air and Ground National Guard of this great Commonwealth.

As I said, I am very proud indeed to have in prospect the possibility of representing our Country in Spain. At the same time, my heart will be back here with you, my good friends.

Thank you so much.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I desire to embrace this opportunity to again state, as I stated in many instances, that General Biddle could have written a most fascinating Book, describing his escape from Hitler. He made a historic escape from Poland at a time when Hitler wanted to capture him. That experience has never been written about. Now that he is going to be in Spain, and ensconced in the Embassy of the United States, it will be high time for him to prepare his memoirs. I am sure the civilized world will enjoy reading them.

Therefore, Mr. President, I urge the General here, on this solemn occasion, to take his pen, which is trenchant and prolific, and write his memoirs about his escape from Poland.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I would like to join with the other Members of the Senate in congratulating my very good friend, General Biddle, with whom I had the pleasure to serve for six years on the Aeronautics Commission. As Vice-Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs and Aeronautics, I have also had much to do with General Biddle.

I want the General to know that knowing him, and the way in which he performed his duties, has been a rewarding experience for Al Pechan. I feel I am a much better citizen and a much better Senator. Thank you very much.

I wish to extend to General Biddle my congratulations, and say that our loss in Pennsylvania is going to become the Federal Government's gain.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, during the past few years in which Tony Biddle has been our Adjutant General, I had the opportunity to serve as the Pennsylvania President of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States. Presently, I am the National Chairman of the Army Affairs Committee of the Reserve Officers Association of the United States.

Prior to the arrival of General Biddle in Pennsylvania, there was friction between the Army Reserve and the National Guard. They just did not get along. The first thing that Tony did when he came to Pennsylvania was to sell to the Pennsylvania Reservists and Guardsmen what we know as the one-army concept. This gentlemen is responsible for the fine relations between the Reserves and the Guard in Pennsylvania. He is also responsible for the tremendous efficiency of the 28th Infantry Division and the other National Guard units. They rate with the best in the United States.

We are going to miss Tony Biddle because, although our Country gains, we lose. To me, it has been a wonderful experience working with General Biddle. I speak on behalf of the Reserve Officers of Pennsylvania when I stand here and say that he has been one of the finest men to wear the uniform which he is wearing today.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, it is seldom that I get on my feet to eulogize a Democrat. However, I just want to say that one of the finest men I have ever met, and one of the most polished men I have ever met,—and I wish to heaven some of it would rub off on me—is General Biddle.

The PRESIDENT. I am just happy to know that my colleagues in the Senate feel as I do about General Biddle. Thank you very much.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. STROUP, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Local Government, reported, as committed, SB 86.

SENATE RESOLUTION

COMMENDING CHIEF JUDGE JAMES CULLEN GANEY

Messrs. ROONEY, WEINER and DiSILVESTRO offered the following resolution (Serial No. 13), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 14, 1961.

The Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is proud to have as one of its citizens and native of the city of Bethlehem, a man of such stature and dignity as is found in Judge James Cullen Ganey.

A graduate of Lehigh University and Harvard Law School, he was one of the youngest men to serve as Federal prosecutor, having been appointed United States Attorney for eastern Pennsylvania on May 19, 1937. Three years later, at the age of forty, he became one of the youngest judges to serve on the United States District Court for this area.

Even though Chief Judge James Cullen Ganey, over the years, has acquired a reputation for his moderation and tolerance with respect to the imposition of sentences in criminal cases, he rose to new heights by virtue of the courageous manner in which he conducted the electrical anti-trust cases and in the wisdom displayed in sentencing guilty industrial giants; therefore be it.

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylavnia commend Chief Judge James Culen Ganey for the courageous and just manner in which he conducted the trials and sentenced the defendants in the anti-trust cases involving the largest electrical equipment manufacturers in the world; and be it further RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to Chief Judge James Cullen Ganey.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr SILVERT asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, on behalf of the eight Senators from the Keystone City of Philadelphia, I am offering this resolution and request its immediate adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

THANKS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO DOCTOR WILLIAM N. PARKINSON, FORMERLY OF TEMPLE UNIVERSITY

Messrs. SILVERT, WEINER, MULLIN, STEIFEL, DONOLOW, McCREESH, DiSILVESTRO and CAMIEL offered the following resolution (Serial No. 14), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 14, 1961.

On January 31, 1961, Dr. William N. Parkinson, the Vice President of Medical Affairs for Temple University, retired after having served forty years with the university. There is no question that Temple will miss Dr. Parkinson, as will the City of Philadelphia and all those who had the pleasure of working with him. There are very few men who have done so much for the Medical Center at Temple and for the school as a whole as did Dr. Parkinson.

The Dean Emeritus of the Medical School first came to Temple in 1921 as an Associate Dean of the School of Medicine. From 1924 to 1928, he studied abroad and upon his return to the United States he rejoined the faculty of the university as a Professor of Clinical Surgery and as Medical Director of the hospital. In 1929, the Honorable Doctor was made Dean of the School of Medicine. He was also a member of the Board of Trustees of Temple University, as well as the holder of a degree, either earned or honorary, from every medical school in the City of Philadelphia.

Most of the credit for the great development of the Medical Center at Temple goes to Dr. William N. Parkinson. It was under his able hand that a fourteen million dollar expansion program was completed. Without his great efforts, Temple University and the City of Philadelphia would not be able to boast of this magnificent center devoted to the healing of human ailments. Since 1956, Dr. Parkinson has worked tirelessly as the Vice President of Medical Affairs and the rest he is now taking is well earned; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania extend its heartfelt thanks to Dr. William N. Parkinson for the splendid job he did at Temple; and be it further

RESOLVED, That we wish him all the happiness in his retirement and may he enjoy the many years that he has to come in complete relaxation; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Dr. Parkinson in care of Dr. Wade Myers, #1 Tampa Blvd., Tampa, Florida and a copy to the President of Temple University, Dr. M. E. Gladfelder.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. WEINER, Mr. President, on behalf of this resolution, I would like to make a brief statement.

This resolution is commending Doctor Parkinson, of Temple University, who has served that institution over a long period of time, and who has seen Temple University Medical School grow from a small unit to one of the finest units in the Country today. Their hospital is second to none and they are expanding their services. I think they offer a great service to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Doctor Parkinson, as one of the leaders and pioneers in the medical profession, I think is duly recognized in this resolution.

Therefore, I join with Senator Silvert in asking for the immediate consideration and adoption of this resolution.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, Temple University School of Medicine is in my District. I thus have had ample opportunity to observe the phenomenal growth and expansion of this institution. It has verily rendered to Philadelphia, to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to the Nation a most magnificent service.

The man who stood at the helm of this institution, Doctor Parkinson, is a man of vision and action. For this reason, I, too, second the motion for the adoption of this resolution.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

CALENDAR

FINAL PASSAGE CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No 88, Printer's No. 88, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER, Mr. President, the reason I stated yesterday is the reason why we will have to pass the tax measures over in order.

Now it seems strange to me, as I stated yesterday,—and I am not going to make a long speech today—that if we are willing to put the tax on the average citizen and tax the individual, I think the business community ought to also bear their fair share.

Yesterday in this Senate, we heard the Minority Leader state that they had received no complaints about House Bill No. 88 and House Bill No. 89, which provide for the stepping-up of the corporate taxes. Business is not complaining and no individual has written to me complaining about it. Therefore, the source of the trouble must lie somewhere else.

This might very well be political capital. I do not accuse anybody of anything, as I have no facts on which to base an accusation. However, I am stating that if this is political capital, I think this is the wrong place to do it. You do not play this kind of a game with the schools, the hospitals and other persons who are dependent on the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to aid them. I am not saying that this is being done. I am not accusing anyone of doing it. However, I certainly think we ought to get to this business.

If the gentlemen on the other side feel they do not want to help us in providing these votes, I say to them, that they should bring all of their membership in here and we will have the Lieutenant Governor cast the deciding ballot. If we have to make a test case of that, this is a good place to begin.

Time is growing short. The school districts will not wait. I, and the Members here, do not want to be stampeded into action at a time when we think the need is becoming greater.

If the gentlemen on the other side are against this package,—and I am not saying this is a panacea that will cure all of the ills—I would be happy to see any program that they have, or any tax measure they think would be the proper measure to put forth. Perhaps we can agree in that area.

If I knew what the problem was and the Democratic Members knew what it was, we could certainly work on this problem and try to work it out. We, in effect, are the board of directors who run this corporation, known as the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I think if anyone is disturbed about what the board of directors is doing or the president of the corporation is doing, this is the proper place to bring it up. If they do not want to do it publicly, I would be happy and I am sure the other Members on our side would be happy to hear it privately.

I think by just sitting back and saying, "We are against this, we are against that, we are not going to do that this week, we are not going to do this next week," and so on and so forth, you never get to any kind of constructive action or get to any place where you can work on it.

I also heard the gentlemen say yesterday that they want to get more information and give this matter further study. If they will direct me as to what areas they want to study and what they have found as a result of their study, perhaps I can work along with them. Maybe I could come to the same conclusion they have arrived at. To not give us any information, and to sit back and say they not only are not going to vote for this but they are not going to let us vote for it, is not the kind of an attitude which leads toward helping the Commonwealth solve some of the problems that it has. I am sure this is not the spirit they would like to have us live in or work in.

If they will come forth and say to us honestly, "We do not like this, do not like that and are not going to vote for it, but here is our program," then we can move from that point toward progress. Nothing will happen if we just sit here stalemating each other.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, the Majority Leader used the expression "stampeded"; that he does not want to be stampeded. I want to say to you, Mr. President, and my colleagues in the Senate, that we are not going to be stampeded on this side. There is no need for a rush on this sort of thing. The Governor, in his budget, has eighty-two millions of dollars that are to take care of a deficiency appropriation. In the past, that deficiency was taken up usualy in the next Session of the Legislature. Here we are doing it for him within the same fiscal year.

As we understand it on this side, $35,000,000 is to come from the C.N.I. acceleration, $20,000,000 from the gross receipts, $17,000,000 from insurance, and $10,000 from bank shares.

The Majority Leader stated that perhaps our schools are going to suffer as a result of our investigating a little further into the feasibility of these new measures. The money coming from these two bills is to take care of the Governor's—we understand—deficiencey appropriation because of the overexpending in this very same fiscal year. I think the Majority Leader will agree that in the past, we have always taken care of that in the Session following.

We are not going to be stampeded. The Minority Leader yesterday made a statement that business is not objecting to House Bill No. 88 and House Bill No. 89. I have had many objections, both written and by telephone calls. Certainly no one likes taxes. I think business realizes that they have to bear their fair share of the revenues which are required to run our State, and they want to pay it. However, we on this side, as Senator Berger said yesterday, do not want to hurt the little businesses that may be thinking about coming into the State. An example was give where a concern, which will employ some 350 people, will move just six miles south of the Pennsylvania border if this is enacted. We do not know whether or not that is true. However, there is no need to be stampeded. When the time comes and we feel that it is justifiable,I think you may get forty-nine votes in the Senate for these two bills. However, do not try to stampede us, because we have the right to investigate. We want to find out whether or not it is going to hurt industry, because it has been hurt plenty in Pennsylvania.

I hate to hear the Majority Leader use the expression that the gasoline tax was levied last week on the little guy and business has been getting a free ride. He did not say that, but he inferred as much. I am sure that we, on this side, will see to it that a fair shake is given on all of these measures when and if we are satisfied that it should be done and when it should be done.

I do not think anyone has approached you about any deals of any kind. Certainly, Al Pechan will not, and I do not think any member of the leadership on this side will.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am sure the gentleman would like to have the record corrected and I want to do that.

The amount of money we are appropriating in these measures is a deficiency that we know about now and that we have been told about. It is true that the books are not closed, but the amount is in sight. It also is not due to overspending. It is due primarily to revenues falling off; to the lack of revenue and the lack of money coming in. It is like a man who depends on X or Y number of dollars coming in each week, and when it does not come in, he has a deficiency. It is not because he has overspent. It is because he has never had it to spend, and the cost of operation goes on and his overhead goes on. This is what has happened to the State.

These taxes are not the kind of thing that is new. There is not one measure in this tax package that is a new tax in the sense of being something different. I think the measures were introduced sometime around January 16th. Today is February 14th. I do not think that is being hasty. I do not think it is being speeded up. The appropriation hearings are almost over. As a matter of fact, the Treasury Department is over there today at the Joint Hearings. Therefore, we are practically finished with our work.

If the plan is to drag on the Session and be here for a long time without accomplishing anything, this is one way to do it. If we are interested in getting down to business and handling the matters we have before us, then we should proceed to give these matters our consideration.

I did say— and I want to make sure the record is clear —that this is not a panacea that will cure all of the financial ills of the Commonwealth; not by a long shot. However in view of the fact that we do not have anything else before us, this is all we have to work on. If the gentlemen on the other side will come up with some other proposal, I will be happy to work on that.

I think we ought to come in here each week and insist that we get some work done, and move ahead to the day when we can finally finish here and leave here. If the point is to remain here a year or drag on beyond that,—which we cannot do any longer because of the constitutional amendment—I think this is one way to do it. I abhor that and I think every Member, on both sides of the aisle, who has been here and sat through some of these Sessions is certainly against that. Now is the time to start moving and getting our problems solved.

Mr. WARE. Mr. President, it seems to me appropriate that we all remind ourselves on occasions such as this that there is no such thing as a tax on business. The revenues of any business come from only one source, and that is the public; the consuming, the purchasing public. It makes no difference as to the form of the tax. Whether it is accelerated or decelerated or whatnot, the consumer has to bear the burden in the end.

I think the Majority Leader probably was a little hasty in his phrasing of the suggestion that there is any thought here of relieving a burden on business. The burden is on the consuming public the 11,000,000 citizens of this Commonwealth for whom, I am sure, the president of this corporation—who was referred to a moment ago— and this board of directors have a very serious concern.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

PRAYER

Reverend Kenneth Arthur, Pastor of the First Methodist Church of Orbisonia, guest Chaplain, and guest of the gentleman from Huntingdon, Mr. Snare, and the House Chaplain, offered the followed prayer:

We humbly thank Thee, Almighty God, for the many blessings which Thou hast given to our State of Pennsylvania, and add this, O Lord, to Thy other mercies, that we may be enabled to use them to better Thy services.

Grant unto Thy servants the deep insight to understand the causes for which they now meet. May they realize that many times it is better to fail in a cause that will ultimately succeed than to succeed in a cause that will ultimately fail.

Instill within these, Thy servants, a remembrance of those who have dutifully elected them to this high office that they might be ever mindful of the cries of their people for food, freedom, and the foundation of a Godly State.

O Thou, our great Counselor and Guide, we do pray for these things in this moment of meditation, through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the Minority Leader.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Majority Leader or a sponsor of the bill.

The SPEAKER. pro tempore. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall, but the caucus chairman has handled House bill No. 45, but I personally will be most glad to be interrogated.

Mr. AGNEW. I understand that the bill came out of Appropriations, I would be willing to interrogate the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the bill was reported from the committee, sent to the floor, recommitted to Appropriations to determine all costs, re-reported from the Committee on Appropriations and Mr. Polen certainly will be glad to answer cost questions.

The SPEAKER. The Majority Leader yields to the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, if he can tell us on an annual basis what this bill will cost?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, this will cost no additional money over what is now being spent. Actually, these employes are permanently employed, but it was overlooked to give them the necessary authority which this bill does. The amount is included in the budget for the new fiscal year to cover this in the Property and Supplies Department.

I did not secure a breakdown as to what these particular offices cost at Pittsburg and Philadelphia. There was no question raised concerning that. I only ascertained that it was included in the budget and, further, that the employes are presently employed and this is to extend their authority which was not given previously.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, Mr. Speaker, this bill does not envision the addition of any personnel.

Mr. POLEN. It does not call for any additional personnel; it only covers present personnel.

Mr. AGNEW. What does the gentleman mean when he says it extends their authority? Is it to give these persons additional police authority?

Mr. POLEN. At present the acts now provide for these Capitol Police, or police officers, to be given certain powers which cover all the State buildings. The powers were never extended to cover these two new buildings and that is what this act does.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, does this set up an additional police force like the Capitol Police?

Mr. POLEN. It does not set up any new force, no, sir.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, there are personnel now acting as police officers or police and custodial officers, and this merely extends their authority, gives them additional status, but does not add anybody to the payroll.

Mr. POLEN. That is correct. It adds no one additional to the payroll, but extends their operations to cover the new State office buildings at Philadelphia and Pittsburg.

Mr. AGNEW. There is no authority in this bill to add to the payroll or to add to the cost of maintenance at the State office buildings, is that correct?

Mr. POLEN. That is correct.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection,

House Bill No. 355, Printer's No. 477 and

House Bill No. 356, Printer's No. 478,

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like at this time to ask the sponsors of House bill 128, on page 4, if they are ready and if Mr. Lamb and Mr. Goldstein will call up the bill?

Mr. Speaker, I ask permission to turn to page 4, House bill 128, Printer's number 128.

Mr. Speaker, I call up to vote House bill 128, Printer's number 128.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 128, entitled:

An Act making loss of a spouse's consortium an element of damage for which recovery may be had.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I understand that a graphic description of this bill has been given in both the Democratic Caucus and the Republican Caucus by the respective sponsors.

We are trying to do something which the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania brought about. We are trying to create equal rights for women in negligence actions. The Supreme Court in its logic indicated that it thought the law should be as set forth in the opinion and at the same time stated that the Legislature is the place where the other action could be remedied. Now, I recall, I know all of us recall, when we picture ourselves as being members of King Arthur's Round Table, whereby we would be Sir Lancelot fighting for our ladies fair. In this particular cause of action, if we give it an affirmative vote, we can be Sir Lancelot again casting our legislative votes of equal rights for women so that their rights of consortium, which is a broad and vast subject, can be protected in the courts of this Commonwealth.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

JOINT COMMITTEE TO STUDY ABOLITION OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

In the Senate, January 17, 1961.

The act of April 12, 1794 abolishing capital punishment in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania except for first degree murder was, in effect, a return to the "great law of Penn" which had been promulgated for the proprietary colony of Pennsylvania in 1682. Later the act of May 14, 1925 gave the right to the jury, in first degree murder cases, upon conviction, to select the punishment of either life imprisonment or death. In recent years and especially in this past year, it has been learned that all crimes throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had decreased with the exception of murder. The death penalty seems to have failed in deterring the crime of murder. There is a rising tide, not only in Pennsylvania, but throughout the United States as well as in many foreign countries against the imposition of the death penalty.

At present, there are nine states and forty foreign countries which have abolished capital punishment. A recent survey indicates that of the ten states which have the fewest murders, four had abolished the death penalty and of the ten states which had the most murders, all of them enforced the death penalty. Recent indications in Pennsylvania seems to prove that the imposition of the death penalty in murder cases have been a complete failure in acting as a deterent to the crime of murder. In spite of the imposition of the death penalty, murder has been on the increase. It is further said that in a number of states, where the death penalty has been removed as a possible punishment, more convictions were secured and there were fewer delays in enforcing the punishment. It is the swiftness and certainty of the punishment and not the severity that deters. We are further told that usually murder is the act of the mentally ill and those acting under the impulse of sudden passion and are not the acts of the criminal class.

The opposition to the imposition of the death penalty is growing in momentum and today we find an increasing demand from many church and civic organizations as well as citizens throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, calling for the abolition of the death penalty. This issue is now becoming one of the most important of our times; therefore be it

Resolved, (the House of Representatives concurring), That the President Pro Tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint three members of the House, who together shall constitute a committee to examine the entire issue of the abolition of capital punishment in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall elect a chairman and such additional officers as it may deem necessary, that the committee may hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations at such places as it shall deem necessary within this Commonwealth. It may issue subponenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee and to produce such books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Such subpoenas may be served upon any person and shall have the force and effect of subpoenas issued out of the courts of this Commonwealth. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, records or documents, shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such case. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee, and be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall report its findings together with a recommendation for appropriate legislation as soon as possible.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

SENATE RESOLUTION SERIAL NO. 103

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE PHILADELPHIA EAGLES FOOTBALL TEAM

In the Senate, January 23, 1961.

Whereas, The Eagles on December 26, 1960 defeated the Green Bay Packers at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, by a score of 17-13 in the annual National Football League Championship Game before a sell-out crowd of 67,325; and

Whereas, the Championship Contest was a tribute to the Eagle's management in securing the type of player needed to mold the championship team; a tribute to the coaches of the team, a tribute to the players themselves for their great spirit and courage during the 1960 season; and

Whereas, the Championship Contest was viewed on nation-wide television by more than 60 million people, more than 220 television stations in all corners of the United States; broadcast on radio nationally and to the Armed Forces wherever they may be, thus bringing the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the City of Philadelphia into world-wide focus; and

Whereas, By their stirring victory the Eagles have greatly strengthened Philadelphia's position as the Sports Capital of the Nation and given the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania its second championship athletic team of 1960—their fame echoes that of the Pittsburgh Pirates who won the world championship of baseball; now be it therefore

Resolved (if the House concurs) that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania extend its congratulations to the owners, management, coach and players of the Philadelphia Eagles for their outstanding achievement in winning the 1960 World Football Championship in the National Football League game played at Philadelphia on December 26, 1960; and

Be it further resolved, That a certified copy of the instant Resolution be forwarded, upon its adoption, to Mr. Frank L. McNamee, President of the Philadelphia Eagles, as evidence of the profound appreciation by the membership of the Senate and the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania, of the fame and glory the Eagles football players and coaches have brought to the City of Philadelphia and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEES TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Rules to meet during the session of the House.

Mr. McCANN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Education to meet during the session of the House.

Mr. McCANN. I ask the membership not to leave because when we come back from the meeting of the Rules Committee we will have some important announcements. There will be no more roll calls but there will be some important announcements.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The House will be at ease, awaiting the return of these few committees.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SCHAAF. I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. SCHAAF. Mr. Speaker, Senate resolution Serial No. 103, whereby, as I read it, the Senate extends its congratulations to the Philadelphia Eagles. May I ask why we here in the House have to vote on the Senate congratulatory intents and purposes?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The only reason we have is that the Senate has sent it to the House for our concurrence and we are trying to go along with that request. That is the reason for it, Mr. Schaaf.

Mr. SCHAAF. Is that ordinarily done, that we concur in that body congratulating a football team, a boxing team or whatever it might be?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The effect of the resolution now is that both bodies are congratulating the Eagles.

Mr. SCHAAF. I thank the Speaker.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make a brief announcement about the joint Appropriation Committee hearings.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chairman of the Appropriation Committee wishes to make an important announcement. The Chair hears no objection.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, the hearings scheduled for tomorrow, Wednesday, are cancelled on account of the death of Representative Muldowney and those desiring to attend his funeral. The hearing for the State Treasurer will be held at 1:30 p. m. today, and on Monday, February 20, starting at 10:00 a. m., we will have Penn State University, followed by the University of Pennsylvania, Temple and, in the evening at 7:30, the University of Pittsburgh. There will be no hearings tomorrow. They are cancelled. The final hearing today will be at 1:30 for the State Treasurer.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I think that the answer given the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf, was not exactly explanatory of the true situation with respect to Senate resolution 103. It is marked wrong on the calendar. It says "congratulations of the Senate," but, if the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Schaaf, will take a look at the resolution, he will see that in the body of it it says, "Resolved (if the House concurs) that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania extend its congratulations to the owners," etc. So it is really the General Assembly and not the Senate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. If the gentleman will turn to page 74 of the Senate History on concurrent resolutions, he will find a statement as the gentleman from Philadelphia has just stated, "Resolved (if the House concurs) that the General Assembly of Pennsylvania extend its congratulations to the owners, management, coach and players of the Philadelphia Eagles for their outstanding achievement in winning the 1960 World Football Championship."

I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. A. W. Johnson.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, I still do not believe we are correct on this. This saluation of the resolution says "congratulations of the Senate. The opening introductory salutation says, "congratulations of the Senate." We really ought to recall that resolution and have it amended and say, "Congratulations of the General Assembly."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For information of the gentleman from McKean, the salutation, "Congratulations of the Senate Extend to the Philadelphia Eagles Football Team", is not part of the resolution. I think the Clerk, as a matter of fact, has inserted that.

I thank the gentleman from McKean for his remarks.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, to be laid aside for second reading.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. KAMYK. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, it is my pleasure today to announce that my colleague from Allegheny County, Mr. Arthur Guesman, is celebrating his birthday. We would like to surprise him with the usual happy birthday song, if Mr. Dengler would lead us. If he is not available I would suggest Mr. Jules Filo from Allegheny County.

(Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday", led by Mr. Filo).

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Guesman.

Mr. GUESMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the House for its congratulations and for the wonderful song led by Mr. Filo.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Ewing.

Mr. EWING. Mr. Speaker, we kind of missed up from Allegheny. Mr. Simmons' birthday was yesterday, although he was not here yesterday. Let us sing happy birthday to him.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Mr. Filo will lead us in song again for a happy birthday for Mr. James Simmons. (Members joined in singing "Happy Birthday," led by Mr. Filo.)

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Simmons.

Mr. SIMMONS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to thank Mr. Filo and all the members of the House for the honorary song. I quit counting them six or seven years ago. You will not have to go through this again. Thank you.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The CHIEF CLERK. Mr. Speaker, I would like to remind the members that the bus leaving for Philadelphia for the viewing of the late Representative Muldowney will leave at 2:30 from the front of the Capital.

All those who do not have transportation may meet there and the bus will return sometime between 8:00 and 8:30 for those who want to come back to Harrisburg. We will wait for all members who have indicated a desire to go to Philadelphia at 2:30, probably ten or fifteen minutes after that for them, but make sure that you get there.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we wish to announce that in the Rules Committee we have discussed and we have changed plans for Monday.

This coming Monday we will go right into controversial legislation. Senate bill 28 will be in front of this House for amendments, for a roll call on Monday, February 20.

On Tuesday, February 21, this House will convene at 10:00 for the purpose of a joint session dealing with the 100th Anniversary of Abraham Lincoln's appearance here at the State Capital. Following the joint session, which is estimated to last no longer than one hour, approximately 45 minutes, we will proceed with the session that day, taking up all the controversial matters, debate them and vote them. So I ask the membership of this House on Monday not to be absent thinking because nothing is on the calendar that is controversial. The most controversial legislation, in some people's minds, will be voted on on Monday and Tuesday of this coming week.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I might point out for the benefit of the House that we have agreed to a final vote on Monday on Senate bill 28. We have not agreed to any further change in the operations of the House. On Monday, on Senate bill 28, first we will have a Republican House caucus called off the floor to discuss that bill before we vote on it. Also, as a matter of right, under the new House Rules, a motion to recommit could be entertained or any motion to amend can be entertained. We have merely agreed to a final vote if there are no amendments to the bill passed, on Monday, for the purpose of having an important roll call vote on Monday. There was much complaint on both sides of the House that there was very little to do yesterday. I do want to point out that we will have a Republican caucus called off the floor to discuss this bill before we vote on it and that any amendments or any motion that could ordinarily be made on it will be made as a matter of right, and not necessarily with unanimous consent, on Monday, before the final vote.

INTERROGATION

Mr. O'DELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to interrogate Mr. McCann.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman mentioned Monday and Tuesday, but are we going to be in session Wednesday?

Mr. McCann. We are not going to be in session on Wednesday, February 22.

Mr. O'DELL. Thank you, sir.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I would like to comment that there is one additional reason for the agreement to vote finally on Senate bill 28 on Monday. We only have a two-day session next week, as the Majority Leader just indicated, and rather than have an extremely lengthy session on Tuesday, we thought this would be one bill that we could, with some harmony, agree to debate finally and vote on Monday. That was the additional reason for the agreement to vote on Senate bill 28 this coming Monday.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. Speaker, I move that as a further mark of respect to the memory of the Honorable Francis X. Muldowney, our deceased member, the House do now adjourn until Monday, February 20, 1961 at 3:30 p.m., EST.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:54 p.m., EST), the House adjourned.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEETINGS OF THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION

Mr HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I would like to make an announcement concerning two committee meetings.

Tomorrow morning, at 9:30, there will be a meeting of the Senate Committee on Education. The following Tuesday, at 9:00 o'clock in the morning, there will be a Joint Committee Meeting of the House and Senate Education Committees.

In explanation, I want to say that it is the present intention of the Chairman of this Committee not to consider legislative matters in the field of education, at this time, unless they are outside of the field which is being covered by the Governor's Committee on Education. Therefore, the matters to be considered tomorrow morning will be limited.

Next Tuesday, Mr. President, we hope to hold a Joint Meeting with the Superintendent of Public Instruction and some of his staff, in order that he may acquaint us with the issues in public education, as he and his staff see them, and that we may be better acquainted with the Superintendent and his staff and may know how he is organized in order to give us information and help with the problems.

As you know, most of these matters are being held in abeyance because we are waiting for the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education, of which our Presiding Officer is the Chairman. When this report comes in March,—we hope somewhere, perhaps, around the ides of March—then we will be able to proceed, it seems to me, after we have had this meeting with Superintendent Boehm and have gotten rid of some of the measures which have been introduced that do not impinge on the Report of the Governor's Committee on Education.

I would hope that between now and the March Meeting, this Senate can act upon many of the matters on the current Calendar and other controversial matters, so that when this important area of education arrives, we may save for it some of the finest hours that this Senate will have during this Session.

The PRESIDENT. May I have the time of that meeting, sir?

Mr. HAYS. The meeting of the Senate Education Committee will be held at 9:30 tomorrow morning, in Room 302. The combined meeting of the Senate and House Committees on Education will be held at 9:00 a.m., the following Tuesday morning, in the Senate Caucus Room.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEETING OF THE COMMITTEE ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, the Committee on Local Government usually meets at 11:00 o'clock, every Tuesday morning. However, I have been informed there will be a morning Session tomorrow and there is a possibility that the Session might run past that hour. Therefore, the committee will meet immediately after the Session adjourns tomorrow, regardless of the hour.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I have in my hand a package of four bills which are, perhaps, to be known as the Chester Marine Terminal Bills.

Last week, the Senate, by its action resulting from the emergency arising from the closing of the Ford Motor Plant, was most kind to the people of Delaware County and their neighbors. I would like to say that on the following Wednesday, the Governor of this Commonwealth, David L. Lawrence, was wonderful in the assistance offered by him to our people.

These four bills would endeavor to set up a Chester Marine Terminal. In the past, State moneys have been spent for the ports of Philadelphia and the ports of Erie to help them with their deep water transportation problems. We feel that maybe it is only fair, now when Delaware County is hurt, that the Commonwealth should assist us. In the past, we have been most willing to give assistance to other ports.

These bills were conceived by the members of the International Longshoremen's Association back in 1955. There were bills like this introduced during the 1955 Session and the 1959 Session. It could be that now, with the aroused civic interest in the plight of Delaware County, due to the Ford Motor Company, we may receive results.

Delaware County has twelve miles of deep water frontage on the Delaware River. From the time before William Penn, Delaware County, its city of Chester and its nearby communities have served as ports for ships of all nations. Down in the county, we feel that our economic welfare is tied in with this great natural blessing, the Delaware River. Perhaps, like the old story of "Acres of Diamonds," we have been turning our back too much on this natural blessing.

For this reason, these bills are being introduced at this time.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. BELL presented t othe Chair SB 240, entitled:

An Act to promote the welfare of the people of this Commonwealth creating The Port of Chester Authority as a body corporate and politic with power to acquire, construct, maintain and operate projects for the improvement and development of the port district and to collect tolls, fares, fees, rentals and charges for the use thereof, defining its powers and duties, authorizing the issuance of bonds for said authority, defining the port district and granting the right of eminent domain within the port district.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also presented to the Chair SB 241, entitled:

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN. asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, during the 1959 Session, I introduced two bills,—I believe they were Senate Bill No. 912 and Senate Bill No. 913—which were the result of an investigation of the Department of Welfare. Because of the lateness of the Session and some controversy that came up, I decided not to press the matter further. I said to myself, and my colleagues, that I would study further the problem of the Mental Health Department as an autonomous department.

Since that time, I have given it a great deal of thought, a lot of study, and have talked to many physicians and talked to many doctors. I am, again, on behalf of myself, Senator Berger, Senator Sarraf, Senator Stiefel, Senator McCreesh and Senator Kalman, introducing and presenting to the Chair these two bills.

Mr. President, I am also presenting to the Chair a bill I have sponsored alone.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. PECHAN, SARRAF, STIEFEL, BERGER, KALMAN and McCREESH presented to the Chair SB 249, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," creating a Department of Mental Health; defining its powers and duties; transferring State mental institutions and their boards of trustees into the department; transferring powers and duties of Department of Pubilc Welfare and the Secretary of Pubilc Welfare relating to mental health, mental defects, epilepsy and inebriety and the care and treatment of patients to the Department of Mental Health or the Commissioner of Mental Health, and making appropriations.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

They also presented to the Chair SB 250, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1959), entitled "An act fixing the salaries and compensation of the Chief Justice and judges of the Supreme Court, . . . ," fixing the salary and compensation of the Commissioner of Mental Health.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Mr. PECHAN presented to the Chair SB 251, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519), entitled "The Borough Code," providing additional penalties for violation of ordinances.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McCREESH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, one of the foremost problems that confronts this Commonwealth at present and far into the future is the care, the treatment and the cure of its mentally ill.

With the quickening in the pace of modern day living, it is estimated that one out of every ten persons will be stricken with this dreadful disease. Pennsylvania, during the past ten years, has been in the forefront in leading this growing challenge, and has appropriated millions of dollars toward new buildings, increased personnel, wages and treatment techniques. Great strides have been made in this field by the Commonwealth, Mr. President, but more can be done.

It is, indeed, a pleasure to be one of the sponsors of the bills, introduced earlier today, which will create a Department of Mental Health, for it will mean healthful and normal community living for thousands of Pennsylvania citizens in the future if these bills are enacted into law.

Mr. President, just in case there were any legal technicalities on the bills creating a Department of Mental Health in the Commonwealth on which my name was included as a sponsor, I would like to introduce two bills which would clarify the situation.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Mr. McCREESH persented to the Chair SB 252, entitled:

An Act amendig the act of April 9, 1929 (P. L. 177), entitled "The Administrative Code of 1929," creating a Department of Mental Health; defining its powers and duties; transferring State mental institutions and their boards of trustees into the department; transferring powers and duties of the Department of Public Welfare and the Secretary of Public Welfare relating to mental health, mental disease, mental defects, epilepsy and inebriety and the care and treatment of patients to the Department of Mental Health or the Commissioner of Mental Health, and making appropriations.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

He also presented to the Chair SB 253, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1959), entitled "An act fixing the salaries and compensation of the Chief Justice and judges of the Supreme Court, . . . ," fixing the salary and compensation of the commissioner of Mental Health.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

POINT OF INFORMATION

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I rise to a point of information prior to introducing two bills.

The PRESIDENT. The gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will state his point of information.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, a few minutes ago a group of Senators introduced a bill dealing with the creation of a new department, the Department of Mental Health.

Mr. President, I know that you use extreme caution, circumspection and wisdom in assigning bills to the committees. However, I respectfully submit, Mr. President, that a bill of this nature would lie more properly in the Committee on Public Health and Welfare than in the Committee on State Government.

If it is at all possible, Mr. President, I would appeal to you to reconsider the channel which you provided when you directed this bill to committee.

The PRESIDENT. This is a bill which corrects the entire structure of the State overnment, sir. I would think that it would have to go to the Committee on State Government for that reason.

Mr. STIEFEL. I abide by your wisdom, Mr. President.

The PRESIDENT. In the final analysis, it is possible that the Committee on State Government would want the Committee on Public Health and Welfare to consider the bill. However, I think that would be a matter to be taken up by the two Committee Chairmen.

Mr. STIEFEL. Thank you, sir.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. STIEFEL and SILVERT presented to the Chair SB 254, entitled:

An Act relating to the recovery of damages for loss or diminution of the right of consortium in personal injury cases.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judicary General.

An Act making an approriation to the Moore Institute of Art, Science and Industry, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

Which was committed to the Committee on Local Government.

Messrs. MULLIN and MAHADY presented to the Chair SB 257, entitled:

An Act amending the act of December 5, 1936 (1937 P. L. 2897), entitled "Unemployment Compensation Law," making the act applicable to employes of a state or an instrumentality thereof.

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

Messrs. MULLIN, WEINER, DONOLOW and SILVERT presented to the Chair SB 259, entitled:

Which was committed to the Committee on State Government.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. LANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, the legislation I am about to present to the Senate pertains to the Permanent Assessment Act of 1951, which provided that all counties from the fourth to the eighth class should inaugurate and set up a permanent assessment program within those particular counties.

In addition, it required that each county should classify all types of structures and land, and place upon them a permanent assessment.

The primary purpose of this legislation was to bring about a status quo as far as assessments are concerned. It also provided that we would streamline the assessment programs in Pensylvania. This legislation was not passed for the purpose of gouging those persons who own real estate. The purpose was to even up and clarify the assessment programs in these particular counties.

In addition to this legislation, Mr. President, we also passed several safeguards. One provided that after the first year of the setup of this program,—the inauguration of this program within the counties—no political subdivision could increase their budget for real estate purposes in excess of five per cent of the budget of the prior year. It also provided that school districts could not increase their budgets in excess of ten per cent of the prior year's budget. Therefore, it would be mandatory upon the political subdivisions to reduce the millage.

Mr. President, this has worked quite well. However, after the first year of the inauguration of this program, I have learned that quite a number of political sub divisions have decided to make a pork barrel of this type of legislation. This was not the intent of the House and the Senate. Men worked on this program for years before we ever presented it to the Senate.

The legislation I am about to present to you will provide that political subdivision and no school district, if you please, will have the right to increase their budgets after the inauguration of the permanent assessment system in their counties in excess of ten per cent over their prior and original year's budget when the inauguration of this program took place. That way, it will be a protection to the taxpayers. If we continue along these lines, we are going to penalize the property owners.

We did a good job the first year this program was begun. We put these safeguards in. However, that does not appear to be the case today.

Therefore, Mr. President, the political subdivisions and the school districts will have another relief under the provisions of this bill, should it pass. That would be that they can appeal to the courts. If they show justification for an increase in their budget, it will be the responsibility of the courts to direct them to make this increase.

Some people will say that we are administrating under the provisions of the courts. However, there is already such a provision in this Act. Prior to the presentation of this legislation, the school district could, if they could justify their position, go into the court and ask for an increase over the ten per cent, which we permitted in the provisions of the Act of 1951.

I am, therefore, Mr. President, introducing this bill.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. LANE and HALUSKA presented to the Chair SB 261, entitled:

COMMITTEE APPOINTED PURSUANT TO SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL NO. 101

The PRESIDENT. The Chair announces, on behalf of the President pro tempore, the appointment of the following committee pursuant to Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 101, authorizing a Joint Committee to Study the Abolition of Capital Punishment: the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Donolow; the gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler; and the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Scott.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, when you enter the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania, you see, in bold letters, an expression which is a quotation of the learned Justice Lord Cook, and it states as follows: "The certainty of the law is the safety of all."

Now from the recesses of a bureau in the Department of Welfare, an overzealous administrator has caused a lot of confusion concerning the matter of fighting fires.

While the august Department of Labor and Industry has made a very capable analysis, we have a famous Fire Commissioner in Philadelphia, Frank McNamee, who is an expert on fire detection systems.

This administrator has made demands all over Pennsylvania to install a sprinkler system which is damaging and not effective. We have two sets of criteria and two sets of matters and that creates confusion, and we cannot tolerate confusion in our State Government.

For this reason, I am about to introduce a resolution, requesting the Joint State Government Commission to once and for all determine whether Secretary Batt or Elias Stone has the right idea. One of them must be right.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO MAKE A STUDY OF FIRE PREVENTION LAWS AND FIRE DETECTION DEVICES

Messrs. STIEFEL, KALMAN and MURRAY offered the following resolution (Serial No. 109), which was read and referred to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare:

In the Senate, February 20, 1961.

Whereas, There appears to be considerable confusion in the enforcement of fire prevention laws due to a duplication of orders and confusion in some of the standards set up by the various enforcement officers who administer these laws. This is especially true in the standards set up by various enforcement officers as to sprinkler systems and fire detection devices; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission proceed immediately to make a study of fire prevention laws and fire detection devices and make recommendations as to the desirability of uniformity of standards throughout the Commonwealth and uniformity in enforcement throughout the State.

JOINT SESSION TO COMMEMORATE AND RE-ENACT THE VISIT OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN TO HARRISBURG

Mr. SESLER offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 20, 1961.

Resolved (the House concurring), That the Senate and House of Representatives meet in Joint Session on Tuesday, February 21, 1961, at ten-thirty o'clock to commemorate and re-enact the visit of Abraham Lincoln to Harrisburg on his way to Washington to be inaugurated as President of the United States.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

WEEKLY ADJOURNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 20, 1961.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 27, 1961 at THREE o'clock P. M., E.S.T., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, February 27, 1961 at THREE-THIRTY o'clock P. M., E.S.T.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, last week, we were honored to have in the hall of the Senate one of the Governor's very fine Cabinet Members, and we greeted him. I noted there are three of us in the Senate who have served on the Aeronautics Commission with General Biddle.

Therefore, on behalf of myself and the other two gentlemen, Senator Bell and Senator McMenamin, plus Senator Silvert and Senator Sarraf, I am about to offer this congratulatory resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO MAJOR GENERAL ANTHONY J. DREXEL BIDDLE UPON HIS APPOINTMENT AS UNITED STATES AMBASSADOR TO SPAIN

Messrs. PECHAN, BELL, McMENAMIN, SILVERT and SARRAF, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 15), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, February 20, 1961.

The appointment of Major General Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Adjutant General of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, as United States Ambassador to Spain, has recently been announced by President Kennedy. Although we deeply regret the loss of General Biddle as our Adjutant General, no better man could have been selected to fill this important post.

Throughout his long and distinguished career as a soldier, statesman and diplomat, General Biddle has brought high honor to himself, to our Commonwealth, and to our Nation. His numerous decorations, honors and awards from the United States and many other countries evidence his standing throughout the world as an outstanding American.

Our embassy in a foreign land serves as a show-window to the United States. No finer person could have been chosen to create and sustain a more favorable impression of our Nation than Anthony J. Drexel Biddle. It is with the deepest pride that we in Pennsylvania claim General Biddle as a native son, and hold him forth as an example of what an American should be, and as an advocate of the principles for which we stand; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby extends its congratulations to Major General Anthony J. Drexel Biddle upon his appointment as United States Ambassador to Spain; and expresses its faith and confidence that he will conduct this important role with the dignity and ability by which he has so distinguished himself in the past; and, be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to General Biddle.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEE

BILL OVER IN ORDER TEMPORARILY

HB 89 CALLED UP OUT OF ORDER

HB 89—Without objection, the bill was called up out of order, from page 2 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

HB 89—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, what I have to say regarding House Bill No. 89 will equally apply to House Bill No. 88 and House Bill No. 100.

I am going to cast my vote in favor of the acceleration of the corporate net income and gross receipts tax because of the fiscal situation and the fiscal necessity, as the Governor pointed out in his Budget Message. However, I do have some criticism of these bills. My great criticism is not about what they do, but about what they leave undone.

I have heard no corporations complain as to this acceleration. However, I am not a mind reader and I cannot definitely ascertain the reasons why they would not complain. I do have an idea that probably some of them are quite pleased with it so that they get nothing further.

To be sure, some of my colleagues are concerned as to the effect of this on the business climate, or on the tax climate as it affects business. I have heard a great deal said, including a statement by the Governor, that we have and must have in this Commonwealth a tax climate which is helpful to business. I would like to point out to the Members of this Senate that there is a danger that we will become so interested in tax climate that we will become enamored with the idea and will fail to pierce the real situation, as it exists. In other words, I think it is time we warn the people of Pennsylvania to look behind the scene and question what the true tax climate is in this Commonwealth.

In 1952, a chart was prepared by the Department of Commerce, the Bureau of Census, showing that corporations in Pennsylvania were bearing fifty-two per cent of the tax load. It can be truthfully stated that if an individual did not smoke, drink or drive an automobile, he was not paying anything toward his tax share to the Commonwealth for the services which he received from the State. It is also true, of course, that the corporations pay more in Pennsylvania than in any other State.

For example, Mr. President, the chart which I referred to shows that in Pennsylvania, in 1952, corporations were paying fifty-two per cent of the burden. Incidentally, New York corporations were paying twenty-six per cent of the total tax burden. I think Massachusetts was second, with thirty-seven per cent. This is important when we realize the relative position of these corporation taxes and the burden which they impose.

As of the year of 1960, the situation has radically changed. Not only have business taxes been reduced in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania by reason of 1957 legislation—which restored, for the benefit of the corporations, the manufacturing exemption and the capital stock tax, along with the repeal of the corporate loan tax and the excise tax on domestic and foreign corporations—but it can also be further stated that in the imposition of the sales tax, machinery, equipment and supplies directly used, but not consumed in manufacturing, are exempt.

This is somewhat of interest to me. The estimated annual yield, for instance, if the exemption as to manufacturing, plus agriculture, were not in effect, would be $33,000,000. That is a pretty sizeable piece of change. It is interesting to note that the 1957 legislation, which was effective January 1, 1958, restored the manufacturing exemption, which means at least—and this is a conservative estimate—a savings of $30,000,000 by the corporations.

Therefore, Mr. President, I believe it can be safely stated that business in Pennsylvania has received some breaks. It has received a pretty good tax climate in Pennsylvania. This is more directly seen when one realizes that opposed to this has been the imposition of consumer taxes on the people of Pennsylvania.

Just a couple of weeks ago, we saw a two-cent gasoline tax which the Democratic Majority—at least, 106 or 107 in the House and twenty-five in the Senate of Pennsylvania—voted to impose on the people of the Commonwealth. This is a two-cent additional gasoline tax, which is a consumer tax. We have the four per cent sales tax, also. Thus, we have more and more consumer taxes being placed upon the people and less and less business taxes. I am somewhat worried because it seems to me that things are becoming topsy-turvy. What has occurred with the Democratic Party, for instance, which supposedly is the friend of the little guy? Is this true when we see who has been in command of the government of Pennsylvania since 1955 and what has been occurring in this tax picture? The relative position of who is paying what in Pennsylvania has radically changed.

The January 1958 study by the Joint State Government Commission, on page 13, graphically portrays this situation and reveals that the commodity taxes, other than liquid fuels, bring in approximately forty per cent of the State tax revenue, as opposed to the general corporation and business taxes bringing in approximately twenty-four per cent. This, gentlemen, is a pretty big change. Since the Joint State Government Commission study of 1958, which revealed the figures as of May 31, 1957 or, in other words, the end of the biennium, the changes have been even greater than those I have been talking about. This is due, as I said before, of course, to the imposition of the sales tax at the rate of four per cent and due to the exemption of machinery, equipment and so forth, as well as the full effect of the restoration of the manufacturers' exemption, which only became effective January 1, 1958.

Thus, Mr. President, I think we can safely conclude that individual consumers are paying more and more of the relative share of the tax burden whereas corporations are paying less and less. I point this out so that some attention will be given to the burden which the long suffering, silent taxpayer is now bearing in this Commonwealth. Let us also think of the individuals' tax climate in Pennsylvania and not only the tax climate of the corporations.

Mr. President, that is why I will vote for the corporation taxes and the acceleration of those taxes.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I hereby extend to Senator Ehrgood a very welcome invitation to sit on our side of the aisle.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, I could not very well accept that invitation because somehow or other, the Democrats seem to be going over on the other side. That I cannot understand. I would not want to go over with the Democratic Party in this situation where they are soaking the individual taxpayer time and time and again as the figures prove.

The PRESIDENT. Besides, sir, I look over on this side and find the seats all filled.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I want to be brief and to the point. I must, to a great extent, concur with some of the statements made by Senator Ehrgood. However, down through the years, —in fact, since 1942—the statement has been made by the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, the Pennsylvania Economy League and big business as a whole, that the Democratic Party in Pennsylvania was the enemy of business.

When we relieved the corporations of a part of their obligations, our objective, Senator Ehrgood, was to create in Pennsylvania a tax climate which would bring industry into this State and provide employment for our people. We are at a disadvantage as far as manufacturing is concerned. The State of Ohio and the surrounding States seem to have an advantage when it comes to the construction of plants, because in the extreme western part of our State we have a lot of hilly country and mountains. To build a manufacturing plant over there would cost a lot of money. Therefore, these manufacturing organizations are going into Ohio and the other States. Some of the manufacturing corporations were afraid of Pennsylvania, and so they moved out.

As a matter of fact, during the period when there were high taxes on corporations, the responsibility actually was with the Republican Party because it was you people who placed these heavy taxes on the corporations and, if any of them moved, it was the fault of the Republican Party and not the Democratic Party. However, we received the blame because we sponsored liberal legislation and we were the so-called enemies of business. That is not the case. The reason we made these concessions was to keep business in our State. We wanted to make Pennsylvania the powerful, prosperous State that she was years ago. Down through the years, had we not taken that action, —and I imagine you will agree with me—we would have a greater recession than we have right now.

Therefore, I think the workingmen and women of Pennsylvania feel that if they have jobs, they are willing to pay the taxes. I have talked to many of our coal miners who say: "Give us jobs and we will pay our taxes." They want business here and they want employment. We are doing this to try to keep business here and keep employment going.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, the statements of the gentleman from Washington County sound very good. The only difficulty is that his alternative to taking care of the business climate is, in effect, soak the consumer.

This situation in the Senator's District, of course, deals with a coal mining area. The coal mines are certainly the cancer spot in Pennsylvania. They are in a distressed situation. However, I do not think that any business taxes have forced the coal operators to cease operations. I think there are many reasons, of which you are well aware. Therefore, I do not believe you can point to the fact that the large business taxes of previous Republican Administrations were the reason for anything failing, and I do not think there was a movement at that time. The movement has come since that period, and it was not due to any business taxes that we had.

I am not saying categorically that business taxes are too low and consumer taxes are too high. I do think the people of Pennsylvania should be aware of and at least question whether or not a fair share is being taken by each—both by business and by the consumer.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I expect to vote for this bill. However, my reasons are perhaps a little divergent from Senator Ehrgood's views.

I want to say that I live in a semi-industrial, agricultural area. We have a great deal of industry in my two counties. I am sorry to say that in my very immediate vicinity of Kittanning and Ford City, we have a seventeen per cent unemployment situation. Not one of the manufacturers in my two counties have asked me to vote against this bill. I would not vote for it, whether they asked me to or not, if I were not convinced that the revenues in this biennium fell short of what was anticipated.

When you stop to consider that seventeen per cent of my people back in my area are without work, I do not know how you can expect them to pay two cents more on a gallon of gasoline and four per cent on the purchases they make.

As I said, I am going to vote for this bill because no industry has objected to it. They want to pay their fair share. However, I am just wondering whether anybody over on the other side ever considers cutting down some of the expenditures with which we presently are faced. I am reminded that two years ago we passed a bill whereby we increased the operator's license fee from one dollar to two dollars and instead of sending them out every year, we send them out every two years. We were told that it costs ninety-three cents to process every license. Consequently, there was not much to go back into the Highway Fund. Now they only send them out once every two years.

When you read the budget, you find that the Revenue Department wants to put on additional workers. Instead of cutting down and sending some of them home, they want additional revenue. Now how in the world does this look to the people in Pennsylvania who are not working? We have a half-million people who are unemployed. If this is going to keep up, we are going to do just exactly as Joe Stalin wants us to do—spend ourselves into bankruptcy.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I am as much opposed to this bill as I was opposed to the one last week. It was House Bill No. 88 last week, and this one, House Bill No. 89, is a comparable bill. I have heard some of the speakers, both today and on the other occasion, say that they have had no letters of objection to this particular tax measure. Possibly I come from a peculiar section of the State. I have had numerous letters of opposition from small corporations, all of whom have informed me that it is going to be necessary that they go to the bank and borrow money in order to prepay their taxes.

At the risk of being repetitious, Mr. President, I cannot see how passing this type of legislation can be conducive to creating a situation in Pennsylvania that will attract new, diversified industries into our State, which we must have if we are going to, in any way, solve the number one problem in this Commonwealth of unemployment.

I agree with one of the previous speakers that this Administration should take a long look at government at the State level, and should attempt to effect some economies in its operation. I certainly cannot see how this Administration and the previous Administration, according to the figures that were given by the State Treasurer—and I cannot vouch for their accuracy, but they must be accurate—which indicate that in the last six years our State payroll has risen from 53,000 to 76,000, can refute that there must not have been a number of people put on the State payroll in various departments who certainly did not need to be put on. I think it is incumbent upon the executive branch of the Government of this State to take a long, hard look at all of the departments and to effect every possible economy, rather than to accelerate tax collections on business, which can only do one thing and that is to postpone the inevitable day of reckoning. Someday, someplace, somehow this must be paid.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the gentleman from Armstrong that the money which he spoke about—the additional money requested—is money that comes out of the Motor Fund and has nothing to do with the General Fund, which is where the income from this measure, if enacted, will go.

I would also like to point out that the taxes which we are inaugurating here are the taxes which we have inaugurated in every Session of the Legislature, during the last few years. We are merely substituting the borrowing power of the individual corporations instead of using the State's borrowing power, which is the tax anticipation notes. The reason for doing so is because of the cost to the Commonwealth.

As the last speaker said, if the Treasurer of Pennsylvania felt there were people who do not belong on the State payroll, I think the Treasurer has a very simple method whereby he could solve that problem. He could just refuse to pay them. If these people were brought to our attention, I am sure we would take the appropriate action.

I feel the hour is growing late and I have no intention of making a long speech. I think we have been all through this bill and the companion bill. However, I would be very happy to answer any questions that anyone might have in regard to this measure. I think all of us who have been here for awhile know the political history of how these taxes came about, how they came into being, and why they are with us now.

I do not think anybody agrees that this is a panacea to solve all the ills of the Commonwealth. However, we do not have any other substitute. I have not heard of any in the Senate or in the House. This is all that we have before us. I think we must live with it and work with it. No one will gainsay that we do not need the funds and that we can cut off the State's services. This is what we must do. This is our duty.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I did not intend to engage in this debate because the things which have been said previously have been very well said. However, I cannot let go by, unchallenged, the statement just made by the Majority Leader; that is, if the State Treasurer did not want so many people on the payroll, all he had to do was not pay them. That is a manifest absurdity, Mr. President, for the reason that the employees are hired and the State Treasurer's function in making out those payroll checks is strictly administrative. He has no discretion in that matter.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, the hour is growing late and I do not want to prolong this debate. However, I am going to be very kind and say that the distinguished Assistant Minority Floor Leader is slightly confused with reference to the sales tax. If he recalls correctly, when the sales tax came up, I was one of the persons who opposed it.

I am saying this in jest. I think Senator Pechan recalls that I made the statement that Pechan carries the flag, Berger beats the drum, and Senator Taylor calls the shots.

HB 99—Without objection, the bill was called up out of order, from page 2 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE AMENDMENTS OFFERED

HB 99—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am going to have to object to the amendments at this time.

The PRESIDENT. There has been an objection to the—

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, before the Chair announces that an objection has been made to these amendments, I would like to state it is my understanding, and I believe it is firm, that on the bills they moved up to Third Reading, amendments could then be offered upon Third Reading without objection.

It has been a long established procedure in this Senate that if we permitted the bills to go up to Third Reading, then there would be no objection made to the offering of amendments upon Third Reading, when such amendments have been avaible and would have been offered on Second Reading. However, to expidite the procedures of the Senate, we have refrained from offering them and have done it with the whole package. Certainly, the Senator is within his rights to object, There is no question about that, but I question very much the wisdom of making an objection at this time, when the bill is on the Third Reading Calendar.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDENT. The Senate will be at ease.

The Senate was at ease.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, due to the circumstances, I now withdraw my objection. I will, indeed, be glad to have Senator Wade offer his amendments. I hope, however, that he does not make a long speech.

Mr. WADE, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Section1, page 2, line 7, by striking out the words "and every life".

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out all of such line.

Amend Section 1, page 2, line 9, by striking out the words "organized by or under any law of this Commonwealth".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, with thanks to Senator Lane, very briefly, I will describe the amendments which I have offered. I appreciate Senator Lane withdrawing his objection.

House Bill No. 99 includes two elements. One is the acceleration of the present tax on foreign life insurance companies. The second one is a new tax on Pennsylvania or domestic companies. My amendments would eliminate the enactment of the tax on the Pennsylvania companies.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was greed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I rise to oppose this bill and also I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, does this tax apply to all insurance written by life insurance companies?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will answer that question when the gentleman tells me what he means by "all" life insurance. Does he mean in the State, out of the State, or just what does the gentleman have in mind?

Mr. BELL. I will be more specfic.

In the House debate on this bill, there was a statement put into the record. This statement said, in effect, that life insurance companies issue casualty insurance of a certain type. It is found on page 222 of the Legislative Journal. Mr. President, to save time, I will read this statement into the record and then ask my question.

The statement appears in the Legislative Journal, dated January 26, 1961, page 222, as follows:

> "If H. 99 were enacted, certain types of Pennsylvania Insurance companies will be subject to the premium tax while other types are not"—

Mr. WEINER. Excuse me, Mr. President.

Just as point of information, who is stating this Mr. President?

Mr. BELL. It is found on page 222 of the Legislative Journal, in the lower left corner.

Mr. WEINER. Yes, sir. However, who is stating it? Whose remarks are you reading?

Mr. BELL. These remarks were introduced by Mr. Donaldson. I do not know whether he made them or wrote them, but he introduced them.

Mr. WEINER. Thank you.

Mr. BELL. I will read it again, Mr. President, as follows:

> "If H. 99 were enacted, certain types of Pennsylvania Insurance companies will be subject to the premium tax while other types are not (an inequitable result in any event) but the result will also be an actual competitive advantage given to one type of insurance over another where their fields of operation overlap. Life insurance companies and casualty insurance companies are in active competition in the accident and health insurance field. While only life insurance companies may write life insurance, both life and casualty companies are authorized to write accident and health or accident and sickness insurance and both do so. This bill would tax premiums paid to life insurance companies for this form of insurance but not if paid to a casualty insurance company . . . ."

Mr. President, would the gentleman please tell me whether that is a true statement of fact?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe what the gentleman said is partially true and partially, I think somewhat misleading. If I do not answer the question, I hope that the gentleman will pursue me and I will try to do so.

Mr. BELL. I will be glad to pursue you.

Mr. WEINER. They will be taxed on all the life insurance which they write. It is true that there are some life insurance companies, a very small number, which do write some accident insurance. In that event, they probably would be taxed on some of those premiums, as well. Primarily, though, this bill is built, as far as possible, to take in the foreign life insurance companies doing business within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in order for them to have the same competitive position as all the companies have in the surrounding States which employ or use this tax.

Mr. BELL. Am I not correct that this bill also takes in domestic life insurance companies?

Mr. WEINER. Yes.

Mr. BELL. Is it not correct that domestic life insurance companies, which are my concern here today, write accident and health insurance?

Mr. WEINER. There are some that do write health and accident insurance.

Mr. BELL. In other words, the answer is "yes.'

Mr. WEINER. That is correct.

Mr. BELL. Are there casualty insurance companies which write this same type of insurance?

Mr. WEINER. There are some casualty companies which do write health and accident insurance. I would not say it was their principal line. It is sometimes written as part of their multiple line of insurance.

Mr. BELL. Then your answer is "yes."

Are the casualty insurance companies taxed for this type of business, as you purpose under House Bill No. 99 to impose the tax on the life isurance companies?

Mr. WEINER. They pay it under another bill which we passed here before. However, primarily, it is aimed at the life insurance companies. The word "aimed" is not a good word. I should say that the bill is built to take care of that situation.

Mr. BELL. Do they pay a two per cent tax on gross premiums, the same as this bill purposes?

Mr. WEINER. I would assume that they would.

Mr. BELL. Are you sure?

Mr. WEINER. I am not sure. I will have to look into that situation. However, I would assume that all the things you said are true. If they are true, then my answer would be "yes."

Mr. BELL. Thank you sir.

Mr. President, I am going to assume that this statement in the House Journal is correct. It was apparently prepared by the Insurance Federation of Pennsylvania, and I have no reason to disbelieve their statement.

I also noticed in the Journal that of the three local mutual insurance companies, two of them insure teachers; The Educators Mutual Company of Lancaster and The Teachers Protective Mutual Life Insurance Company of Lancaster. I also note that one of the companies to be taxed is the Presbyterian Minister's Fund of Philadelphia.

I believe this tax which the Majority Party seeks to impose on the people of Pennsylvania is a sales tax on all insurance of life, and I will tell you why I feel that way. Right now, insurance is a highly competitive market. I believe it is reasonable to assume that in a competitive market, the rates of the mutuals and the rates of the stock companies, whether foreign or domestic, are the same, and if they were not the same the foreign mutuals and the stock companies would not sell as much as the domestic mutuals. With that assumption,—which I believe is sound logic—if we put a two per cent tax on the gross premiums of our domestic mutual life insurance companies, they will be forced to raise their rates to the people who buy the insurance. Since it is a competitive market, the others will follow up with their rates.

I know the Majority can say that is not true; that the domestic mutuals will lower their rates. You cannot do it in a mutual, because a mutual belongs to the policyholders.

Gentlemen, I condemn a theory of taxation which places a sales tax of two per cent on the gross premiums of these domestic mutual life insurance companies.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Delaware, Senator Bell.

The PRESIDENT. Will the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bell, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BELL. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, does the gentleman know that the casualty companies are now taxed two per cent at the present time?

Mr. BELL. No, Mr. President. That is why I asked the Majority Leader if he knew.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, does the gentleman know that the fire companies are now taxed two per cent at the present time?

Mr. BELL. I have no knowledge about fire companies, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, would the gentleman call it a sales tax if I were to advise him, and give it to him as a fact, that the two per cent taken from the casualty companies is used for the Police Retirement Fund, and the two per cent taken from the fire companies is used for the Firemen's Retirement Fund? Would that come under the category of a sales tax?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I think the gentleman's question is not germane because I am not an insurance expert. It is my understanding that tax is on foreign casualty and fire insurance companies.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman. I am sorry that his answer was not responsive to my question. However, I can hardly see that a tax placed on premiums—or gross business done, regardless of what you call it—is a sales tax, as such. I think this is part of the fare that you pay for doing business in a State. At a time when we are trying to find money to operate, I think this is a painless way of doing it. It might not be painless to the industry because they might be upset. Every industry is upset when they are taxed and the individual is upset when he is taxed.

I think, Senator, if you will throughly investigate this problem, you will see that we are doing nothing to harm the industry. You will find that we are not laying a heavier hand on them than on anyone else. You will find that we are keeping them in the same competitive position they will find in other States which have enacted this taxation. They will probably be in a better position than in some other areas where they have been a little heavy-handed or heavier-handed than we have.

I do not think this falls in the same category as you characterize it, in the sense that it is a sales tax.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, in brief reply to the Majority Leader, I am really very, very sorry I did not give you the answers you wanted.

I also think these people, who are being helped so much by this tax, must be very much misinformed because in my District they are very upset about it and they do not see it as a direct benefit to the people who are paying this insurance.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think we have covered the area. I think we ought to call the roll on this measure.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the pro visions of the Constitution, and were as follws, viz:

HB 96 CALLED UP OUT OF ORDER

HB 96—Without objection, the bill was called up out of order, from page 2 of the Third Reading Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE AMENDMENTS OFFERED

HB 96—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 304), page 3, line 17, by striking out the bracket after "four".

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 304), page 3, line 17, by striking out "one and one-half".

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 304), page3, line 17, by striking out the bracket before "4%".

Amend Sec. 2 (Sec. 304), page 4, line 1, by striking out "1½%" and inserting: "two and eight-tenths per centum (2.8%)".

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, in connection with these amendments, I will also have something to say about the bill itself for the reason that they key into the bill.

In areas in rural Pennsylvania, and particularly bordering the State of New York, reduction in the commissions or the payments made to persons who are licensed to affix the stamps on cigarette cartons is a very integral part of their competitive position. Sometime ago, the State of New York reduced the commissions paid to the cigarette merchants to two per cent. It was found, after some experience, that many of the dealers were suffering because of this reduction. Within the past several months, the State of New York increased the compensation paid to those dealers to 2.8 per cent.

To reduce the Pennsylvania commission paid to the people who have to do business in both States from four per cent to one and one-half per cent would practically eliminate a number of those small wholesale dealers who deal in candy, cigarettes and tobacco, both within and without the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to the point where they would, in many cases, have to go out of business.

One of dealer-wholesalers with whom I have been in contact stated that the impact of the two cent gasoline tax which he would have to pay to run his trucks to make distribution of the products that he distributes, coupled with this reduction of commissions paid from four per cent to one and one-half per cent, would make it practically impossible for him to continue in business and he would have to discharge the thirty employees he has if he were required to go out of business. That is true not only of that wholesaler, but of many of the small wholesaler dealers engaged in this business.

The amendments I offer would place the amount of the commission at 2.8 per cent, which would then be competitive with the State of New York. but they would not, Mr. President, answer the problem of the wholesale dealer in Pensylvania.

Therefore, Mr. President, I hope the Senate will see fit to adopt these amendments which will, at least, place these people who have to do business in both States in a competitive position and retain the employment which they offer to a few people, in each instance, in each company, who are engaged in affixing these stamps both in Pennsylvania and New York.

Howevr, Mr. President, the adoption of these amendments does not mean that I can support the bill for the reason that the reduction in Pennsylvania will still be a very grave burden and may result—and they have stated it would result—in placing them in a noncompetitive position and compel them to go out of business.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative, and the amendments were defeated.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. WORLEY and TOMASCIK.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 28.

In the House of Representatives, February 14, 1961.

Legislation is now pending in both Houses of the General Assembly which, if adopted, will abolish capital punishment in this Commonwealth. It is imperative that the committees to which these measures have been referred have ample time for thorough study. It is also foreseeable that additional studies and public hearings will be necessary before action can be taken on such proposals.

While these studies are being conducted, men are scheduled for and awaiting execution. These executions should not be carried out until such time as the studies have been completed and the General Assembly has accepted or rejected the abolition of capital punishment; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring) That the Governor of this Commonwealth, the Honorable David L. Lawrence, is hereby urged to declare a moratorium on all executions pending final action by the General Assembly on legislation to abolish capital punishment; and be it further Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Honorable David L. Lawrence.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. HAMILTON, CROSSIN, STIMMEL and WILLAREDT. (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 29.

The last codifications of the insurance laws of this Commonwealth were enacted in 1921. Many laws on the subject of insurance have been enacted since that time. It is of great importance that the insurance laws be recodified and modernized; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study, investigate and recodify the insurance laws of this Commonwealth; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the 1963 session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WORLEY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I have read the very interesting news item in the Patriot newspaper of February 10, 1961, which reported the cross-examination of the Governor by the press wherein the Governor made clear his present stand on the Governor's new mansion matter.

The Governor now says that he wants to spend $250,000 to expand the Governor's mansion at Indiantown Gap. He is now satisfied to forget the plan to build another Governor's mansion at Harrisburg. Although the Governor apparently resents this cross-examination by the press, I must congratulate the Governor for making his position clear in that he is presently for moving from the $2 million price down to $250,000. That is a back down of $1,750,000. Of course, this change all came after my remarks of January 30, 1961, on this floor wherein I attacked any plans to build a new Governor's mansion. And I further stated in my remarks of January 30, 1961, that one home at Indiantown Gap was enough for a Governor at State taxpayers' expense.

Now, Governor, you are doing very nicely on this matter but, Governor, you should go just one step further and do not spend that remaining quarter of a million dollars for more rooms at the Indiantown Gap mansion. You have a nice home there with a swimming pool, large lawn, and everything a Governor could hope for. So be satisfied with the nice home that the taxpayers have provided for you, and let us get down to work on the real business of this Commonwealth.

Let us do something for the distressed areas of the State, let us provide jobs for those who need employment, let us do more for those who are unable to work through no fault of their own, let us abolish the death penalty in Pennsylvania, let us pass the Fair Housing bill and the Human Relations act and stop discrimination against any race or color of skin, let us take the statutory law out of our State Constitution and write Pennsylvania a short and concise constitution containing only fundamentals of law which will live on like our Federal Constitution, let us take the farmer out of the back road mud by giving him better back roads in rural areas, let us put an end to political favorites and cronies being subsidized by the State insurance racket, and let us make Pennsylvania's public educational system second to none in the Nation.

Yes, Governor, let us just forget those rooms at the Gap and let us be for the long-suffering taxpayers and all the people of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wonders whether, since there is an interval, this would not be a good time for the Chair to make a statement he has a mind to make.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it would be a very appropriate time.

STATEMENT BY SPEAKER

THE SPEAKER. The Chair desires at this time to talk about space—space needed for the adequate functioning of this House. We'll cite a bit of history. We want to show how, over the years, the executive branch of our State government and the various departments that serve under the State government moved in—have confiscated space rights that were in times past the property of this House.

We were not always fenced in as we are now, believe it or not.

We were talking about space the other day with the Parliamentarian—we were discussing academically why so many committees are still called standing committees. As a result of our discussion, we reached the conclusion that members of this House, members of standing committees, are members of those committees because there is no place for them to sit down.

As you know, there are now 35 standing committees. Our point is, as already indicated, that over the years the executive branch of the government has continually encroached upon the proper rights and prerogatives of the legislative branch of the government by confiscating space which, in the original blueprints of this building, was assigned specifically to the General Assembly.

Space raiding in a big way began with a Governor residing in the executive office long ago. He moved into the office then occupied by the Speaker of this House. He sealed up a doorway which led right in from the Speaker's office to the hall of this House.

The present Governor and the various members of his staff now occupy confiscated space.

It would seem that back in the days when the Governor moved into the Speaker's office, Speakers were considered persons whose duties were of small consequence.

Why should the Speaker of the House, it was argued, have a permanent office, since the legislature only met every two years? And so it came about that the Department of Public Grounds and Buildings moved the Speaker into the office then occupied by the chief capitol plumber.

When the regular session of the General Assembly ended, the Speaker was movd out of the plumber's office and the plumber moved back in.

An Attorney General was the next mastermind who moved into the space picture. Observing the ease with which the Governor ousted the Speaker, the Attorney General tried a little evicting of his own.

He kicked the Chief Clerk of the House out of the quarters he occupied and moved in. The Chief Clerk's office, at the time the Attorney General served the eviction notice, was located off the floor of the House and was reached by double doors which are still in place, although sealed, and which lie directly behind the present press gallery.

The Chief Clerk's original office is now used by the Attorney General as space for a stenographic pool and for a powder room.

Incidentally, the "E" floor in the south wing of our main capitol building, was originally designed for, and was used once upon a time, for committee rooms. However, a portion of the Governor's staff, the Attorney General's law library, and offices for members of the Attorney General's staff now occupy that space.

The "E" floor of the north wing of our main capitol building was originally designed for use for Senate committee rooms.

Then came the day when the Bureau of Weights and Measures of the Department of Internal Affairs was permitted to take over. There wasn't any sound reason why the Bureau of Weights and Measures, of all bureaus, should have been permitted to displace legislative committees.

Little by little, other departmental offices occupied the balance of the space in the north wing of the Capitol Building. A few years ago, however, the Senate experienced a brief spasm of dignity and reclaimed some of the north wing's space for Senate committee rooms and space for Senate leaders.

The most notable eviction on record as far as the House of Representatives was concerned was made by a former State Treasurer. He persuaded the Governor that the Commonwealth's bonds and securities were not in safe keeping, that they needed fire and burglar-proof protection, all of which was undoubtedly true. Such protection was provided. Believe it or not, an eviction order was issued over the Governor's signature. The House was ousted from the space, which is now the new House caucus room.

It now all seems almost incredible that the House would have surrendered rights and its opportunities for service without even filing a mild protest.

We wonder what would happen today if the Governor should issue a decree that the House should forthwith evacuate its one and only caucus room on the first floor of the main Capitol Building.

All of the Members of the House are more or less familiar with the third floor caucus room. For many years it was the one and only caucus room in being. And how did the House go about getting the third floor caucus room? It did so by removing committee room walls. In short, it made a caucus room out of what had been committee rooms—once again reducing the number of rooms available for committee use.

The day did come when the House regained possession of the first floor caucus room. It did so by appropriating the money needed to construct a finance building for the State Treasurer. With the whole building at his disposal, the State Treasurer graciously consented to move out of the main Capitol Building.

Apparently the legislature at that time didn't have the power to move the State Treasurer out to any building except to a building of his choice.

What about quarters for the minority party? It was not so many years ago that no one ever gave even a passing thought to the caucus room needs of the minority. There wasn't any caucus room for the minority, or any space for the minority party leadership. When I first became minority leader in this House the minority party leader was allotted one room during the session—just one room. And now look at it. The minority now has finer quarters, in my opinion, than the majority has. Personally, I would trade offices for the minority's tomorrow if I could.

At the time we were talking about, if the minority wanted to hold a caucus they had to hire a hotel room, pay for it themselves. And if they had any stenographic help they had to pay for it.

Another thing, it is a wonder that the older members of this House have not all developed heart trouble as a result of their repeated visits to the Legislative Reference Bureau. We all know the rigors of the trip. Out in the cold weather and up those winding stairs every time we want to consult the Legislative Reference Bureau. That bureau should never have been placed where it is. It should be over in the main Capitol Building on the first floor.

I could give you many, many more examples showing how the General Assembly has been victimized by the Capitol Hill space scrappers. True, the various departments that serve under the Governor have grown, and grown and grown. The General Assembly hasn't grown as it should have grown. We have permitted ourselves to be fenced in. We are still permitting ourselves to be fenced in. There isn't any sound reason, for example, why the Bureau of Weights and Measures should be located in the main Capitol Building. That bureau could serve just as efficiently as it is now serving if it were located in an office building in the city.

As the record shows, the executive department of our State government many months ago authorized and financed a Capitol Hill space study. Months ago there were intimations that the study group would file its report with the Governor and the Department of Property and Supplies last October.

No such report has been filed. Legislative leaders have had no intimation as to what the planners contemplate as far as the space needs of the General Assembly are concerned. We should know what the space planners are thinking and, if they are not thinking of the space needs of the General Assembly, it would seem to be high time that they were doing so.

If there is to be no provision for the space needs of the General Assembly in the reasonably near future, then legislative space needs should be met by moving some of the bureaus now occupied in the main Capitol Building into city office building space.

Lacking the facilities with which to function efficiently, Pennsylvania's General Assembly will continue in many instances to function inefficiently.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I listened with a great deal of interest to your remarks. I just want to say apropos of your remarks that I am suggesting your remarks could be as well applied to legislation considered by this House.

The SPEAKER. You know, gentlemen, it is pretty tough to swim against the tide. I have been trying to get these things for this House for the last 20 years. Lots of times the members do not seem to be interested, they do not seem to want to be legislators, a coordinate branch of this government that should be able to talk on equal terms to the executive department. If we can conceive of ourselves as legislators having a function coordinate with that of any department, coordinate with the governor, we will proceed to arm ourselves for effective action, but we operate through committees. These committees should be staffed; they should be year-around committees. They should now be studying some of the things we will have to consider next year when we meet in fiscal session. We must plan ahead. I hope the minority and majority leadership will get together and get a tangible plan and will insist that we get the space we need.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that Senate bill No. 28, printer's No. 235, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90) entitled "Liquor Code" changing the number of electors required on petition for referendum.

bill on final passage, be made a special order of business immediately.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Tioga, Mr. McInroy, yields to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Foerster.

Mr. FOERSTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask the unanimous consent of the House to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman would be required to reconsider the vote by which the bill arrived at final passage. It is not now subject to amendment. It is on final passage.

RECONSIDERATION OF VOTE

Mr. FOERSTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which this bill passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

The SPEAKER. Is that agreeable to the minority leader?

Mr. AGNEW. It is, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, rise?

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. I rise to ask that this be considered by a roll call vote for the reason that according to statements in the public press the amendment as has been presented by Mr. Foerster, the gentleman from Allegheny, would have been considered in due course. I believe he was held up by transportation and I believe the amendments are of such importance that they should have a roll call.

I would also like to congratulate the printer of the State of Pennsylvania for efficiency and for having the ability to read the minds of the legislature and determine before we vote that a bill will be amended. I congratulate them.

The SPEAKER. Two gentlemen have asked for a roll call.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we will accept the roll call at their request. At the proper time I would like to speak for one moment against the amendments, after they are properly presented.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is not the amendments, but the reconsideration of the vote.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask our membership on our side of the House to go along with the reconsideration so that he may properly offer his amendments at this point, since he was not here to offer them when we voted on the amended bill. Therefore, I ask our membership to vote aye in support of the reconsideration so he may offer the amendments.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, that was my understanding and that is why I agreed with the majority leader on a voice vote in the interest of saving time. There is no general objection to the gentleman's motion.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny withdraws his request for a roll call.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 406), page 4, line 13, by inserting brackets before and after "or second".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 406), page 5, line 1, by inserting brackets before and after "or second".

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections, the order of the day, which will be adjournment, will be dispensed with.

The Chair hears no objection.

Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Foerster.

Mr. FOERSTER. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the House these amendments merely take out of the bill cities of the second class.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will ask that the membership vote no on these amendments which would take out of Senate bill 28 the city of the second class, the city of Pittsburgh, so that we may vote on the bill dealing with cities of the first class and cities of the second class.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Kamyk.

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, ladies and gentlemen of the House, my good colleague from Pittsburgh, my friend and colleague, decided to put amendments in to take Pittsburgh out of this bill. Pittsburgh being quite a large city is as much a ghost town on Sunday as any other city with curtailments such as this.

We are interested in conventions in Pittsburgh just as well as any other large city, because conventions do bring business into the cities and spreads out even throughout the counties.

Ladies and gentlemen, Pittsburgh hotels need it. The city of Pittsburgh needs this legislation. The city of Pittsburgh pleads for it. The only one in disagreement from the city of Pittsburgh is Mr. Foerster, and I plead that you leave the bill as it is for the good of the economy of Pittsburgh, the business for the hotels and transportation in Pitsburgh, and so forth. Please defeat these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Foerster.

Mr. FOERSTER. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to debate the amendments. However, my good and long standing personal friend from Allegheny, Mr. Kamyk, said that I was the only one from Pittsburgh for these amendments. I may be the only legislator from Pittsburgh for these amendments, but I am not certainly the only resident from Pittsburgh for these amendments.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, although the printer can determine what the net result of an amendment will be, the leader of the Allegheny County delegation cannot read my mind.

I am for the amendments for the reason that I want to make a bad bill better. I had intended not to speak on the bill whatsoever, but I can call attention to the records of the Hotel Association, the accounting records, which will show that bringing booze into a city on Sunday does not increase the convention business.

If you believe that this particular item to be a commercial advantage to the city of Pittsburgh, I am not familiar with the city of Philadelphia, be disallusioned. Because if you believe the bible of the hotel industry trade, the accounting of Horvath and Horvath, you will find that every hotel throughout the United States in the big cities suffers a weekend let down.

Therefore, I say to my dear friend, the leader of the Democratic delegation from Allegheny County, he is so sincere in trying to lead Pittsburgh as at this time he is not leading the leader of the Pittsburgh delegation from Allegheny County. And that I concur with my friend, Mr. Foerster, from Pittsburgh because I do not believe that the enactment of this bill will aid commerce and industry in this community of Pittsburgh and I ask all my friends on both sides of the aisle to vote in favor of the amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. AGNEW. and McCANN and were as follows:

NOT VOTING—10

Boles,	McCormack,	Ujobai,	Yetter,
Gray,	Needham,	Wescott,
Henzel,	Odorisio,	Willard,

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question, recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tioga, Mr. McInroy.

Mr. McINROY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, when this bill passed the House some of you remember that I was one of those who spoke against the bill at that time because I thought it was a bad bill, as it was in the beginning, and I think it is still a bad bill. The number of voters on that bill was to be 25 percent. The number of petitioners, I mean, to get the bill on the ballot was to be 25 percent. By the way, this is the percentage of the electorate that any church group or any other group has to get to get on the ballot. This again proves, or should prove, not only to us, but to the people of Pennsylvania and to the people of this Country, that you cannot trust the liquor crowd. They got their bill, but they made no effort, as far as we have been able to find out, to get 25 percent of the electorate on petitions. They have had all this time. Now they come back to the House and there is introduced a bill in the Senate to have 5,000 names on the petition. Quite a drop, from 25 percent down to 5,000. Then it was amended in the House, or in the Senate, to bring it up to 25,000. But, ladies and gentlemen of the House, this is far below the 25 percent that other groups of the State have to get to put anything on the ballot. I ask you, why should we prefer this group or any other group and give them the privilege of putting a question on the ballot by a number of petitioners far below the State average? By what stretch of the imagination is this fair play?

The excuse for this bill is the same excuse that was given to us when the bill was originally passed, that it would help the economic welfare of this State of ours, particularly the cities of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia. That it would bring more conventions into Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, which would mean more money to those cities and to those hotels in particular. Also, we have quoted the occupancy rate of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh as being lower than the states surrounding us.

I would like to call your attention to what Mr. Goldstein said and go just one step further. Compare the average of occupancy in the city of Cleveland, which is close to Pittsburgh and the occupancy in the city of Cleveland is below the occupancy of Pittsburgh. In spite of the fact that there is plenty of liquor, or as my good colleague Mr. Goldstein chose to call it, there is plenty of booze in Cleveland on Sunday, and it did not affect the hotel occupancy rates in Cleveland.

I have before me an advertisement of New York City, how they have tried to raise their occupancy rate by getting people to come in by excursions, getting the railroads to give a cheaper rate, and so on. It all simmers down to one thing, a question of dollars and cents,—or perhaps I ought not to say one thing, if that would be the argument of those who favor this amendment—economic reasons. There are other reasons, too, which I hope to mention briefly. Are we to consider only economic reasons, if it were true? Are we to consider that when we think of the fact of them opening the door in the State to Sunday drinking? And to my mind that is the whole question, do you want Sunday drinking on a State-wide scale, because it has been proven over and over and over that if any of the group gets one thing then they are after something else.

I live next to the State of New York. In New York State they have Sunday drinking on Sunday afternoons and I want to tell you, ladies and gentlemen of this House, and I want to tell all of the people of Pennsylvania, that that is one thing a good many people abhor in the State of New York. When they go into that State on Sunday afternoon, they meet drunken drivers, they meet youths, eighteen years or over, who have been drinking because New York State has the eighteen-year-old group also. And that will be the next step, I might say, if they are going to do this on a state-wide basis, and I want to tell you it is not pleasant. I was a principal of a high school for sixteen years in the northern tier of Pennsylvania. I coached athletics for ten other years and I had to fight that drink question all the time, not only in athletics, but in my high school, and I have listened to pleas in New Jersey and Ohio and nearby states to New York State to change the rules. But they will not do it because they say the same things that some are going to say here today and I have been saying—for economic reasons.

Yes, some of us would sell our souls for a mess of pottage. I repeat, some of us would sell our souls for a mess of pottage, and the question right here today is, shall we let them put their foot in the door in Philadelphia without a struggle? And you are certainly giving up the struggle if you let them do it on 25,000 petitioners. You can go down to Philadelphia and, in a few minutes, you can send out people in Philadelphia and get 25,000 names on a petition, don't kid yourself. I know Philadelphia; I went to college there. I will not say anything particular against Philadelphia, but I say it will not help Philadelphia any, and I hope that every churchman and every interested person in Philadelphia will watch who votes here today for this bill. And I know that they excuse themselves by saying that it is a referendum. Yes, it is a referendum; of course it is. But should we give a referendum, in other words give up our power and all other things? Are you going to give up by allowing a referendum in the question of murder? Are you going to let each community decide whether it is going to enforce the law on murder or not? Or are you going to give up by allowing a referendum on all other things? Are we to be elected officials of this great Commonwealth and stand on our own two feet and vote "yes" or "no" and not hide behind the skirts of the referendum? I am going to sit down and you will see my vote over there, "no." I am proud of it, and I know of some others who are going to do the same and they are going to be proud that they voted "no" today. You can publish it in all the newspapers in this land, and we will not lose a whole lot of votes on it either.

We have a minister who wrote to some of you, everyone of you, I believe, from Philadelphia. With his permission, I would like to read what Mr. Norman Wood, whom I say is one of the most respected men, not only in this House but in this whole Commonwealth, wrote back to this gentleman. Listen closely, if you please. These are not my words and I hope the newspapers carry them all over this Commonwealth.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania
House of Representatives
Harrisburg
February 20, 1961
The Rev. Vaughn Ischie Jr.
Christ Episcopal Church

My blood starts to boil already.

Sixth and Venango Streets
Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

Dear Reverend Ischie:

Now listen to what Norman Wood said.

This is an answer to your letter of February 14, regarding Senate Bill No. 28.

During my 39 years as a member of the House of Representatives, I have received lots of letters from all kind of people, but this one is the most insulting and derogatory one that I have ever received and to make matters worse, it comes from one who wears the cloth of the Christian Church.

I cannot understand how you can ever face your congregation after writing such a letter. You think more of material gain than you do of spiritual growth and, if that is the kind of sermons that you preach, I pity the people who have to listen to them.

Your attack on such fine Christian gentlemen, as Dr. Forney, Dr. Ewing and others is resented by all good Christian people, including myself. If we had more people like them, the world would not be such a mess as it is today.

May the Lord have mercy on your soul.

Sincerely yours,
Norman Wood.

Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to agree with Mr. Norman Wood and I would like to say that it takes courage to say something like that. It takes courage to give me permission this afternoon to read that letter. But I want to tell you that Norman Wood has been elected and re-elected for thirty-nine years and I think he has more seniority than anybody in this Hous. If I am wrong, will somebody please raise their hands. Is there anyone who has more seniority? No. And I will say this also, I do not know of a more respected man in this whole House than Mr. Norman Wood, and I say that sincerely.

Now, just one or two other things and then I am going to stop. I know that I am not going to change many votes. I am not kidding myself. Most of you have determined already how you are going to vote, but at least we are going to put it on the record and we are going to let you know how we feel. Some say this is just a silly bill that does not amount to anything. It was just a little silly thing years ago, in 1619, when a ship came to the United States and brought a small group, I think it was nineteen, black men, as slaves. Now there are a lot of black people listening to me this afternoon. They thought it was a small thing, nineteen slaves. Look what has come out of it, what heartaches, what troubles. We had the Civil War. We are still fighting civil rights and we will for many years, and if I were in some southern states this afternoon I would have to be careful of what I say. I say the colored person does not have equal rights in spite of the fact that the Civil War was begun a a hundred years ago. Figure it, a whole century, and yet you say that it is a little thing. I know it sounds like a little thing to open the door in Philadelphia, but I would not vote "aye" for it if I were you folks. I am pleading with you, vote "no." Let us keep the percentage up; let us make them get 25 percent of the electorate on the ballot.

One more statement and I am finished. If I were to have one group in back of me for election, it would be the church people. They can elect any officer in this Commonwealth. They can elect the Governor; they can elect any other officer in the Commonwealth if they stick together. And I would like to see everyone of you this afternoon vote "aye." The whole State of Pennsylvania is watching us. Vote "no." I mean vote "no" on this bill. Now, just a minute, I have some cheers from the rabble over here. I want to repeat that. I want to see everyone here this afternoon who has real courage in his convictions, who wants to see a better State of Pennsylvania, and better economically, too, vote "no" on this bill. Let's put it back where it should be, to 25 percent of the electorate.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Tioga is wont to employ and does not hesitate to make abundant use of Biblical expressions in his dissertation, but it strikes me that neither his personal attack on the integrity of Reverend Ischie nor his references to the members of this House as rabble, or that we sold our souls for a mess of pottage is Biblical or timely in nature. The gentleman makes use of unfortunate language. It was not my intention to call it to the attention of the members of the House, but I know that I cannot sit idly by here and watch such attacks go by unchallenged.

Number 1, I know Reverend Ischie very well. A finer gentleman will not be found anywhere in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Since when does a member of the cloth not have a right to express an opinion on a piece of legislation which is before this House? Is Mr. Ewing to be condemned because he sent to each member of this House a letter saying that this bill is unfair and we should not have it on our statute books? Is Reverend Ischie's crime any greater than Mr. Ewing's, if it is a crime?

Reverend Ischie is a devoted, dedicated member of the cloth who has done a tremendous job in the city of Philadelphia. He is presently engaged in a co-partnership with a colored member of the cloth in running an employment agency and has successfully placed hundreds and hundreds of young people, who otherwise might be running the streets as delinquents, in gainful employment. These are the activities to which Reverend Ischie directs his energies and attention. It hardly becomes any member of this House who does not know Reverend Ischie to make the kind of attack which has been made.

Be that as it may, and Reverend Ischie does not need defending by me, I want to get to the heart of this bill. My friend from Tioga says, along with his other quotes, that we are selling our souls, that the real issue is Sunday drinking. Never was there a greater misstatement of fact than that statement. The issue here is not Sunday drinking. That issue has already been decided not only by this House, but by the legislature in the 1959 session. We have decided that point.

What we have to decide today is whether or not we are going to put an effective bar in the paths of the people of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia to enable them to decide for themselves whether or not they want the right to vend alcoholic beverages on a Sunday between the hours of 1 p. m., and 10 p. m. This is the sole issue. We are not engaged in a contest as to how many votes or how many petitions or how many names on the petitions we should secure.

The sole question before us today is: do we want to give the people of these two communities an opportunity to decide for themselves. No one can attack the propriety of a referendum. No one can take issue with the right of the people to be heard and it should not be our job to stifle their voices. Putting it on the ballot is no guarantee that this is going to pass and become law. This is a matter that the people themselves will decide. At least we should give them the opportunity to hear them out, to let them decide for themselves.

It strikes me that the requirement of 25 percent is unrealistic. It is more than fair; it is by no reason reasonable. Just look what happened this last year. In November of 1960, during the Presidential election, a total of 915,000 votes were cast in the city of Philadelphia for the office of the presidency. Under the provisions of the act as it is on our statute books today, if we have to get 25 percent of those who voted in that November election, we would have to get approximately 230,000 signatures. The first legal date to get those signatures is February 21. The last day for submitting these signatures is March 16. That is a total of 23 days in which we are supposed to get 230,000 signatures, or an average of 10,000 signatures per day. This by no stretch of the imagination can be called reasonable. It is too restrictive, too onerous, too much of a burden to effectively be able to place before the people of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh the right to decide for themselves whether or not they can sell liquor on Sundays.

So, I repeat, the issue is not shall we sell liquor on Sundays. This issue has been decided. The issue is shall we effectively deprive the people of these two communities from the right to express for themselves whether or not they want to be able to sell liquor.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to debate this bill, but I do want to take issue with the remarks made by my good friend and colleague, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman when he speaks about time to get signatures on a petition. There is no reason why the bill could not have been amended to make it at a general election and they would have had all year to get signatures on a petition. So I think that argument tends to fall a little flat. They could have drawn the bill and had all the time in the world to get all the signatures they wanted, or could have gotten, possibly, on such a referendum. You know there are always two elections in the State, the primary and the general, and we realized that in the mutuel betting bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Fineman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FINEMAN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, assuming that this bill passes and becomes law, and assuming that the electors of the city of Pittsburgh or the county of Philadelphia approve a referendum, and four years hence if the "drys," we will say, would want to hold another referendum, what would be the procedure?

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I see nothing in the bill that would prevent or restrict 25,000 registered electors of either of the two communities not oftener than once in four years, to petition for a referendum.

Mr. ISAACS. Under this same bill, if it becomes an act?

Mr. FINEMAN. Yes.

Mr. ISAACS. Will the bentleman say that is the intent of this bill and the intent of this House if this bill passes?

Mr. FINEMAN. That is the way I read the bill and that is the intent expressed therein.

Mr. ISAACS. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Henzel,	Odorisio,	Willard,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, since we are at 6 o'clock, the minority leader and I have discussed not holding our caucuses tonight, but we will caucus immediately following the joint session tomorrow. Therefore, to our membership I say, there will be no caucus tonight, but when we convene tomorrow at 10 a. m. for the joint session, and at 11:30 a.m. there will be a caucus to go over the calendar. We will vote on the bills on the calendar, all the controversial measures, tomorrow.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. SCHAAF asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

ALLEGHENY COUNTY DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS

Mr. KAMYK. Mr. Speaker, the Allegheny County Democratic delegation will hold a meeting immediately after the session in the new House caucus room.

INTERROGATION

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate, very briefly, the majority leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The minority leader will proceed.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate in full particulars the majority leader in respect to Senate bill No. 53. I assume that the gentleman intends to roll the bill tomorrow; is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. That is correct, sir.

Mr. AGNEW. It is our understanding that instructions have been issued by the executive that no amendments are to be given favorable consideration. Are we to understand that is the policy of the majority

Mr. McCANN. No such instructions have been given to me. If the gentleman has received them, I did not.

Mr. AGNEW. Of course, we have an absolute right to introduce any amendments and the members on your side of the aisle will be free to vote their own convictions.

Mr. McCANN. That is absolutely correct, and, if the gentleman has such amendments to be offered, under our House rule they may be offered tomorrow.

Mr. AGNEW. We heard that in the nature of a rumor, and I think it is always best to put these things on the floor of the House and have them discussed and answered openly, rather than have them become general scuttlebutt.

I have one more question: There is on the part of those who oppose Senate bill No. 53 an objection on economic grounds that passage of this bill in their opinion will adversely affect the economy of Pennsylvania. There are those who support the bill and who are somewhat disturbed by the fact that this may be a true allegation. Would the majority consider holding action on this bill until next week so that public hearings on this economic question only can be held to determine whether or not there may be an adverse economic effect if this bill should become law?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I was asked by this same group and the same people if I would consent to a public hearing on Senate bill 53, and my answer to the delegation was that I am not in a position to consent to a public hearing on Senate bill 53, but I certainly hope and I am sure that the membership of this House will present the testimony or arguments they wish to present in the debate on the bill tomorrow.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I am not advancing the position of the Republican Party when I make such an interrogation, it just seems that if such an averment on the part of those who opposed the bill should be true, then it certainly ought to be considered at some length and not merely by debate on the floor of the House. It would be the position of the minority that such public hearings should be held to determine whether or not an adverse economic situation may develop. It is a realistic fact of legislative life that the majority calls the signals, and, if the majority insists on voting on the bill tomorrow, we shall be here and we shall vote our individual convictions.

In respect to the usual caucus, Mr. Speaker, I believe, as the majority leader indicated, after the Lincoln Day observance tomorrow each party will hold its regular weekly caucus; is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. That is correct.

Mr. AGNEW. That will be at approximately 11:30?

Mr. McCANN. Right.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to state to the membership of this House, tomorrow in the joint session the WGAL-TV cameras will be here and the program is being made into a film of this joint session, which will be distributed all over the State to television stations after it is edited. In addition there will be tremendous coverage tomorrow by other cameras for shots of this occasion commemorating President Abraham Lincoln's visit to this Capitol 100 years ago. I advise you that tomorrow the session convenes at 10 a.m., and the joint session will begin promptly at 10:30. It will be over by approximately 11:30 and then the two caucuses will be held. There are a few of us, including the Speaker, Mr. Agnew and myself, who will ask leave for a few minutes so we can change our clothes, and then we will proceed.

I know that many have a planned timetable for Tuesday. There will not be any break for lunch. We will proceed right through with a heavy calendar. Please bring your own sandwich, because the sooner we get done, the sooner you can get home. The following week we will have a three-day session.

HOUSE NOTIFIES SENATE IT IS READY TO CONVENE IN JOINT SESSION TO COMMEMORATE AND RE-ENACT THE VISIT OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN TO HARRISBURG

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Sergeant-at-Arms.

The SERGEANT-AT ARMS. Mr. President, I have the honor to present a committee from the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Sergeant-at-Arms will bring the committee forward.

The SERGEANT-AT-ARMS. Mr. President, I present the Chairman of the Committee, the Honorable Joshua Eilberg.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the Chairman of the Committee from the House.

Mr. EILBERG. Mr. President, we are a committee of the House, appointed to inform the Senate that the House is ready to receive the Members of the Senate in a Joint Session and to escort the Senators to the Hall of the House.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair thanks the Committee from the House.

RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Members of the Senate will please form a line in the center aisle, immediately behind the Sergeant-at-Arms and the House Committee, in order that we may proceed to the Joint Session.

The Chair now declares a recess of the Senate for thirty minutes.

SENATE RETURNS FROM THE HOUSE

The Presiding Officer and Members of the Senate then returned to the Senate Chamber.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair will exercise a personal privilege. I think you would like for me to say, in an uncontroversial manner, that we are indebted to Senator Stiefel and the other gentlemen who furnished the leadership for the portrayal of Abraham Lincoln's visit to the General Assembly, which we just had the opportunity to observe. I think the Members of the Senate, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, are indebted to this committee for the fine commemoration of this significant event.

However, I must add one other note. The Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, at that time, was Centre County's most distinguished citizen in all the history of Centre County. He was a fine Republican Governor of Pennsylvania. However, some time between this date and 1881, he saw a great light and, in 1881, he served for three terms in the House of Representatives, from the Centre County District, as a Member of the Democratic Party.

Messers. MURRAY and FLACK presented to the chair SB 269, entitled:

CALENDAR

BILL ON CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE AMENDMENTS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do concur in the amendments made by the House to Senate Bill No. 28.

Mr. RIPP. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, very briefly, I want to state my unalterable opposition to this legislation in any manner, shape or form. I realize that this amendment is about to be agreed upon by the Senate. However, I would like to caution the Members of the Senate and the Members of the General Assembly, generally, about the procedure which has been used in getting this bill ready for action. I certainly realize, Mr. President, that no Member of one house should criticize the actions of another. Yet, I feel impelled upon to call to the attention of the Membership the fact that this bill, as amended, was in print and three minutes after the bill was approved in the House, the printed copy of the bill was passed around to the Members. We all recognize this is an absolutely impossible task for the printer to perform.

The only thing I have to say to you, Mr. President, Members of the Senate and to the Members of the General Assembly, generally, is that we are embarking on a bad course of action when we permit procedure that tears down the orderly processes of the Legislature. This is the last protection of the people of Pensylvania against undesirable legislation, whether it be this or any other bill. I would, therefore, caution the Members on both sides of the Senate and House to go slowly on this type of procedure in the future.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think the only thing which we, as Members of this Body, have to be concerned about is our own conduct. I do not know whether what the gentleman said is absolutely true or not. I have no way of determining that. However, I would believe that what he told us is true. I think, however, the only thing about which we should be concerned is our own conduct and what we are doing here.

The only problem we have in this matter is whether the legislation before us is good or bad and not whether the bill has been printed, not printed, read or not read. Suppose the bill were read eighteen times and it was bad legislation. It still would remain bad legislation whether that was adhered to or not.

I am in favor of adhereing to the constitutional precepts. As indicated by our conduct here many times, we follow the rules and regulations laid down by our own Bodies. What others might choose to do is not for us to look into. We might be critical of thier actions, but I think there are competent men on both sides of the aisle to handle that particular problem.

I again move that the Senate do concur in Senate Bill No. 28, Printer's No. 235.

And the question recurring,

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

HB 3, 4 and 5—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

SB 20—Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 20 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Senator Lane.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman why this bill is being continually passed over. It is a very simple bill. All it does is provide one additional judge in the county of Bucks, and I see no reason why we do not bring it up for a vote.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, in reply to the gentleman's interrogation, the Caucus action is to hold this bill at this particular time. As a matter of fact, I think we will probably pass it next week. However, as of now, our Caucus action is to hold the bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, to further elaborate on what the gentleman from Washington County has just said, there are a number of other counties that also need judges. Some of the Members on both sides of the aisle have spoken to me and other Senators here, and also have spoken to Members of the House. We would like to do this all at one time if we can,—sort of a judge omnibus bill, if we can possibly do that—so they can all travel the same highway.

We do need a few more judges down in Philadelphia. I know that some of the other counties have spoken to us about needing judges. I am sure that we will not delay this matter, but nothing can happen on this until we finally work on it.

I appreciate the gentleman bringing it to our attention. We promise to get some prompt action on it. That is why it was put on the Calendar.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I thank both of the gentlemen for their explanations. However, I would certainly have to make this comment to Senator Weiner. Unquestionably and undeniably, there is need for a new judge in Bucks County. I do not question the fact that there is need for other judges in other counties. I would like to draw to the gentleman's attention that if we make an omnibus bill from this one bill which clearly can stand on its own feet, we may jeopardize its passage, or, if it does pass, we may jeopardize its signing at the last.

Mr, McMENAMIN. Mr. President, in answer to Mr. Fleming, I think he is correct. This bill is different from other judge bills in that Bucks County, as I understand it, has just become a third class county and is entitled to an Orphan's Court Judge. This bill will certainly have to be passed as promptly as possible so that if there is to be an election this year, they can get pettitions and the names on the ballot because today is the first day for circulating petitions.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I do not believe anyone should be unduly alarmed about this. Eventually, they are going to receive the judge. There is no question about it. It is just a matter of timing, and in all probability we will be ready next week.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I could not help but make this comment. The speech that impressed me most was Senator McMenamin's, and I can only ask that he try to influence his Caucus along that line.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

SB 73—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. HALUSKA.

BILL ON SECOND READING AMENDED

SB 84—The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. STEVENSON offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 3, line 12, by inserting after "class" where it appears the third time: "and in any political subdivision within a county where no market value of real estate have been determined by the board for the assessment and revision of taxes or any similar board".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 3, line 16, by inserting after "district": "or other political subdivision".

They were agreed to.

The section was agreed to as amended.

The second section and title were read and agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to as amended,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

O God, in the light of the rich heritage which is ours, and the challenging opportunities and responsibilities which come to us, we look to Thee in the awareness of the heavy weight of obligation which we face. This Commonwealth not only served as the Keystone in the original colonies, furnished leaders in the early days of the Revolution, but also has continued to make her strength known in the ongoing success of these United States of America. Heavenly Father, so inspire these servants of Thine that their efforts may be coupled with those of other loyal Americans to the resolve that this nation may long endure. In Thy dear name, we pray. Amen.

JOINT SESSION OF THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR JOHN MORGAN DAVIS PRESIDING

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. The General Assembly will be at ease while it awaits the arrival of His Excellency, the Governor, and the committee escorting the President-elect of the United States, Abraham Lincoln.

The Chair recognizes the chairman of the committee to escort the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Stiefel. Will you come forward, Senator.

SENATOR STIEFEL. It is my privilege and honor to introduce to you His Excellency, Governor Curtin, the Speaker of the Senate, Mr. Palmer, the Speaker of the House, Mr. Davis.

Your Excellency, President-elect Lincoln, Your Excellency, Governor Curtin, Speaker Palmer, Speaker Davis, Members of the Cabinet, and distinguished guests.

Today is a momentous occasion in the history of our Commonwealth. President-elect Lincoln has accepted the invitation extended to him by the Senate and the House of the General Assembly of Pennsylvania to visit us today. Governor Curtin and the General Assembly already have made their position known on the issue of union as opposed to secession. Mr. Lincoln, Pennsylvania is and always will be the supporter of the Union which was born on our soil with the Declaration of Independence at Philadelphia in 1776, and the Constitutional Convention in the same city in 1787.

Mr. Lincoln, I present to you the members of the General Assembly, members of the Cabinet of Governor Curtin, and the distinguished guests present here today. Speaker Palmer will extend to you the special greetings of the Senate of Pennsylvania, and Speaker Davis, those of the House.

HONORABLE JOHN MORGAN DAVIS (SPEAKER PALMER).

In behalf of the Senate of Pennsylvania, Honored Sir, I welcome you to the Capitol of our State.

"We deem it a peculiar privilege and a happy omen, that while on your way to assume the duties of the high office to which you have been called, at this momentous period in our national history, we are honored indeed, Sir, by your presence at our seat of government, on this anniversary of the birthday of the Father of our Country.

"The people of Pennsylvania, upon whom rests so large a share of the responsibility for your nomination and election to the Presidency, appreciate the magnitude of the task before you, and are fully prepared to sustain your administration of the government, according to the Constitution and the laws.

"Whatever differences of opinion existed previous to the election, as to the political questions involved in the canvass, our citizens are a law-abiding, Constitution and Union-loving people, and there is no difference among them as to your right to claim, and their duty to render, such support.

"Accordingly, here today are assembled men of all parties and of every shade of political opinion, to welcome and to honor you as the constitutionally chosen President of the United States.

"Nor have we observed with indifference the recent public expression of your views on a subject closely affecting the material interests of Pennsylvania.

"It is universally admitted by our people that it is not only the right, but the duty of the General Government, while providing revenue for its support, by means of a tariff, to so regulate the duties on imports as to afford adequate protection to all the industrial interests of the country. It has, therefore, afforded them profound satisfaction, that you have been known recently, to declare that this is also your view of the true policy of the government.

"Deeply impressed with the honor of your visit at this interesting time—proud of the presence among us of him whom the people have so recently elevated to the chair of Washington, and to whom they have so largely confided their highest interest—hopeful of the beneficient results of wise and just measures, which we trust and believe will signalize your administration, and soon restore harmony and prosperity to our country, I again, in the name and in behalf of the Senate, bid you a cordial welcome to our Capitol."

It is now my pleasure to turn the gavel over to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Hiram G. Andrews, who will offer the lines stated so well February 22, 1861, by the then Speaker of the House, Elisha W. Davis.

HONORABLE HIRAM G. ANDREWS (SPEAKER ELISHA W. DAVIS).

"Respected Sir:

"It becomes my duty—and certainly it is a pleasant one—to welcome you in behalf of the members of the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, and to express to you their pleasure in meeting you in this hall.

"We are proud and gratified to meet you, and bid you welcome in the name of Pennsylvania, as the President-elect of the United States.

"This is not the time nor the occasion for making a formal address to you. The people are here to see, and, if possible, hear you speak, in whose ability and integrity they have placed their hopes, and who is soon to preside over the destinies of our great Nation.

"Pennsylvania contributed as much to your election, to your present exalted though arduous position, as any other State in the Union, and although her voice has always been for peace, and 'her flood waters fields unbought with blood,' yet I believe I speak the sentiments of her entire people, when I say she is willing to pledge her resources—men and money—to maintain the Constitution, sustain the government, and enforce the laws.

"Permit me again to bid you welcome in the name of the representatives of the people of Pennsylvania.

"Amidst the gloom that now hangs over our beloved country—when designing men are endeavoring to disturb the only sure safeguard of our liberties, the Union, we meet you, sir, with an abiding faith in the wisdom and justice of Providence, and a firm reliance on your patriotism, prudence and ability to save the Nation from the present impending danger.

"We deeply feel the responsibilities of the present hour, and the importance of moderation and firmness.

"There is no disguising the fact, that the ship of state is drifting in a dangerous and unknown sea.

"But we have every confidence in the steady hand and true heart of the pilot of our choice.

"We have full confidence in the rectitude of your intentions, and the purity of your purposes; and our ardent prayer is now, and will be, for the success of your Administration, and the maintenance of the Constitution and the Union.

"It is now my privilege and great honor to present to you the man who will, in the succeeding troubled years, guide, and we trust, sustain and maintain our Union. I present the President-elect of the United States."

Mr. OTIS B. MORSE, IV (PRESIDENT-ELECT LINCOLN).

"Mr. Speaker of the Senate and also Mr. Speaker of the House of Representatives, and gentlemen of the General Assembly of the State of Pennsylvania:—I appear before you only for a very few brief remarks in response to what has been said to me.

"I thank you most sincerely for this reception, and the generous words in which support has been promised me upon this occasion. I thank your great Commonwealth for the overwhelming support it recently gave—not me personally—but the cause which I think a just one, in the late election.

"Allusion has been made to the fact—the interesting fact perhaps we should say—that I for the first time appear at the Capitol of the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, upon the birthday of the father of his Country. In connection with that beloved anniversary connected with the history of this Country, I have already gone through one exceedingly interesting scene this morning in the ceremonies at Philadelphia. Under the kind conduct of gentlemen there, I was for the first time allowed the privilege of standing in old Independence Hall, to have a few words addressed to me there, and opening up to me an opportunity of expressing, with much regret, that I had not more time to express something of my own feelings excited by the occasion—somewhat to harmonize and give shape to the feelings that had been really the feelings of my whole life.

"Besides this, our friends there had provided a magnificent flag of the Country. They had arranged it so that I was given the honor of raising it to the head of its staff, and when it went up, I was pleased to know that it went to its place by the strength of my own feeble arm. When, according to the arrangement, the cord was pulled and it flaunted gloriously to the wind without an accident, in the light glowing sunshine of the morning, I could not help hoping that there was in the entire success of that beautiful ceremony, at least something of an omen of what is to come. Nor could I help, feeling then as I often have felt, that in the whole of that proceeding I was a very humble instrument. I had not provided the flag; I had not made the arrangement for elevating it to its place; I had applied but a very small portion of even my feeble strength in raising it. In the whole transaction, I was in the hands of the people who had arranged it, and if I can have the same generous co-operation of the people of this Nation, I think the flag of our Country may yet be kept flaunting gloriously.

"I recur for a moment but to repeat some words uttered at the hotel, in regard to what has been said about the military support which the general government may expect from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in a proper emergency. To guard against any possible mistake do I recur to this. It is not with any pleasure that I contemplate the possibility that a necessity may arise in this Country for the use of the military arm.

"While I am exceedingly gratified to see the manifestation upon your streets of your military forces here, and exceedingly gratified at your promise here to use that force upon a proper emergency, while I make these acknowledgments, I desire to repeat in order to preclude any possible misconstruction, that I do most sincerely hope that we shall have no use for them—that it will never become their duty to shed blood, and most especially never to shed fraternal blood. I promise that, (in so far as I may have wisdom to direct), if so painful a result shall in any wise be brought about, it shall be through no fault of mine.

"Allusion has also been made, by one of your honored speakers, to some remarks recently made by myself at Pittsburgh, in regard to what is supposed to be the especial interest of this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I now wish only to say, in regard to that matter, that the few remarks which I uttered on that occasion were rather carefully worded. I took pains that they should be so. I have seen no occasion since to add to them or subtract from them. I leave them precisely as they stand; adding only now that I am pleased to have an expression from you, Gentlemen of Pennsylvania, significant that they are satisfactory to you.

"And now, Gentlemen of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, allow me again to return to you my most sincere thanks."

HONORABLE JOHN MORGAN DAVIS (SPEAKER PALMER).

"Mr. Lincoln, I can only repeat to you the assurances you have received here today and earlier. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pledges its full faith and power to the support of the Federal Union. It deplores the effort to break down that Union through the secession of any state or any group of states. We are delighted that you have found these assurances gratifying. We wish you God speed as you proceed to Washington to assume the office and the burdens which await you. We trust that the evidence of support which we have pledged to you and to the cause of Federal Union will hearten and strengthen you in the days ahead.

In the General Assembly in Joint Session
February 21, 1961

This is indeed no newly established anniversary that we celebrate here today, but the revival of one that has become the pride and joy of the American people. In the renewal of this anniversary we can renew our faith in the American way of life, renew our faith in our government, our institutions, our social and religious freedoms.

It was in this State that liberty was born for these United States of America; here the Independence Bell rang out the glad tidings to the entire world; here was signed the Declaration of Independence; here our Federal Coustitution was drafted, and George Washington was part and parcel of it all. George Washington has become very much a part of this great Commonwealth.

And here today assembled under the flag of our country we do honor to this great American who was first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen; therefore be it

Resolved (by the General Assembly in Joint Session), That the General Assembly this day commemorate the memory of George Washington; that we commend the study of his life to every man, woman and child under our flag and give thanks for the many blessings we enjoy today due to this great man.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. Gentlemen, you have all heard the reading of the resolution.

All those in favor of the resolution will please say "aye."

I am almost inclined to say that I do not have to ask for noes. Are there any opposed?

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. LUTTY asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Cities—Counties Second Class and Second Class A to meet during the session of the House.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I was told I was going to be recognized—this is not entirely on my own initiative, —for the purpose of interrogating the majority leader in respect to the forthcoming caucus, the reasons for it, the fact that it will run over the lunch hour, and whether we will make arrangements for lunch or not. The members will want to take 15 minutes to half an hour to get something to eat between now and the time we come back.

May I suggest to the majority leader that we caucus now for an hour and a half, which would take us approximately to one o'clock, give the members a half hour to get something to eat at that time, and reconvene at one-thirty.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the minority leader's suggestion would be a caucus from approximately 11:30 to 12:30, lunch from 12:30 to 1, reconvening the House at 1 o'clock, is that right?

Mr. AGNEW. No, the caucus to run to 1 o'clock reconvening at 1:30. If you think we can do it in an hour, we will try, but we have not caucused at all on Senate bill 53.

Mr. McCANN. Well, Mr. Speaker, we will have to agree then on the time schedule. What time will the membership return to the House?

Mr. AGNEW. Promptly at 1:30.

Mr. McCANN. One-thirty. Mr. Speaker, I will ask the Democratic members to proceed at the recess to the caucus room to caucus first, and then, since you are going to get a bite of lunch, to return here so we can complete the business in the caucus, have a bite of lunch, and return to the floor of the House promptly at 1:30.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. At the suggestion of the respective floor leaders, the Chair declares a recess until 1:30.

AFTER RECESS

The time of recess having expired, the House was called to order.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Messrs. ZIMMERMAN, McCANDLESS, GEORGE and HOLMAN.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 30.

In the House of Representatives, February 20, 1961.

The Pennsylvania dairy industry, the major agricultural enterprise of the Commonwealth, is concerned with the increasing volume of out-of-state milk coming into the State.

It is believed that some of the out-of-state milk is being used to replace Class I Pennsylvania produced milk. Out-of-state milk utilized in this method is called distressed milk; that is, surplus milk that can be purchased at a price considerably less than Class I Pennsylvania produced milk.

It is believed that some Pennsylvania Milk dealers are purchasing distressed milk at surplus and/or manufacturing prices and are selling this milk as Class I to the consumer.

Such practices are harmful to Pennsylvania dairymen and provide a wider profit for milk dealers; therefore be it

Resolved (The Senate concurring), That the Pennsylvania Department of Justice is requested to investigate the above situation to determine a feasible solution; and be it further

Resolved, That the Pennsylvania Department of Justice is requested to make a report of its findings and recommendations to this Session of the General Assembly as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 5 of today's calendar, bill on third reading, Senate bill No. 53.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 53, entitled:

An Act amending the act of October 27, 1955 (P. L. 744) entitled "An act prohibiting certain practices of discrimination because of race color religious creed ancestry age or national origin by employers employment agencies labor organizations and others as herein defined creating the Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practice Commission in the Department of Labor and Industry defining its functions powers and duties providing for procedure and enforcement providing for formulation of an educational program to prevent prejudice providing for judicial review and enforcement and imposing penalties" prohibiting discrimination in the selling leasing or financing of commercial housing and discrimination in places of public accommodation resort or amusement because of race color religious ancestry or national origin changing the name of the Pennsylvania Fair Employment Practice Commission to the Pennsylvania Human Relations Commission and qualifying the scope of the act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. TOMPKINS asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 10), page 21, line 14, by inserting after "thereof": "the penalty for which shall not exceed a fine of one hundred dollars ($100), and upon default in the payment thereof, such penalty shall be imprisonment not exceeding thirty days."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the bill as written provides that any failure to obey any order of court makes it punishable by said court as a contempt thereof. There are no limitations upon what the court could impose upon a person under this bill as now written. The fine would be unlimited and the term of imprisonment would be unlimited.

What the amendments that I have offered will do is to limit the courts in the imposition of any penalty under the contempt to a fine not exceeding $100 and, in default of payment of the fine, jail not exceeding 30 days.

We feel this is reasonable under any circumstances. We do not believe that the local law under the limited authority should be left in the hands of the court or anybody else in this or any other kind of a matter.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the passage of this amendment.

The bill, Senate bill 53, as written, has one penalty clause in it and that, Mr. Speaker, is that anyone who, after having been investigated by the commission, after a finding of fact by the commission, after a ruling by the commission, and after an appeal of that ruling to the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, and after a hearing de novo, the entire body of evidence by the court, may then be held in contempt of that court.

Mr. Speaker, the proposed amendment would, in my opinion, so weaken this measure as to make it ineffective and ineffectual. It would permit the biased and prejudiced builders, if such actually exist in this Commonwealth, to merely add the $100 fine to the total price of whatever building he is building, and then go ahead and discriminate. This would, in my opinion, be a license for discrimination rather than a prohibition against it and I ask that the membership vote against this proposed amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. TOMPKINS and AGNEW and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

Mr. TOMPKINS offered the following amendments:

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "act": "and granting common pleas courts of counties in which the alleged offenses were committed, jurisdiction to enforce commission orders or give other appropriate relief."

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 10), page 20, line 14, by inserting a bracket before "Dauphin."

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 10), page 20, line 14, by striking out the bracket before "Such."

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 10), page 20, line 14, by inserting after "proceeding]": "the county in which the alleged offense was committed."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, on page 18 of the bill, in case of a complaint being filed and a hearing being held before the commission, the bill provides that the place of any such hearing shall be in the county in which the alleged offense was committed. However, when they come to enforce an order of the commission, rather than doing it before the courts of the county where the alleged offense was committed and where the hearing was held, they bring the matter into the Dauphin County court.

My amendments provide that rather than the enforcement being in the Dauphin County court that the enforcement be in the local courts in the county in which the offense was committed. This is for the purpose of keeping people from having to come from all over the State of Pennsylvania on offenses of this kind, into Dauphin County which, on many occasions, because of excessive cost of having to do so, would compel them to abide by the orders of the commission because they cannot finance the defense of themselves.

I might well parallel this by saying that we fought a Revolutionary War to keep our people from being taken to England to be tried for a lot of minor offenses which occurred in the Colonies. I do not know why we should take away from the people the privilege of going to the courts in the county in which the offense is committed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the proposed amendments.

If this bill is enacted into law, it will be an amendment to the act authorizing the already existing Fair Employment Practices Commission, which commission has been in existence for a number of years in this Commonwealth, and the language which is included in this particular bill is old language, not new. We have for a number of years had the enforcement of the commission's orders in the hands of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County. I have inquired of the commission and I have found no record of anyone complaining about the expenses, I have found no record of anyone complaining about the expense, Mr. Speaker, of defending themselves in the Dauphin County court, for the simple reason that this has never been brought to the Dauphin County court. It is common practice, I understand from men who have served in this House for many more years than I, that when a state agency is involved the enforcement of that state agency's findings of fact and rulings be placed in the hands of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County. This common procedure is one which we desire to follow as it has been followed in these past years in this Commonwealth, and I therefore ask the membership to vote "no" on this proposed amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

Mr. TOMPKINS offered the following amendments:

Amend Title, page 2, last line of Title, by inserting after "act": "and requiring complainants to appear before commission hearings."

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 9), page 18, line 17, by inserting a bracket before and after "may" and inserting immediately thereafter: "shall."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, on page 18 of the bill it says, "The complainant may likewise appear at such hearing in person or otherwise with or without counsel and submit testimony."

This amendment provides that the complainant shall appear at any such hearing. Now, it is fundamental in law, and certainly I do not think any person in this House would care to be brought into court without being faced by the person who has made the complaint against him and given the right of cross-examination to find out the background and basis for the complaint. The Constitution guarantees a person that right and I say to you this amendment should prevail and should be passed to compel the attendance of a complainant. Anybody who can file a charge and stir up a lot of trouble for a person certainly should be compelled to come to a hearing and substantiate those charges.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose the proposed amendment and I ask the indulgence of the Speaker to read a section of the bill which was not read by the proposer of the amendment. I am now reading line 13 on page 18:

"The case in support of the complaint shall be presented before the Commission by one of its attorneys or agents. The respondent may file a written verified answer to the complaint and appear at such hearing in person or otherwise with or without counsel and submit testimony. The complaint may likewise appear."

I read this section, Mr. Speaker, for the information of the House to point out to the House that neither the respondent nor the complainant are forced to appear at these hearings before the commission. They may appear if they personally wish. They may appear with their attorneys or they may appear with their attorney only. The commission itself, of course, holding the hearing would have its agent present. I am quite certain that with the protective envelopment of the court of common pleas as the court of final resort, in which, of course, the respondent, if he wished, could face the complainant, the respondent's constitutional rights are adequately protected. Consequently, I ask for a "no" vote on this amendment.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman states that neither the complainant nor the respondent are compelled to appear at this hearing. I agree with you that is in the procedure today and that it is in the law and the Constitution, that a respondent is not compelled to appear in proceedings if he does not see fit, particularly in an equity proceeding such as this is supposed to be, and upon failure to appear they can take judgment by default.

I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny County, if I may.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. IRVIS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I should like to ask the gentleman if he can cite to me any other instance in the law where the court is permitted to make an order or to try a case without the appearance of the complainant in court to give his testimony in connection with the complaint, particularly in a criminal case or a quasi-criminal case such as this would be.

Mr. IRVIS. I would like to answer the question in this manner, Mr. Speaker:

This bill does not permit the court to make a ruling in the absence of the complainant or the absence of the respondent. This bill merely permits a hearing before a commission which is not a court, in the absence of the physical presence of the complainant.

I think I might point out to the questioner, Mr. Speaker, that preliminary injunctions are frequently issued by courts merely on the complainants say-so in the absence of the respondent. The respondent may go in—and I believe the gentleman knows it to be the truth—later and appear before the court, but a preliminary injunction may be issued in his absence, and this simply follows the equity procedure in this Commonwealth.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the fact of the matter still remains that in the example which the gentleman has cited the complainant, at least, still must appear. Where you have a hearing of any kind, whether before a commission or before a court, I certainly think a person being charged with an offense of some kind should be entitled to be faced by his accuser.

Mr. IRVIS. I do not understand that to be a question, Mr. Speaker, but if it is intended to be a question, then I would say this in reply, that the complainant and the respondent would face each other, if necessary, in the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County where the right of full cross—examination would be given. The commission is not a court and the commission is not obliged to follow the rules of evidence of court. This is, we believe, a device to make it easier for the commission to make its investigation.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the courts of Dauphin County merely take up the enforcement processes; they do not take up anything in connection with the hearing on the matter or the findings of fact.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Has the gentleman completed his interrogation or is he asking a question?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I am merely calling that matter to his attention because the courts, as far as I can read the provisions of this bill, have no right to hold any hearing de novo, although the truth is the record is sent up on it to the courts, where they pass upon the record which is taken before the commission.

Mr. IRVIS. I do not understand that to be a question, Mr. Speaker. Therefore, I shall not attempt to answer it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That is right. I am merely calling these matters to the attention of the gentleman from Allegheny to point up the fact that you are having a hearing here upon which you are going to make findings of fact without compelling the complainant to appear at these hearings.

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, throughout the bill, the respondent in case of proceedings being taken under this act is entitled to act either on his own behalf or through an attorney.

On page 21 of the bill it reads, "The Commission's copy of the testimony shall be available at all reasonable times to all parties for examination—". In here they do not give the party's attorney the right to examine the record. This, I think, is something to which, fundamentally, any party is entitled; to have their attorney represent them and if necessary to look at the record in the hands of the commission. I think, by all means, and I think the Supreme Court of the United States has said, that a person is entitled to be represented by counsel. For that reason I am offering these amendments for this particular section of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, desire to be recognized?

Mr. IRVIS. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to assure the House that it is not my intention to debate every single amendment which is offered here this afternoon, and I hope I will be permitted to simply let the House vote "aye" or "nay" on this one.

This amendment, I confess, Mr. Speaker, has me confused. It was my impression, and it is the impression of every other attorney with whom I have spoken, that an attorney always has the right, as long as he is given the right to represent a party, to see any papers which the party may see. I do not know if the amendment is necessary. If I represent Mr. X and Mr. X has the right to look at certain papers, then I have the right to look at those papers for Mr. X. Mr. X can certainly give me authority to look at those papers for him. I find the amendment completely unnecessary.

For that reason I ask the House to vote "nay" on it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, it is just as non-understandable to me that you mention the party or his attorney throughout this bill, but in this particular instance you leave out the word "attorney." You confine it exclusively to the party himself. If the amendment does not make any particular difference, then what is wrong with putting it in the bill to see that the party is properly protected, rather than to leave an open gap there where "can properly" may be improperly used at sometime by the commission and deny the party's attorney the right to see these things. I see nothing wrong in clarifying legislation so there cannot be any mistake as to what is meant by the legislation.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I suppose we might write into this bill half a thousand new words for clarification. A lawyer seems to be particularly addicted to words—the more words we have the happier we are—and it might be so we can confuse our clients when they need our services.

I do not see the necessity for holding up the vote on this bill so we can insert these words, that is all. I can see where nobody is hurt; I do not see where anybody is denied any constitutional rights, and simply to hold up the vote on this bill so we may insert these words, "all lawyers," that I assume now to be the fact, is, I believe, unnecessary and uncalled for.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, as an attorney, undoubtedly knows that. I, as an attorney, undoubtedly know that, but, when I read a bill where a section is specifically spelled out and then we come to a section where it is left out, I wonder if under the Statutory Construction Act the courts might not be allowed to interpret that it denies the right of the attorney to inspect these records.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I have a great deal of respect for the learned gentleman's ability and his knowledge of the law, and I know as I stand here, as he knows, that what I am stating is a fact. Under the Statutory Construction Act in Pennsylvania it is a rule that the courts shall construe language in its customary, everyday meaning. If ordinary, everyday meaning is quite clear in this bill, then I can see, again, no real objection to the omission of the words, "or their attorneys." I may point out, Mr. Speaker, to the members of the House that I thank the gentleman for saying he was sure I knew the meaning of this language and that all other lawyers would know the meaning of it. I point out, Mr. Speaker, that it would be a court of law that would interpret this language and courts of law are notably made up of lawyers. All lawyers will agree, I think, on this interpretation of the language: that where a party has the right to see certain papers, his attorney has the same right.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to belabor the point, but if this respondent in theory would like to have some papers looked at before the commission in Harrisburg, I certainly think the attorney should have the right.

When I mentioned the Statutory Construction Act, I mentioned it for this purpose: That under it the word "attorney" is being mentioned every place else in this bill. To be omitted in this particular section here the courts would be entitled to interpret that it was deliberately intended that the attorneys should be denied that right because if we did intend to give them that right, then the question—you have heard the expression so often—the legislature's version should have said so.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I think we have belabored the point sufficiently, and I would like to have the roll call.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, desire to be recognized?

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Arvis, and the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, have made a lot of to-do about the fact that attorneys understand these amendments. I feel that at the present time it is very unfair that Mr. Tompkins did not introduce these amendments some time ago.

When the reading clerk reads these amendments, it is very fast; it is very hard to try to see what is in these amendments. Some of these amendments I have not heard about until just now. This is a very, very important bill. I intend to vote for this bill. I want to see a good bill and I see it. But the way we have been going on in this session and the last session, and sessions I have been down here, we are not giving due consideration to legislation of this importance. We come in here and we do not know, half of the time, what is in these bills. I feel that Mr. Tompkins could do a great service to the people had he presented these amendments a couple of days ago. Let us read them. I feel that perhaps we could agree with all of them. I voted for two of the amendments because I find that in summation they are reasonable. Perhaps if we had more time we could put a better defense on. I feel that in the future when we have bills of this kind, these amendments should be given a little bit of consideration and a little bit of time.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I merely want to call to the attention of the gentleman from Allegheny that copies of all these amendments were submitted to the majority leader prior to the time of their caucus. It was my understanding that he wanted them for the purpose of reviewing them with his caucus so they would know what the amendments provided.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, let us keep the record extremely straight. The Speaker's record on the amendments now being debated shows that Tompkins will offer five sets of amendments. I only had four total sets. The amendments were to be offered Agnew, Tompkins, one, Blair, and one other marked Fulmer.

Your set of five I do not have and I did not receive five individual sets of amendments by Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I was over to the gentleman's desk this morning and I said, "Mr. McCann, here are the five amendments which I am going to offer to Senate bill 53." They were tied together in one package with a paper clip.

Mr. McCANN. Yes, there are three amendments.

Mr. TOMPKINS. There were five in that, I am sorry.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

Mr. TOMPKINS offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 10), page 21, line 6, by striking out "MAY" and inserting shall

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the bill on page 21 provides: "When enforcement of a commission order is sought the court may make and enter upon the pleadings, testimony and proceedings set forth in such transcript an order or decree enforcing, modifying and enforcing as so modified or setting aside in whole or part the order of the Commission. . . ."

This amendment, instead of making it discretionary with the court to have such an order on the records, makes it mandatory in order that you have a complete record, including the court's order on any important order which I think is only proper for any record or any court.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, desire to be recognized on this amendment?

Mr. IRVIS. I do, Mr. Speaker.

The reason for the insertion of the permissive rather than the mandatory words is to make it possible for the court to exercise its own judicial discretion as to whether or not it wishes to enter on the record an order or decree.

I do not believe that we have to worry about whether or not the court will exercise its discretion wisely or not. I have sufficient trust in the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County to depend on that court. If the court feels, after reviewing the evidence, that it should enter an order, then it is permitted to do so. If the court feels, after reviewing the evidence that it should not enter an order, then it is permitted to do that.

Under the purported amendment, the court would lose that discretion and would be forced to enter an order whether it wished to or not. Consequently, depending upon the discretion of the court, I ask that the language remain as it is written and that the vote be "no" on this amendment.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to ask why we should not have court order on these records. The court should not be given discretion to permanently discharge these things without having some record that the respondent may know what is happening to him, and some record that he can rely upon in case something further is tried against him. Certainly we ought to have something on record in our court so a man may know what disposition has been made of his case. He may want to look at that file 10 or 15 years from now and there would be nothing on the record to show that any disposition was ever made of anything.

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendment was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. AGNEW asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 7, lines 1 to 12 by striking out all of lines 1 to 11 and "(1)" in line 12 and inserting:

(j) The term "commercial housing" includes only housing accommodations:

(1) Owned or operated by the Commonwealth or any of its political subdivisions, including housing authorities organized pursuant to the act of May 28, 1937 (P. L. 955), known as the "Housing Authorities Law," as amended.

(2) Constructed on land sold, leased or otherwise turned over by a redevelopment authority organized pursuant to the act of May 24, 1945 (P. L. 991), known as the "Urban Redevelopment Law," to a redeveloper.

(3) Constructed pursuant to the act of May 20, 1949 (P. L. 1633), known as the "Housing and Redevelopment Assistance Law."

(4) Owned or operated by limited dividend housing companies organized pursuant to the act of May 18, 1937 (P. L. 704), known as the "Limited Dividend Housing Company Law," as amended.

(5) Located in any dwelling, the acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, repair or maintenance of which is, after the effective date of the act, financed in whole or in part by a loan, whether or not secured by a mortgage, the repayment of which is guaranteed or insured by the Federal government or any agency thereof or the Commonwealth or any of its political subdivisions or any agency thereof. The housing accommodation shall be deemed publicly assisted only during the life of the loan and the guaranty or insurance.

(6) Offered for sale by any person if:

(i) The acquisition, construction, rehabilitation, repair or maintenance of the housing accommodations is, after the effective date of this act financed in whole or in part by a loan. whether or not secured by a mortgage. the repayment of which is guaranteed or insured by the Federal government or any agency thereof or the Commonwealth, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency thereof. The housing accommodation shall be deemed publicly assisted only during the life of the loan and guaranty or insurance; or

(ii) A commitment issued by a government agency after the effective date of this act is outstanding, that acquisition of the housing accommodations may be financed in whole or in part by a loan, whether or not secured by a mortgage, the repayment of which is guaranteed or insured by the Federal government or any agency thereof or the Commonwealth, or any of its political subdivisions, or any agency thereof.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman desire to have this amendment read at length or does he desire to explain the amendment?

Mr. AGNEW. I do not insist that it be read at length; I will explain it.

Mr. Speaker, this amendment which was just offered is for the purpose of limiting the application of the housing provisions of the act only to that real estate which is affected with the public interest, or which has public money involved in its construction, et cetera. For instance, any Federal housing project, any development, into which an agency of the State, the Federal Government, a county or a political subdivision would have any public money. It is our understanding that there are only five states in these United States that have a fair housing law, and that all five of these states limit the application of their fair housing provisions to that real estate into which public money is put. In other words, if the present proposed Senate bill 53 passes and becomes law in Pennsylvania, we will be the only State in the country which has taken fair housing that far. We will be first among the states to propose a fair housing law which is as far-reaching as the provisions of Senate bill 53.

Now, in effect, what the amendments I have offered here now will do, they will put in effect in Pennsylvania the Federal law on non-discrimination in housing. The Federal law, as a practical matter, is not enforced except where the state has such a fair housing law. If these amendments are adopted and the bill is passed with the amendments, Pennsylvania will still be in the vanguard of those states which have recognized the problem; we will be one of six states in the United States with a fair housing law in compliance with Federal wording, which can be enforced not only by the police power of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, but by the appropriate agencies of the Federal Government.

We think these are reasonable amendments. We feel that even with the adoption of them, it will be a giant step forward in this field. Like Alexander Pope, we feel that "we should not be the first by whom the new is tried, nor yet the last to lay the old aside." We do not know into what areas of darkness we are approaching if we pass Senate bill 53 in its present form. There are those in favor of the bill, in favor of the principle of the bill, who have serious misgivings about its possible application in Pennsylvania. Let us just take the same step that no more than five other states in this Country have taken. Let us not take a step into the unknown beyond that. We urge your serious consideration of these amendments. If they are adopted, then I think this bill can have general support, which would be a wonderful thing. It would be a great step in the direction of fair housing and a recognition of human rights in this field. Let us not go too far because we do not know what we are doing. Let us only go as far as five other states have gone. Let us word our act in compliance with Federal law, so that we can, in conformity with other states, be subject to Federal enforcement as well as our own. We ask for support for these amendments.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am amazed. If I were on the other side I might say, as Mr. oJhnson used to say two years ago, that I almost fell off my chair when I read this amendment. And I will not give them a gold star.

They say from the Republican side that they know their amendment is already Federal law, so, let us put it into the State law to make sure the United States Government enforces the Federal law. Not only do they distrust Pennsylvania, Mr. Speaker, but they distrust the United States Government now.

I point out, Mr. Speaker, that if anyone gave information to the Republican caucus that only four states have fair housing laws, that person was misinformed. Fair housing laws exist now in eight different states and, if anyone gave information to the Republican caucus that in four states only the fair housing law exists and that reaches only public housing, that person was badly misinformed and badly misinformed the Republican caucus. Fair housing laws exist, Mr. Speaker, in Colorado, in Massachusets, in Connecticut, in Oregon, in New York, in New Jersey, in California, in the State of Washington, and Rhode Island has one also. Massachusetts, Oregon, Colorado, and Connecticut reach private housing, not public housing, Mr. Speaker.

I would be proud as a citizen of Pennsylvania, Mr. Speaker, if Pennsylvania had been in the vanguard, but, unfortunately, we delayed. We have dragged our feet in this matter. We cannot take the first giant step among the states. Colorado has done that.

Mr. Speaker, this amendment reminds me of the little boy who came home to his mother, filthy dirty, and his mother said to him, "go up, Johnny, and take a bath." And he says, "Aw, mom," and she says, "Johnny, go up and take a bath." He says, "Well, O.K., mom, but do I have to bathe all of me?" The Republican amendment does not want to bathe all the dirt away. It says, Mr. Speaker, we realize the dirt is there, but let us clean off a little bit of it and not touch the rest.

I call on the members of the Republican caucus to follow their own conscience, if this be their conscience. If they recognize the existence of this problem, then I ask them to join us in this bipartism measure, Mr. Speaker, to clean off as much of the dirt as we can reach, and we have the power today to reach a considerable amount of the dirt on Johnny's face. I ask for a negative vote on this amendment, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I, too, am somewhat amazed. I listened to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, make some general "mishmash" of my general statements. I was hoping he would give us some specific information. So he says there are eight states that have a fair housing law. I say five of them have what we propose to do with these amendments and the other three have a meaningless legislative intent. I say that Senate bill 53 would put Pennsylvania in a position far beyond any other state in the country. I say to the gentleman from Allegheny that New Jersey and New York have exactly the type of fair housing law that we propose to have with this amendment.

I also say to the gentleman from Allegheny, we have no objection to the bath and we have no objection to good strong soap being used, but we do not want the soap to be strong enough so that it takes off part of the skin and causes thereby, perhaps, some other disease or illness on the frame of Pennsylvania. In other words, you do not eradicate one fault, one defect, or one illness, by creating another. Yes, let us clear up the situation and let us give it a bath, but let us not use strong enough soap to take off the skin.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BLAIR asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Erie, Mr. Blair.

Mr. BLAIR. Mr. Speaker, they are very brief and very simple in their intent and meaning. All they do is strike out the words "race and creed" wherever they appear in the bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman be satisfied then if we read the amendments the short way?

Mr. BLAIR. That is right.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 2, lines 4 and 5 of Title, by striking out "of race color religious creed ancestry or national origin" and inserting: "a person is of the negroid race."

Amend Sec. 1 (sec. 2), page 3, lines 12 and 13, by striking out "housing and public accommodation."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 3, line 13, by inserting after "discrimination": "and the denial of housing and public accommodation opportunities because a person is of the negroid race."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 2), page 4, line 12, by striking out all of said line, and inserting: "the fact that they are of the negroid race."

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 3), page 4, lines 18 to 20, by striking out "and to obtain" in line 18, all of line 19, and "of public accommodation and of commercial housing" in line 20.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 3), page 5, line 1, by inserting after "origin": "and the opportunity for an individual to obtain all the accommodations, advantages, facilities and privileges of any place of public accommodation and of commercial housing without discrimination because such person is of the negroid race."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question.

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman wish to explain the amendments any further?

Mr. BLAIR. No, I think they are self explanatory.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Mr. BLAIR. I might add that I think it is the intent and purpose, I think, of everybody to assist and aid in whatever way they can do it, any way humanly possible, to help the colored race. Space travel is not developed yet to where we are having any other race to be concerned with. So, therefore, let us eliminate anything that will make this bill a little more difficult to administer.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, desire to be recognized?

Mr. IRVIS. I do, Mr. Speaker.

I wish to thank the gentleman from Erie for his concern for the colored race. I point out to the gentleman from Erie that for 40 years I have been concerned with the colored race. But for 40 years I have also been concerned with the white race and almost that long with the yellow and the brown.

Seriously, Mr. Speaker, I think, the gentleman's intentions are highly honorable but he does not apparently realize the breadth and depth of this problem. I would point out, Mr. Speaker, to you and the gentleman from Erie that discrimination housing reaches many more people than the negroes in this Commonwealth; that the Governor's Commission on Discrimination in Housing in its report in 1958 estimated conservatively that in this Commonwealth discrimination in housing struck at better than a million of the Commonwealth's citizens, including, Mr. Speaker, not only negroes, Puerto Ricans, Italo-Americans, Jewish Americans, Irish Americans, and we have a few of them, I understand, with us. Italo-Americans I did not forget.

And we are not here in this legislature, Mr. Speaker, simply to benefit a particular group of people. What we are trying to do is to spell out what we believe is the democratic right of every man regardless of the color of his skin, regardless of where his grandfather or father may have originated, regardless of whether he worships in the Catholic Church, the Protestant Church or in a tabernacle, regardless of whether he worships at all. If he be a citizen of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, those of us who are supporting this legislation say that it is his right to purchase or rent any piece of property that he is qualified financially to purchase and rent.

This is not class legislation and, if it were, I would be the last one to take this microphone, Mr. Speaker, and speak for it. But I feel that I must represent all the people of the Commonwealth and I feel that this purported amendment would not strengthen the legislation but make it class legislation, negate it and destroy its very purpose. I do not believe such is the intent of the honorable gentleman from Erie, but I do believe, Mr. Speaker, that is the eventuality.

Consequently, I ask the members of this House to vote "nay" on these amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mrs. HENZEL asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 7, lines 1 to 12, by striking out "housing accommodations" in line 1, all of lines 2 to 11, and "(1)" in line 12, and inserting: "(1) housing accommodations comprising or containing five or more housing units, owned or otherwise subject to the control of one owner, whether or not contiguous, or (2) any parcel or parcels of real property or lot or lots, whether or not contiguous, available for the building of five or more housing units, owned or otherwise subject to the control of one owner.

"Such "commercial housing" includes housing accommodations held or offered for sale or rent (1) by a real estate broker, salesman or agent, or by any other person pursuant to authorization of the owner; (2) by the owner himself; or (3) by legal representatives.

"(k)"

Amend Sec. 3 (Sec. 12), page 22, line 6, by striking out "existing or."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mrs. HENZEL. Mr. Speaker, the amendments just introduced raise from one to five under housing accommodations the number of units that may be owned by a single owner without coming under this legislation. This will preserve to a greater degree than as is printed in Senate bill 53 the private property rights.

It will not affect the person who has invested in real estate for the purpose of business or for speculation, but it will protect, to a degree, that he may dispose of his property in the manner in which he chooses. The person who through an inheritance or through the investment of his small savings has chosen to purchase real estate should have preserved for him a right to dispose of them in the manner he sees fit.

It will be recognized as comparable to the ordinance which is now in effect in Pittsburgh, which according to all reports and observations has been highly acceptable and has been working in a very acceptable manner.

I would ask the consideration of the House members to vote "aye" on this amendment.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, it pains me a great deal to oppose anything that the charming lady from Montgomery offers to this House, but I feel that I must oppose this proposed amendment. Apparently the lady from Montgomery has not had an opportunity to read the bill line by line, and I can understand for that reason she made a misstatement unintentionally when she said the bill covers from one up in housing accommodations. That is not factual, Mr. Speaker.

If the lady will read on page 7, beginning with line 7, where personal residence is defined, she will find that a personal residence means a building or structure containing living quarters occupied or intended to be occupied by no more than two individuals, two groups or two families living independently of each other.

This, Mr. Speaker, I think makes it clear that the bill's purview, the bill's reach, does not go to a personal residence occupied either by the owner or by a member of his family. It would reach anything beyond that. It would reach an apartment. In a three-apartment dwelling it would reach the third apartment, but it would not reach the first two if they were occupied by the owner or by a member of his family.

This proposed amendment, Mr. Speaker, I believe, tends to weaken the coverage of the legislation and I would point out to the Speaker that in conversation I have had with those men who have to administer the Pittsburgh ordinance, it has been developed that they do not like the limitation of five or more. They feel that this has hampered the administration of the ordinance.

Incidentally, as a matter of legislative history, that figure was a compromise figure after a battle in city council and a public hearing. I have no doubt whatsoever of the honesty and integrity of the lady from Montgomery when she offers this amendment, but I do submit to the House that this amendment would weaken a bill which, in my opinion, is not quite as strong now as it might be. So I ask for a negative vote, Mr. Speaker.

Mrs. HENZEL. Mr. Irvis and I are not accustomed to saying sweet words to each other across the floor of the House and I dislike disagreeing with him also. However, I must tell him that I have read the bill carefully. I know precisely what he was describing, but I am still speaking in terms of separate residences, separate housing accommodations, that are owned by one owner.

I also presume that from the statement which the gentleman from Allegheny has made that he is going to work very hard to have the acceptable, presumably acceptable, ordinance of Pittsburgh changed in order that it will conform to what he feels so strongly. I will ask for a vote of "aye," Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. We were very surprised to hear on the floor of the House an admission that there was a public hearing on this type of legislation when it was proposed as an ordinance in the city of Pittsburgh. I might point out that public hearings are something you cannot get in Harrisburg on this type of legislation or anything else, apparently.

I think this would be an appropriate time to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny in respect to the effect of the Pittsburgh ordinance if this present law passes, and I desire to interrogate Mr. Irvis.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. IRVIS. I shall.

Mr. AGNEW. If Senate bill 53 passes in its present form, what effect would it have on the ordinance now existing in the city of Pittsburgh?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, it would have no effect. If the gentleman from Allegheny will turn to page 22 of the proposed legislation and read with me as I read, beginning on line 5, he will see that the proposed legislation says, "nothing contained in this act shall be deemed to repeal or supersede any of the provisions of any existing or hereafter adopted municipal ordinance, municipal charter, or any law of this Commonwealth relating to discrimination because of race, color, religious creed, ancestry, age, or national origin," and I will not continue to read. I think you see that is the pertinent part.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, is there any other municipality in this State besides the city of Pittsburgh which has a fair housing ordinance, to the knowledge of the gentleman?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, to my knowledge there is no other.

Mr. AGNEW. The city of Philadelphia does not have a fair housing ordinance?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, to my knowledge, the city of Philadelphia does not.

Mr. AGNEW. May I ask the gentleman, if we pass Senate bill 53, would there be two standards on fair housing in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Senate bill 53 for all the State except the city of Pittsburgh which would be under its own separate ordinance?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, the answer is categorically no. The citizens of Pittsburgh consider themselves citizens of the Commonwealth and reachable by Commonwealth statutes. I think what the gentleman is referring to is a confusion in terms which I heard debated in the other Chamber of this General Assembly.

Senate bill 53, if it were passed, as I hope it shall be this afternoon, would leave intact the city of Pittsburgh ordinance. This would leave two pathways open to a complainant if he lived in the city of Pittsburgh. He may choose to file his complaint under the city ordinance of Pittsburgh. If he does so he is then precluded from changing his mind and filing under Senate bill 53. If, on the other hand, Mr. Speaker, the complainant chooses to file under Senate bill 53, he is then precluded from changing his mind and filing under the existing city ordinance. He is given two pathways. He has his choice of which path he will take.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, that sounds like Irvis-made law to me. That is not what Senate bill 53 says on page 22 under Section 12, subsection (b), which the gentleman just quoted. Will the gentleman please explain to the members of the House in plain, simple, and clear terms just what ordinance or law would be enforced in the city of Pittsburgh, the city of Pittsburgh ordinance or Senate bill 53, the law of the Commonwealth?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am flattered by the gentleman from Allegheny's term of "Irvis-made" law. It is the first time I have heard that term. I trust that some day, with his support, that may become an actuality.

However, I will be happy to read to the gentleman from Allegheny further language from this section. I am now reading from page 22, subsection (b) of section 12, on line 13: "If such complainant institutes any action based on such grievance without resorting to the procedure provided in this act he may not subsequently resort to the procedure herein." That means, I think, plainly and simply so that even lawyers may understand, that if the complainant files under any other law, the city of Pittsburgh ordinance, for example, he may not then file under this act.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, the sentence interpreted by the gentleman from Allegheny is anything but clear because he is reading it out of context. I am referring particularly to the first sentence in that section which says, "Nothing contained in this act shall be deemed to repeal or supersede any of the provisions of any existing or hereafter adopted municipal ordinance, et cetera. How plain can language be?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am having no difficulty understanding it, and I daresay the learned gentleman from Allegheny does not have quite as much difficulty as he is pretending to have.

It seems to me that it is perfectly clear that if it is passed, existing acts would not be superseded and any hereafter adopted municipal ordinance shall not be superseded. That is point number one.

The language says quite clearly, and now I am reading from line 10 on page 22, section 12, "the procedure herein provided shall when invoked be exclusive and the final determination therein shall exclude any other action civil or criminal based on the same grievance of the complainant concerned. If such complainant institutes any action based on such grievance without resorting to the procedure provided in this act he may not subsequently resort to the procedure herein." This, it seems to me, is crystal clear. I can find no constructural difficulty whatsoever.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is a far better attorney than he would have us believe by his rather confused explanation. The only sense he made in answering my interrogation was when he read the word in the act.

What the gentleman says about the procedure being the same under the city of Pittsburgh ordinance or the State law is correct, but still the substantive provisions are different, and where there is a conflict between the two the substantive provisions of the local ordinance, whether now existing or hereafter adopted prevail, so that while the procedure would be the same, I would ask the gentleman, is it not true that a landlord in the city of Pittsburgh would be subject to five and under the State act he would be subject to one if he lives anywhere else in the Commonwealth other than the city of Pittsburgh?

Mr. IRVIS. I am afraid I do not understand that question. Will the gentleman rephrase it?

Mr. AGNEW. The city of Pittsburgh ordinance limits it to owners of five rental units or more. Senate bill 53 is two or less. Correct?

Mr. IRVIS. Correct.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, rise?

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. GELFAND. I believe that the present debate is beyond the scope of the amendment introduced by the lady from Montgomery and I would like a ruling as to whether they are now debating the bill or the amendment.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's point of parliamentary inquiry, perhaps he missed the point. The lady from Montgomery has offered amendments to make Senate bill 53 conform to the presently existing ordinance in the city of Pittsburgh. I think it is certainly in order that we debate its effect on Senate bill 53 and vice versa at this time.

Mr. GELFAND. I believe the lady from Montgomery introduced an amendment providing language to change this present legislation to include five houses, and I believe that is all we are to debate, not the ordinance of Pittsburgh. Now there is a specific section of the legislation under consideration dealing with ordinances of other communities and the way they are to be interpreted or enforced, and I believe that is the question under consideration at this time between the two gentlemen. I think the time we should debate that particular issue, if it is something that must be debated, is when we consider the bill as a whole, rather than this particular method.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would rule that the Chair is trying to be as lenient as possible in the debate of these amendments. The amendment, however, does specifically mention five units. Therefore the Chair believes the gentlemen are quite in order in their discussion.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I am delighted with the ruling of the Chair. I would like to answer the gentleman from Allegheny. I think I understand now what your question means. As I understand it, you are asking whether or not a landlord in Pittsburgh, under the ordinance, would not be under two acts, an ordinance and a State statute. Is that correct, sir?

Mr. AGNEW. Under the provisions of Senate bill 53, yes.

Mr. IRVIS. He would not be under two acts, under the city of Pittsburgh ordinance, which cuts-off at the level of five houses, and he would be under the purview of the statute of Pennsylvania. Which act he would have to obey would depend solely upon the complainant. It would depend upon who brought him into court and it would depend upon what act he was brought into court.

The language of this proposed act is quite clear. The complainant has his choice. If he makes his choice under the State statute, he is stuck with his choice. If he makes his choice under the city ordinance, he is stuck with that choice. He may not then change his mind.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the murmuring I heard among some of the lawyers on the other side is probably due to the fact that they assumed I missed the constitutional point. This is not an unwarranted assumption; I am very apt to miss a number of points, but I did not happen to miss this one. I recognize, Mr. Speaker, and the draftsmen of the act recognize, that in case of a conflict between a municipal ordinance and a State statute, the municipal ordinance must fall in case there is a conflict. That language is written into the bill and I read, Mr. Speaker, now from line 15 on page 22, "In the event of a conflict between the interpretation of a provision of this act and the interpretation of a similar provision contained in any municipal ordinance the interpretation of the provision in this act shall apply to such municipal ordinance."

Now, that is in case there is a conflict. Should there be no conflict, there is no cause of interpretations, and I again repeat, Mr. Speaker, the complainant will be left to his choice whether or not to bring his action under the city ordinance or to bring it under the State statute.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman admit that there could be no conflict between one and five?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, the conflict would have to be in the interpretation of the provisions of the ordinance, not in the number of units covered.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, is the such and such a similarly worded provision?

Mr. IRVIS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, the conflict is only in the matter of interpretation or definition?

Mr. IRVIS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. But there could be no conflict between one and five?

Mr. IRVIS. If there be such a conflict, Mr. Speaker, I fail to discern it.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, if Senate bill 53 becomes law, it applies anywhere in the Commonwealth with equal force, except in the city of Pittsburgh, and complainants in the city of Pittsburgh have at least a choice between complaining under the city ordinance and complaining under the State law; is that correct?

Mr. IRVIS. That is correct, Mr. Speaker; they would have their choice.

Mr. AGNEW. Does the gentleman know of any other State law which does not supersede local ordinances and does the gentlemn know of any field in which the State law is inferior to an existing or hereinafter adopted municipal ordinance?

Mr. IRVIS. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the State and cities have coexistent jurisdiction over the highways passing through the cities. I believe, Mr. Speaker, it is quite possible, and that it does happen, that State existing speed limits on highways may be higher than those permitted by city ordinance. In such a case, Mr. Speaker, the State existing law would not supersede the city ordinance. Now, as to the second part of the question, the inference of the question is that the State proposed statute is inferior to the city ordinance. I do not accept that inference, number one, Mr. Speaker. But, to answer the question which I believe is implied, I cannot tell the gentleman of the existence of any other State statute, if he means out-of-State, which supersedes a city ordinance. I can tell him that in New York State this is the proposal, that the New York State laws do not supersede the New York city ordinance, but I cannot tell you whether this has been done before.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to point out that I must disagree with him in his interpretation of a law. It seems to me that when the Motor Vehicle Code of the Commonwealth conflicts with a traffic ordinance, the Motor Vehicle Code, the law of the State prevails. I think he will agree with me, when he thinks about it, that that is the case. Certainly there is no legislation in this Commonwealth, criminal or quasi-criminal in nature, in which the State law does not prevail, except if we pass Senate bill 53, which would permit the city of Pittsburgh ordinance, Philadelphia, if they ever adopt their own fair housing ordinance, and any other municipality in this State to adopt a non-stringent ordinance, and only in the procedure or the enforcement of certain phases of it would Senate bill 53 prevail.

Mr. Speaker, we feel that the amendments offered by the lady from Montgomery make Senate bill 53 conform to the only existing municipal ordinance in Pennsylvania, that of the city of Pittsburgh. In this particular instance we feel that what is good enough for the city of Pittsburgh is good enough for the rest of the State and vice versa.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I have consistently, with the exception of one amendment, supported the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis. But, when I look at this section I am very disappointed, frankly, in this bill.

I believe today in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania

we are deciding a great issue. I believe that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, through the Senate and through the House of Representatives, is going to seek the public policy and the will of this Commonwealth. Here we have, I believe, a very weakening feature to this piece of legislation and I am sorry, frankly, that it is in there. That is, that any municipality having an existing ordinance, or anyone who hereafter may adopt one, would supersede our legislation today. I frankly am disappointed in this section. I know not why it is in. I believe that we should pre-empt the field today in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I am for the bill, Senate bill 53. I intend to vote for it, but I am disappointed in this section of the bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis. I would like to have us get back on the track and have us discuss the amendments before the House.

Mr. IRVIS. May I, Mr. Speaker, make a minor correction? I do not know whether the gentleman from Schuylkill has the bill before him or not, but if the gentleman believes, Mr. Speaker, that any thereafter enacted ordinance will supersede the State statute, the gentleman is in error. The language does not say that. The language does not say, Mr. Speaker, that an ordinance may supersede; it says this will not supersede an ordinance. Both would remain on the books. There would be two remedies instead of one, the ordinance or the statute. The complainant would have the right to select between the two, but the passing of the ordinance would not necessarily supersede the State statute, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, again I say I am a proponent of this legislation, but I do believe that this legislation should embrace all the citizens of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, whether they live in Pottsville, Pennsylvania, my home town, or the city of Pittsburgh, and I believe that in this bill we should pre-empt these ordinances. Actually, this bill could repeal them if they are on the books. There should be one common procedure. There should be the common place to find out what is wrong if there is any discrimination. We have this commission set-up. They should resolve the issues for all the people of Pennsylvania, and I again say that I am certainly disappointed. I hate to disagree with the gentleman from Allegheny because I believe in this type of legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will recognize the gentleman from Crawford, Mr. Merry, and once again remind the membership that the question before this House is the amendments offered by the lady from Montgomery, Mrs. Henzel.

Mr. MERRY. Mr. Speaker, I think what I have to ask would be in line with Mrs. Henzel's amendments. I would like to ask the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, in the event that a man was about to move his residence and decided to sell his property and that he would build or buy another property, how many properties would he own?

Mr. IRVIS. If I understand the question, Mr. Speaker, I believe the answer would be two.

Mr. MERRY. Well, what right have I got then to dictate to whom I can sell my present house? In other words, I do not have it sold. I would not go out in the market and buy a house after I had sold my house. The only time I would do that would be where they would put in a thruway, or somebody demands that I give up my property. I would go and put an option on a property, or build or buy another property before I moved out of the present house. If I did not sell that house before the day I moved, that house then would come under this new regulation and I would have no say about who bought it. Is that true?

Mr. IRVIS. If I understood the question, Mr. Speaker, as long as you remained in residence in your original home, the sale of that home would not be covered by this act; not if you sold it, nor if your builder or agent were to sell it. You could not be in residence in two different homes, consequently the new home that you propose to buy would not be your personal residence at that time.

Mr. MERRY. I would be before I sold it. I would move into the new home and then the other house would still be for sale. I had that occasion happen too. A fellow backed out before I moved into the other house and the house was for sale for pretty near a year. Well, that would be commercial property, the way I understand it as it is written now.

Mr. IRVIS. The second home, whether it be the original home or the new one, would fall within the purview of the statute. The first home in which you have personal residence would not fall within the purview of the statute, sir.

Mr. MERRY. I do not think you would have a chance at all. This idea of having one on there does not let anybody out. I could ask you the question I have asked several lawyers: If I buy an option on a property, tentatively own that property, because I intend to move into it, immediately when I move into it, the house that I move out of then comes under your act?

Mr. IRVIS. I would say, sir, that would be true, yes.

Mr. MERRY. You have practically tied up everybody.

Mr. IRVIS. I do not say that is true, sir; no.

Mr. MERRY. I do not see many people selling their house before they purchase another one. I would not want to be subject to being thrown out on the street. I do not think too many other people here do. The way it is it just ties everybody up tight. I think the idea of copying the Pittsburgh law would be a very good thing. This other way you do not have any relief at all.

Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The yeas and nays were required by Mrs. HENZEL and Mr. LIPPINCOTT and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Stimmel.

Mr. STIMMEL. Mr. Speaker, I propose to make a motion to recommit this bill, but before doing so I would like to state my reasons.

I could very readily vote for a fair bill for everything against discrimination. However, before so doing I would have to be convinced in my mind that the bill is fair to those that are affected by that bill.

I think this bill is an enormously important piece of legislation and deserves every consideration. I, like the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh, feel that we should have time to study these amendments, and not vote on them on a just straight party line basis. I think there is a lot of merit in these amendments that were proposed here today. They should have been much more carefully considered. I am surprised at the reluctance of the Majority Party in denying a public hearing to the people of Pennsylvania on those issues in this bill and in this legislation, particularly when the city of Pittsburgh has had that opportunity.

There is a tremendous amount of economic impact in this. Certainly human rights come first, but there are those who say that this would increase the value of real estate. There are those who say it would decrease the value of real estate. There are those who say this would encourage new housing. There are those who say this would discourage new housing. Why should we not hear those people? Why should their voices not be heard? Why must we rush on this measure? This is not a tax bill. This has no deadline. We should be able to soberly, sincerely, carefully consider the amendments that were offered today. We should know—even the lawyers could not agree—and I am not willing to take a chance on interpretation. I think this House has sufficient intelligence to write a bill which will not be subject to whims of interpretation.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. STIMMEL. Mr. Speaker, for these reasons, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Law and Order for the purpose of further study and public hearing.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I, of course, rise to oppose the motion made by the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Stimmel, to recommit the bill.

First I want to say something emphatically. On August 4, 1959, this House voted on a fair housing bill. That bill had four days of hearings and there were over 400 people present, pro and con, conducted in the new House Caucus room of this Capital Building.

The provisions as they were in the fair housing legislation passed in this House in 1959, on the 4th day of August, made a stronger, a much firmer bill in human rights and in housing rules and regulations. From the results of those hearings changes were made in the present legislation known as Senate bill 53. True, you can say no hearings were granted in 1961, but hearings were held on the subject, and a public hearing hearing in this field, and those of you who were present will recall vividly the picture that developed.

We are not here to debate the bill at this point; only the recommital motion. We had the churches speaking for it; we had individuals speaking for it; we had individuals speaking against the legislation that was being considered at that time, the then fair housing bill.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, we are not debating the bill but only the motion to recommit, and I ask the membership of this House to vote against the recommittal, to vote on the bill so we may bring it before us here today. I ask the membership to vote "no."

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, We would like to point out that this is not the same bill as House bill 322 that passed this House in the '59 Session. For instance, that bill did not specifically exempt the city of Pittsburgh as this bill does. There are other differences.

What we object to most strenuously and why I speak in support of the motion made by the gentleman from Lehigh is because of this unrealistic kind of rubber stamp legislature.

We did not have hearings on anything this important, not even on major tax programs, not even on fair housing bills. Now while the city council in the city of Pittsburgh, for years, even by its boroughs, has been referred to as a rubber stamp council, yet they had a public hearing on their fair housing ordinance.

We have sunk in this legislature to a postion somewhat lower than the council in the city of Pittsburgh and we are a legislative body that is sinking pretty low.

May I inquire why this bill must become law this week? There are many reasons for delay, as these amendments would indicate, because they were all reasonable, they were all well considered, and they all pointed out possible serious defects in this legislation. Why would not public hearings be beneficial to us as legislators in determining the provisions in a fair housing law? A fair housing in its final way should apply to the whole Commonwealth and not be modified and mangled, repealed or superseded by presently existing or hereafter adopted ordinances by cities, boroughs, and townships.

We are asking that this be recommitted for study by the committee, and, by the way, the committee gave this no study, as no committee in this House has given any thorough study to anything this session. There was just a motion to report it out to the floor, as committed, and that is the extent of the sudy by the committee. We would like the committee to study this bill and to hold a public hearing to determine its impact and to consider properly, as a legislative body should, what provisions should be in the bill.

Now is that unreasonable? We do not want to be a rubber stamp legislature.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, once again we hear the opponents of this type of legislation bring out hollow trumpets to call up an army of skeletons to use expended ammunition in a cause that was long ago lost.

They act and they bring up questions as though this measure is brand new, as if at no time this legislature has had before it for consideration a measure of similar nature.

Yet as the majority leader has indicated, last session in this legislature we had a measure, House bill 322, which paragraph by paragraph and word for word was almost exactly like the measure here before us now. As a mater of fact, in my examination of House bill 322 and the present Senate bill, the only paragraph of any real moment that differs is the paragraph dealing with ordinances. And goodness knows, whether or not there is a real question in that paragraph can only be determined in the future by the enforcement of this legislation if it does become a State statute.

If I were in the mood to be dilatory, if I were in the mood not to pass such legislation as this, I need only say we have not had hearings, we have not had commissions, we have not had examination, and bring in a whole host of amendments. But this would only be a shabby trick, a sham upon the community, because I would only be hiding behind my true feleings, the feelings of prejudice and intolerance.

Now I think the time has come to act as men and to recognize human individuals as human beings because the time has long since gone by for this type of legislation. We must act with dignity and respect each other as dignified human beings. We have legislation here before us which can make us be human beings and dignify humanity. We can make ourselves the creatures that God put upon this earth to do something for each other. And I think that by hiding, by putting these things to further examination, we only have buried the problem that is here before us today.

Now this is no time to recommit legislation of great moment such as this. We have an opportunity to step forth and move forward in the vanguard of humanity, and I say that we should do it today and now. So let us not recommit this legislation, but consider it and vote for it.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The Speaker pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley. Does the gentleman desire to debate the bill?

Mr. WORLEY. Yes, Mr. Speaker, if you are now on Senate bill No. 53.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. We have been.

Mr. WORLEY. I mean on final passage, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. We are.

Mr. WORLEY. I know we were on the amendments.

Mr. Speaker, Senate bill No. 53, the Pennsylvania human relations act, is one of the very few good pieces of legislation that has come before this House for passage at this session of the General Assembly.

I say that in all human relations legislators should strive to prevent making any distinctions of class, station, wealth, color, or race, which might bar the people from friendly mingling. By friendly contact with those of all conditions of life, people are enabled to learn the inspiration which has been given to others, compare it with their own and present ideals for each other to consider. We can best understand and cooperate with others when we know their conditions and aspirations.

By coming into close and friendly relations with the restless and discontented types of people, we may assist in making the adjustments which are necesasry for their welfare and for the welfare of all the people of this Commonwealth.

Senate bill No. 53 promotes such a policy. I am voting for it and I hope many other members of this House will do the same and enact this legislation into the law of this Commonwealth.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have never witnessed in my career a better demonstration of alienation of affections than has been put on here today. As you may or may not know, I supported this legislation in 1959. I stand here before you today to say, and say with all the sincerity and honesty within me, that I support the philosophy of this legislation even today.

But what have we here? We have here articulate statements, authoritative statements, but statements without reason or logic in opposition to some very serious questions raised with respect to this bill.

Let us just take a few of the points, let us examine them, let us face up to the facts, and let us not be controlled exclusively by party lines when we get down to the very basic fundamentals with which we are dealing today.

Taking a few of the technical points which we lawyers only presume we understand, I cannot disagree more fully with Mr. Irvis and his interpertation of the last section of this proposed bill relating to local ordinances. I personally think that he is completely wrong in his interpretation. I personally believe in my interpretation of it and from my whole background and experience in legislation, that he is wrong. It is my personal opinion that the ordinance of the city of Pittsburgh will remain in effect absolutely as to its substantive provisions. There are no two choices. The ordinance of Pittsburgh will prevail in Pittsburgh, and this legislation will pass and will prevail throughout Pennsylvania, otherwise.

I further feel we will end up in this ridiculous situation, that the way this is written any local government in Pennsylvania can adopt a fair housing bill by an ordinance, putting in such terms and conditions as they choose, and it will supersede our State law. I say this to you with all sincerity.

I further say to you that in my experience and in my knowledge this is unique as it is presently written, even assuming Mr. Irvis' interpretation is correct. This is unique in Pennsylvania jurisprudence and law, that we have two laws on the same subject and that a complainant has a right to choose which way he is going.

Gentlemen, let us be above partisan politics in something like this. Let us take this legislation and let us make good legislation out of it.

Another point by way of illustration: To me the sole issue before us today is the balance of private property rights versus the rights of individuals, a very delicate balance, I assure you, a very difficult issue to resolve. Yet by refusing one amendment offered here this afternoon, the very people who work to protect the private rights of individuals over the private right of property completely say to you today, I deny you another fundamental right. What right am I speaking about? I will tell you what right I am speaking about. In spite of Mr. Irvis' explanation, I say that the way this bill is drafted the right of the accused not to be faced with his complainant violates one of the most fundamental rights and protections of the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Pennsylvania since the creation of this Country. Do I look to this with cynicism? Do I wonder why such an important amendment was summarily rejected? Aye, I do. I tell you, gentlemen, when something so fundamental is summarily rejected by very close to a party vote, then I think, perhaps, I become cynical.

There are literally dozens of other things which should be and could be discussed. It has been a long day and a trying day. I say again as sincerely and as honestly as I can say it, I say to each and every one of you gentlemen and ladies in this House, you are doing a disservice to the very cause which you espouse by adopting this legislation. I say everything that I personally believe in is being jeopardized and prostituted, aye, prostituted, by this type of legislation. Why can't we as a responsible legislative body dig into it and come up with an acceptable bill? Why should lawyers disagree as to the meaning? The English language is not that difficult. We cannot be perfect, agreed, but we can do a much better job, even with respect to that one section, which is demonstrated here by the very difference existing among lawyers as to interpretation of the section.

Gentlemen and ladies, I do not oppose the philosophy of this legislation, as my record both locally and in this legislature well proves. I oppose only this bill as it is presently drafted. I publicly said I would support public housing or fair housing legislation. I said it and I intend to keep that promise. I cannot keep that promise consistent with the language of this bill as it is presently written. I hoped sincerely that we would have gotten over partisan politics with respect to the motion to recommit. I have found that that is not possible.

We now have this bill before us. I have a terrible choice to make, gentlemen, a very terrible choice, and my choice is this, if we vote on this bill in its present form today, as apparently we shall, I regret to say to my constituents and to the people of Pennsylvania, you are not getting fair legislation in the name of fairness, something to which I cannot subscribe under any circumstances.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Agnew.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Ogilvie.

Mr. OGILVIE. Mr. Speaker, I also supported this type of legislation in August, 1959. I am in favor of this type of legislation, in favor of the principles. I had intended to vote for Senate bill 53, but since I have listened to the debate today and have had pointed out to me so many errors and inadequacies such as prevail in this bill, I am forced to vote against Senate bill No. 53.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner.

Mr. HEFFNER. Mr. Speaker, I again come before the General Assembly and say that section 12 of this bill is entirely unnecessary. There is no reason in the law or in human relations to have this section in this bill.

I draw an analogy. If we were setting up the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission today, we would, in effect, be saying to that commission, if the city of Pittsburgh has such a commission, it will not be bound by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission. I ask you what sort of regulation, what sort of common regulation, would you have if you had that situation? That is the very same thing that is condoned by this bill in human relations. We have a situation here—I do not know why it is in. I hope it is not in by design. I hope this legislation is not political in any sense, but only for the best humanitarian relations. I should think this Section 12 should read that every ordinance now in effect in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is hereby repealed and this is the law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I say to you that I am very disappointed. I say to Mr. Irvis, who so eloquently speaks for this legislation, I agree with him, I agree wth his philosophy, I agree with this type of legislation. I supported his position with respect to every one of the amendments today save one, because I do believe in it. I say to him today, to make this a better bill I will be glad to introduce a bill to repeal section 12, wipe it off the books of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania so all the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be governed by one act, that their rights, their duties, and their responsibilities in this field will be guarded by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and then you will have a good bill. I am going to vote for the bill, but I am hopeful that he will consider this type of amendment. I am hopeful that he will pursue it with all the vigor within him. I am hopeful that he will go along with this type of amendment to repeal section 12, so that we all are in common agreement and that we are all under the human relations commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Allegheny yield to the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker?

Mr. AGNEW. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am not going to speak at length. If I had no other reason for voting against this bill, which I do have—about six or seven of them, I would vote against it because—I feel the bill is badly drafted. I want to say that I have reached those conclusions without prepudice and without intolerance in my heart or in my soul. I am speaking sincerely and I try to vote that way on all bills.

If I did not have any other reason, this section 12 would be it. I am going to read it again for the information of the House:

> "Nothing contained in this act shall be deemed to repeal or supersede any of the provisions of any existing or hereafter adopted municipal charter or of any law of this Commonwealth—."

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, and to the members of this House that this plainly makes this bill terrible and specifically unconstitutional. I cannot conceive of any Supreme Court, no matter how liberal minded they might be, that would interpret an act and say that the powers of the state, the superior powers, Mr. Speaker, can be offset by a minor power, which is a municipal subdivision, which are creations and creatures of the State and of the legislature.

I say to you for that reason I cannot possibly see how this bill can be considered as constitutional. Regardless of the fine language of the gentleman from Allegheny, this is plain horse sense as I am reading it and as I am interpreting it. No matter how much fancy language is used, how much alibiing is done to get around this language, the language is still there and still specific.

I agree wholeheartedly with the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, and the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner on the unconstitutionality of such a measure as this. I have other reasons which I shall file. I thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I do not at this time intend to speak for the bill or against the bill, but there are some things that must be said and I believe it is my duty to say them at this time.

In respect to the last section in the act, the one that says, "Nothing contained in this act shall be deemed to repeal or supersede any of the provisions of any existing or hereafter adopted municipal ordinance," I believe that was deliberately placed in the bill to thwart effective enforcement of a fair housing law. I believe that those who support this bill, either do so naively or are deliberately faking the people of Pennsylvania.

This House just heard the two gentlemen from Dauphin and the gentleman from Schuylkill, all three of whom are committed and have been committed to voting for a fair housing bill—until what happened in this House today, I take it from their remarks.

I would like to quote from the legislative Journal of the other chamber during the debate on February 1, 1961, on Senate bill 53. Mr. Mallery said:

"Mr. President, this is not entirely clear to me.

If the Pittsburgh law is not repealed by this bill, then it seems to me we will have one law for Pittsburgh and a law for the rest of the Commonwealth."

Mr. Weiner, the majority leader, the gentleman from Philadelphia, answers him thusly:

"This is the reason, Mr. President, I stated earlier that the fears which the people were expressing were not well founded. If the local community wishes to take whatever appropriate indications they want to take, under this general policy, nobody is going to tell them to do so. In other words, if your local community wants to make it stronger than this bill, they can do so. If they wish to make it weaker than this bill provides, they can do so. However, they will have a general policy from which to operate. . . We do not try to legislate for any local community on a problem of this type, which is strictly educational and local in nature." Listen very carefully to the last sentence which I am about to read: "Therefore, no one is affected by it who does not want to be affected by it."

That is the majority leader, the gentleman from Philadelphia in the other chamber, Mr. Weiner, one of the sponsors of the bill.

I think the question before this General Assembly, simply stated, is this: Shall we in Pennsylvania have a fair housing law? Can we, under Senate bill 53, have a fair housing law?

Another subject I wish to discuss concerns the remarks made by the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand, when he accused, in no uncertain language, those of us who voted for amendments and those of us who voted for motions, and I suppose those who will vote against the bill, of hiding behind their bigotry. Let me point out that I know of no person in this House who will vote for an amendment or against this bill for any reason smacking of bigotry. What the gentleman fails to recognize is that many members of this House and many people in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are seriously disturbed when you try to legislate rights for the minority and at the same time take away rights from a so-called majority. There should be constitutional property rights for all the people of Pennsylvania. Are you really doing anything beneficial and constructive for a so-called minority group? When we have sincere convictions in these fields, we are accused of bigotry. That reminds me of the United Auto Workers pamphlet issued during the recent campaign: "Vote for Liberty or Bigotry." In other words, you could not be for candidate Nixon without being bigoted.

I personally resent that type of an accusation in this House, to sweep under the rug, so to speak, any possible sincerity any member of this House might have in opposing this type of legislation. As I said, I do not wish to speak for the bill or against the bill. My vote will be recorded, as will everybody else's, and the members of my caucus know that I am not a happy man right now. I have been convinced by the arguments of the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman. I am no more strong an advocate of this type of legislation than he is. I feel that the objections he raised in his remarks are well taken. I offer the assistance of the members of this side of the House if you want to take a few weeks' time and write a fair housing bill that will eliminate many of the well-founded objections which were raised here today. If you want to try to put it through on a quick vote today, you may carry it; you may not. I am prepared to say at this time that up until 10 minutes ago there was no thought in my mind that I would cast a vote against this bill. I feel quite certain that sometime during this session today the two gentlemen from Dauphin and the gentleman from Schuylkill changed their minds, and change their minds they did.

I intend to make a motion. It is a motion made out of legislative and personal sincerity. There is no revenue reason, there is no other reason, why this bill must become law this week. There are many serious objections to this bill and we cannot be accused of bigotry for voicing them. My motion is that we postpone action on this bill at this time. I understand that such a motion is debatable within narrow limits. I do not wish to debate it, but I ask those in this House both those who are for a fair housing bill and those who are opposed to it, to support this motion so that we have a fair housing bill, if that is what we end up with, and not an unfair housing bill.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, should not that motion have been made much earlier before we started to debate the merits of the bill than at this point, the minority floor leader holding the floor until such time as he spoke and then making the motion to place it on the postponed calendar. I realize this is proper parliamentary procedure, no question about it, but I do believe that it was understood that the minority floor leader would speak next to last, and I would be the last speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. If the gentleman wishes to debate the motion, I understand he can, but he would be limited in his debate. I would certainly withdraw my motion temporarily and give him a chance to debate the bill. Then, of course, I want the privilege of again making such a motion.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman would be limited in his debate under the motion before the House.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I realize I am limited to debate on the motion that has been accepted by the Chair. But I was speaking to the minority floor leader asking that he withdraw his motion, really, at the present time. There are one or two speakers before myself in closing remarks on the bill. His motion is proper; it is in order. I can only speak on the motion before the House at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman has expressed a willingness to withdraw his motion.

Mr. AGNEW. Does the gentleman request that I withdraw my motion?

Mr. McCANN. At this point, Mr. Speaker, since we started the debate, I would be most pleased to vote on the motion that the gentleman has made. You have a motion that the bill be placed on final passage postponed calendar. I will ask the membership to oppose that motion. I will ask that they vote against it, so that we can vote on the bill after defeat of the motion to place it on the postponed calendar. We have heard some things here today that I want to debate when we debate the bill. But this gives only the opportunity to speak on the motion before the House, and, if that motion would be made at a later point, it would still fall in the same category during debate on the present Senate bill in this House.

Therefore, I will ask at this point that the membership vote "No" on placing the bill on final passage postponed calendar on the motion made by the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Agnew.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Gelfand rise?

Mr. GELFAND. To make a few brief remarks on the motion.

Mr. Speaker, I always enjoy hearing what the minority leader has to say, because he sets up so many straw dummies and then proceeds to knock them down that you find it difficult to get the real meat of the situation.

For instance, the word "bigotry." That was not my word; that was his word. If he feels that he is so thin-skined that any misinterpretation of the remarks I made indicated bigotry on his side, then let it be so. I never said such words. I said that continuous delay was merely a sham to delay bringing up consideration of this legislation. The legislation received ample consideration.

Last session we had adequate hearings. The bill proposed presently is almost paragraph for paragraph . . .

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion before the House is to place the bill on the postponed calendar. The gentleman is not speaking on the motion.

Mr. GELFAND. Mr. Speaker, the motion is to place it on the postponed calendar, and I am speaking against placing it on the postponed calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will confine his remarks to that motion.

Mr. GELFAND. As I said, the measure under consideration is almost paragraph for paragraph, word for word, similar to one which passed this House last session. As a matter of fact, some of the people who indicated that they are opponents of the present measure were proponents of the same thing during the last session. I, for all of me, cannot see why at this time they feel reluctant to vote for something which they voted for before, and I believe that it ill behooves us to place this measure on the postponed calendar merely for the purpose of continuous delay. I feel we should vote on this measure today because it has had adequate and ample consideration. Any dilatory tactics will serve no real purpose whatsoever.

I request that the measure be called up and this motion to place it on the postponed calendar be defeated.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. AGNEW and LIPPENCOTT and were as follows:

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if I might interrogate the majority leader on one point.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I read this bill quite thoroughly and there is one question comes to my mind that I would like to ask the majority leader. Would this bill in its present form affect Girard College?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I could not answer the question. Would it affect Girard College? Is that right?

Mr. TOMPKINS. That is right.

Mr. McCANN. I do not know, Mr. Speaker, that I can answer the question. I am sorry to admit that I do not know the situation at Girard College.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Girard College was established under the provisions of the will of Stephen Girard back in 1832 and its provisions are to the effect that only white orphan boys might be admitted to the school. My question is, under this bill, and I am not sure whether or not the bill covers it, whether this bill would break down that testamentary provision in that will and admit other than white orphan children?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe I would be honest in saying that any of the colleges, and I believe we have the other situation, I believe we also have some universities that would fall into the category of being colored universities, but neither falls within the provisions of Senate bill 53, although I have never raised the question until now about any of the colleges or universities which would deal with housing of instructors or some other item. I am sure it does not apply to the students who are housed there temporarily until such time as they graduate, whether they are orphans or not.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, this is not a public institution. It is a private institution, and I am not sure, in reading certain provisions of this bill, whether or not it would break down that testamentary provision which has prevailed over all these years. Even recently, the Supreme Court of United States decision upheld it. I am wondering whether or not the provisions of this bill would break down the testamentary provision in that will.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, my answer will be that I do not know emphatically. I myself would say that it does not.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. IRVIS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I am in the unfortunate position, comparable to Mr. Heffner of Schuylkill County today. I would like to ask the following questions of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis. I may not call this commission by the proper name, but how many employes does the Pittsburgh fair housing commission employ?

Mr. IRVIS. To my knowledge, they number about six.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, if the suggestion of the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner, in regard to the changing of section 12 of this bill were adopted, what would be the result to the commission in the city of Pittsburgh?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, is the gentleman from Bucks referring to Mr. Heffner's proposal, promised proposal, to introduce amendatory legislation?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I am referring to what I understood was his suggestion that section 12 be taken out as now written and the section read that this act would supersede any and all ordinances of any local governing body and this would be the law of Pennsylvania.

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, if that were passed by this House and passed by the other Chamber of the General Assembly, of course it would become the statutory law of the Commonwealth and it would supersede the Pittsburgh ordinance.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Would then the commission in Pittsburgh be disbanded?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, the commission would have to be disbanded. Its duties would be ended by statute of the Commonwealth.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether he thinks the proposal made by Mr. Heffner of Schuylkill County would make this a better bill and a better law in regard to the protection of minority groups in Pennsylvania, or not as good a law?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, if Mr. Heffner introduces that legislation I will give it very careful consideration. I can see very much merit in Mr. Heffner's argument. That is the reason I did not take the microphone to try to offset it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Do I take it, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman would join Mr. Heffner and myself, if Mr. Heffner would permit me to join him, in such a bill at some future date?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, I would be pleased to examine the possibilities of such an amendment with the gentleman for Schuylkill and the gentleman form Bucks, and if it met with what I considered to be adequate, that is, if it were a sound, amendatory piece of legislation which I thought would strengthen the measure before us today, I would be delighted to join with them in sponsoring it.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, both speakers at this moment are attorneys and I think this attorney has just been dodged. Mr. Speaker, I think that Mr. Heffner's position was quite clear and I respect him for it. I think he said he is for this legislation, he just wants it to be a strong law and he wants it to be the law of the entire Commonwealth. I think the gentleman from Allegheny understands that, and my question is simply this: Would it be a stronger and better law for the protection of minority groups as proposed by Mr. Heffner of Schuylkill County, or as proposed in this bill, especially section 12 of this bill?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, if I may qualify my answer, it is my belief that if Senate bill 53 will pass in its present form, with its present limitations and get adequate budgeting to enforce it, it is a stronger statute than we have by ordinance in Pittsburgh, and, therefore, I would not be unhappy to see the Pittsburgh ordinance superseded.

I ask the Speaker to take particular note of the qualifications. I said "adequately budgeted." I ask permission of the Speaker to mention one fact. At the present time the proposed budget for this Senate bill 53 is $108,000 for the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In my opinion that is not an adequate budget to enforce this law throughout the Commonwealth. But the law itself, Mr. Speaker, I think is a stronger statute than the ordinance of Pittsburgh is and I would be happy to see the stronger statute in force.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Then I take it, Mr. Speaker, that he would join the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner, in his proposed bill which would eventually amend this bill.

Mr. IRVIS. I would join the gentleman from Schuylkill in his remarks to this House, I agree with his philosophy and the only reason that I am not saying categorically, yes, is because, as a lawyer, I want to see the words in front of me. When I can see in front of me the words of the proposed legislation, at that point I can tell anybody whether or not I will agree or disagree.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain why then we cannot look into and examine Mr. Heffner's proposal in the form of an amendment to Senate bill 53 at this time or tomorrow or next week?

Mr. IRVIS. I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the object of Mr. Heffner's draft can be accomplished by Mr. Heffner's methods, amendatory legislation after passage of the bill. I believe also, Mr. Speaker, that I am not sufficiently subtle and devious to answer this question, perhaps, in the manner in which it should be answered, but I shall have to be blunt, and I trust the gentleman from Schuylkill will believe me when I say I do not include him in the group which I am now about to categorize.

I believe, Mr. Speaker, that there are those people seated in this room today who have seized upon an adequate reason for delaying this bill and that they are not truly revealing their real reason. I do not think that is true in Mr. Heffner's case, and I do not think it necessarily true in Mr. Bowman's case, or in Mr. Auker's case. But I believe this is true. I think there are men in this body today who said, "Thank God," when Mr. Heffner stood up and said, "This is the door open for us. This is the way out." I believe their tactics, Mr. Speaker, are deliberately dilatory. I believe they are deliberately dilatory in order to give certain pressure groups a chance to go to work even more frantically on the members of this House. And that is the reason, Mr. Speaker, that I say the bill can be passed today and if there are certain corrective amendments, then I shall be happy to join in them at a later date.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, a last series of questions:

Under section 12 of this proposed bill, would it be possible for a borough or a township in which a contractor was going to build 100 houses to pass a local ordinance just exactly like this State law, changing the words "two or more units" to read "one hundred and one or more units," so that that bulider does not come into that township and completely avoid enforcement of either the local ordinance or the State law?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, that would be possible. May I add this in qualification of my answer, Mr. Speaker? I repeat to the members of this House, despite the high regard I have for the legal learning of Mr. Bowman, despite the fact that he has been a member of the Bar for far longer than I, I believe he is incorrect in his interpretation, and I believe my interpretation is correct, that the complainant would have his own choice of remedy, that in the particular instance the gentleman from Bucks has constructed, the complaining party would have to make a choice whether he would move under the weak ordinance of a borough or under the strong statute of the State.

If the complainant made the mistake of moving in under the weak ordinance, then he is stuck. If he is a fool and chooses to take the weaker of two laws, then the law can do nothing to protect him. If, on the other hand, he would do as most wise complainants would do, seek the stronger measure, he would then move under the aura of protection of Senate bill 53 and would stay there.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, my last question:

Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Irvis, happen to know whether or not the city of Philadelphia presently has a fair housing commission or a fair housing ordinance?

Mr. IRVIS. The city of Philadelphia does not presently have a fair housing commission or a fair housing ordinance. I understand from certain friends of mine in Philadelphia that it is their desire to have such an ordinance.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I had not anticipated that answer, but, Mr. Speaker, if Mr. Irvis has that information does he expect that ordinance to be stronger or weaker than Senate bill 53?

Mr. IRVIS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Bucks is asking me a question which I am completely incapable of answering. I do not know. Nobody has submitted even a rough draft of such an ordinance to me. I could not answer that.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I believe Senate bill 53 has been very well debated through the debate on the amendments offered here today to the various sections of the bill. We discussed this bill by page and line, dealing with the various amendments offered, and I believe I am correct when I say a total of eight amendments were offered today, in the House, to this bill, a motion to recommit, and a motion to place the bill on the postponed final passage calendar.

There is little left to say about this bill after all the amendments have been debated, except perhaps to consider for a moment that this is one of the finest lines of legislation you will ever vote on as a member of this House, no matter what type of legislation may come in future years. It concerns human relations.

The Fair Employment Practice Commission has been in operation in this Commonwealth, and Senate bill 53 does provide a section of law dealing with the FEPC, which has handled over 1,500 cases. Of those 1,500 cases, how many have ever gone to court?

Perhaps a few remember the debate when establishing the Fair Employment Practice Commission. in years gone by. This House and senate had just as difficult a time in establishing and after enacting it in getting any money for the operation of that Commission.

Today we are making another step in this field of human relations. I believe everyone in the hall of this House, every single member, will vote on this bill as he or she feels individually. Some will honestly oppose this legislation because they believe some sections should be stronger. And then if such sections were stronger, there are others who would oppose it because it would be too strong.

This case is just a little different than it was when we voted the housing bill in the 59 session by virtue of the fact this is a Senate bill that has aready passed the Senate. It is here in the House for either passage or defeat today. It is not its first round through the legislative body.

Therefore, the decision is a little different when you vote on bills and you are assured that such bills will not have an opportunity to be voted on again but already has veen voted on by the Senate. You will make the final decision here today on that legislation.

I think the best way is to say to yourself—and I am sure the men who have spoken, such as Mr. Bowman, Mr. Heffner and perhaps through Mr. Williams' interrogation, sincerely say—but if this bill passes today, we want to make some sections stronger, and there are those of us who say to you, yes, we will join you in sponsoring that and see if we can work together to pass it through this House to go on its merry way to the Senate to become law. We must work just as closely as you honestly can to enact a good piece of legislation.

If you say Senate bill 53 is perfect, I will be the first to disagree with you. But, what may be perfect in your mind and my mind, cannot get 106 votes, which our Constitution requires to pass legislation. I will say to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, and I will say to the genleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Heffner, although I am not a lawyer, I think in a layman's language I understood what you said, and when you put it in bill form, I will sign my name to help you enact it, because it is what I believe in, and I believe you believe in it, and if this is what the other people and members of this House believe in, they will join with us in enacting that next step as we start to walk in with the good States in the Union that believe that fair housing is for every human being.

It is only by the grace of God that some of us are white and some are black and neither one of us is the majority in the world. Neither one, the black or the white. We are the minority.

It is only by the grace of God that decisions of this kind are made by which you, individually, can vote today. This is a step in the right direction. You may disagree with a section, you may not disagree with the bill in its entirety, but in your own conscience, as you sit here today, ask yourself if you are taking the first step in the right direction, which the Bible has taught you. I have always voted right. I have never preached, but I am a man who believes in God.

I have more than one reason to vote for the bill, and yet this bill does not do anything for me politically, if I were to run for a hundred public offices. I do not live in an area that has a negro population that amounts to anything; it is also a light Jewish area. My people are either Protestants or Catholics, but they are not ever in disagreement about trying to help one another. Mr. Speaker, in this situation today, you and I know very well this is the biggest step we have ever taken in this field of legislation. In a few minutes you can help to enact this bill into law.

I am aware there are individual differences of opinion both on the Democratic side and the Republican side. But I ask you, and I ask you in all fairness, to vote "aye" in support of this legislation. Then if you believe some sections can be made better, you join with us on another date in supporting that proposed legislation, which I feel confident will be introduced following the debate here today.

Mr. Speaker, we have covered the bill in its entirety, and we certainly have tried to show the need for the legislation. All I can ask is that the members vote "aye" and help enact this legislation. There is no question that the vote is very close. This we know, and this you know, but it takes 106 to pass this bill. I ask you, not as a Democratic Party or as a Republican Party, but individual members, to enact this bill into law here now.

Mr. BOWMAN. Majority Leader McCann's remaks were, to a large extent, presumably addressed to me.

It has been my experience and I think the experience of most legislators that the law books today are filed with the dead bodies of good intentions of something we are going to do in the future.

It availeth us not to say, let us put something through that is not very good or is inadequate or is not fully drafted and then we will take up the matter later. That is not responsibility in legislation. That is cowardice in legislation. It is irresponsibility at its worst. I say to the majority leader, please, let him support us, postpone this, and I will gladly join with him in amendments whch will be satisfactory, in my opinion, and which will enable me to vote for this bill. Do not pass the buck on this matter. We either have good legislation now or we do not; let us not talk about something in the future.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. AUKER filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate bill No. 53.

Reasons for vote against Senate bill 53 known as "Fair Housing Bill."

First—In this bill the word "Creed" is used—This can and does include those who belong to the Communist Party and believe in the Communist Creed.

Second—As an attorney at law I firmly believe the bill to be probably unconstitutional in that it deprives individuals of inalienable property and individual rights guaranteed by the United States and Penna. Constitution. Is strikes a serious blow at freedom as, we, in these United States have always regarded as sacred.

Third—It will have a very serious deterrent and harmful effect on economical climate in Penna. It will seriously affect the housing and building industry and probably cause a great deal more unemployment than now so sadly exists in Penna. Financing of housing and business establishment will be very seriously affected.

Fourth—This bill is discriminatory in that it discriminates against all minority groups.

Fifth—It allows any municipal ordinance heretofore or subsequently passed to supercede this bill. Something unheard of in Penna., Federal or State.

Sixth—This bill will do more to harm the colored race or members of any other race than it will do good.

I feel that this bill will take Penna. a long distance down the road to a Socialistic State which is akin to Communism and which, as a freedom loving, God-fearing American, I detest with all my might.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate bill No. 53.

This morning we witnessed the reenactment of President Abraham Lincoln's visit to this House of Representatives 100 years ago. With this ceremony as a background we are now casting our vote on the fair housing bill. It is unfortunate that such legislation is apparently needed approximately 100 years after Lincoln's great act of freeing the ancestors of those colored among us.

I wish that those who say education is the answer would come forward with an explanation as to why we have not been able to educate ourselves over these last 100 years.

My conscience dictates that I vote for this legislation and I could not do otherwise.

At this very moment the United States is in a world struggle with the Communist nations. We see in New York City the efforts of the free world to gain support for our position among the new African nation. We must win this struggle. I fear that we cannot and will not do so if we permit any vestige of discrimination to remain in this land of ours.

Human rights have clashed with property rights many times in the course of government. One must lose or be bent in each instance. An obvious example are reasonable zoning regulations, which almost all of us have come to accept.

Many of us cheer the news from the southland where small groups of courageous students are victorious in their peaceful sit-in demonstrations. We can hardly cheer their efforts and at the same time reject the principles of this bill.

I have the sincere hope that we will further the education of all Pennsylvanians toward the goal of non-discrimination as a result of this legislation.

Mr. DOWN filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate bill No. 53.

I opposed Senate bill 53, not because I am for discrimination, but, on the contrary, I sincerely wish an end to discrimination. If this bill becomes law it is intended to benefit the minorities now affected by segregation in housing, but in doing so it would limit the freedom of all citizens. It is an invasion of the right of individuals to own, use and dispose of property—a right that lies at the very base of our economic system. In my estimation this bill is nothing but a political VOTE CATCHER aimed to supposedly benefit members of the minority groups. It is an expensive way to get votes considering the DAMAGEs it will cause.

Mr. Speaker, I helped fight a war for these basic principles and I have not forgotten it.

Thank you.

Mrs. KOOKER filed the following reasons for her vote on Senate bill No. 53.

I am a believer of equal rights- and I mean equal rights for all classes of American citizenry. I do not believe that Senate bill 53 affords these equal rights. It is discriminatory and therefore I cannot support it. I feel Senate bill 53 infringes on personal property rights. It is my belief that any citizen or group of citizens of the Commonwealth or the United States, for that matter, who owns property, maintains it, and pays taxes thereon has the right to dispose of that property in the manner he so chooses, without restrictions or compulsive legislation. No buyer should be restricted from buying a property if the buyer so desires to sell it to him; and no seller should be compelled to sell to any buyer he does not desire to sell to.

This is the American way—our American freedom—a freedom for which we fought and many died and a freedom we all cherish and would again fight, I am sure, to protect. It is a priceless heritage—let us not barter it away for any self-agrandizement or political favor. In many foreign lands blood is today flowing in the cause of liberty and freedom—thank God that we have it. Let us always guard it zealously. Let us all rather live together peacefully with love and charity towards all and with malice towards none, true tolerance and understanding for each other through education and Christian brotherhood.

Mr. MERRY filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate Bill No. 53.

Mr. Speaker, in support of my vote on Senate bill 53, printer's No. 143, I wish to say that I do not believe in discrimination on account of race, color or creed and my reasons here are because of the wording in the bill. Where the plaintiff does not have to appear against me is one objection, and I do not believe that my property rights are protected when I would desire to move my residence and had taken possession of my new home. My old home would be termed commercial and I would have no voice in to whom I sold it. A part of my personal rights have been taken away from me.

Mr. HOLMAN filed the following reasons for his vote on Senate Bill No. 53:

Mr. Speaker, I submit herewith my reason for supporting the Fair Housing Bill; however, I must state that I am very disappointed with the attitude of the majority in its refusal to accept amendments, which would both clarify language in this Bill and eliminate inequities that have been written into it. Some of the objections raised by the minority are well taken. If the majority had properly performed its legislative function, it should have honestly considered the merits of such objections, rather than arbitrarily voting NO on every one.

Nevertheless, Mr. Speaker, and with all due respect to those who oppose the bill because of its draftsmanship, I feel that the procedural and substantive defects that have been debated today are overshadowed by the overriding intent and purpose of this legislation, with which I am in complete accord.

It has been stated, and correctly so, that whenever human rights are given to a person they are likely to be taken away from someone else. This certainly could be a result of Senate Bill 53. When this Bill becomes law, certain groups will obtain rights which they may not have had before. Other groups will lose rights which they may have had before. But, Mr. Speaker, the result will follow that the human rights of all groups will then tend to be equalized under the law.

This is the overriding intent and purpose of Senate Bill 53. This, Mr. Speaker, is the reason I have voted for this Bill today.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, as some people may have mentioned, roll call is over, the bill will pass and I am thankful that it will pass. There are some who wanted to vote "aye" when the bill passed.

BILLS PASSED OVER

Mr. McCANN. I request that all remaining bills on today's calendar be passed over.

SENATE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate:

Senate Bills for concurrence Nos. 25, 31, 74, 77, 102, 178 and 180.

BILL RE-REFERRED

Mr. CAULEY from the Committee on Cities—Counties Second and Second Class A, returned with the recommendation that it be re-referred to the Committee on Highways, House Bill No. 415, entitled:

An Act amending the "State Highway Law," approved June 1, 1945 (P. L. 1242) providing for payment by the Commonwealth of damages occasioned by a change of width, lines or grades of streets designated as State highways in cities of the second class A and third class.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The bill is re-referred to the Committee on Highways.

CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the minority leader if he would again consent to having a caucus of his party on Monday so that we could vote on bills, because at this point we have caucused on the entire calendar and are ready for Monday's vote? If the Republican Party could caucus on the bills on Monday, we would be in position to vote on ten or fifteen pieces of legislation.

Mr. AGNEW. Under the informal ground rules, we do not take any record vote until after 4:30. I think if we will be permitted to hold a caucus off the floor for half an hour or 45 minutes we can caucus on sufficient bills for Monday's session.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the House will be in session Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of next week.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. AGNEW. I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. As the gentleman knows, there is an important annual dinner in Philadelphia next Tuesday night. Many of the members from that part of the State would like to attend the dinner and not have to come back to Harrisburg. I would ask the majority leader, is it absolutely necessary that we have a third day next week, especially if we caucus and vote on bills on Monday?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am aware of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' dinner and I hope to be present in Philadelphia, along with others, Tuesday night. I believe if it is agreeable we can have a conference with the Speaker immediately after the session today for a minute or two and we can work it out. But it seems as though every week there is some meeting. Today we were due in Philadelphia at this hour and rightfully should have been there, I guess. Hoping that we can go down on the 2:30 train, I believe it is, on Tuesday your request is then that we would not have a session on Wednesday?

Mr. AGNEW. I make that request on behalf of many members of this House on both sides of the aisle, unless it is absolutely necessary.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if this is their request, I believe we will gladly consent to the request for a two-day session, but I do ask then that somehow, on Tuesday, we must vote on legislation and finish up, I assume, at 2 o'clock, so we can get out of here.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. CLARKE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, February 27, 1961 at 3:30 p.m., EST.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 5:18 p.m., EST.) the House adjourned.

SENATE

MONDAY, February 27, 1961.

The Senate met at 3:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore (Anthony J. DiSilvestro) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplin, Rev. ANSELM OBER, O. S. B., Assistant, St. Mary's Church, Patton, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, Thou dost tell us in the Book of Wisdom: "A great number of wise men is the safety of the world."

Therefore, O God, Omnipotent and Omniscent, since it is especially for Wisdom that we pray today in asking Thy blessing upon these Senators of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, deign to accept our utilization of the words of Solomon's own prayer, as found in the 9th Chapter of the Book of Wisdom, wherein Solomon states: "I prayed and prudence was given me; I pleaded, and the spirit of Wisdom came to me."

And thus he prayed.

"God of my fathers and Lord of mercy, You who have made all things by Your word, and in Your wisdom have established men to rule the creatures produced by You, to govern the world in holiness and justice and to render judgment in integrty of heart; give me wisdom... for I am your servant. . . a man weak and short-lived and lacking comprehension of judgment and of laws... For the deliberation of judgment of mortals are timid, and unsure are our plans. . . Now with You is Wisdom... Send her forth from Your Holy Heaven, and from Your glorious throne dispatch her that she may be with me and work with me. . . For she knows and understands all things, and will guide me discreetly in my affairs. . . thus, my deeds will be acceptable and I shall judge my people justly." Amen.

The PRESIDENT pro tempore. At this time, the Chair invites the gentleman from York, Mr. Seyler, to the rostrum to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Harry E. Seyler) in the Chair.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 100—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

SB 104—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 104, Printer's No. 104 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, may I inquire of the Majority Leader what the purpose of Senate Bill No. 104 may be?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the purpose of this bill is to allow the Secretary of Highways to establish realistic speeds. For example, you are driving on a State highway which goes through a business or populated section of a small community. You than have to slow down to perhaps ten or fifteen miles an hour, even though there may be no traffic or no reason for doing so. However, the speed limit may have been established by the local community and perhaps was posted many, many years ago and nothing was ever done about it.

The purpose of this bill, Mr. President, is to permit the Secretary of Highways to have a study made of the area in order to find out what type of traffic pattern exists in that community and to establish the speed in conformity therewith. For example, if the speed limit on the highway continues at forty miles per hour, there is no reason to slow down in this community. If it is all right in the community, in the general pattern of the traffic, then traffic could be slowed down by about five miles per hour. The Secretary of Highways could establish it on that basis.

On page 2 of the bill, mention is made about it being unsafe to operate motor vehicles at certain speeds. It could be just as unsafe to go from forty miles per hour down to fifteen miles per hour in an area, and then try to speed up again in order to pick up momentum, as it would be to go fifty miles per hour through a certain community. I think that is the intention of this bill.

Due to the fact there are no periods or commas printed in the bill,—the punctuation which we are accustomed to in sentences—it might give cause to think that some of the language is a little bit ambiguous. However, I think that is what is intended. I will be glad to get further clarification from the Secretary of Highways if that is indicated.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I believe it is indicated. I understood the purpose of this bill would be to vest some discretion in the Secretary of Highways in making more realistic speed limits. I understand that any restrictive speed inside a residential or municipal area may be established, but only upon approval by the Secretary of Highways. Otherwise, it becomes inoperative.

It is my understanding that this bill was intended to permit the Secretary of Highways not only to reduce, but in increase speed limits where necessary. It says in this bill as follows:

> ". . . where traffic conditions or other conditions of the highway make it unsafe to operate motor vehicles at the maximum speeds as provided by this act. . ."

That language appears to me to be a little bit obscure and opaque. I am afraid that if it is written into the Vehicle Code, it would give rise to considerable litigation in the enforcemeent of this law.

Therefore, Mr. President, I believe this bill should go over in its order until we can study it further and get it clarified.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the gentleman might be correct in his concept of the bill. As I stated before, you do not have all the grammatical indicators which are usually present in any paragraph or reading. Of course, as you well realize, neither the Secretary of Highways nor the Secretary of Revenue can raise the maximum speed limit. He must maintain that and cannot go over that. The result might be that there are many communties which are far below the maximum and the Secretary might want to raise it. However, the gentleman's interpretation might be just as valid as the interpretation I gave it.

Therefore, for further clarification, I would like to check with the Department of Revenue and bring an answer back to the Members of the Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

At this time, the Chair turns the gavel over to the President, who has returned to the Senate.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 105—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

SB 128 and 153—Read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 192—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 192 go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have no objection to this bill going over in order. However, I do not think this bill is of the same caliber as the other one, and subject to an ambiguous interpretation. I think what we are trying to do here is to put Pennsylvania in conformity with the Interstate Commerce Commission requirements in regard to reflectors, so that you do not come upon a truck by suddenly having it loom up in front of you before you have an opportunity to absorb that it is within close proximity to the point where we may have some dangerous situations.

If it will help the gentlemen and the other Members, I will be very happy to give them any memoranda that are available to me or get any information that they might need in regard to this measure. It is not that complicated.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am inclined to agree with the Majority Leader. However, just one or two questions were raised, and I am sure they will be resolved by tomorrow and we will be able to act on the bill.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL NO. 108, CALLED UP

Mr. WEINER, without objection, called up from page 5 of the Calendar, Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 108, entitled:

Directing the Joint State Government Commission to Study the Relocation of Eastern and Western Correctional Institutions

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to offer an amendment to this resolution.

The PRESIDENT. The Clerk will read the amendment. ment.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

"And be it further resolved that in developing the study herein provided for, the Joint State Government Commission give particular attention to the possible location of either or both of said Eastern and Western Correctional Institutions in a county in northern Pennsylvania wherein are located large tracts of unoccupied lands already owned by the Commonwealth."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution, as amended?

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION, SERIAL No. 108, ADOPTED AS AMENDED

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do adopt Senate Concurrent Resolution, Serial No. 108, as amended.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was adopted, as amended.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. KESSLER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. KESSLER. Mr. President, I am about to offer some bills, and I would like to make a statement in connection with two of those bills.

Mr. President, as Chairman of the Finance Committee of this Senate in 1955 through 1960, I had much to do with the drafting of the sales and use tax legislation, on which legislation many of you men voted.

For some time I have watched with concern and consternation the efforts of the sales tax administrators to frustrate and misconstrue certain provisions of such legislation. I shall explain as briefly as possible exactly what I mean.

The Finance Committee necessarily had the Capital Stock Tax "manufacturing" exemption and the decisions construing the scope of "manufacturing" before it when it provided a "manufacturing" exemption to taxpayers under the initial Selective Sales and Use Tax Act of 1956.

The Department of Revenue properly recognized our intent that the "manufacturing" exemption under the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act was different than that under the Capital Stock Tax regulation, which made no specific reference to fabricating, compounding or processing.

In the regulations published by the Department of Revenue on July 15, 1956, manufacturing was defined as follows:

> "For the purpose of this regulation 'manufacturing' is defined as the performance as a business of activities which place personal property in a form different from that in which it is acquired. Fabricating, compounding and processing are considered to be manufacturing activity."

At the time the Act of 1957 was pending before the 1957 General Assembly, the Pennsylvania Department of Justice prepared a formal and detailed analysis of its provisions which it issued under date of March 28, 1957. The following statement appears on page nine of that Analysis:

> "Section 2(c) of the present act then defines 'manufacture' very broadly as the performance of manufacturing, fabricating, compounding, processing or other operations engaged in as a business which place any personal property in a form, composition or character different from that in which it is acquired. This is a much broader definition of the term 'manufacture' than that found in other areas of tax law."

Despite this unequivocal statement by the Department of Justice, the Department of Revenue shortly thereafter changed its position, contrary to legislative intent, as to the scope of the "manufacturing" exemption under the Selective Sales and Use Tax Act and administratively harrowed the "manufacturing" exemption to that established under the Capital Stock Tax legislation. On November 1, 1957, the Department of Revenue issued a new Manufacturer's Regulation effective as of April 5, 1957. The department is taxing, as a result of this regulation, certain operations which clearly constitute "fabricating, compounding and processing," contrary to our intent.

I am, accordingly, presenting a bill at this time which is designed to again express to the Department of Revenue and the taxpayers of this Commonwealth that we intend and have always intended manufacturing to include fabricating, compounding and processing for Selective Sales and Use Tax purposes.

Mr. President, as a companion bill, I would like to clarify the Capital Stock Tax Act for the same reason, and I would like to make a statement.

The newspapers for several days past have contained numerous headlines concerning the decision of the Ford Motor Company to remove its automobile assembling operations from Chester, Delaware County, Pennsylvania, and on Wednesday, February 22, 1961, the newspapers reported that Governor Lawrence had been unable to dissuade Henry Ford, II from the decision of Ford to close its Chester operations.

I have no way of knowing whether the Ford Motor Company had any knowledge of a decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania on January 4, 1961. On that date, the Supreme Court stated in a tax case as follows:

"The facts sustained by the record are these. The appellee designs, assembles and sells vocational shop equipment: work benches, tool racks, lockers, cabinets and desks. Appellee designs the equipment, makes samples thereof, breaks down the samples into component parts and prepares working drawings thereof. The parts are then ordered from independent contractors in bulk. It assembles the final product from the standard parts purchased from and supplied by others who do the entire manufacturing thereof. Parent Metal does not make a single part that goes into the products sold. However, it does cut, shear, drill, rivet, fasten and bolt the component parts as it fashions them into the finished equipment. This, in our opinion, is not manufacturing as contemplated by the statute and the lower court erred in so ruling.

"The parts (themselves completed upon its receipt thereof) which appellee purchases are manufactured by others and are, as intended, components of work benches and the other vocational shop equipment. Appellee merely changes them from parts of benches or equipment into whole benches and similar equipment through the process of assembly or mechanical operation. This assembly process is not manufacturing. The fact that, in fitting together the integral parts, it is necessary to do some cutting, shearing or bolting does not make the act of assembling an act of manufacturing."

It is significant that the assembling of benches was found not to be manuacturing. Ford might very well have concluded from this opinion, if it had any knowledge of it, that the assembling of automobiles was not manufacturing; hence, that Ford would not be entitled to the manufacturing exemption in the computation of its Franchise Tax.

As all of you know, the manufacturing exemption is an exemption accorded in the computation of the Capital Stock Tax and the Franchise Tax for property or activities which are manufacturing. The law has never defined for Capital Stock and Franchise Tax purposes what "manufacturing" is. The Pennsylvania Courts, notwithstanding, have had to interpret what the meaning of the term "manufacturing" is in a long line of cases. These decisions hold that "fabricating, compounding and processing," which would include asembling, are not included within the term "manufacturing."

It seems appropriate, therefore, that it be made perfectly clear that it is the intent of this Legislature to include within the term "manufacturing", fabricating, compounding and processing for the purpose of the imposition of the Capital Stock and Franchise Taxes.

Accordingly, I have prepared a bill which I hereby introduce, and I hope that it will be promptly reported from committee and passed by this Body.

It will have the following salutary effects:

1. Clarify the meaning of the term "manufacturing" so that a company like Ford would be entitled to the manufacturing exemption when it assembles automobiles.

2. It would place the fabricating, compounding and procesing industries on a basis equal to that which is traditionally manufacturing.

3. It would promote industry in the Commonwealth and thereby relieve unemployment.

Mr. President, on behalf of my colleague, Senator McMenamin, and myself, I am presenting to the Chair the following two bills.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE CONCURS IN SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in the resolutions from the Senate, entitled:

Weekly Adjournment
Joint Session

ANNOUNCEMENT OF MEETING OF COMMITTEE ON LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, the Committee on Local Government has set the hour of 11:00 a.m. for its meeting every Tuesday. The last two meetings have been held in vain. We have quite a number of important bills in that committee which must be acted upon and acted upon soon.

Tomorrow, we have a most unusual schedule. Therefore, the hour must be changed from 11:00 to 8:30 a. m. tomorrow morning, in room 301. I trust that we will have a quorum. It may seem to be in the middle of the night, but I cannot help it.

ANNOUNCEMENT CONCERNING HIGHWAY OMNIBUS BILL

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I am not being optimistic when I make this statement, but generally the last piece of business the General Assembly takes care of, during the course of a Session, is usually the famous omnibus bill.

I spoke with the Chairman of the House Highways Committee, Representative Cromer, this morning. We have set up a deadline date of April 3, 1961 for all of the omnibus legislation.

Tomorrow, there will be the necessary applications on the Senator's desks. I hope all of the roads which are going to be included in the omnibus bill will be typed up in duplicate and returned to my office before April 3, 1961.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I guess in the next few months I will have to be similar to Cato in the Senate of Rome. I will get up from time to time and say: "Carthage must be destroyed." Of course, I am not destined for any destruction. However I am going to ask for a complete evaluation, reevaluation and allocation of several departments which are subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Public Welfare, Mrs. Horting.

I cannot concieve why such a division as general hospitals has to be placed under the Department of Public Welfare instead of the Department of Health. In the person of Doctor Wilbar, who is the Secretary of Health, we have one of the finest and most capable administrators. I would say he is second to none in the Nation. Yet, such an important subject as general hospitals and their administration is still under the Department of Public Welfare. After all, I am fully cognizant of the fact that some of the general hospitals are now in the distressed areas. Nevertheless, this should not be considered as welfare. This should be considered as a place for research, for healing, and not in the nature of custodial service. Why this particular branch of our government is under the Department of Public Welfare, I do not understand. It may be because in the heydays of Senator Shapiro, he tried to build an empire. Now the emperor is gone and we are dealing with an empress of the dust. The question is: Shall we permit this disarrangement to still persist in our government?

Therefore, Mr. President, I just rose to make a prologue, a preface, to the resolution which I am going to introduce tomorrow, asking the Joint State Government Commission to make a speedy survey and report to the Senate about the possibility of transferring all the general hospitals, now subject to the jurisdiction of the Department of Public Welfare, to the Department of Health.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I had hoped that the Legislative Reference Bureau would have been able to prepare, for introduction here this afternoon, a bill upon the subject which deals with the most shocking of situations all over this Country and which, of course, would deal with that situation in Pennsylvania.

In fact, every newspaper, daily publication, radio station and television station had announcements to the same effect as the one from which I am now reading; a Pittsburgh newspaper, under a New York dateline, as follows:

> "The massive search for little Edith Kiecorius ended today in a dingy Chelsea rooming house where her mistreated body had been lying for days."

Mr. President, crimes of this type are not confined to the city of New York, the city of Philadelphia, the city of Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Dallas, Los Angeles, or Seattle. However, people who commit these crimes live in all types of communities, urban and rural. They are apt to commit those crimes under situations which present themselves from time to time, and then we are again shocked by the report of a child having been mistreated by a sexually deviate crimminal.

Mr. President, I mention this subject here this afternoon in the belief that a number of the Members of this Senate will desire to join me in co-sponsoring a bill which will provide that any person who has been convicted of rape or assault and battery, with intent to rape, or a murder committed in the course of rape upon a child, shall be emasculated. It shall further provide that any person arrested and convicted of molestation or indecent assualt upon any child, under the age of sixteen years, and who has been determined by a board of physicians,—I have suggested five physicians—consisting of psychiatrists and medical doctors, to be a congenital psychiatric inferior shall also be subject to such emasculation.

Mr. President, I realize there are decisions which have held that laws of this type provide cruel and unusual punishment or an unlawful invasion of the person. However, it seems to me, Mr. President, in view of the heinous crimes which have been committed on children who have been murdered, after being misused, that a re-evaluation of this type of legislation and a study of the situation should be immediately undertaken in Pennsylvania.

Therefore, Mr. President, I say that when this bill is introduced, it will not be definitive. It will be subject to discussion in committee. It will be subject to amendment, in the hope that we may at least do something which will be a deterrent to this type of crime.

It is quite possible that we will also wish to amend the so-called Walker-Barr Act, which we passed here some time ago, providing that the courts may sentence a person of that type to life imprisonment. I understand, however, that this is rarely used. If it is used, then these persons are subject to parole. That I would eliminate, Mr. President.

Therefore, I would invite any Member of this Senate, who might care to do so, to join me in sponsoring this legislation which I will have ready for presentation at tomorrow's Session.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the gentleman that the penalty he seeks is a rather severe one, not that it may not be indicated in many of these cases and that we feel we ought to do this type of thing. However, I believe if anybody would carefully peruse some of the material that is about—notably, there is a very famous book by Doctor Karpman, who I think is now deceased or has since retired, called "The Sex Offender and His Offenses," which deals primarily with this problem.

In the last two Sessions of the Legislature,—I have not done it this Session because I have been a little busy with one or two other problems—I have asked that the Joint State Government Commission make a study on this subject wherein the schools would deal with these youngsters the same as they deal with them on the basis of checking vaccinations, knowing of diseases they have had and the condition of their teeth, because you will find that everyone of the people who were ever involved in these cases—and I do not care where you begin—have a previous history and it manifests itself in many stages.

I am not an expert on this subject, but I have done considerable reading on it and I happen to practice law occasionally in the city of Philadelphia when we are not here. I have defended some of these people. You will find that generally the history is that this begins at a very early age. You will find, in going back into history, that many of these people have begun to mainfest these different types of tendencies at a very early stage of development. In fact, you will find that sometimes they go on and marry and for even a time maintain what is a normal life as we know it, which will indicate to you also that they are trying sometimes to do something about it.

One of the reasons the Barr-Walker Act is not used by many courts or very many judges is that they feel—and I believe, Mr. President, you are familiar with this from your own experience, which has been considererable in this area— the institutions which we have to institutionalize these people are not equipped to handle this particular type of problem. These people are sick. They are people who are ill. They are not the same type of people who are in a later stage of the game—men and women—may get involved and have to be penalized or, in a sense, institutionalized and who may expose themselves, which is a part of senility or some later factor that comes in at a later stage of the game. These people are not of that type. They commit these acts or commit these crimes under the basis that they are quite ill. They cannot control themselves. It is impulsive with them when this happens, but there is a manifestation of it at an early stage of the game. So, they ought to be taken out of society at avery early stage of the game and taken from society until such time as somebody certifies they are ready to come back or are ready to return to the community under a limited type of freedom or probation setup.

We are not equipped to handle these cases. The seventy or eighty cases, and the probation people cannot see everybody and cannot possibly follow them up. Some of these people are in the condition that they are congenital liars. Some of them have many, many problems.

Unless you address yourslf to the immediate problem, you are going to have these outrageous crimes in our society. This happens all over the Country and it is just highlighted when something comes to the fore. This is something which does not receive the same publicity in the small communities. There are many small communities where it is never even brought up.

If we really want to address ourselves to this problem, I do not think we should do it in this fashion because this is the result; this is the way we feel after it has happened. What we are speaking about are things symptomatic of the disease. We should be concerned with those symptoms and try to cure them.

We are thinking about establishing a new Eastern and Western Penitentiary, and I think that we should consider some of the suggestions made by the penologists to build institutions in which to house these people and still have them perform some useful function and yet take them away from society.

If emasculating them is what the gentleman has in mind, I am not sure this would be constitutional. I think one of the landmarks of the law is the Oklahoma Case, and I guess everyone who has ever studied law remembers this. In this case, they decided to take people who were involved in a very serious crime—and they even delineated them; male or female—and perform the operation of vasectomy to make them sterile. This was held by the United States Supreme Court to be unconstitutional—depriving people of their rights and freedoms.

I am sure this would go into the same category. I think it is a cruel and unusual punishment for a person who is ill. I am sure if someone had tuberculosis or some other kind of disease, you would be a little more sympathetic and not treat him in the same fashion.

I am not saying this is not warranted because the crime that has been committed is a horrible crime. It is the type of thing that shocks any decent person. However, I think we ought to treat the symptom and not treat the net result.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I have no considerable knowledge at all of this subject, except in such discussions as I have had with some psychiatrists and some little reading on the subject.

I agree with the Senator that probably these people could be called sick. However, to quote psychiatrists to whom I have talked: "Yes, they are sick but just the same as a mad dog is sick." When you parole one of these people from a penal institution, you are doing the same as turning a mad dog loose, and it has been proven to be true many times, Mr. President.

Certainly, if there is a cure for this, it should be undertaken and found. However, to date, so far as I know and so far as my discussions have reached, there appears to be no known cure for such types. Consequently, we have the Barr-Walker Act, which says that the court may incarcerate them for life, because it is well known that they are not going to be cured of this sickness, if you will.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I am going to change the topic, if you want to call this a topic.

Over the week end, I am sure most of you know that Pennsylvania lost one of its most distinguished daughters. I think that this Session should not close without making mention of the fact of the passing of the late Violet Oakley; the artist who made this room, it seems to me, one of the most distinctive and beautiful legislative halls in America. We are greatly indebted to her and her work. She has given to us—those who worked here before us and those who will come after us—a sense of history and a better appreciation of the great heritage that we have inherited.

I hope the distinguished and very scholarly Senator from Philadelphia, when he gets the Public Welfare Department in order or before he does that, will pay a more adequate tribute to the work of this most famous and distinguished daughter of Pennsylvania, Violet Oakley, who has made this room a very distinctive room.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. FOERSTER. RESOLUTION No. 31.

In the House of Representatives, February 21, 1961.

The prompt and equitable adjustment or settling of automobile damage claims by insurance companies is a matter of importance to persons entitled to receive money from such claims.

There have been numerous complaints concerning such adjustments or settlements by the Nationwide Insurance Company in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of five House members to investigate the subject of very poor service in the adjustment and settling of automobile damage claims in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, by the Nationwide Insurance Company; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of their findings and recommendations to this Session of the General Assembly as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. VARNER and DENNISON (Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 32.

In the House of Representatives, February 21, 1961.

In the Fayette County area over twenty-two percent of the people are unemployed. Many of these people have spent all of their savings and now have to depend upon the supply of surplus food to tide them over.

While all this is true, during the month of February there was no surplus food distribution in Fayette County. The President of the United States has ordered the surplus food allotments doubled and the speed of distribution increased, yet in one of our own counties there are fifty-five thousand people eligible for surplus food. Many of these are children who are going to bed hungry.

It is obvious that some officials, either at the local, State or national level, have been derelict in their duties in handling the surplus food distribution program in Fayette County; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring) That the Speaker of the House of Representatives appoint a committee of three members of the House and the President pro tempore of the Senate appoint three members of the Senate, who together shall constitute a joint committee to make a thorough investigation as to the causes and effect of the mismanagement of the surplus food distribution in Fayette County; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee may meet, hold hearings, take testimony and make its investigations whether the General Assembly is in session or in recess. It may issue subpoenas under the hand and seal of its chairman, commanding any person to appear before it and to answer questions touching matters properly being inquired into by the committee, and to produce any books, papers, records and documents as the committee deems necessary. Any person who wilfully neglects or refuses to testify before the committee or to produce any books, papers, or documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of the Commonwealth in such cases. Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before the committee; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee make a report of their findings and recommendations to this session of the General Assembly as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the lady from Montgomery rise?

Mrs. HENZEL. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The lady will state it.

Mrs. HENZEL. Because of a situation beyond my control, I was unable to remain for the final vote on S. B. 53, the fair housing bill. I wish it recorded that had I been present for the vote as well as for the debate, I should have found it impossible to support the bill as passed. The conflicts in my own mind between the various aspects of human and civil rights still exist. However, I cling to the fact that we pride ourselves on being citizens of a democracy. The philosophy of this type of government does not mean to me that we make progress by almost completely taking away the rights of one section of our society in order that another might gain. In my thinking, this is not growth; it is regression. Every effort was made to bring the bill into line in a manner which would benefit both those who are presently denied certain privileges while retaining for others at least a degree of private property rights. My own amendment, introduced to raise from one to five the number of housing accommodations under one ownership in the exempt area, would have done just this. It would still have retained, under legislation, those engaging in real estate for a business or for purposes of speculation. It would, on the other hand, have protected those who have property which has been acquired through inheritance or the investment of smaller savings. This amendment was defeated.

The bill which we now have legislates to a far more stringent degree against the private property rights of the citizens of Pennsylvania than any other state in the Union. Such stringent legislative control of private property rights is not, in my opinion, something of which we of this Commonwealth should boast or be proud. Equitable distribution of rights, human and civil, are every body's privilege. If these are to be legislated, they should be done in an equitable manner. This bill does not accomplish that purpose nor support that philosophy.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the Republican membership would like to take a break to caucus, but we can go right ahead and refer bills and do all other things and save time that way. Could we proceed with that?

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. AGNEW. That is agreeable, Mr. Speaker. I call a Republican House caucus at this time, the usual weekly caucus. We will ask for 45 minutes.

REPORT OF GENERAL STATE AUTHORITY

STATEMENT BY MINORITY LEADER

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, there are many problems facing the people of Pensylvania. Among these are chronic unemployment, public education, and a host of lesser matters. It is the duty, we Republicans contend, of the elected State officials, the Governor and the members of the General Assembly, particularly, to face these problems and to solve them to the best of their ability. The question is, are we doing everything in Pensylvania we should be doing to solve these problems, or are we drifting with the tide and hoping that someone else or some other level of government, such as the Federal government, will solve these problems for us.

The problems of the Commonwealth demand leadership. In the governmental nature of things in Pensylvania, leadership can come from only one person, the Governor of the Commonwealth. We need in Pennsylvania a Governor who not only has the ability to lead, but has the personal courage to lead. In Pennsylvania we need a full-time Governor, a man with vision, ideas and a program to lift Pennsylvania and her citizens up by the bootstraps.

Unfortunately, today Pennsylvania has a part-time, do-nothing Governor. He spends more time away from his duties in Harrisburg than he does in attending to them. We concede that the Governor has an able assistant in Bill Green, Philadelphia's pride and joy. Perhaps when the Governor of Pennsylvania has such an able assistant, the job of chief executive of the Commonwealth becomes one only of part-time performance.

We desire to point out, however, as a minority party, that David L. Lawrence was elected Governor of Pennsylvania by the people of Pennsylvania and not Bill Green, David Kurtzman, David Baldwin or Walter Giesey, and as such the Governor has a deep and personal obligation to every citizen of this Commonwealth.

It is my pleasure to announce that the Republican Party, commencing March 1, 1961, has made arrangements to keep a record of our wandering Governor. We shall list the days he is in Harrisburg and the days he is in Pittsburgh, and periodically we shall make such information available publicly. We believe that the Governor can better do the job for which he was elected by serving in Harrisburg and by spending far less of his time in Pittsburgh overseeing the affairs of the local Democrat political organization in Allegheny County. We shall also announce in the near future a record of the Governor's whereabouts during the first two months of this year, if this information can be accurately tabulated. We believe that the people of Pennsylvania will be shocked to discover how little time our Governor has spent in Harrisburg during the first two months of this year.

We also ask the Governor—and we think we have the right to so ask—to exert a little more personal courage. I do not like to disagree with my friend from Adams County, Mr. Worley, but it is obvious to me that Pennsylvania's Governor should have an executive mansion and that such an establishment should be in or very near to the city of Harrisburg, and not some 20 miles distant.

The Governor apparently thought so, also, but at the first faint blush of criticism he retreated and has now taken a stand which is fence-straddling at best. "Governor," in the words of another famous Democrat, "if you cannot take the heat, get out of the kitchen." If you are able to make a decision and take a stand on any subject, including the location of a proposed executive mansion, please let us know about it. It will be as refreshing as a spring breeze to have a little leadership from the front office, especially leadership that does not panic everytime there is an adverse article in the public press.

Mr. Speaker, we would advise the Governor that it is too late for the "politics-as-usual" approach. Increasing the State payroll by many thousands of persons is not the answer to what ails Pennsylvania. It is the time for real leadership. The people of Pennsylvania have a right to expect such leadership from their duly elected Governor. Governor, it is now up to you.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I of course, did not know that when we came back from the Republican caucus we would go into a "politics-as-usual" discussion.

For the information of the minority leader, there is published and released to the press of Pennsylvania the schedule of the Governor every given day of the week, for every week of the year, and copies are mimeographed and available for your office as well as the press, who get them each week.

When the Governor of this Commonwealth is addressing various groups within the confines of this Commonwealth, he is still carrying out the duties of the Governor. When, for example, last week he flew to Detroit, Michigan, to plead with Henry Ford regarding the factory at Chester, Pennsylvania, I would consider that of prime importance to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In many cases I think you will have to agree that you do not need to tabulate the information. You can tabulate it if you want to, but we will make arrangements to have one copy available to you, which will indicate the Governor's schedule from Monday to Saturday, inclusive, and, in many cases, Sunday, when such meetings are a part of State functions. Then you will have no trouble checking for the information.

I will say that the Governor is not a Governor who is absent, or failing to carry out his duties.

I say to the Republican leadership, as I have stated many times, your basic trouble is that you do not stand for things, you are only against, and the day you learn to be for a positive program the people of Pennsylvania will listen to you. We believe you are starting to think in positive terms, positive terms in legislative programs, but now you are going to think in negative terms on executive action. That is your prerogative and you can do as you please.

I am confident you will find, when you release your report, that our Governor of this Commonwealth does not have to duck any issues. The recommendation for the mansion that you spoke about was presented to the committee by a man by the name of General Edward Martin, who was the Governor of this Commonwealth. The decision as to the mansion has not been made as to its location. I believe the members of that committee are Miss Blatt, Stuart Helm and myself, and I believe that we will make a recommendation as to the location of the mansion in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I am confident we will.

We do know we were not going to look at any ground until the snow was off the ground. But just for the information of the Harrisburg people, we have more recommended sites in the Harrisburg area for the construction of a mansion than I ever knew existed around this city, and I am sure the committee will select the site for the mansion that they believe should be recommended to the executive committee.

Mr. Speaker, this was not a political meeting and I was hoping that we could get on with the calendar today and move rather rapidly in an effort to finish by 6 o'clock.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. FINEMAN asked and obtained permission for the Committee on State Government to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. EILBERG asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, this session is almost two months in duration and there has been a relative calm in this chamber. I think I have hardly heard Bill Green's name spoken until today. Perhaps once before in this session.

I would like to suggest, Mr. Speaker, to the minority leader that in respect to his insinuations about Bill Green, which he made on the floor today and also in the newspapers over the weekend, I think he is not so much concerned with the figure Bill Green as the Democratic majority in the city of Philadelphia.

I suggest, Mr. Speaker, that the minority leader is concerned with the figure of 331,534. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, in the last election our party voted 622,534 for our ticket, whereas the opposition figure voted 291,000. Our majority in Philadelphia was 331,000, a ratio of more than two to one. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, the people of Philadelphia are for Mr. Green and the Democratic Party.

Thank you very much.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. KORNICK. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I was somewhat alarmed or surprised at the statements made on the floor of this schamber by two gentlemen, Mr. Varner of Clarion County and Mr. Dennison of Jefferson County, asking that an investigation be made into the distribution of surplus food in Fayette County. I was very distressed and shocked, as were all the people of Fayette County, by the headlines in the newspapers over Pennsylvania, all of which seem to leave the question unsolved, and the published reports left the impression that perhaps something is wrong in Fayette County.

I want to state here before all the members of this House, with all the emphasis that I can command, that there is nothing wrong with the distribution of surplus food in Fayette County. The only thing that is wrong is the great number of unemployed that has swelled the rolls of the people eligible for surplus food to where it was impossible to obtain the necessary food for distribution in the month of February.

Perhaps it would be proper here, in order that all of you might understand the tremendous amount of work involved in making a distribution of surplus food in such a county as Fayette, to state a few of the facts. I hope I can convey to you sufficient information that you will know that the officials of my county charged with the distribution of surplus food have been doing, and will continue to do the very best of their ability, to help all people who are in this uncomfortable and intolerable position through no fault of their own. Our economic condition has gone from a recognized bad position to where it has now reached a critical and desperate stage. To illustrate, I wish to give you a few figures that demonstrate very clearly what our position is. These figures are not drawn out of thin air, but are from the State Employment and Security Office in Uniontown, Pennsylvania. This report is as of January 15, 1961.

We have a total able-bodied civilian labor force of 47,000; we have a total unemployed labor force of 13,000; this represents 27.9 per cent unemployed in my county.

This 27.9 per cent represents, by far, the highest rate of unemployment in all the 67 counties in Pennsylvania, and, from the information we have, there is no area in the entire United States to compare with it.

We have 8,400 persons commuting out of Fayette County every day. This figure is from the same office. We are also informed that in 1960 there was a total of 19,197 continued inter-state unemployment claims filed by residents of Fayette County for out-of-State unemployment benefits.

I also wish to inform you of the number of people dependent upon public assistance in Fayette County as of February 1, 1961.

We have now 20,714 persons, which represents 7,118 families. These figures also represent the highest number per capita in all the 67 counties in Pennsylvania receiving grants from the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance.

The Federal Government program for the distribution of surplus food, administered by the county, discloses that as of January 31, 1961, there were 19,000 eligible for and receiving surplus food. This was the number of persons registered at the regular quarterly registration for the period beginning November 1, 1960, and ending January 31, 1961. The new quarterly registration began the first of February, 1961, and there has been a tremendous increase in the number of registrations of persons who qualify to participate in the distribution of surplus food. This figure is now estimated to reach 55,000, and will probably be higher when the registration ends on February 28th.

This is a stark and ugly picture of the economic conditions as they exist today in Fayette County. It is in this unbearable position that we find ourselves.

With the inception of the program for the distribution of surplus food in June 1954, no one at that time realized how far-reaching would be the extent, or the period, for the distribution of this food. In fact, at that time the agents of the government, Federal and State, were of the opinion that it was only a temporary measure, but the Board of County Commissioners of Fayette County at that time, as well as the present Board, have with no reservations whatsoever set up the necessary machinery for the distribution of food at that time, and the present Board is continuing. At the beginning of the surplus food program in June of 1954, there were no rules, no regulations, no nothing, and the Board of County Commissioners had to set up their own forms, bookkeeping forms, distribution forms, registration forms, and I might add that these forms were copied by the Department in Harrisburg and, with very few changes, were made the official forms of procedure in the distribution of food for all of Pennsylvania.

The Board of County Commisioners of Fayette County have probably the best warehouse for the storage of surplus food of any county in Pennsylvania. They have made the necessary arrangements for refrigeration of perishable food, and will be able to take care of any amount of food that might be needed or that might be shipped.

There has never been one question raised by anyone concerning the distribution of surplus food in Fayette County, other than the two gentlemen from Clarion and Jefferson Counties, but, on the other hand, the county has been commended time and again for doing a tremendous job under very trying circumstances. As I have stated before, the only reason there is not a distribution of food in February is due to the fact of this tremendous increase in registration. The people of Fayette County understand this situation, the people who are recipients and eligible for surplus food understand perfectly well the situation, and there certainly has been no protest from any of them. There has not been one protest from any source.

The people of my county are used to hardships and they have learned to bear those hardships, and to take no undue advantage of their fellowman. I sincerely believe if a poll were taken today of all the people who are on the surplus food rolls in Fayette County and they were asked whether a partial distribution should be made, that some would be able to receive surplus food and thousands of others would receive none, that it would be unanimous that these people only want a distribution when everyone can receive their quota, and that would be impossible for the month of February.

This is certainly not any reflection on the officials in charge at the county level, and I might add, also, that with a very small salaried personnel the distribution of food in Fayette County at more than 40 distribution points has been made by volunteers, and I am sure that everyone in Fayette County has nothing but praise for this group of dedicated persons who have made possible the carrying on of this program.

The people of my county, the officials, the Board of County Comissioners, especially, who are responsible for this distribution, do not lay any blame on anyone for not having the food here in order that this distribution could be made. They certainly have no fault to find with the officials in charge of these distributions at the State level and the national level, and I believe that any statement questioning the distribution and the carrying on of this program came with poor grace from the gentleman from Clarion County and the gentleman from Jefferson County, who in my opinion have no conception of the amount of work involved in making a distribution of food in a county such as Fayette. Persons on the surplus food rolls in Fayette County outnumber by far the entire population of either Clarion County or Jefferson County. I am sure that the officials charged with this responsibility in Fayette County would welcome any constructive help that would make the administration of this program more efficient.

The able-bodies citizens of Fayette County who are dependent upon surplus food do not want unemployment checks, they do not want Department of Public Assistance grants, they do not want surplus food; what they want is employment. If that is done, the distribution of surplus food, not only in Fayette County, but everywhere, will not be necessary, for these people then can purchase their own commodities with ther own earned money.

There is not a community anywhere in the United States where the people have done more to help themselves than in Fayette County. I want you to know that the people representing every segment of our society, industrialists, labor, bankers, lawyers, doctors, farmers, representatives of government at the county level, city level, borough level, and township level have banned together to try to help themselves. These people are doing, and will continue to do so, by hard work, united effort, and their own money, too, not only to help every citizen in Fayette County, but are endeavoring to bring, or build, new industries in our county, to replace our lost ones caused by the depletion of the nine-foot or Pittsburgh vein of coal. We have done everything possible by ourselves to provide employment for our people and to try to bring back to our county those who are forced to be separated from their families in order to seek employment out of State. Hundreds of these people own their own homes in Fayette County.

The people of Fayette County have struggled with this economic unemployment problem; they have reached the limit of their resources; they have gone far beyond what they should have spent from their own private funds in order to help this intolerable situation.

The things I have told you, my friends, concern only Fayette County and I inform you of them not for the purpose of finding fault with any one person or any group of persons, but I have told them in the hope that you might better understand the situation that now exists in our county.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. EILBERG asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, in connection with House bill 63, this is the second time the legislature has voted upon identically the same joint resolution, and, if the measure passes the Senate and is then voted upon favorably by the people, this will constitute an amendment to the Constitution. Some members on the other side have asked me with regard to the enabling legislation which will follow this amendment should it become a part of the Constitution. Upon checking with Roy Schafer of the Governor's Office, I have learned that the enabling legislation will amplify and establish the standards with regard to the need or needs of the particular veterans involved. I can safely say, Mr. Speaker, the fear that some of the members have regarding the veteran who resides in a large apartment house which he happens to own can be allayed. The veteran will not qualify because the enabling legislation that will be proposed will eliminate that possibility.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. To make a brief answer, Mr. Speaker, to the statement of Mr. Eilberg in reference to the bill which we just voted upon, the joint resolution.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears no objection. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCORMACK. It was precisely for the reasons mentioned by Mr. Eilberg that I failed to have my vote recorded. I did not want to vote against the veterans. At the same time I thought the resolution was unfair in that it applied equally regardless of what the particular veteran owned, or whether or not he was wealthy or poor, and for that reason I did not cast my vote. It was really under a misapprehension that I did so, and I would like that fact recorded on the record—that if I had heard Mr. Eilberg before the vote was taken I would have cast my vote in favor of the resolution.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spead upon the record.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 302, entitled:

An Act amending the "Pennsylvania Fertilizer Law of 1956" approved May 29, 1956 (P. L. 1795) providing for the filing of reports and statements by certain persons changing the method of sampling inspection and analysis.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCANDLESS asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 5), page 2, lines 11, 12 and 13, by striking out "in such a manner as to include the" in line 11, all of line 12 and "fertilizer" in line 13.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. McCANDLESS. Mr. Speaker, I want to say a word on this amendment before we vote on it.

My objection to this part of the bill goes to only one part of the amendment in the bill, but it seems to me I have heard objection from some of the fertilizer plant managers in our State here, local State concerns, against this part of this bill.

In reporting the tonnage and the grades of fertilizer by county, the objection is that this would give out-of-State manufactures a chance to see where the tonnage and the grades of fertilizer lay and therefore concentrate their sales force in this area.

I ask the members of this House to vote for this amendment.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we will support the amendments offered by the gentleman, Mr. McCandless. I ask our members to vote "aye."

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the amendments?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?
It was agreed to.
Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 309, entitled:

An Act amending the "Oleomargarine or Butterine Law" approved June 30, 1947 (P. L. 1154) defining certain terms.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I would request majority leader to hold this bill over until tomorrow. There is a lot of confusion on it in our caucus as to just what it does, how far it extends existing law, and we are very much interested in the bill. We would request that it be held over until tomorrow, if that is possible.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we certainly could do that, but if it is the question that was asked before pertaining to House bill 309, we do have the answer. If it is a question about the institutions of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, we do have the answer.

Mr. AGNEW. May we have the answer?

Mr. McCANN. The answer is yes, this law, or proposed legislation, would apply to the inmates and the institutions operated by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I would further interrogate the gentleman by asking just what is the purpose of the bill? Is it to restrict the right to use colored margarine in public places, or is it to extend the right? What is the purpose of the bill?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I did not ask that question, but when we did discuss this bill on the question that was raised about institutions, I received the answer. So from that I would say it would be to extend the use. I did not ask that question. We can gladly hold the bill if you want to get the answer, or are there any other questions that could be raised now so the answers could be gotten for tomorrow?

Mr. AGNEW. The only question I would ask is, what is the intent of the bill? Is it to restrict or is it to enlarge upon the present law? That was the confusion in our caucus and it came up at the last minute.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we will have the answer outlined by the minority leader tomorrow for 309. I will ask that it be passed over today then.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The Chair withdraws the decision that the bill was agreed to on third reading.

On the question recurring,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request that this bill be passed over.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection,
House Bill No. 309, Printer's No. 338
was passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

There being no objection,
House Bill No. 313, Printer's No. 342
was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 332, entitled:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House of Representatives has passed the same without amendment.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the minority leader if they have had a chance to go over the resolutions so that we may vote on them

The SPEAKER. The majority leader is interrogating the minority leader.

Mr. AGNEW. We are ready.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, did the Republican caucus have an opportunity to poll the resolutions?

Mr. AGNEW. No, we did not. We ran out of time, Mr. Speaker. Perhaps there are several that are noncontroversial.

Will the gentleman suggest one or two that he would like to vote on?

Mr. McCANN. We have Resolution No. 13 cleared, Resolution 18, on page 8, Resolution 19 will be amended, Resolution 22, Resolution 24, Resolution 25, and Resolution Senate 105.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to have House Resolution 25, printer's No. 395 go over. I would like to confer with the minority leader about this.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I believe we are ready to vote on Resolution 18, House Resolution 18.

RESOLUTIONS

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 18

Mr. McCANN. Mr Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 18 on page 7 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1961.

Resolved (the Senate concurring) That the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commision is hereby requested to erect and install radio antennae facilities in the several Turnpike Tunnels for the safety and convenience of the travelling public and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 19

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on page 8, I call up House Resolution 19 for the purpose of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Rovansek, offering amendments.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1961.

Whereas A considerable amount of inconvience is occasioned by the tests being given by the State Police in compliance with the Governor's Safety Program in the Johnstown area. The main portion of this inconvenience stems from the fact that only a portion of these tests take place in State Police offices. In many instances these offices are inadequately equipped and their facilities limited to complete the tests therefore be it

Resolved That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urge the Governor to establish centrally located stations with a physician in attendance qualified to complete the physical test necessary to obtaining a drivers license and be it further

Resolved, That these stations be equipped with the necessary facilities and adequate personel to facilitate the completion of these tests and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Governor.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. ROVANSEK offered the following amendments:

Amend the preamble, page 1, line 4 of preamble, by striking out "only."

Amend first resolution, page 2, line 1, by striking out "with a physician in attendance qualified."

Amend first resolution, page 2, lines 1 and 2, by striking out "the physical test" and inserting: tests.

Amend second resolution, page 2, line 5, by inserting after "tests:" and that one of these stations be located in the area of the City of Johnstown.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The resolution will lie over for printing under the rules.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, if the majority leader desires, he can roll Resolutions 22 and 24. On 24 the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, would like to make a statement.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 22

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House resolution No. 22.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 31, 1961.

Whereas, There are many areas within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which are sources of chronic unemployment and

Whereas, There are many areas within the Commonwealth burdened with a surplus of labor and

Whereas, These conditions have created many cases of hardship as well as placing additional burdens upon the communities wherein these areas exist and

Whereas, There are numerous industries firms and merchants which employ Pennsylvania residents and which manufacture and sell commodities utilized by agencies and departments of the Commonwealth and

Whereas, Said industries firms concerns and merchants oft times require additional sales stimulus in order to continue in operation and continue employment of Pennsylvania residents and

Whereas, Said industries firms concerns and merchants in many instances are not successful in their efforts to sell said commodities to the agencies and departments of the Commonwealth therefore be it

Resolved, That all agencies including the Department of Property and Supplies making purchases for the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania be urged to give preference to industries firms concerns and merchants having their place of business within the Commonwealth and which give employment to residents of Pennsylvania and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Governor and the Secretary of the Department of Property and Supplies.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 24

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House resolution No. 24.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 1, 1961.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is presently facing one of the most critical periods in its history. The decline of certain of our basic industries combined with increased automation and a general recession throughout industry have brought about critical unemployment particularly in certain areas. This mass unemployment has imposed severe hardship and suffering upon countless numbers of our fellow citizens and has rendered their very existence perilous.

Thousands of our men living in depresed areas are anxious and able to work if only they are given the opportunity to do so therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby declares its intent to do everything within its power to remedy this severe unemployment problem and with that objective in mind and be it further

Resolved, That all agencies of Federal State and local government anyone holding contracts with such agencies and all other persons in any way connected with the building of highways flood control projects or any other propects in the distresed areas of our Commonwealth are hereby urgently requested to exclusively utilize local labor and materials unless otherwise restricted by law and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Governor of this Commonwealth the Secretary of Property and Supplies the Secretary of Highways the Secretary of Forests and Waters the Secretary of Mines and Mineral Industries the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission the General State Authority the State Public School Building Authority the State Highway and Bridge Authority the Fish and Game Commissions and such other agencies and authorities within the Commonwealth which in any way purchase use or contract for labor or materials and be it further

Resolved, That all public officials at all levels consider this urgent request of the General Asembly and strenuously endeavor to cooperate with it and make its request known to all concerned especially those with whom they do business.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I am going to vote for House Resolution No. 24 because we are almost in a position where we cannot vote against laws, but I want to call the attention of the House to the fact that his resolution asks this General Assembly to urge, or urgently requests, all agencies to utilize labor and materials to alleviate unemployment in the distresed areas.

Now you, in effect, are saying this when you do this—and I am for helping out the depressed areas. But you are saying to those who might not be a depressed area in the State of Pennsylvania, we do not care to recognize you on the question of unemployment. We do not care to recognize you in the question of awarding contracts.

I think you are being unfair in asking that this be done only in depressed areas. I think it should be done generally throughout the State of Pennsylvania and not planned to discriminate against various geographical sections just because they are not depressed.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, we request the majority leader to hold the rest of the resolutions. If he wants to, we can vote on them tomorrow.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I, of course, would like to inform the membership that there will be many committee meetings announced from the floor here for meetings tomorrow morning and I would ask that everyone please record the committee meetings as announced.

I would also like to say that tomorrow we will be in a position to vote on bills 355, 356, 387, on page 6. These bills were on second reading today and will move to third reading. We would like to make arrangements for a very brief caucus to caucus on eight bills, the most important would be the library bill which was amended, House bill 132. The amendments to the bill have now been placed in the bill and the bill will be printed, Mr. Tompkins and Mr. Polen, following the conferences, and I believe the bill will be in postition to be voted on at tomorrow's session.

I would like to recommend that tomorrow we take a very brief caucus for the purpose of covering nine bills and vote on them in tomorrow's session.

Mr. AGNEW. I make a formal request of the majority leader, if he can, to hold House bill 132 until next week. If he insists on running it tomorrow, we will insist on a caucus. We have many members of our caucus who would like a little more time to analyze the bill. It is a complex bill, a comprehensive bill, We are generally for the principles outlined in the bill, but we would like to be able to digest and analyze the forty-some pages of provisions that the bill contains.

Now it has been on the calendar a couple of weeks, I will admit, but it was amended rather extensively today. We would like the right, the privilege, to hold the bill over until next week and we promise you we will be prepared to vote on it then. If you insist on rolling it tomorrow, I do not know what position our caucus will take. It may be that we will provide no votes for the bill this week. It may be that our members will be on their own, but I would request, because so many members of our caucus have asked me to, that the bill be held over until next week. That is in the light of the bill and the amendments that were submitted today.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman consent to caucus on the bill tomorrow, because in the amended version it gives you an opportunity to raise the question should it still have to be held over for any reason to find some answers? I do know that this bill was placed on the calendar for the express purpose of putting the bill before the membership so they could work on amendments to the bill. Of course, I, in the end, will be guided by the decision that you people may make in your caucus. I feel that the amendments placed in the bill today make the bill more satisfactory to a greater number of the members of this House, and I feel that a greater number will support the bill as it is amended.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, we will leave it on that basis. We will caucus on the bill and then we will notify the majority leader what the position of our caucus is.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, could I ask the gentleman to consider in his caucus House bills 195, 276, 321, 326, 331, 346 and 416?

Mr. AGNEW. We will check those numbers with the majority leader and make sure that we have covered them all.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, would it be appropriate at this time to offer the resolution that we did not have ready last week, but we would like to offer and enact in this House for immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. Yes, this is a privileged resolution, I think.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, before proceeding on that subject—it is not clear to me—did the gentleman, the majority leader, indicate that if the Republican caucus wants House bill 132 held up for the week, then that would be done? Is that correct, or not?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe that would be correct.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. That is why I wanted to know whether it was going to be held up. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman.

Will the gentleman indicate whether the members of this House have been furnished with figures indicating the impact of House bill 132 on their local libraries back home?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe that the members of this House have been given figures dealing with specific impact on the library in their communities. That would be correct.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman know whether or not such figures are available?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have the figures available on an individual situation, but there has been a report prepared covering this. In addition, you have also received, I believe, as I have, the present state-wide cost of the present bill, the proposed or estimated cost of the bill in its full working order in future years. These figures have been finished and they are part of the Appropriations Committee hearings.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I happen to know that there are figures available showing in each county which libraries are affected and how much they will receive, if anything. We have requested that those figures be made available to the Republican House members and I, therefore, in substantiation or in further answer to the minority leader's request, would request that the bill be held over for the week so we can discuss the impact with our constituents back home.

Mr. McCANN. I believe the request, Mr. Speaker, of course, has every indication of having a justifiable reason for being asked. I do not believe that the amendments offered by Mr. Polen and Mr. Tompkins will, in any way, change those figures from the amendments that were inserted into the bill. I am not very sure of Mr. Tompkins' complete amendment, but I do not believe they affect it in any manner. So, if you can caucus on this bill and discuss it and give us an opportunity to vote on it, we would vote. If you indicate that you want and desire, after your caucus that we hold the bill over, I, of course, will abide by your wishes, and then I hope you can clear it for the following Monday. But I would like to say again, that the time from adjournment this week, on Tuesday, will be a most opportune time to get the necessary questions or answers that you desire or want on any piece of legislation, so we would be in a position, the following week, to define those answers and immediately prepare the amendments to correct the situation, instead of waiting week after week.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the gentleman. If he wants to furnish us with the figures, we will accept them from his side, too.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, the amendments which were placed in the bill today by the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, and myself in no way change or alter the State subsidy formula or the amendments. Until last week we had no knowledge, at least I had no knowledge, that any breakdown figures of county by county were available. Last night we were told that and at only 3 o'clock this afternoon a few members on the Republican side were furnished with the breakdown sheet. We are going to have this reproduced and use them on Monday. So they will have it to take home with them this weekend to discuss the impact of this situation with their constituents. I think it is only fair, inasmuch as the information has only been available since as late as 3 o'clock this afternoon, that we did give consideration to holding this bill over until next Monday.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will proceed to move then. We very likely will abide by their request. I, of course, received that same report, which I assume Mr. Tompkins is speaking about, and it was available. It covers every county in the Commonwealth.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, that may have been given to those who served on the Appropriations Committee, but copies were not passed out to the public to give to the members generally so they would have their information.

RESOLUTION

THANKS AND CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. McCANN and AGNEW asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer a resolution and for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 27, 1961.

Whereas, The members of the Senate and House of Representatives met in joint session in the House chambers to commemorate the visit of President-elect Lincoln to Harrisburg, on February 22, 1861.

Instead of the usual reading of appropriate resolutions, a pageant was held in which the historical occasion was reenacted by the present presiding officers of the Senate and of the House of Representatives, in welcoming Presidnt-elect Lincoln and in making forceful speeches promising the support of Pennsylvania in his efforts to save the Union from disruption; Then, followed the secretary of the Governor, Mr. Otis Morse, in the role of Lincoln who made the same speech which Lincoln made on that famous occasion. Since all of the presiding officers of the Senate and House of Representatives as well as other members of both Houses were dressed in the colorful costumes of the period of 1861, and our own speaker was seen taking a bit of snuff from a silver snuff box, the illusion was complete since we were indeed back in 1861.

It was a beautiful and inspiring pageant and Dr. Sylvester K. Stevens, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission is to be congratulated upon the successful achievement of the reenactment of one of Pennsylvania's great historical events; therefore be it Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend to Dr. Sylvester K. Stevens, Executive Director of the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission, its thanks and hearty congratulations upon the very successful pageantry depicting the visit of President-elect Lincoln to Harrisburg on February 22, 1861, and for giving our officers and others the opportunity to relive for a few brief hours, the lives of some of our great patriots of that day.

We will submit them at this time each week for the next several weeks; additional bills will be submitted to carry out the entire program. Again, we request the majority to examine these bills and see wherein some areas we cannot perhaps agree and pass with bi-partisan support some of these measures into law of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

SENATE

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1961.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplan, Rev. ANSELM OBER, O. S. B., Assistant, St. Mary's Church, Patton, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

Almighty and eternal God, Who, in the seventh chapter of the Book of Ecclesiasticus, advises us thusly concerning conduct in public life:

"Sow not in the furrows of injustice, lest you harvest it sevenfold . . . . Seek not to become a judge if you have not strength to root out crime . . . . Be guilty of no evil before the city's populace and do not disgrace yourself before the assembly . . . ."

In Chapter 10, God advises us thusly:

"A wise magistrate lends stability to his people and the government of a prudent man is well ordered . . . ."

Grant, therefore, O Lord, to the Members of this Legislative Body of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the gift of prudence in both their public and especially in their legislative duties, so that the far-reaching affects of their decisions may be the best possible for the people of this Commonwealth, the prosperity of our beloved Country and Thy greater honor and glory. Amen.

Which was committed to the Committee on Agriculture.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. MAHADY asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the bill which I am about to introduce would permit cities, boroughs, townships and other municipal subdivisions to use the money allocated under the fuels tax to repay an indebtdness to be entered into—both principal, interest and sinking fund—to build roads.

Under the present Act, they can only use the money from the gasoline fund to construct or maintain roads during the current year in which it is received. This will permit alleviation of the so-called recession. Also, by allowing it to be funded over a period of time, the new roads will decrease the maintenance cost of any municipality, city or borough.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. MAHADY, HAYS, ROONEY, and KALMAN presented to the Chair SB 313, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 1, 1956 (P. L. 1944), entitled "An act providing a permanent allocation of a part of the fuels and liquids fuels tax proceeds to cities, boroughs, incorporated towns and townships, for their road, street and bridge purposes; . . . Messrs. DEVLIN, SESLER and CAMIEL presented to the Chair SB 315, entitled:

An Act amending the act of June 3, 1937 (P. L. 1225), entitled "The Game Law," removing provisions relating to archery preserves.

Which was committed to the Committee on Forests and Waters, Game and Fish.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, a similar bill to the one which I am about to introduce has already been introduced by myself, Senator Fleming, I believe, and Senator Kromer, which has to do with the Justices of the Peace, as a constitutional amendment.

If I may say so, I think that my association with the Justices of the Peace in my county has led me to believe that this bill is perhaps a better bill than the one which I originally introduced. Therefore, I hope this bill will have clear sailing through the Senate.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. PECHAN and KROMER presented to the Chair SB 316, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to article five, section eleven of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, changing the justice of the peace and alderman system.

Which was committed to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations.

Messrs. CAMIEL, McCREESH and VAN SANT presented to the Chair SB 317, entitled:

An Act amending the act of April 12, 1951 (P. L. 90), entitled "Liquor Code," prohibiting the refilling of any liquor bottle or other liquor container.

Which was committed to the Committee on Law and Order.

Messrs. CAMIEL, McCREESH, VAN SANT and DONOLOW presented to the Chair SB 318, entitled:

NAYS—1

Hawbaker,

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

HB 4—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am constrained to vote against this bill only on the basis of principle. I am opposed to piecemeal constitutional amendments. I believe the time is at hand when the entire Constitution has to be revised in toto.

Furthermore, I do not see why we should limit the term of the Governor to one additional term to succeed himself and deprive him of service to the Commonwealth in case we have a very capable man. In the State of New York, the Governor can succeed himself as many times as he deems it necessary to run and the people elect him.

For this reason only, because of principle, I am against this bill. Governor Lawrence cannot benefit by this bill, as much as I would like to see him succeed himself. Therefore, I am going to vote against it.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

HB 98 CALLED UP

HB 98—Without objection, the bill, which previously went over in its order temporarily, was called up, from page 1 of the Final Passage Calendar, by Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

HB 98—Read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I expect to vote for this bill. I do not know how my colleagues are going to vote on it, but I am doing it for these reasons. I have not had one letter or one telephone call opposing this bill from any of the people who are involved under this legislation.

We, in the past two weeks, have passed legislation which would accelerate the collection of taxes on industry and various other facets of our government, some of which I voted for and some of which I did not.

Now I feel this bill does not raise the tax. It only accelerates the payment of eight mills, which they are presently paying. I am afraid, unless this bill is passed, that some of the other bills which we did pass might be outlawed because they will not be in conformity with the trust companies and title companies.

For these reasons, I am going to vote for this bill. I feel, too, since some of the national banks are appealing the eight mills, that certainly they will drop their appeals and the State Government will collect the money that is in arrears.

For these reasons, Mr. President, I am going to vote for this bill.

Mr. STROUP. Mr. President, I intend to vote for this bill, without naming the issue at all, and assign as my reasons those so well explained by Senator Pechan.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

I will not elaborate upon this. I understand that a number of Senators might like to co-sponsor this bill, and I certainly have no objection to their signatures being affixed to the bill.

HOUSE MESSAGE

HOUSE RESOLUTION FOR CONCURRENCE

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the House, which was read by the Clerk as follows:

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE CONGRESSMAN WALTER M. MUMMA

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1961.

The untimely death of Congressman Walter M. Mumma has deprived his constituents of an able and conscientious public servent who labored unceasingly and faithfully for his people and the principles in which he believed.

Long identified with and active in pubilc affairs both as a sucessful businessman and pubilc office holder, upon his election to Congress Mr. Mumma retired from business and devoted himself exclusively to the duties of that office.

Warm of personality, deeply concerned with the problems facing our Nation and with a devotion to service for his people exceeded by none, his death has created a deep sense of loss to all those he served; therefore be it

RESOLVED (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pause in its deliberations in honor of the memory of Walter M. Mumma, a sincere devoted and courageous public servant of those whom he so ably represented, and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to his son, Robert M. Mumma, and members of his family residing at Wormleysburg, Pennsylvania, and that a copy be transmitted to his brother, Harold Mumma, of Allentown, Pennsylvania.

SENATE CONCURS IN HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I would like to have the privilege of moving for the immediate adoption of this resolution.

Pennsylvania has lost a capable and honorable citizen and I think, as a fitting tribute, we should pass this resolution unanimously and immediately.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to and the resolution was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

NOMINATION BY THE GOVERNOR REFERRED TO COMMITTEE

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented communication in writing from His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, which was read as follows, and referred to the Committee on Executive Nominations:

MEMBER OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES OF DIXMONT STATE HOSPITAL

February 27, 1961.

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In conformity with law, I have the honor hereby to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate Leroy R. Weiner, 2626 North Jefferson Street, Ext., New Castle, Lawrence County, for appointment as a member of the Board of Trustees of Dixmont State Hospital, until the third Tuesday of January 1963, and until his successor is appointed and qualified, vice Dr. Joseph F. Novak, Pittsburgh, resigned.

SENATE RESOLUTION

COMMENDING THE SECRETARY OF HIGHWAYS, THE HONORABLE PARK H. MARTIN

Messrs. ROONEY, KALMAN and STIEFEL, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 17), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 28, 1961.

WHEREAS: On January 30, 1961, the Honorable Park H. Martin, Secretary of Highways, appeared before the Joint Senate and House Appropriations Committee advocating the need for increased revenues by the Department of Highways to efficiently carry out a sound long range highway program;

WHEREAS: His forthright presentation of facts not only clearly demonstrated present inadequacies of the highway system, but also the urgent need for immediately adopting a long range highway construction program in order to develop an adequate network of highways throughout the State, meeting the needs of the Comonwealth;

WHEREAS: Since beginning his tenure as Secretary of Highways, Park H. Martin has demonstrated his encompassing knowledge of all facets of the highway problem and his ability to cope with these complex problems;

WHEREAS: This candor and forthrightness fully disclosed the true picture of the State highway system;

WHEREAS: Secretary Martin's presentation was unprecedented in the annals of committee hearings. The members of the committee were genuinely impressed with his sincerity and his knowledge of the needs of the highway system:

Therefore, be it resolved: The Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania does hereby commend the Honorable Park H. Martin for the exceptional wisdom and determination to carry forth a highway program commensurate with the growth of this Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

"Give us a man to match our mountains."

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, by and large, I would certainly agree with the noble sentiments expressed in this resolution. However, I think there may be one tiny area where there might have been some question raised, and possibly to discover that, we ought to have this resolution referred to committee.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Highways.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. WEINER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I rise to introduce a resolution on behalf of the woman who was known, until her very recent death, as the greatest living American artist. These panels in this room were painted by this young lady, and you will also see her name on the panels in the Governor's office.

A few years ago, it was my pleasure, along with many of the Members who are here today, to hear this lady tell us how she painted these panels, the amount of work entailed, the sketches that she made, and the great detail that is involved in doing this type of mural and this type of work.

As you look around, you will not only see an artistic work, but I think you will see that she has tried to capture the spiritual values as we find them in our life and try to find them in our time.

In the murals in the Governor's Office,—one of which contains a dog which has been the subject of a great deal of discussion in this Body, the Great Dane—she has done a marvelous job in portraying, I believe, some of the scenes of Pennsylvania, some of the history of this State, some of the history of this Nation and also she has tried to capture, in visual form, some of the things we should prepare ourselves for or address ourselves to from time to time. She has left this life, but her work is a living monument that will be with us for some time. She has left a memorial to herself far greater than any words I or anyone else can say.

On behalf of myself and Senator Kessler, I am offering this resolution and request its immediate consideration and adoption.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE VIOLET OAKLEY

Messrs. WEINER and KESSLER, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 18), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 28, 1961.

It was with much sadness that we noted the death of Violet Oakley in a Philadelphia nursing home at the age of 86. We here in the Senate can never forget this great personage. Her murals which encircle us in this Chamber are a constant reminder of the remarkable person which she was. She was able to dig deep into the hearts and souls of such men as Washington, Franklin, Jefferson and Lincoln and bring out on canvas the true perspective of their character.

She was a true Pennsylvanian by adoption. She arose to her greatest heights as an artist and a painter as a citizen of this State. She was loved, admired and respected not only by her fellow citizens of the Commonwealth, but by the Nation as a whole, all of whom have benefited by her talents and her great love of painting; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That we as members of the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memoralize the memory of Violet Oakley as a truly great daughter of this great Commonwealth; and be it further

RESOLVED, That a copy of this resolution be presented to the Pennsylvania Historical and Museum Commission so that they may include the same in the archives.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I heartily endorse this resolution. I would like to recall to some of the Members of the Senate who are present now, and who were present at the time of the visit of Violet Oakley to the Senate, when she was introduced from the rostrum and explained in some detail and with very great expression the allegories of the various paintings which were her creations around the Hall of this Senate Chamber.

We have, indeed, lost a very brilliant and warmhearted person in this great artist. Mr. President, I think all of the Members would second the motion for the immediate adoption of this resolution.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, in seconding this motion, I would suggest also that it would be fitting that as a further memorial, the mural in the rotunda be attended to. Evidently a leak occurred, and anyone visiting the fourth floor of the Capitol—Where I have been these days—is able to notice the damage. It is a shame and I hope it can be fixed quickly.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. SEYLER and WEINER, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 323, entitled:

An Act providing for the exclusion in criminal proceedings of illegally obtained evidence and establishing a procedure for the suppression and return of such evidence.

Which was committed to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Messrs. DELVIN, SARRAF, SCOTT, STAISEY and RIPP, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 324, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," further providing for the establishment of kindergartens.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Mr. McCREESH, by unanimous consent, presented to the Chair SB 325, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 10, 1949 (P. L. 30), entitled "Public School Code of 1949," providing permanent certification for certain persons teaching in private institutions.

Which was committed to the Committee on Education.

Ordered, That the Governor be informed accordingly.

EXECUTIVE SESSION RISES

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I move that the Executive Session do now rise.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

INTERROGATION

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I observed in the report received from the Chairman of the Committee on Executive Nominations that the name of the Chairman of the Tax Equalization Board, Mr. John Bevec, was excluded.

Therefore, Mr. President, if I may, I desire to interrogate the Chairman of the Committee on Executive Nominations, Senator Devlin.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Devlin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DEVLIN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Devlin, I believe you will recall that I approved the confirmation of Mr. Bevec, as Chairman of the Tax Equalization Board. Is that correct?

Mr. DEVLIN. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Could you inform me as to the reason his name was excluded from this particular group?

Mr. DEVLIN. His name was excluded because it was my understanding that we would not receive the necessary thirty-four votes needed for confirmation.

Mr. LANE. From whom did you receive this information?

Mr. DEVLIN. I received this information from the liaison man from the other side of the aisle who told me there were not enough votes on their side to give us confirmation. I, therefore, did not want to embarrass the nominee.

Mr. LANE. Thank you very much, sir.

INTERROGATION

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Potter, Senator Berger.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Berger, I am wondering whether you could explain to the Members of the Senate and to me any reasons you may have for refusing confirmation of Mr. John Bevec, as Chairman of the Tax Equalization Board.

Mr. Berger. Mr. President, I think that I can qualify my answer to the interrogation, first, by saying that I am under no constraint, whatever, to answer it categorically. However, I will be glad to give the gentleman an answer.

You are dealing with a board, the duties of which effect every school district in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. We are very meticulous, on this side, to see that the people who are members of that board carry out those duties with fairness and discretion.

There is an element in this particular matter relating to the personnel of this board which is very significant; that is, there is serving on the board a member who has been twice rejected for confirmation for the office by this Senate. It is our feeling this situation should be corrected before approval is given to members of the board who are presently before us for confirmation.

Mr. LANE. Senator Berger, you spoke of a certain individual who had been excluded and rejected several times. However, you were not speaking of Commissioner Bevec, were you?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, of course, the record will show exactly to whom I referred, and it was not Mr. Bevec.

Mr. LANE. Thank you very much.

Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I do not wish to take up the time of the Senate. I realize that quite a number of the Members would like to get away today and I am not a person to obstruct plans in any way, shape or form.

However, Mr. President, for the past several years it appears that one of the most able men in Pennsylvania, Mr. John Bevec, who is Chairman of the Tax Equalization Board, seems to be the victim of some circumstances. I do not believe any Member of this Senate, on either side of the aisle, can criticize Mr. Bevec's ability or the fact that he is a working member of this board and is a man who works every day of the week at his job. Nevertheless, it seems that the Minority Party still retains its old position. They do not wish to confirm Commissioner Bevec because they have some criticisms of other members.

Mr. President, I believe we should be fair in our operations. I have not heard any criticism of Commissioner Bevec in this Senate or anywhere else.

I have an interest in this gentleman and I have a wholesome respect for his ability. I would say that Commissioner Bevec is one of the ablest men in Pennsylvania. He is a man who is dedicated to his position. He is a man who is willing to appear before the Republican Caucus at any time. He is a man who tries to do a good job. You know, there is a reflection, in a way, when this man's name was excluded today because the necessary votes were not available. It is not because of his inability and it is not because of his incompetence. It is because of the fact that they dislike some other nominee.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think we should at least be a little bit fair about this. I know this is embarrassing to Mr. Bevec. I believe you gentlemen on the other side also realize that he is a good man and he does a good job. We are discouraging men of ability from accepting these positions when we oppose them for no other reason than the fact that we dislike other members of the board.

I wish to say to the Members on the other side, Mr. President, that if they can come up with any justifiable criticism against Mr. Bevec, I will sit down and keep my mouth shut. However, if they feel he can do the job, they should support him. I think the Members know he can. You know that Mr. Bevec is the backbone of that board over there. I believe, in all fairness, that you should permit us to bring his name out of committee and give him unanimous support. Mr. Bevec tries to do a good job and he is a specialist in this field. He is from my county and we respect him as one of the ablest public officials in the county.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. At this time, we will return to the consideration of today's Calendar, page 2, House Bill No. 5, Printer's No. 5.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 5—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 75—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SCOTT. Senator Weiner, I am not too concerned with the amendments as we find them in Senate Bill No. 75, but I am a bit confused as to the existing law on this particular subject. I wonder if you would read on page two, from lines 12 to 17, and then interpret the meaning for me.

Mr. WEINER. The understanding that I have on this, Mr. President, is that the headlights should be lowered when you are following a car going in the same direction as you are going, so that your high beams do not hit his rear view mirror and project the beam into his eyes and cause him to lose vision or to destroy his night vision, as it were, so that he cannot see properly.

Mr. SCOTT. There are certain requirements in the existing law which you will find on lines 12 through 17.

Mr. WEINER. Yes, sir.

Mr. SCOTT. I have always been confused by this particular section of the Motor Vehicle Code, and those lines have been the ones that have perplexed me. I have never been able to understand whether they, themselves, if they are not met, are a violation of the particular section, or whether they are to be tied in with the first provisions of the paragraph as to the actual lowering of the lights.

Mr. WEINER. My own feeling on this, Senator,—and this is not the last word on the subject, by any means—is that I think what they are stating here between lines 12 to 17 is the standard they are trying to set. I think the violation occurs if you do not carry through line 5, down through line 11 or 12. I think the other is the standard they are trying to set up so the person will meet that standard either in inspection of the automobile or when the first setting or adjustment is made of the headlights.

Mr. SCOTT. Thank you very much, Senator Weiner.

Mr. President, I am convinced in my mind that if a person is to be in violation of the existing law of this particular provision of The Motor Vehicle Code, the State Policeman, who happens to be making the arrest for a failure to dim lights in the face of an approaching car, if he is to carry out fully the enforcement of this particular provision and to be in a position to get an indictment against the individual violator, must take the violator and his vehicle to a garage and have the car inspected to the point where he can testify as to whether that vehicle qualifies with these provisions as outlined here on lines 12 to 17. I am firmly convinced that the existing law is unenforceable unless the State Policeman or the person who is making the arrest carries out those provisions.

I am not at quarrel with any amendment that is being attempted to be made to this provision. I am finding fault with the existing law.

I again would like to ask Senator Weiner whether he agrees with my contention or not.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, might I answer the gentleman's question in this fashion? When you read lines 12 through 17, you will see that they are setting up the standards. For example, you take your car in to be inspected. It is then inspected and you go out and do not meet the first requirement here, which is to dim your lights within 100 yards of the other car. If the car had an inspection sticker on it, it would be considered I think, by any reasonable person, that the car had met the inspection and some time between the inspection and the time the incident occurred, perhaps something had failed or gone wrong. It might also be necessary to check on the inspection station to determine if they are doing their job.

I think it might be subject to the interpretation you gave it, Senator. I would not object if there were a clarifying amendment added to this measure at some later time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I started my remarks by saying that I am confused by this particular section, and I am. I do think it needs clarification.

I have had experience with taking a particular violator before a justice of the peace under this particular section, and having the particular justice of the peace so confused by what the violation actually is under the terms of this section that he, without any question in a number of instances, had to find the violator, even though he had not dimmed his lights and there was an admission of that,—even though he had not dimmed those lights—not guilty.

I would suggest, if there is no objection from the other side, that maybe the proper procedure might be to send this bill back to committee and have the Committee Chairman work on it so that we can have a workable and understandable bill come before this Legislature in order that we might be able to vote on it intelligently.

Mr. President, I would like to move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Highways for further study.

Mr. TAYLOR. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I object to this bill going back to committee. This measure has been on the Calendar since last week. If we are going to complete our business and get away from here at an early date, this will militate against that; not that speed is the thing we are seeking. However, I think the basic problem we are trying to overcome is the first part of this bill. Of course, it is subject to the interpretation that people want to give it but if there is some confusion, I would suggest to the Senator that he prepare such an amendment—after discussing it with the people who have to enforce it, which would be the department, and also with the Chairman of the Highways Committee—and introduce the amendment and let us follow it through.

I think this measure, in itself, is pretty clear on this point of what is intended. It might be there is some difficulty in interpretation. I think we ought to move these measures and pass them along, because we will be just delaying this one more week, one more week and one more week.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, the Majority Leader speaks as though I were attempting to delay a particular measure for some reason or other. I do not have that motive in mind, by any means. However, I do think if we are going to pass legislation here in the legislative halls of our Commonwealth, at least the legislation we do adopt should be understood by the citizens of Pennsylvania.

I do feel this particular piece of existing legislation—not the amendments, but the existing legislation—is confusing. I think the best way that the confusion can be done away with is to send it back to committee, have the Committee Chairman and the Committee work on it and bring it back in a fashion which can be understood by the citizens of Pennsylvania.

I am not making my motion to delay in any way, shape or form passage of this legislation because I think it is good. I think it is needed and it is a must. However, I think we ought to at least know what it is all about.

Therefore, Mr. President, I insist upon my motion to recommit to the Committee on Highways.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The motion has been duly seconded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I did not mean to in any way—and if I did, I want the record corrected— ascribe any motives to the Senator other than the ones he stated.

If understanding the bill is a serious problem, I have no objection to the bill going over in order and the gentleman preparing such amendments, after he has consulted with the proper people. Let us try to introduce them next Monday so we can put this bill in position for final passage next week.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 75, Printer's No. 286, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL ON THIRD READING, AMENDMENTS OFFERED

SB 84—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. PROPERT, on behalf of Mr. MALLERY, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendments:

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec.1), page 3, line 12, by striking out "twelve (12)" and inserting: "ten (10)".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 3, lines 14 to 17, by striking out all of said lines.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 4, lines 1 and 2, by striking out "OR OTHER POLITICAL SUBDIVISION".

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1), page 4, line 7, by inserting after "district": "In any political subdivision within a county where no market values of real estate have been determined by the board for the assessment and revision of taxes or any similar board, the aggregate amount of all taxes imposed under this section and in effect during any fiscal year shall not exceed an amount equal to the product obtained by multiplying the latest total market valuation of real estate in such political subdivision as certified by the State Tax Equalization Board by ten (10) mills."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease a moment so that we can properly evaluate the amendments?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendments?

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. PROPERT. Mr. President, I would like to now withdraw the amendments which I offered on behalf of Senator Mallery.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the amendments are withdrawn.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I now request that Senate Bill No. 84 go over in its order.

SECOND READING CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 73—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL ON SECOND READING

SB 79—The first section was read.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that this bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to move Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 79, up to third reading, with the thought in mind that amendments can be offered at that time. Also, there is a demonstration which will take place in regard to this measure and a number of other factors will take place.

However, I think we should move this bill into the position where we can finally move it or pass it when we decide to do so. I think there is nothing sacred about it being held on second reading as opposed to third reading, when we can accomplish the same purpose. The bill will not move until all the amendments have been introduced. There will also be a demonstration on it.

I am sorry that the Chairman of the Highways Committee is off the floor at the moment. However, had he been here, this is the announcement he would have made.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I believe this bill should remain on second reading until after all the information, including the demonstration and the explanation on the use of this electronic device, can be given to the Members of the Senate. The bill is in position for amendment. I actually cannot state to the Senate my position on the bill, as it might be amended. However, I can tell you my position on it right now, in the form in which it is.

It is more orderly and proper to keep this bill here. There certainly can be no urgency in moving it one way or the other, although I can suggest one way. It can remain on second reading, where it properly belongs, because they are not going to pass it without amendment. To put it on third reading is simply wasted motion. For all I know, they might want to move to recommit this bill and it is easy to recommit it on second reading.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe we have recommitted bills on occasion here on third reading and no injury was done to the bill or to the people who moved in that direction.

I believe we should move this bill to third reading in order for it to be before us, awaiting action. At such time when we decide to do nothing on it, we can so move it at that point.

I would like to clear the Second Reading Calendar as much as I possibly can. We moved quite a number of bills up to third reading and I think we should move in that direction in this case.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Was there a motion made by Senator Berger?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I did not make a motion. I merely suggested that this bill remain on second reading. I may make a motion, but I do not feel disposed to use up any more time than is necessary. However, Mr. President, a bill on second reading is subject to consideration of amendments at all times. Not long ago, I think we saw a demonstration of what can happen with a bill on third reading. We have to straighten out somebody's objection if someone wants to offer amendments on third reading.

Consequently, Mr. President, in addition to that, a number of people are pretty sensitive about this bill. The nearer it moves up to final passage on the Calendar, the more nervous these people become. As a consequence, I think its position here on the Second Reading Calendar is exactly the proper one, rather than third reading where we might have some of the hazards which I mentioned.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I do not wish to be obstinate about moving this bill up to third reading. However, I would like the record to show, for those who are concerned or skittish about it, that I and the Members on this side will have no objection to any amendments being offered. I do not think we have ever objected. I think we have generally operated in that vein. I believe no one has ever been prevented from offering amendments. This will merely put it in the position where we can act on it the moment we decide to do so. This matter has not only been before us during this Session, but it has appeared before us for two or three Sessions before this one. I think we have covered all the ground, and I think we should decide whether we want it or do not want it at this time.

Therefore, Mr. President, I respectfully ask that we move the bill up to the Third Reading Calendar.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the section was agreed to.

The title was read.

A voice vote having been taken, the question was determined in the affirmative and the title was agreed to.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. In view of the fact that the Lieutenant Governor has entered the Hall, I will turn the gavel over to him for further consideration of Bills on Second Reading, appearing on page 4 of today's Calendar.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

The PRESIDENT. Thank you, Senator Ripp. I appreciate the sterling way in which you conducted the Senate in my absence.

BILL ON SECOND READING

SB 86—Read at length the second time and agreed to, Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 88—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, inasmuch as there are amendments being prepared, both by the department and the sponsors, which should be introduced next week, I request that Senate Bill No. 88 go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

SB 93 and 94—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 93 and Senate Bill No. 94 go over in their order.

Mr. President, it is quite possible, and even probable, that a great many of the Senators on this side will want to vote for these two bills. However, the thinking has not quite jelled on that.

For that reason, Mr. President, I would like for the bills to go over in their order today, thereby giving an opportunity to the Members on our side to caucus on them on Monday.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bills will go over in their order.

SB 99, 100, 104 and 105—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President I request that Senate Bills Nos. 99, 100, 104 and 105 go over in their order for the reason I stated yesterday; namely, there are a number of amendments in the process of preparation.

The PRESIDENT. There being no objection, the bills will go over in their order.

BILL ON SECOND READING

SB 192—Read at length the second time and agreed to, Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILLS SIGNED

The President (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the presence of the Senate signed the following bills: HB 3, 4 and 98.

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bills were as follows: SB 139, 172, 173, 174, 175, 177, 188, 212, 213 and HB 194.

And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

JOINT SESSION

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR JOHN MORGAN DAVIS PRESIDING

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. The General Assembly will please come to order.

The Chair at this time invites to the rostrum Senator Charles R. Weiner and Colonel Truman H. Setliffe, District Engineer for the Philadelphia District of the Corps of Engineers.

I am now happy to turn this meeting over to Senator Weiner, who will make a few remarks and then introduce Colonel Setliffe.

SENATOR WEINER. Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen of the General Assembly, one of the most serious problems facing our country today is the problem of water and our water resources. We in Pennsylvania are very fortunate in having adequate water supply at the present moment, but our neighbors who surround us, the States of New Jersey, Delaware, and New York, are having problems with their expanding communities and the population explosion that is going on all around us.

It is this problem that concerns us, not only as members of the General Assembly, but as citizens of this Commonwealth, who are anxious to see our State grow and live in an expanded economy that we are hoping will continue through the next ten years. It is for that reason that we have to make plans today for things that are to come, as we see them and as are being portrayed to us. That is the reason we have invited here some of the people who have been doing a lot of work in this area and dealing with this important problem.

We have the honor today to present to the General Assembly Colonel Truman H. Setliffe. Colonel Setliffe is the District Engineer for the Philadelphia District of the United States Army Corps of Engineers. His office is responsible for the Corps' activities in all of Eastern Pennsylvania. They have just completed a $2 million study of the Delaware River. He is here today to give us a report on that study, both in visual form and by discussion with this aid. He will also be available to answer any question you might have when this discussion and this visual aid he has used are presented to you, and he has made his entire report available to you. Colonel Setliffe is a graduate of the Louisiana State University. He holds a master's degree in civil engineering from the University of Illinois. He has been a combat commander in many theaters and most recently has served with the Military Assistance Advisory Group in Indo-China and on the staff at Engineering School at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. Without any further ado, I would like to present to you, Colonel Truman H. Setliffe.

PRESENTATION BY COLONEL T. H. SETLIFFE

COLONEL TRUMAN H. SETLIFFE. Governor Davis, Gentlemen: You are faced with study and deliberation required as prelude to your decision on the INTERSTATE-FEDERAL COMPACT for the Delaware River Basin. The Compact is undoubtedly a forerunner of other compacts for other basins.

ARTICLE 13 of the Compact states that the Basin Commission shall develop and adopt a comprehensive plan for the immediate and long range development. In executive session on 1, February, '61, the Governors of Delaware, New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania—and the Mayors of New York and Philadelphia—were advised that the comprehensive survey submitted by the corps of engineers would become a principal guideline for the Basin Commission's work.

Questions arise as to how big is the water problem in the Delaware River. What is the nature of the problem?

Knowledge of the magnitude and nature of this problem will assist you to arrive at your decision concerning the Compact.

I am here today to tell you of the Comprehensive Survey of the Delaware River. My presentation will give you further background for your deliberations concerning the proposed Delaware Basin Compact. You will hear today, some for the second time, the briefing which I gave at public meetings in Phillipsburg, New Jersey.... Reading, Pennsylvania....Wilmington, Delaware....and Port Jervis, New York....during 1960. In telling you of the initial plan which the Compact would administer. I will cover 5 major topics.

My talk will be in five parts.....

First.....the origin of the study.....how we organized to do the job.....who participated.....and the assignment of specific tasks.

Second.....the projected growth of our basin and its relation to water resources.

Third.....the needs of the basin as determined by the cooperating agencies.

Fourth.....the water control plan under consideration and a logical sequence for its development.

Fifth.....how this plan satisfies the needs.

The comprehensive survey of the water resources of the Delaware River Basin was made because the people of the basin asked for it through Congress. Then Congress, by resolution, directed the United States Armys' Corps of Engineers to make the study. The initial request was enlarged by a series of resolutions until the study finally assumed its truly comprehensive approach to the water problem.

This study, in other words, projects the needs of the basin for 50 years, with a look also at the following 50 years. It studies all aspects of water use. It considers the economic aspects of each facet of the plan. It recommends a plan of development best suited to meet the needs.

By letter to the Secretary of the Army dated 22 October, 1956, the President asked that we take full advantage of the technical resources of the Federal, State and local agencies having an interest in the water problem. This request was carried out.

The contributions of these agencies were indispensable to us in preparing our report. Who were these agencies.

The Department of Commerce office of business economics bureau of public roads

Department of Health, Education and Welfare public health service

Department of Agriculture soil conservation service forest service agriculture research service

U. S. Department of the Interior geological survey national park service fish and wildlife service

Federal Power Commission.

A great deal of help was also received from the States of Delaware, New Jersey, New York, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; from the cities of New York and Philadelphia, and also from such organizations as the Delaware River Basin Advisory Committee and INCODEL, the Interstate Commission on the Delaware River Basin. The Philadelphia District Engineer established the Delaware Basin Survey Coordinating Committee to insure coordination with the Federal, State, and municipal agencies, as directed by the President. This group met 10 times during the past 3 years. It was a shirt-sleeve committee, a working committee. This pictures the group at work at the first meeting I attended at Trenton, N. J.

So much for our authorities and organization. Next let's consider the projected growth of the basin and its relation to water resources. Exactly what and where is the Delaware River Basin, and why are water resources so important?

The basin contains 12,765 square miles in portions of the four States already mentioned.

The water resources of the basin contribute to the economic and social well being of over 21 million people who live within the area that is or can be serviced wholly or in part by water from the Delaware River Basin. Today this service area is among the most important regions economically in the nation.

Now why is this so?

Because this 1% of the continental United States contains 14% of the population and generates 17% of the national personal income. Keep in mind that this area contains one of the greatest concentrations of heavy industry in the world today—huge steel mills, sprawling chemical plants, great oil refineries, ship building yards, hundreds of manufacturing plants, and an unparalleled diversification of trade and service industries.

Manufacturing is the largest employer of labor in the area, followed by the trade and service industries. The water resources of the basin supply some 3.5 billion gallons of water each day, water used in homes, factories, for irrigation.

The waters of the basin support the transportation of some 100 million tons of goods into and out of the ports of the Delaware River and Bay each year and provide outdoor recreation from the headwaters in the Catskill Mountains to the Capes. Lack of control of these waters has been disastrous. In July and August of 1955 much of the Delaware Valley was suffering from one of the worst droughts ever to strike the area, a case of too little water. Then within 7 days, two hurricanes lashed the area. Suddenly there was too much water. Normally gentle streams and rivers became raging torrents, leaving a trail of death and destruction unequalled in the history of the valley. This was Easton in August of '55. The strange paradox of the water problem—too little water and too much water—had happened again.

And what about tomorrow! During the next 50 years both population and employment in the service area will more than double. These trends, projected into the future, provide the basis for estimating the water resources development need to sustain and nourish this future growth.

Let's examine in more detail now some of the water needs of the basin as determined by the participating agencies.

The amount of water withdrawn from the Delaware River basin will increase to more than four times the present rate during the next 50 years, or to a total of some 14 billion gallons a day; by another measurement, 21,000 cubic feet per second, by the year 2010. Ground water, surface flows, and the brackish water of Delaware Bay will supply some 8.5 billion gallons per day, or 13,150 cubic feet per second.

The residual need of the basin then is reduced to 5.5 billion gallons per day, or 8,500 cubic feet per second. The distribution of this need throughout the basin and repetitive use of water in successive downstream order, reduces the specific need for augmentation of surface flows to 1.4 billion gallons per day, or 2,100 cubic feet per second. It is this additional 1.4 billion gallons per day, then, that represents the major water supply need of the Delaware River basin and certain related areas.

How much water is 1.4 billion gallons? In terms of railroad tank cars holding 20,000 gallons each this means that 70,000 of these tanks cars would have to be delivered to the basin every day. This is water supply.

Now let's consider Flood Control. Major floods in the Delaware River basin are the result of heavy rainstorms generally augmented by hurricanes. The floods of August 1955 triggered by Hurricane "Diane" were the most damaging floods of record throughout the basin.

In defining the flood control needs of the basin, consideration was given to all types of damage associated with rainfall and runoff, beginning where the rain falls on the land until it finds its way by creeks, and main streams, to the sea.

In general, "average annual damage" best expresses the need for flood control. What is average annual damage? In essence, it is the payment for flood damages on the familiar installment plan basis over many many years. The following charts show the annual damage occurring in the basin. First, the Intermediate Tributary streams.

Total annual damage on the Intermediate tributaries has been estimated at over $1,700,000 per year.

Next, the Delaware River and principal tributaries.

Note the annual damage for each of the major tributaries.

The total flood damage is over six million dollars annually. Adding the two totals together, our annual payment is 7½ million dollars each year for damage caused by flood. We've considered water supply and flood control.

Now . . . Recreation . . . which is rapidly assuming tremendous importance in our contemporary society, and particularly in our State of Pennsylvania. More of us are going swimming, picnicking, boating, hunting and fishing than ever before.

In 1955 there were 33,500,000 annual visits recorded in the service area. The number of visits would rise to 56,-500,000 by 1965, 99,500,000 by 1980, and 228,000,000 by 2010 if facilities were provided. Pennsylvania and Philadelphia particularly recognize the needs as evidenced by the progressive programs in your Department of Forests & Waters.

But if we don't start planning and doing more now, this is the kind of mess, pollution potential, we are going to be in at all recreational areas.

Now, appropriately a few words about pollution of our streams.

The headwaters of the Delaware basin and the waters in the area from Port Jervis, New York, to approximately Easton, Pennsylvania, in general, are of excellent quality in all respects. Occasional local problems exist but have little effect on the area as a whole. Increased population densities and industrialization in the vicinity of Easton and in the Lehigh River Valley result in a slight but acceptable degradation in the quality of the Delaware River below the junction of the Lehigh River. With the Delaware, however, the stream characteristics indicate that the reach of the main stream from Easton to Trenton is presently of good quality and capable of supporting a variety of water uses. Thus it is concluded that no improvement in the present water quality of the Delaware system above Trenton is required. But remember—more population,—more industrialization! The combination will bring increased pollution loads. Higher degrees of treatment are technically practicable. To keep apace with this problem and recognizing the fine work done by various agencies and organizations in this field, there is a need for local and State government action to insure that this treatment program is carried out, but there is not a requirement for increasing stream flow for this purpose.

Below Trenton the water quality is at present satisfactory except for the reach from Lehigh Avenue in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, to Marcus Hook, Pa., next to Chester, Pa. where observations indicate that the water quality is, at times, below desirable levels. Due to the major effect of tides on the currents in the reach it is not practicable to restore water quality through increased flows. Here, again, the growth in population and industry will substantially increase the pollution load to the sewage treatment plants. An expanded basic data program is required to furnish adequate and accurate basis for future prediction of water use and stream quality. Such data would permit accurate assessment of the needs for increased waste disposal occasioned by future industrial and municipal expansion. Sufficient treatment plants can remove anticipated additional loads by increasing the efficiency of treatment from present levels of waste removal to the higher degress of treatment that are technically practicable. Establishment and maintenance of adequate water quality will result primarily through maximum interception and treatment of wastes before discharge in this reach now and in the future.

Next, electrical power requirements. The requriements for power in the Delaware River basin have increased rapidly in the past and large additions in generating capacity will be required to meet future loads.

The 1957 Delaware River Service Area peak demand amounted to approximately 11,000,000 kw. It is estimated that the utility peak demands of the area will increase to a total of 17.5 million KW in 1965, 34,000,000 kw. by 1980 and to about 96,000,000 kw. by 2010.

So far I have discussed
The origin of the study
Projected growth of the basin
Needs of the basin
Now . . . our plan of development to meet the needs of the basin.

Basin needs can be met, partly, or wholly, by improvements to control the uneven flows of the Delaware River and its tributaries. These needs can be expressed in terms of planned flows . . . .

Across the top of the chart are five separate points within the basin. Various flows in terms of cubic feet per second are indicated in each column they are . . . flood stage . . . measured flood peaks . . . required minimum flows . . . and average present minimum flows. For example . . . consider the Lehigh River at Bethlehem, Pa.

Flood conditions begin when discharges reach 42,000 cfs. Bethlehem has experienced flood peaks at 92,000 cfs. There is an excess of 50,000 cfs . . . clearly a case of too much water.

The required discharge to meet surface withdrawal needs for various years are indicated here . . . all are above the present average minimum flow shown here. A case of too little water.

The same story exists on the Christina at Wilmington, Delaware, and other areas. Simply said, our problem is really one of too much and too little But there is a solution.

On this chart we will show the action of a typical stream in our basin during the actual period of flood and low flows. During flood conditions the flow in a stream increases rapidly. By means of an impoundment or dam we will store this water, releasing the excesses downstream but keeping the flow below flood stage—storing the remaining water for later release to augment the stream during low-flow periods.

We studied over 576 sites; we considered alternative structures and measures. These studies showed that none of the alternatives and no combination of them could wholly or economically replace water control by reservoirs.

It was also apparent from the beginning that no feasible system of reservoirs could, of itself, completely satisfy all of the needs of the basin. As mentioned earlier, a great deal can and must be done by the local people to remove or limit some flood problems through supplemental programs. These programs are:

(1) to control the use and occupancy of all parts of the flood plain through land use and zoning arrangements;

(2) to regulate the construction of buildings and developments in the flood plain through urban renewals;

(3) to evacuate the flood plains either permanently by purchase of lands for open park areas or temporarily by flood warning systems for emergency evacuation during flood periods; and

(4) other local protection measures. These supplemental programs are an integral part of the overall plan for the development of the water resources of the basin and while they must be initiated and administered by local governmental agencies, a great amount of information, data and help in their development is available from State and Federal sources.

Let's turn now to the recommended control plan now under consideration for the Delaware River basin.

Our plan includes 11 major water control projects with provision for water supply . . . flood control . . . power . . . and recreation. They are shown here.

Only Hawk Mountain and Tocks Island have power.
All have water supply.
All have recreation.
All except Hawk Mountain, Newark and Christiana have flood control.

Eight other sites have been selected for partial development . . . their initial development being for recreation . . . with use for water supply when needed. They are PAULINA, HACKETTSTOWN, PEQUEST, NEW HAMPTON, TOHICKON, NEWTOWN, EVANSBURG, FRENCH CREEK.

Regarding these eight sites, I should add that in recent years the Corps of Engineers has become increasingly aware of the fact that before many authorized projects can be constructed, industries and communities spring up in the inpounding areas and the projects become uneconomical. As you know, the Corps of Engineers has recommended disapproval on many more projects than it has approved. Where industries and communities spring up, costs increase. Where costs exceed benefits, no project.

There are also 39 projects which have been selected for sub-basin development . . . all with the main purpose of flood control.

And finally, there are 7 unique and historical sites selected for further recreational development.

A logical sequence of development of the major control structures is shown here.

The horizontal line represents time, from 1965 through 2010. The vertical line shows the needs measured in billions of gallons. The diagonal black line represents the increased needs as we look to the future. From this chart then we can see that.

	NEEDED BY
Beltzville	1965
Blue Marsh	1968
Trexler	1973
Prompton	1974
Tocks Island	1975
Newark	1978
Christiana	1980
Aquashicola	1981
Maiden Creek	1982
Bear Creek	1989
Hawk Mountain	2001

We gave you the years by which projects are needed. However, I'd like to point out also that, on the average, getting the money and building the project may take from 5 to 10 years, so some of the projects are needed now.

We have defined the needs and the plan to meet those needs. What of COSTS?

In general, the cost of providing flood control benefits is the responsibility of the Federal Government, while water supply is the responsibility of state and local interests. Recreation benefits may be provided by the Federal Government if they have wide regional significance, otherwise they become the responsibility of state and/or local interests.

For our 11 major control projects the total cost is about 332 million dollars (without pumped storage hydroelectric feature at Tocks Island) between now and 2010, say 6½ million dollars per year, if started now. Pumped storage power at Tocks Island will add about 55 million dollars to the cost of that project. The 39 small projects for subbasin development under Public Laws 685 and 566 are estimated to cost 10 million dollars. The 8 projects to preserve sites with use initially for recreation, cost about 119 million dollars.

BENEFITS

We have talked needs and how we would meet these needs, Now, what are the benefits to be derived from our plan?

How does this plan satisfy the needs of the basin?

The 11 major reservoirs in the plan will impound excess water during periods of high flow for low flow augmentation of stream flows at specific areas.

That there are definite benefits derived from the control of minimum stream flows cannot be denied. At present the Select Committee on National Water Resources is considering a recommendation made by many Senators and others that the Corps of Engineers be allowed to include the specific benefits of low flow augmentation in the preparation of benefit-cost ratios.

Bethlehem and Pottstown need more than their present average minimum flows. There is significance for the Philadelphia-Trenton area too.

In this metropolitan area the combined effects of 9 major projects in the plan will give a sustained minimum flow of 5,290 c.f.s.

This will satisfy requirements of the Philadelphia-Trenton area to 2010. Note I have talked on 9 of the 11 major projects.

By a unified system operation an additional 570 c.f.s. can be added to the 5,290 c.f.s., making a total of 5,860 c.f.s. available. 570 c.f.s still available for use elsewhere within the basin

CONSIDER FLOOR CONTROL BENEFITS—

The alleviation of flood problems in the uppermost headwater areas of the basin would be provided by land treatment measures under existing programs of the Department of Agriculture.

The 39 projects selected for inclusion in the plan of development as sub basin projects will reduce the annual damages for these areas significantly. For example, the 25 small dam and reservoir projects in the Brodhead, Pocono, McMichaels Creek basin would reduce the annual flood damages from $581,000 to only $171,000, a saving of some $410,000.

For the major reaches above Trenton, existing flood control projects, projects under construction, and projects proposed in the water control plan would have reduced the total damages of the August '55 flood from nearly $102,000,000 to only $3,000,000, a saving of some $99,000-000. Reduction of flood damages is also evident in other areas.

And now, Recreation Benefits.

The plan of development would provide State park type facilities to satisfy an attendance of 38,000,000 recreation visitors annually. These projects would increase the acreage of waters usable for recreation in the basin by about 38,300 acres. Total acreage of lands and waters that would be made available for recreation use would be about 112,000 acres. This doesn't meet the total need, but it helps.

Now, briefly, hydroelectric power benefits—feasibility for production of hydroelectric power at two of the major control projects included in the comprehensive plan has been proved. The two hydroelectric projects contemplated for the basin would have an installed capacity of about 67,000 kw and would be capable of generating about 31,000 kw of dependable capacity to meet peak power demands that prevail about 5 hours daily. The total average annual generation would be about 385 million kw-hr.

And now, the complete report, which after the sustained application of heat and pressure has been distilled to a final weight of 30 pounds per copy in its final form. From a monetary standpoint, when balanced against the overall study cost of more than 2 million dollars, each pound of report figures to be worth nearly $67,000 dollars. So much for statistics. Where is the report? The answer . . . it is now being reviewed by the Chief of Engineers. When the Chief has completed his review, which also includes an independent review by the Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors, a public notice will be issued. The report will be sent to the Governors of the States affected and the Federal Agencies involved for their comments. I feel there will be no surprise to your representative and his staff who have lived with it and know it.

In the normal course of events, the report could be submitted to Congress late in 1961, authorized in an omnibus bill in 1962, and first appropriations under the authorization might be made in mid 1964, so that land acquisition could begin in 1965 and the first projects operational before 1970.

So far I have discussed our recommended plan for meeting the water needs of the Delaware River Basin and the current status of that plan. The next question then is, what sort of Governmental organization would be necessary to implement and administer our plan? You are considering the compact consisting of the Federal Government and the States of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, and the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Compact background is contained in a study made by the Maxwell Graduate School of Public Administration of Syracuse University, which has sole responsibility for its research, findings, and recommendations under a contract with the Water Research Foundation.

The Corps' position in regard to the Syracuse Study on organization was established by the Chief of Engineers in 1956 and included in the procedural Plan the guide lines we used in making the comprehensive survey. It states, and I quote:

> The report will present, but will not necessarily endorse, such findings and recommendations on the organizational structure and means best fitted to accomplish the control and conservation of the water resources of the Delaware River Basin as local advisory groups may furnish to the District Engineer.

Consequently, the abbreviated version of the Syracuse Report released by the Water Research Foundation has been included in appendix 'X' to our main report and printed without comment. The Compact also is outside my official purview. However, it is interesting to note that Section 11.1 of the Compact provides, and I quote, "Each Federal agency otherwise authorized by law to plan, design, construct and operate or maintain any project or facility in or for the basin shall continue to have, exercise and discharge such authority," which means that the Corps of Engineers will still be in business to support State and local efforts to meet water problems.

This has been a brief description of our study and the recommended plan for the control and utilization of the uneven flows of the Delaware River and its tributaries. I touched briefly on how the study started, the organization, and the responsibility of each participating agency. I outlined the needs and then summed up our water control plan and the benefits to be derived from implementing such a plan. The preparation of the plan for submission to Congress is an Engineer function, my field. Gaining the authorizations and the funds and developing the means to run the program are political functions, your field.

SENATOR WEINER. On behalf of the members of the General Assembly we want to thank Colonel Setliffe for an excellent job in such a short period of time on a very difficult subject.

I would like to introduce to the members of the General Asembly, Colonel Warren Johnson, who is sitting at the rear of the room. He is District Engineer of the Baltimore District of the United States Corps of Engineers and is in charge of the Susquehanna Basin.
Colonel Johnson.

We only have a few more minutes and we are going to adjourn this session, but I think we would be remiss in our duty if we did not, before we left here, discuss a little the compact that is going to grow out of this report that you have heard. I would like to call on Mr. William Miller, who is counsel for the Delaware River Basin Advisory Committee. He is a professor of law at the New York University School of Law and has been involved in government for many, many years. If Mr. William Miller will come to the podium we will be glad to hear from him.

He is just going to make a short presentation in regard to the compact which he has been concerned with and involved with for some time. If, while he is doing that, I may be allowed a short commercial at this time, this has been the joint effort of Secretary Goddard and his staff and also of the Commission on Interstate Cooperation in bringing this material to you. We thought this was an easier way of doing it than presenting copious forms of this report to you. We thought this would be a little easier, and you may ask any question you like of the gentlemen who are here, upon the completion of Mr. Miller's presentation.

Mr. William Miller.

Mr. WILLIAM MILLER. Thank you.

Lieutenant Governor Davis, Senator Weiner, members of the General Assembly, first let me say that we certainly greatly appreciate this opportunity to speak to you, however briefly, about the legislative implementation of the very inspiring plan outlined by Colonel Setliffe. This is, indeed, a mark of the importance you attach to the great problems of the basin, and certainly we could not cover it otherwise as you would want it covered in the brief time allotted.

I would like only to emphasize a few of the highlights of the compact draft which you either now have before you or will shortly have in hand. It represents about a year and a half's work by a committee representing the four States and the two great cities that are depending upon the basin. The draft has gone through a number of phases. It has had a complete review by the legal, engineering, and conservation departments of the various States and cities. It has had a tremendous amount of assistance, of course, from those people. Your own Dr. Maurice Goddard and his staff participated closely throughout the committee's deliberation, and it represents, of course, an effort to provide within the basin a governmental agency which can take up the Corps of Engineers' plans and provide for its activation with a full participation of the States. In fact, this is one of the key features of the proposed draft, namely, a partnership among the States and the Federal Government to effectuate in a cooperative way this comprehensive river basin development.

In the past there have been interstate compacts, of course, but I do not believe there has been any compact which has taken on this entire comprehensive view of the river basin, nor has there been any compact in which the State and the Federal Government have been equal and full partners. Thus, the document you have represents a genuine effort to preserve State interests, State participation in river basin development at the same time as it preserves the far-reaching Federal influences and the Federal interest as evidenced by this very fine river basin survey.

How is the agency to be formed? The importance of the agency is illustrated perhaps best by the composition of its governing body. It will be made up of the Governors of each of the four States and a representative to be appointed by the President of the United States. The basin agency so governed would thus create a regional administrative body and it would be responsible for the planning, development and control of the waters of the basin. It would start, as Colonel Setliffe pointed out, with the requirement that there would be a comprehensive plan and that all the activity of the basin agency and others interested in the river conform to the comprehensive plan, because without the Corps of Engineers' survey the basin agency would not be in position to start very soon. With the survey, which in effect, is the comprehensive plan, the agency is in a position and would be in a position to begin promptly.

Its jurisdiction would be limited to the basin which you saw outlined on the chart. It could sell or dispose of water resources outside the basin, however, as the need appears and as it was decided by the needs of the communities lying outside the basin.

The compact has a time limit. Its life is fixed at 100 years, but it may automatically be renewed for additional periods of 100 years unless one of the States gives notice at least 20 years and not more than 25 years prior to the expiration of the period that it wishes to terminate the compact.

The Congress of the United States would, because of major Constitutional principles, preserve the right to withdraw at any time.

The function of the basin agency would be to carry out the comprehensive plan. It is not expected, of course, that the agency would construct, finance and develop the major improvements which you saw portrayed a few moments ago. Quite the other way around, it would provide for the coordination through a single body of what the States and cities involved have been unable to do themselves. It would cover all the facets of flood damage reduction, water quality improvement, municipal, industrial and agricultural water supply, recreation, fish and wildlife improvement, hydroelectric power, soil conversation, forestation and watershed management as the agency to bring the States and the cities and their resources together with those of the Federal Government to bear on each of these problems.

Now you might say, what about the allocation of water resources? Most of you are familiar with the fact that the United States Supreme Court, in its major decision affecting the basin area in 1954, in the case of New Jersey against New York, did provide for an allocation, or at least for the time being, of certain waters of the basin. The compact would provide that the parties would lose none of their rights under that Supreme Court decree and, in addition, that the Court's reservation of the rights of any party to come into the Court and ask that the decree be changed would be suspended for the duration of the compact. This would mean, for example, that the lower basin area would continue to be guaranteed of the releases of water from the New York City reservoir system which takes, it is estimated, approximately one-third of the capacity of the reservoirs to produce.

This means the lower-basin river flow is sustained in times of need by the investment of the City of New York and under the compact provisions, the city would not be in a position to go back to the Court and ask to be relieved of those release requirements. On the other hand, the lower basin gives up the right, under the compact language, to go back to the Court and ask that the city of New York's right to divert some 800 m.g.d. should be reduced for the life of the contract.

This give and take seems to be of major benefit to the development of the basin, and of course it is hoped that with a competent agency in being and with the development that Colonel Setliffe outlined there will be ample water for all purposes and there will be no need to consider any change in the prior allocations.

Whatever may be the action of the basin agency, therefore, it is primarily concerned with the future. The agency would be given power to apportion and allocate the waters of the basin according to the very same rules used by the Supreme Court, namely, the doctrine of equitable apportionment. Any party that felt aggrieved by action of the basin agency would have full recourse to the courts of the United States for judicial review. This briefly, it would seem, is the key area of control of water supply. That is a major interest in terms of the development of the rest. The basin agency also has substantial functions, I pointed out, in all the other facets of river basin development.

Now, you might say, next, how will this be financed? Several points are important to keep in mind. The first is, the basin agency has no powers of taxation. It may sell water which it develops, if it develops water. But, its capital financing, under the terms of the proposed compact, would have to be determined for each project separately and presumably according to the benefits provided by the project. This means that the Federal Government, the State and the cities, at the time they are interested in the project, would then make the arrangements and agree to capital financing as that particular project shows the need and the benefits. There is no commitment in the contract to any particular project or any particular finance.

As far as the operating budget of the basin agency is concerned, provision is included in the compact for the development of a budget by unanimous agreement of the basin agency commissioners, that is, the four Governors and the Federal representatives, and for the certification of that budget in respect to signatory parties, that is, their legislative bodies, and for the processing of that request in the same way that we process requests of State departments for appropriations.

Again, there is no fixed commitment and there is no binding effect of the compact for any particular sum or appropriation.

In the long run, of course, it is hoped that the basin agency may find itself liquidated. The history of water resources development throughout the Nation indicates that, given the time, water can be made self-liquidating. When that day comes, the compact would permit the basin agency to issue revenue bonds on its own credit for the development of various phases of the comprehensive plan which is acceptable to that type of financing.

In general, as you heard Colonel Setliffe say, while the agency has full powers and is intended to be a competent and fully equipped agency to do the job, it does retain each of the resources that the four States and two cities now have and the Federal government now possesses. The compact expressly provides that wherever feasible it is the purpose of the signatory parties, and I am reading from section 1.5 of the compact "to preserve and utilize the functions, powers and duties of existing offices and agencies of government to the extent not inconsistent with the compact, and the commission is authorized and directed to utilize and employ such offices and agencies for the purpose of this compact to the fullest extent it finds feasible and advantageous."

That is a very thumbnailish sketch of a substantial document. I might add just a word as to where it now stands in Congress and among the other State legislatures. A compact bill has been introduced in the New York legislature, one has been introduced in the New Jersey legislature, with some 28 sponsors, bills have been introduced in both Houses of Congress, and, of course, the process of committee hearings, examinations, legislative consideration are now adding some pressure.

Obviously, there are problems when ten legislative bodies and five chief executives are being asked to agree on a single document. You all, I think, are familiar with this problem, however, and every effort is being made to coordinate the views and the procedures of each of the bodies with the hope of the earliest possible action.

Thank you very much.

The LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR. Thank you, Mr. William Miller.

The very informative session has been completed and we of the Senate wish to thank you of the House for inviting us here.

The Chair would ask that members of the House and visitors remain seated for just a moment while the members of the Senate leave the hall of the House. The members of the Senate will please reassemble immediately in the Senate Chambers.

The business for which the joint session has been assembled having been transacted, the session is now adjourned.

Mr. HAMILTON IN THE CHAIR.

OGILVIE, HOCKER and HOLMAN offered a resolution which was read by the clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1961.

The untimely death of Congressman Walter M. Mumma has deprived his constituents of an able and conscientious public servant who labored unceasingly and faithfully for his people and the principles in which he believed.

Long identified with and active in public affairs both as a successful businessman and public office holder, upon his election to Congress Mr. Mumma retired from business and devoted himself exclusively to the duties of that office.

Warm of personality, deeply concerned with the problems facing our Nation and with a devotion to service for his people exceeded by none, his death has created a deep sense of loss to all those he served; therfore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pause in its deliberations in honor of the memory of Walter M. Mumma, a sincere devoted and courageous public servant of those whom he so ably represented, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to his son, Robert M. Mumma and members of his family residing at Wormleysburg, Pennsylvania and that a copy be transmitted to his brother, Harold Mumma of Allentown, Pennsylvania.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was unanimously adopted by a rising vote.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the Minority leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the minority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. AGNEW. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman inform the House as to the position of the Republican caucus on House bill 132, printer's No. 686?

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, the Republican House caucus requests that House bill 132, the library code bill, be held over until next week for a vote. We make this request of the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Will the gentleman agree that House bill 132, printer's No. 686, if held over, can be voted on Monday and will there be some votes for the bill?

Mr. AGNEW. We agree to vote on the bill Monday, but I cannot in good conscience commit any member of the minority to vote for the bill. The Republican members will be on their own. I understand that there is perhaps some sentiment for the bill and some against the bill, but I am in no position to inform the majority leader how many votes the bill may have on this side of the aisle, if any, but we will not make any postponing motion to a vote on the bill this coming Monday.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, with the understanding, I believe, that there are some Republican votes for the bill on Monday, I will consent to pass the bill over so I will have those votes on Monday for the passage of the library bill which many members are for.

Mr. AGNEW. We sincerely thank the majority leader and assure him that the Republican members will be on their own in voting on House bill No. 132.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 309, entitled:

An Act amending the "Oleomargarine or Butterine Law" approved June 30, 1947 (P. L. 1154) defining certain terms.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill, the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARABAUGH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The minority leader will proceed.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I would ask the gentleman what is the purpose of this bill?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of this bill is simply to include, or I should say, spell out in the present law what is actually being done now. The restrictions on page 2, line 4, are to prohibit the sale, possession, and use thereof in certain cases, and it goes on and spells out the cases where the use of it is prohibited. In addition to hotels, restaurants, dining rooms, boarding houses, it shall mean any public restaurant, lunch room, public institution and it has included clubs, schools and other institutions. In other words, the Department has understood the law in the past to mean such places and they have been enforcing the law on these schools and institutions because of the statement of public restaurants was considered the same and they have been enforcing it until now, but it was not in the law and it is in here for that purpose, to clarify it.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, Mr. Speaker, you are merely amending the law to comply with departmental regulation?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Not necessarily, Mr. Speaker. The intent of the law was to do this, but it was not specified.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, would this bill increase the number of establishments in the Commonwealth that could not use oleomargarine colored?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would say no to that question, because the department has considered they were included now, but it has not been specified in there.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words, Mr. Speaker, this bill is merely to establish clearly what places cannot use colored margarine at the present time; is that right?

Mr. FARABAUGH. That is right.

Mr. AGNEW. In your opinion, Mr. Speaker, this bill would not increase the number of establishments that could not use colored margarine; is that correct?

Mr. FARABAUGH. That is correct.

Mr. AGNEW. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from York, Mr. Gross rise?

Mr. GROSS. I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Farabaugh, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FARABAUGH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from York will proceed.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, May the public schools of Pennsylvania today use oleo?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Not to my knowledge, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. GROSS. Under this bill, may they use oleo?

Mr. FARABAUGH. No, not colored oleo.

Mr. GROSS. I beg to disagree with Mr. Farabaugh, Mr. Speaker. Today the public schools of Pennsylvania are using colored oleo. The Federal Government appropriates and the free food bill grant covers oleo. It is being used. What I am interested in, Mr. Speaker, is will this bill change that in any way?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would say if they are using colored oleo at the present time they are violating the law because I believe under the intent of the law, where it said public restaurants or lunch places, that could be considered as a public lunch place.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, I cannot agree with the gentleman, Mr. Farabaugh.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is from Cambria. Neither can I.

Mr. FARABAUGH. My answer was, Mr. Speaker, that I believed if they were using it in public schools they were in violation of the present law because of—what is now in the law stating public restaurants and lunch places, and that could be considered as a public place in a public school.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, I am a member of the school board in York County, Manchester School District, and in our school district oleo is being used in our schools today. What I want to know is, Mr. Speaker, will this bill in any way change that law, or change the procedure as used today?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I would say it would change it if they have been using it as in the bill, schools or other institutions. I say further that they have been violating the law in using it at the present time.

Mr. GROSS. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman claims the law is now being violated. Under this bill do I have the assurance that there will be no oleo used in the public schools? Do I have that assurance?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, I do not believe I got that question.

Mr. GROSS. I am sorry. Mr. Speaker. Today there is oleo used in public school caferterias. Do I have the assurance that if I vote for this bill and this bill passes and becomes law there will be no oleo used in the public school cafeterias today?

Mr. FARABAUGH. Mr. Speaker, that is my opinion and the gentleman is right. I also believe they are violating the intent of the law by using it at the present time; that is, I speak of colored oleo.

Mr. GROSS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair also has to vote on this bill and will someone tell me so I can vote whether this bill continues present restrictions of whether it liberalizes restrictions as far as oleo is concerned?

On the question recurring,
Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 313, entitled:

An Act amending the "Soil Conservation Law" approved May 15, 1945 (P. L. 547) creating the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission and districts imposing powers and duties thereon * * * and making editorial corrections.

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. McNALLY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Agriculture for the purpose of further study.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 321, entitled:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 326, entitled:

An Act amending "The Third Class City Code" approved June 23, 1931 (P. L. 932), changing the annual vacation of police officers.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Sakulsky.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Sakulsky, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SAKULSKY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, there is a suspicion that this would give a three-week vacation instead of a two-week vacation to police officers in cities of the third class. Will the gentleman answer that question and, as briefly as possible, explain the purpose of the bill?

Mr. SAKULSKY. The purpose of the bill is to give the policemen 15 working days. At prseent they are getting 14 working days as a vacation. This is to add an additional working day to their vacation. The police work eight hours a day, five days a week, which is not more than 40 hours a week. At present they are getting 14 working days as a vacation.

Mr. AGNEW. Mr. Speaker, I refer the gentleman to page 2 of the bill. At the top of page 2, it says "14 days to 15 working days." I think the gentleman is in error. It does not merely add one working day. It is a matter of interpretation, is it not?

Mr. SAKULSKY. Mr. Speaker, it was 14 working days, and this bill gives them an additional working day on 15 working days. If you will look on page 3 you will see there "vacation of not less than fourteen." Then it is amended to 15 days working days.

Mr. AGNEW. If the gentleman will look at that language, the present law says "fourteen days." "Fourteen" is stricken out and "fifteen working" is substituted, so what we are doing is changing the !aw from 14 days to 15 working days. Are we not, in effect, going from a two-calendar week to 15 working days, or a three-calendar week?

Mr. SAKULSKY. That is correct.

Mr. AGNEW. We are giving the police officers an extra week's vacation?

Mr. SAKULSKY. We are not giving them an extra week's vacation; we are giving them an extra day's vacation.

Mr. AGNEW. Is the gentleman stating that the present interpretation of the act is 14 working days?

Mr. SAKULSKY. No, the present act takes 14 days.

Mr. AGNEW. Well, is that 14 calendar days or 14 working days?

Mr. SAKULSKY. Fourteen working days is what the police are getting at present. This will add an additional working day. At present the following cities are giving 15 working days to the police: Williamsport, Altoona, Harrisburg, York, Erie, McKeesport, and Chester.

Mr. AGNEW. In other words then, under the present law, 14 days is universally interpreted as 14 working days?

Mr. SAKULSKY. That is correct.

Mr. AGNEW. And the purpose of this bill is to add one more working day so they can have a full three weeks' vacation; is that correct?

Mr. SAKULSKY. That is correct.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

For the information of the members who desire to go to Philadelphia by train, the train is being held and will be held until 3 o'clock. So you have about nine minutes to get to the railroad station.

Mr. McCANN. A free ride to Philadelphia!

SENATE MESSAGE

CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE RESOLUTION

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1961.

The untimely death of Congressman Walter M. Mumma has deprived his constituents of an able and conscientious public servant who labored unceasingly and faithfully for his people and the principles in which he believed.

Long identified with and active in public affairs both as a successful businessman and public office holder, upon his election to Congress Mr. Mumma retired from business and devoted himself exclusively to the duties of that office.

Warm of personality, deeply concerned with the problems facing our Nation and with a devotion to service for his people exceeded by none, his death has created a deep sense of loss to all those he served; therefore be it

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pause in its deliberations in honor of the memory of Walter M. Mumma, a sincere devoted and courageous public servant of those whom he so ably represented, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted to his son, Robert M. Mumma and members of his family residing at Wormleysburg, Pennsylvania and that a copy be transmitted to his brother, Harold Mumma of Allentown, Pennsylvania.

SENATE MESSAGES

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented extracts from the Journal of the Senate:

Senate Bills for concurrence Nos. 101, 128 and 153.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to file the following statement for the record:

Although this Chamber has grown accustomed to the usual amount of demagoguery in its time, I think we would have to go back a long way to top the performance of the minority leader yesterday.

Through his complete failure to understand the duties of the chief executive of this State, the minority leader has succeeded in twisting the facts to suit his imagination.

I do not object to constructive criticism on the part of the minority leader. It would be helpful, however, if he would make at least an attempt to understand his subject before he starts talking.

The minority leader yesterday launched an attack on the man who now occupies the Governor's chair. It was an ill-considered attack, most notable for its misinformation.

First of all, the minority leader seems to think that the Governor of Pennsylvania, once elected, should imprison himself in the office next door to this chamber. He is wrong.

I believe—and I am sure all of us here in this House believe—that a man is elected Governor of Pennsylvania to serve all of the people. He is not elected Governor of Harrisburg or Pittsburgh or Philadelphia, or any other single community.

It seems perfectly logical to me that a good Governor should try to meet and talk with the people instead of cooping himself up in his office or in a mansion far-removed from them.

Let the record show that this is the kind of Governor David L. Lawrence has been and will continue to be.

No other Governor in the history of this Commonwealth has worked harder, spent longer days, met with more of the people he is representing or visited more of Pennsylvania's communities. The dedication and high sense of purpose Governor Lawrence has brought to his office are well known to all of us. More important, they are well known to the people in every county of this State.

Governor Lawrence is not the kind of man who is satisfied to manage the affairs of State government without knowing, first hand, what the Commonwealth's problems are. It is because of this that he has traveled to so many of our communities, talked before so many local groups and listened to the ideas of so many local citizens.

David Lawrence has taken the Governor's Office where it is needed and where it really belongs—back to the people. He has tried, in every way possible, to tell the story of our State government—what it has done, is doing and must do—in our local communities. He has made it his business to find out what is happening in State agencies at the local level. Through visits to mental hospitals, vocational rehabilitation centers, our depressed areas, the redevelopment projects of our cities and towns, he has gained a personal knowledge of Pennsylvania unparalleled by any man who has previously held this office.

In December of last year, the Associated Press carried a story—written by Richard L. Graves, a distinguished reporter, well known to the members of this House—which presented, very clearly, the facts about Governor Lawrence's many appearances in local communities. That article said, and I quote:

"In the 23 months he has been in office, Lawrence has made a total of 353 speeches in 135 cities. Most of the appearances have been in Pennsylvania; 21 have been in other States or foreign countries. The totals do not count brief appearances at such things as political rallies or as a guest at civic affairs."

I anticipate that the esteemed minority leader may seize this opportunity to make one of his usual sarcastic remarks about speech-making. I would remind him, therefore, that in each of those 353 appearances, Governor Lawrence was attempting to bring the people of one community closer to their government. In many of them he was taking an active part in helping the people of a community to help themselves—through their local welfare drives, through the dedication of new public facilities, through the establishment of industrial development organizations.

I believe that this is a vital function of an effective Governor. He must direct the affairs of the Commonwealth, of course. But there is far more to this leadership than sitting in an office here in Harrisburg.

This Commonwealth needs a dynamic man in the Governor's Office; a man who is willing to sacrifice endless amounts of time and energy to solve the many problems with which we are confronted. Pennsylvania has such a man, right now, in David L. Lawrence.

I was somewhat shocked by the minority leader's pious announcement that he intends to "keep a record" of what the Governor is doing. I was even more shocked by the deliberately misleading comment in his attack that the people would be "shocked" to discover how little time our Governor has spent in Harrisburg during the first two months of this year."

If the minority leader is really interested in what the Governor has done since the first of the year, and I have little reason to believe that this was a sincere call for information, then I am sure he will find these figures revealing.

Since January 1, 1961, the record shows that Governor Lawrence has spent 31 working days in Harrisburg, 9 days in the Governor's office at Pittsburgh, 6 days in our Nation's Capitol, and one day each in Philadelphia, Detroit and Charleston, West Virginia.

In addition to the many meetings he has held, during daytime hours, in his office, the Governor has added many hours at night—sometimes working a 16-hour day—for visits to adjoining communities such as Lebanon and Mechanicsburg.

It should be obvious—even to the most petty partisan—that the Governor has spent most of his time, by far, in his office here in Harrisburg. During those days he was here he has met with hundreds of people. He has taken part in dozens of conferences, ranging from the presentation of farm safety awards to vital conferences on industrial development.

He has held seven conferences with the members of the working press. He has called three special conferences—for explanation of the budget, to set up an emergency program for Civil Defense and other agencies in the event of Spring floods on our streams and rivers, and in an effort to prevent the loss of the Ford plant in Chester.

I have not, incidentally, included Sundays in these totals. I have assumed—correctly, I hope—that even such a zealous time-study man as the esteemed minority leader will grant a Governor the right to spend some hours with his family and friends.

During the days and months ahead, I hope that the minority leader will come to a greater understanding of the role public servants must play in their relationship to the people. The days have long since passed us by when we could think of a Governor—or a lawmaker, either, for that matter, as someone completely removed from the public.

There is a distinct political philosophy involved here—a philosophy on the part of this Governor, at least, that the people deserve to know about their government, what it is doing and what it hopes to accomplish.

The best way to communicate with people is still on a personal basis. Obviously, no governor can ever hope to fulfill that ideal completely—but in David Lawrence the people of Pennsylvania have a Governor who is willing to expend all his energy trying.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 13

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up on page 7 of today's calendar, House resolution No. 13.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 16, 1961.

The "State Employes' Retirement Code of 1959," approved June 1, 1959 (P. L. 392), specified two groups of State employes having membership in the Pennsylvania State Employes' Retirement System and/or the Federal Social Security System as follows:

(1) Joint coverage group having integrated membership in the retirement system and the Federal Social Security System with reduced retirement contributions and consequent reduced retirement benefits.

(2) Single coverage group having membership in the retirement system only.

There are members of the single coverage group who are not excluded from social security coverage under the provisions of the Federal Social Security Act together with various members presently in the joint coverage group who would elect to enter a dual coverage group defined as having separate and complete membership in the retirement system and the Federal Social Security System with full contributions to both and without reductions in benefits from either system if such optional group were created therefore be it.

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to ascertain with the assistance and cooperation of all the departments, boards and commissions of the State government, the individual choice of each and every State employe if such options were granted.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 19

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House resolution No. 19.

In the House of Representatives, January 30, 1961.

Whereas, A considerable amount of inconvenience is occasioned by the tests being given by the State Police in compliance with the Governor's Safety Program in the Johnstown area. The main portion of this inconvenience stems from the fact that only a portion of these tests take place in State Police offices. In many instances these offices are inadequately equipped and their facilities limited to complete the tests therefore be it.

Resolved, That the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urge the Governor to establish centrally located stations with a physician in attendance qualified to complete the physical test. TESTS necessary to obtaining a drivers license and be it further:

Resolved, That these stations be equipped with the necessary facilities and adequate personnel to facilitate the completion of these tests AND THAT ONE OF THESE STATIONS BE LOCATED IN THE AREA OF THE CITY OF JOHNSTOWN and be it further:

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Governor.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 29

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House Resolution No. 29.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 14, 1961.

The last codifications of the insurance laws of this Commonwealth were enacted in 1921. Many laws on the subject of insurance have been enacted since that time. It is of great importance that the insurance laws be recodified and modernized therefore be it.

Resolved (the Senate concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study, investigate and recodify the insurance laws of this Commonwealth and be it further.

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the 1963 session of the General Assembly its findings and recommendations with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for its concurrence.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1961. 145th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 38. HARRISBURG, PA. MONDAY, MARCH 6, 1961. No. 24.

SENATE

MONDAY, MARCH 6, 1961.

The Senate met at 3:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (W. J. Lane) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, DOCTOR A. DIXON ROLLIT, D. D., Rector of The Church of the Ascension, Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, in Whom we live and move and have our being, Thou Who alone gavest us the breath of life and alone canst keep alive in us all holy desires, be present we beseech Thee at this Session of the Senate. Touch our minds that we may be freed from all thoughts of weakness, fear and defeat, and be filled with Thy gift of peace. Touch our hearts that we may be filled with new love of Thee and of this Nation and, in particular, those who have entrusted us with the responsibility of government. Touch our souls and so refresh them that we may, in drawing nearer to Thee, draw near also to one another and be sensitive to the kinship which we have with one another as Thy servants.

As we enter upon the tasks of this week, make us patient in argument, charitable in judgment and slow to wrath; that always guided by Thy spirit of wisdom, we may be saved from all false choices; that in Thy light we may see light and in Thy straight path, may we not stumble.

Thus in tune with Thee and in peace and harmony, one with another, may all that we say and do strengthen our faith in Thee and in Thy will and purpose for the peoples of this Commonwealth and Nation. We ask it in Thy name. Amen.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McCREESH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, one of the tremendous problems facing this Legislature today, the Legislatures of every State and the Federal Government, is the cost of education.

Thousands of young boys and girls throughout this Commonwealth are looking forward daily with eagerness to the development of their minds, the betterment of their economic standing in life and a secure and happy future in this State. In order to bring about the fine hopes of these young people, Mr. President, we, as, Legislators, must do all in our power to economically keep down the soaring costs of education while providing the greatest number of our youngsters with the finest educational tools that we can provide.

While glancing over the appropriations to the State-aided institutions in the area of West Philadelphia, I was amazed at the amount of the taxpayers' money appropriated to the University of Pennsylvania in relation to the high rate of tuition charged there for the children of Pennsylvania citizens. During the past ten years, approximately forty million of taxpayers' dollars have been expended for this private corporation, while its tuition rate has glaringly risen out of proportion to the point where it now costs a Pennsylvania student on the average of $1,500 per year to attend this university.

Moreover, and economically more important, Mr. President, is the fact that thirteen million more taxpayers' dollars have been channeled to this institution by the General State Authority during the past two years.

This university has also made the request for an additional $35,000,000 in General State Authority aid during the next four years, which is a grand total, Mr. President, of approximately eighty-eight million of Pennsylvania taxpayers' dollars that will flow into this private corporation.

I do not feel that this money, Mr. President, is being judiciously or wisely appropriated. Very few boys and girls in West Philadelphia can afford to go to this university. Very few boys and girls in Philadelphia can afford to pay this high rate of tuition, and very few Pennsylvanians will be able to attend this institution in the future.

My question to this Legislative Body, Mr. President, is: Can this money be more wisely used? My answer is yes. Some of this money could be put to far better use. In this regard, I am reading in place and presenting to the Chair a bill for a State College to be located in West Philadelphia as a fine addition to that redevelopment project in Philadelphia, known as University City. Such a college would permit lower-cost education to the taxpayers; would permit thousands of boys and girls—Pennsylvania's future leaders—to gain an education with less concern and worry over skyrocketing tuition costs; and would permit mothers and fathers of large families to rest easier in their growing concern as to how they can provide their children with the necessary education of today.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

An Act amending the act of March 31, 1949 (P. L. 372), entitled "The General State Authority Act of 1949," bringing State colleges within the scope of the act and increasing the powers and the borrowing capacity of the Authority and allocating the proceeds of such increased borrowing capacity.

Which was committed to the Committee on Mines and Mineral Industries.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BELL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, during the past very bad snowy, icy weather, there was a situation in the Commonwealth that showed a need for correction. I am specifically referring to the fact that under the State highway laws, it is legal and mandatory for the State Highways Department to clear the roads and to apply abrasive materials to highways in first and second class townships and boroughs, but not in third class cities.

Many of our first class townships are much larger than our third class cities. Accordingly, I am going to introduce a bill today—and I hope it comes to this floor for debate and I hope we can pass it—to direct the Secretary of Highways to plow the roads of snow in third class cities. These are State Highways. I cannot see why a snowplow comes up to the boundary of a third class city, raises its plow, proceeds through the third class city, and then commences plowing again on the other side.

Mr. President, at this time I present to the Senate this bill and other bills.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, last week I introduced a bill, on behalf of myself and several other Senators, providing certain penalties relating to persons who had been either convicted or had been determined to be prone to the commission of certain sex crimes. At that time, Mr. President, I stated there was a law on the statute books of Pennsylvania, which there is, providing that the courts may sentence such an offender to life imprisonment. I understand, from interested persons, that many of these people who are sentenced for such crimes are paroled.

The bill which I am about to introduce, on behalf of myself, Senator Propert, Senator Kalman, Senator Lane and Senator Wade, would limit the power of the Parole Board to grant a parole in certain cases to such offenders.

BILLS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

Messrs. BERGER, PROPERT, KALMAN, LANE and WADE presented to the Chair SB 348, entitled:

An Act amending the act of January 8, 1952 (P. DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

NOMINATION BY THE GOVERNOR REPORTED FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I further report, from the Committee on Executive Nominations, the nomination of Mrs. Elizabeth B. Wylam and ask that it be read by the Clerk.

The Clerk read the nomination as follows:

To the Honorable, the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

In conformity with law, I have the honor to nominate for the advice and consent of the Senate the following person:

(Mrs.) Elizabeth B. Wylam, Wyndmoor, from November 15, 1960, for a term of four years or until a successor is duly appointed.

DAVID L. LAWRENCE.

NOMINATION RETURNED TO THE GOVERNOR

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I move that the nomination just read by the Clerk be returned to His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth.

Mr. MURRAY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The nomination will be returned to the Governor.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. STIEFEL asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President and Members of the Senate, I have already directed the attention of this Body to a condition which, in my opinion, does not appear to be conducive to good government.

There was a time when Senator Shapiro was the Secretary of Public Welfare. At that time, the Department undertook much to do. Now we are confronted with a whole empire. One of the component parts of this empire —and I do not want to now delve into whether that empire is being administered properly or not—deals with the problem of the aged. This matter, in forty other jurisdictions, is under the supervision of the Department of Public Health. Why, in Pennsylvania, it is under the Department of Public Welfare, I cannot comprehend. After all, it is not only a question of custodial care, but it is a question of medicine and geriatrics. When you have such a genius as Doctor Wilbar, then I believe he should be entrusted with that task.

Therefore, Mr. President, for this reason, I am presenting the following resolution, on behalf of myself and my colleague, Senator Kalman, for the Joint State Government Commission to undertake a study about the transfer of the Office for the Aging from the Department of Welfare to the capable, competent and learned hands of Doctor Wilbar.

Mr. President, I ask for the immediate consideration of this resolution.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO MAKE A STUDY OF NURSING HOMES AND HOMES FOR THE AGED

Messrs. STIEFEL and KALMAN offered the following resolution (Serial No. 110), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 6, 1961.

Whereas, There has been much discussion, more particularly during the last few years, on the problems facing the older portion of our population, especially in matters of health and of the most efficient method of meeting those problems.

There are only ten States at the present time, Pennsylvania included, that have old age homes and the attendant problems of the aging in the Department of Public Welfare. The question arises as to the feasibility of transferring these problems of the aged, including nursing homes and homes for the aged, from the Department of Public Welfare to the Department of Health, therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be instructed to make an immediate study of the problems of nursing homes, homes for the aged and all attendent problems now facing the Department of Public Welfare; also a study of the feasibility of transferring these problems, powers and duties to the Department of Health where they are located in the vast majority of states, and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission be instructed to complete its study as soon as possible and report to the General Assembly with its recommendations.

Mr. HAYS. Mr. President, I object to the immediate consideration of this resolution.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Public Health and Welfare.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, today funeral services were held for one of the best known men in Pennsylvania, who passed away at the great age of ninety-eight years. I am speaking of Senator Joseph R. Grundy, who has long been a public figure in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Although Senator Grundy was a controversial figure in Pennsylvania politics, I believe that no one will dispute the fact that he always had at heart the best interests of his community, his State and his Nation. It was his philosophy that what was good for Pennsylvania business, was good for Pennsylvania. He organized the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association for the protection of Pennsylvania business, its wages and its products.

I note, Mr. President, that in recent times I have received many communications from labor unions, endorsing the philosophy which was Senator Grundy's in the matter of protection by tariff against the encroachment of foreign products, produced at a low wage rate, in the United States.

Mr. President, it is not possible to spend a great deal of time in this Senate eulogizing a man whose career was such that many hours might be taken in so doing. However, I do believe that this Senate should take note of the passing of a great Pennsylvanian. Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Taylor, Senator Keller and myself, I am offering this resolution.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE SENATOR JOSEPH R. GRUNDY

Messrs. BERGER, TAYLOR and KELLER offered the following resolution (Serial No. 19), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, March 6, 1961.

The death of Senator Joseph R. Grundy on March 3, 1961 brings to an end the life of one of the Commonwealth's outstanding citizens. Senator Grundy will long be remembered for his forceful and vigorous influence on the political history of this State.

His span of life covers almost a century of our State's history and his memory and influence will remain with us for many years to come. We do express our extreme regret in his passing. Many of us here knew him as a true friend. We knew him as a man always willing to lend a helping hand and do his share in any public service effort; therefore be it Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby expresses its extreme sorrow in the death of Senator Joseph R. Grundy and we hereby memoralize Senator Grundy for his many public services and his outstanding record as a citizen of this State.

CALENDAR

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL RECOMMITTED

HB 5—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that House Bill No. 5 Printer's No. 5, be recommitted to the Committee on Constitutional Changes and Federal Relations. I now yield to the Chairman of the Committee, Senator Mahady, who will make a brief statement on this bill.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, this Joint Resolution to amend the Constitution is a prime example of the dangers involved in piecemeal amendment of the Constitution.

Actually, the Constitutional Commission recommended this piece of legislation so as to amend Article IV, Section 21. This comprises the complete recommendation of that commission. However, by Senate Bill No. 1, which was a Joint Resolution to amend the Constitution, we extended the term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs. That bill passed this Body and it is now in the House on the Calendar. By the passage of Senate Bill No. 1, the term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs will begin in January rather than in May.

If we would pass House Bill No. 5, we would eliminate the constitutional provisions for the Secretary of Internal Affairs, while at the same time we are trying to amend the Constitution to change the date that she takes office.

Therefore, to relieve this inconsistency we have now moved that House Bill No. 5, Printer's No. 5, be sent back to the appropriate committee, and I wish to second this motion for recommital.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I desire to interogate the gentleman from Westmoreland, Senator Mahady.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Mahady, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MAHADY. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I would like to ask the gentleman—and he probably did adequately explain it but it was not clear to me—how the passage of the other amendment would affect this one.

Mr. MAHADY. Mr. President, the passage of the amendment, which is Senate Bill No. 1, would purport to change the beginning of the term of the Secretary of Internal Affairs in the Constitution from May to January 1st.

At the same time, we brought to the floor House Bill No. 5. It was as much my mistake as anyone else's, because the committee which you sat upon—the Constitutional Revision Commission—recommended House Bill No. 5, and the effect of House Bill No. 5 would be to remove the Secretary of Internal Affairs as a constitutional office and leave the Secretary of Internal Affairs as an office. The only legislation applicable to it would be fixed by the Act of May 11, 1874, P.L. 135, 71 Purdon's Statute, Section 901. All that does is define when she would take office. It presumes that she is an officer. Therefore, the result would be if you put both of these on the ballot, one would be to abolish the office of Secretary of Internal Affairs as a constitutional office and the other to amend the Constitution changing only the time that she took office, which, to me, appears to be completely inconsistent.

If you have your little book from the committee on which you served, you will notice —

Mr. FLEMING. May we be at ease for a minute, Mr. President?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I have had it explained to me by a nonlawyer, Senator Seyler, whom I highly recommend to the rest of the Senate when they have questions on the Constitution.

I have no objection, Mr. President, to the motion.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The motion was agreed to and the bill was recommitted.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 75—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, last week Senator Scott discussed this bill and stated, I think correctly, that although this amendment is a very desirable amendment, nevertheless, the original section of the Act needed considerable clarification. I am inclined to agree with him.

I understand that the amendments have not yet been prepared which would clarify this bill and, therefore, I am asking that the bill go over in order until they can be produced.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would be very happy to deliver to Senator Scott and Senator Berger a copy of a letter which was sent to me, after our discussion here on the floor. I tell you, with all due modesty, that the letter upholds the position taken by me. This makes the fact even stronger that you can perfectly well listen to me on these matters, which might appear to be confusing. I do think, in the interest of good legislation, this should have been a matter of a separate section and should have been produced in that instance. I think it would make it easier to read and easier to understand.

If we may be at ease for one moment, I would like to present this letter to Senator Scott.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, before the Senate becomes at ease, I think it is very necessary for Senator Weiner to tell the Membership of the Senate who the letter happens to be from.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am sorry that I did not state so, but the letter came from the department from which I inquired about this matter. I realize that Senator Scott will not have the opportunity to read or peruse this letter and, therefore, I will ask that this bill go over in order at this time.

Mr. SCOTT. Mr. President, I would just like to comment that it is very understandable that the department would substantiate the position of the Majoriy Leader. However, that does not necessarily mean it is right.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I made these remarks, not knowing what the position of the department was or would be. As you well realize, they do not have the Journal in front of them. Therefore, you can see that when two great opinions coincide, it can only lead to one thing and that is that we are telling the truth.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

BILL ON THIRD READING AMENDED

SB 79—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. MULLIN and WADE, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

Amend Pg. 2, line 6, by adding at the end of the line, after the word "Any", the word:
"S T A T E"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendement?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I call upon the proponent of the amendment to explain to the Members of the Senate the import of this amendment. What does it do?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Silvert, desiring to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Mullin?

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I do not desire to interrogate the gentleman. I am asking him to explain just what his amendment does.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, the amendment is self-explanatory. It confines the activities of radar to State highways. That is all it does.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, in Pennsylvania today, there are over 100,000 miles of roads. These are not only State roads, but every other kind of road in the Commonwealth.

If this amendment is accepted, Mr. President, it would only cover 42,000 miles. How about the other 58,000 miles? We are looking for highway safety and radar is going to solve the problem. While good law enforcement will dictate the use of radar, primarily it will be used and will be handled with the State Police, exclusively. No other law enforcement agency in the Commonwealth will be permitted to use it.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think one of the other features which should be brought to the attention of the Members of the Senate is that suppose we do enact this amendment and suppose we do have 42,000 miles of highways which are covered by radar. Does that insure people? We are not only talking about the driver, but we are also talking about the people who use the highways. Some of the worst collisions that occur, causing great loss of lives, happen when somebody hits you head-on, coming from the opposite direction. You probably are operating your car in a safe manner, but some other person comes along and runs into you and hurts, maims or kills you.

There are many so-called rural highways which are not rural in nature. They come out of large cities, such as Philadelphia, Easton and so on and so forth, where people carry on drag racing. How would you prevent that from happening if, at a certain point, you cut this off? You are now giving license to other people to use this other area for whatever purposes seem to suit them best. They may or may not be picked up, but we certainly hope that they will. However, if you are going to afford this protection and you are going to have highway safety, is it not a good place to begin by having it all over? In other words, if it is good for one area of the Commonwealth, it should be good for the entire Commonwealth as a whole. If this method saves just one life, it will be worth all the money that we put into it, unless we are putting a value on what life is worth. Then we can equate it by the 11,000,000 people who live in Pennsylvania.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, this amendment seems to me to be well indicated in this bill. I think that the general understanding of the highway users as a whole, as to the intent of this radar regulation and use, is that it will be used on what is commonly known as the high speed highways. Those are always State highways. However, of course, I know there are other State highways which are not high speed. At the same time, Mr. President, I think that the State Police and the Radar Corps will have enough to do for a long period of years if they confine their activities with this radar to the State Highway System, even if it is only 42,000 miles.

It seems to me, Mr. President, that another amendment might well be put in this bill, although I admit it would be difficult to write it; namely, that the Commissioner of the State Police shall not take off from the regular patrol duties a number of State Highway Policemen to sit in radar-equipped cars to operate these speed-catchers. Certainly, we want to protect life on the highways. However, it is by no means certain, Mr. President, that this device is going to do anything like that.

I know that we all received a communication from the Pittsburgh Motor Club today on this subject. It may outline what apparently is the opinion of an authority on this; Doctor Kopper, of Johns Hopkins University. The testimony of Doctor Kopper is summarized in this communication. I am going to take time to read it, Mr. President, and it reads as follows:

"1. At the very best, there is confusion as to 'what car' reflected the radar microwaves.

"2. The machine reading varies with variations in the condition of the atmosphere.

"3. The time of the day affects the machine.

"4. The machine must be adjusted for every operation or setting and to be accurate must have a complete inspection at least every 30 days.

"5. The angle of the automobile and the radar machine influence the reading, as does the distance of the automobile.

"6. Vibrations, such as the rattling of keys or other loose instruments, including blowing leaves, a running dog, or a flock of birds, will momentarily actuate the machine; reflect or kill the energy waves.

"7. Radio resistance, such as aluminum foil on the bumper, has been used successfully to mislead the reading.

"8. If a wire, while in process of being connected, should fall on the wet ground, it might well affect the machine unless dried by a flame.

"9. The machine must be warmed for at least 30 minutes.

"10. A trained operator with the 'knack of manipulating the machine' is necesasry for consistent results.

"11. One Radar machine sells for from $1750 to $1800, not including station wagon or carrying equipment."

Mr. President, as I said before, I am not a very, very strong opponent of this device. However, I do think that it should be controlled and limited in every way possible, because it is going to introduce into the jurisprudence of Pennsylvania the use of evidence which has never been allowed in our courts; namely, the reading off of a machine. Under the testimony of this gentleman who testified, it, apparently, is a fallible device.

Therefore, Mr. President, I think that any restriction of a reasonable kind, such as is demonstrated by this amendment, should be adopted and placed in the bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it seems to me that we are getting into an area here that is being classified as controversial, when I think it is simply that we relied very heavily on radar here in the last war, and this helped save lives of American Servicemen. It also has been used successfully—even at this late date—as part of our early warning system that we have set up around the Nation.

If radar has saved a single life, I think it is entitled at least to be tried. We are going to be in Session here for a little while, and we will be back here the following year and two years from today. If there are any additions or corrections to this problem, I think we can make them then. We ought not to be standing in the way of using new instruments that will help provide for the safety of all of the citizens of this State.

I must remind the gentleman that the reason it has not been used by our courts to the present date is that it is specifically outlawed in the Code. Therefore, anyone coming in with this information or this equipment could certainly be turned down.

Radar is used successfully in other States. It is used in mobile units. It has saved lives and kept speed down. It is hard for us to understand, sitting in the Senate, how some people get behind a wheel which has a great deal of power—more power than they will ever use in that car. Some of these individuals are people who probably do not have the ability to make fast decisions or use good judgment in situations where making fast decisions is necessary when they have a great deal of power underneath them. The result has been the great number of people killed and maimed on our highways every year. If any instrument will help prevent this or will save the single life of any Pennsylvanian, I think by all means we ought to try it and not try to amend this vehicle today. I think today is as good a day as any to work on this problem and get it straightened out.

There will be a demonstration of this instrument tomorrow at 10:00 o'clock, and the Chairman of the Committee invites everyone to attend. Automobiles will be provided to take the Members to the demonstration so they can actually see radar in operation. I think to try to hit at this thing, or to try to serve people who do not understand what this problem is and who are trying to hit at it hard because they do not understand it inasmuch as it is a new piece of mechanism, is being unfair to the equipment involved and what it is trying to do.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, just one question in case I did not understand the statements that the gentleman just made.

Senator, do I understand that the installation and use of this radar device will assist in improving the reaction of persons who are driving high-powered cars and will prevent accidents which are the result of the inability of such persons to react?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the answer to that question is that by installing these units to prevent people from driving at excessive speeds—or removing these people from the highways when they do exceed the safe limits—I think will not put the problem in the hands of the individual, but it will put another means at the disposal of the law enforcement agencies to prevent these people from having to make those kind of judgments or by using these instruments in their hands to injure themselves or someone else.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would like to be advised by the Majority Leader as to whom and what personnel will operate these radar units if they are approved.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the State Police will operate these units, and I assume, as was done in the Army and Navy, they will be first trained in order to handle these units.

Mr. BERGER. In connection with the operation of the radar units, Senator, will that result in the removal from highway patrol of a certain number of personnel, as many as may be required to operate each unit?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to answer the question in this way. I am sure that some of the people probably now on patrol can be used to handle these units on the same basis that any kind of a watching mission is set up. I do not think that you will need as many people on the highways, if and when you have this unit, to help patrol the highways because if an officer notices a person on the screen who is in violation of the law, all he will have to do is transmit the message to the mobile unit which will pick up this motororist or prevent him from operating in this dangerous fashion.

I think it would operate in the same fashion, Senator, —if I may please compare it—as the policeman on the beat being replaced by the automobile and the radio unit. In this case, instead of a foot policeman running out to see what is the matter, a radio car is dispatched to the danger point or to whomever might need police assistance.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, without continuing this too long, I would remark here that from what I have understood and read in articles by police officials, the removal of the policeman on the beat has not been a complete blessing in a great many large cities, and that the substitution of policemen, sitting down in automobiles, has not resulted in the diminution of crime which might have been observed and prevented by a policeman on the beat. However, that has nothing to do with this bill, and I apologize for the digression.

At the same time, Mr. President, it would appear to me that the use of any number of units which would make this device at all effective on the highways will remove from active patrol a number of State Policemen.

Mr. President, I submit—and I believe this opinion is held by many others beside myself—that the presence of a highway patrol car, plainly marked upon our highways and at frequent intervals, has a very salutary effect upon the conduct of motorists on the highway. I know very well that when I see a highway patrolman on the highway, whether I am going forty-five, fifty or even fifty-five miles an hour, I look at the speedometer, adjust myself and wonder if I am doing anything wrong, and I think every other motorist has the same reaction.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, in view of the fact that we are having a demonstration tomorrow on the use of radar, which is a very worth-while thing for the Senators to have before voting on this important measure, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Mullin.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Mullin, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. MULLIN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SILVERT. Senator Mullin, in view of the fact that we are having a two-hour demonstration tomorrow on the use of radar, would you be willing to withdraw your amendment today and have the bill go over in order, with the privilege to you to renew it tomorrow so that we can all vote more intelligently after we have had the demonstration?

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, yes, I would object to withdrawing the amendment at this time. I do not see how the demonstration is going to have any effect on the proposal in this amendment.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I intend to vote against the amendment.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I should like to request a roll call on the amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, we have already occupied a long time in discussing the addition of one word to this bill, and the Majority Leader has led the discussion quite beyond that amendment. However, he did in his discussion mention the fact that this machine was almost infallible.

I would like to quote—and I will be very brief—from the New York Daily News of March 19, 1960:

> "A lawyer and an electronics expert may have convinced the judge that police radar equipment for nabbing speeders is inherently unreliable, but the cops are thoroughly unconvinced, Police Commissioner Stephen A. Kennedy made it plain yesterday.
> "Motorist Charles A. Weil, of 100 Gold Street, had been stoped for speeding on the Long Island Expressway last October. A police radar or electranic speed-measuring device in a patrol car was used as evidence against him.
> "Weil hired a lawyer and brought in J. Kelly Johnson, New Canaan, Connecticut, an electronics expert, to testify in his behalf. Johnson said there were twenty-three possibilities of error in the police radar equipment."
> I repeat: "Johnson said there were twenty-three possible errors in the police equipment.
> "Johnson further testified that many police departments have discarded the electronic devices as unreliable."

I think if the Majority Leader, who stated a little while ago that most every State Police Department in the different States of the United States now use radar, will look into it, he will find this is not true. Only two or three States are currently using it, and the fatality rate of those States that are now using it has not been changed. As a matter of fact, the fatality rate went up in Virginia a year after they adopted the use of radar.

Now, Mr. President, we are all off the subject somewhat. We are discussing the use by the State Police on state highways only. Frankly, I think the amendment is a good one, and should be passed by this Body.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this debate or discusison. However, I would just like to say, in reply to the Majority Leader when he said it was a new device, that I feel that I should vote for Senator Mullin's amendment.

The Majority Leader also expressed the fact that we are coming back again next year. In view of the fact that this is a new device—something entirely new—and we have 42,000 miles to begin with, if it proves to be satisfactory, then we can go into these smaller township and other highways.

I want to remind the Senate that we have presently in Pennsylvania speed traps. We have in Pennsylvania some communities which do not have any taxes to pay, but derive all of their revenue from the collection of speed traps. I think this would just recommend to those communities the initiation of radar equipment to create even more of them. I think if we cover the 42,000 miles and see what experience we have, and if it is a good thing, then we can incorporate the other mileage.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I have enough faith in the Members of the Senate and in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that if this matter does not prove to be well operated, and does not serve the purpose as indicated, I think we can then make additions and corrections at that point.

However, I think to start out a program where you are telling the people they cannot operate on a full-time basis, and that it can only be operated in certain limited areas, is sort of a mistake because I think everybody in the State of Pennsylvania is entitled to the full protection that this device can give them. If it proves, in fact, that it does not give them protection and that it is not operating properly, I think it ought to be removed completely, or perhaps just kept in certain areas.

I think to start out, we ought to put it into effect, let it operate and if it needs cutting back, I am sure that all of us here will be able, willing and happy to do that job if it needs doing.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I doubt very much whether the Majority Leader intends for us to believe that 42,000 miles of road is a limited area, although that is what I understood him to say.

I do, however, desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I would inquire of the Majority Leader whether or not he considers this device an infallible device, as he stated.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I ever stated that it was an infallible device, I was in error and, therefore, wish to correct the record.

This device is like all other devices, in that it is about ninety-eight per cent accurate. Any device is as good or as bad as the people who operate it. My experience with radar, I admit, was under some emergency circumstances. Many other people, who are sitting in this room, also had some use of it. Our commercial airlines use it today, and every day of the week. I have found that it does a pretty good job. I would say that if we can keep down the present accident rate which exists in Pennsylvania, reducing it by ninety-eight per cent, the device will be worth every penny that we ever put into it.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, again, I cannot let that statement go by.

Does the Majority Leader intend to imply or to state that the accident rate will be reduced by ninety-eight per cent by the use of radar?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the record will show that I did not say it would reduce the accident rate. I said it is hoped that if the instrument, which is ninety-eight per cent accurate, will also reduce our accident rate by ninety-eight per cent, I think we will be doing pretty well.

I would say to the gentleman that if we can reduce our accident rate even by one per cent or two per cent, by the use of this instrument, we should hasten to put it into effect immediately, unless there is a better system for so doing.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I agree thoroughly with the gentleman. I believe that if we can reduce our accident rate at all, by the use of this instrument, we should use it. However, I do understand that the statistics do not bear out that assertion.

Just one more question and I am going to drop this, Mr. President. Can the gentleman state whether or not any tolerance will be permitted to the motorist in the use of this device which, admittedly, is not infallible?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, in order for the record to be very clear, it is my understanding and I have been advised that the tolerance will be up to five miles above the speed limit. The police will not operate against anyone who goes five miles over the speed limit.

My understanding for that is that it might well be that the speedometer being used, or the method being used, may not be in close calibration in order to give you the accurate amount of mileage. Therefore, they are permitting this five-mile tolerance. Although this is not written into the bill, it is understood by the people who are going to enforce the law. I think that tolerance is in effect today on the Turnpike and on other roads patrolled by the State Police.

Mr. BERGER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. President.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, some figures have just been quoted by the gentlemen in debate. I want to submit to the Members of the Senate that I have in my hand the latest report of the National Safety Council. I do not intend to read the entire report, but just let me quote the following:

"Pennsylvania's last rate "—given in this book—" in 1958 was 4.3."

That means, gentlemen, that that is the number of fatalities for 100,000,000 miles traveled.

Pennsylvania, I repeat, is 4.3. Maryland, New York, Ohio, West Virginia and Virginia are all around Pennsylvania and all use radar. Their rates are all higher than Pennsylvania's. Maryland is 4.9; New York, 4.7; Ohio, 4.8; West Virginia, 6.4; and Virginia, 5.7. All, I repeat use radar. All their fatality rates are higher than in Pennsylvania.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, on the basis of the figures just given to us by the gentleman, is he stating to the Members of the Senate that if we install radar, then our accident and death rates will go up? Is that the result of those figures?

Mr. WADE. No, Mr. President. I make no predictions about the future, whatsoever. I do not pretend to have any knowledge of future accidents at all. However, I will repeat what I formerly said. Virginia's fatality rate went up the year after they adopted radar legislation.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, is it the contention of the gentleman that we do not introduce radar in Pennsylvania at all because our accident or fatality rate will go up after we do so? Is that the conclusion we are to draw from the figures the gentleman presented to the Senate?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, that is not the conclusion which I intend. It is not the conclusion, whatever.

Mr. President, I shall attempt, when we are ready to pass this bill finally, to point out to the Members of the Senate the areas in which this is a very, very faulty device. I shall also point out that it is an ineffective device.

Does that answer the gentleman's question?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, does the gentleman have personal knowledge or any other material, from demonstrations which he has seen, which would bear out what he has just stated to us?

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President. I call attention to a booklet, which I am sure the Majority Leader would find most interesting. It is a report on accident facts by the National Safety Foundation. It is a report which we all should study before we pass this legislation.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, is the gentleman stating to us that if I were to read this booklet—or any other Member were to read this booklet—I would come to the conclusion that we should be against the use of radar?

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President. I maintain that the adoption of radar is a useless device which is more frequently abused than any other police tool or method which is known in the United States. Further, may I add—

Mr. WEINER. If the gentleman would merely answer my question, I will be glad for him to add anything additional.

Does the book state that we should not adopt radar? Is that the contention of the book?

Mr. WADE. I did not so state, Mr. President, and the gentleman knows that I did not so state.

I merely reported the record as it exists. A very distinguished gentleman from the Democratic Party said: "Let's take a look at the record." I say to the gentleman from Philadelphia today: "Let us take a look at the record before we step into the deep."

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, would the gentleman please advise us as to who wrote this book? Would he also inform us as to where in the book it states that we should not adopt radar or that radar is bad or that we should be very cautious about the use of radar?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the gentleman is trying to put words into my mouth. I object to that. I do not try to do that to him.

However, I will give him this information. The National Safety Council's home office is 425 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago 11, Illinois. It was prepared by the Statistics Division and copyrighted by the National Safety Council in 1959. The copyrighting of this booklet is not intended to prevent its use on the Senate floor, I presume. Additional copies may be secured for $1.85. I am willing and anxious to furnish the gentleman with a copy of this report, even though it is a rather expensive document.

I do not know whether that answers the gentleman's question or not. Let me add further that the National Safety Council is made up of the police departments of all the States and all the large and reputable insurance companies of America, the motor clubs of Pennsylvania as a unit, the manufacturers of automobiles and others. I assure the gentleman that the information is most reliable. As a matter of fact, I think it is the most reliable source of this kind of information there is available in the United States.

Mr. WEINER. Will the gentleman tell us what the position of the National Safety Council is in regard to radar?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have searched the record and I have never yet found any publication written by the National Safety Council or any other reputable information—gathering source which recommends radar. I can say that honestly.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman answer my question and advise us whether he knows of any publication put out by the National Safety Council which is against radar and states that it should not be used or that it should be handled with great care?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the National Safety Council purports to give us the facts. It does not tell us how to legislate or anything of the kind. It simply lays the facts before us. We can believe them or not. They are reputable facts and have not been faulty over the many years in which the National Safety Council has been established.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I realize that it is going to be very difficult to receive an answer, but I am going to try.

After reading this booklet, Senator Wade, would you advise us not to vote for radar?

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President. I sincerely hope that the Majority Leader will take my advice.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, will the gentleman please tell us what he bases his conclusions on?

Mr. WADE. Yes, Mr. President. I base my conclusions on the fact—and I shall lay my conclusions before the gentleman when we are ready to pass this bill finally—that I am against radar because of its abuse in many places. Secondly, and most important of all, I am against radar because of the fact that it does not show any improvement in the fatality rate of any State in the United States which uses it.

Mr. WEINER. After listening very carefully to everything Senator Wade said, I conclude that his intention is that if we introduce radar, then we will not reduce one single fatality on our highways. Is that correct?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, that is my honest opinion. I believe that it will not be influential in reducing a single fatality in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WEINER. Would you say, as a result of its introduction in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, that we will not reduce a single accident, as a result of all your reading and investigation in this field?

Mr. WADE. As I said before, Mr. President, I cannot predict the future. However, my honest and sincere opinion is that it will not reduce or prevent a single accident in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I want to thank the gentleman for his kind indulgence.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, there were a few statements made which not only bothered me as a Legislator, but as an attorney. One is this matter of tolerance. If there will be, as reported in the newspapers throughout Pennsylvania, a five-mile tolerance, then I would assume and believe that all individuals in this Commonwealth will proceed on that basis. Unfortunately, I do not believe that all State Policemen operate in the same way.

I believe, further, that in a year or two, we may find that situation changed. I think it would be much better legislation if the Majority Leader, in making a statement on the basis of tolerance, would go ahead and introduce an amendment and proceed on the basis that the known certainty of the law is the safety of all.

Secondly, I cannot quite understand the Majority Leader stating that—after the amount of money which will be invested in a radar system and with the training of the State Police, equipment, and so forth and, as a matter of fact, I do not know how much money it is—we can come back in a year or two and then not abandon, but circumscribe or perhaps restrict the operation. This is not a very good legislative manner in which to proceed. I think that is a dangerous way in which to do it. I think it is a waste of money, particularly when we are in difficulties in our present Session.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. ROONEY. Senator Wade, did you make the statement that no other State, using radar, has a lower death rate fatality percentage-wise than Pennsylvania?

Mr. WADE. No, Mr. President, I did not. I said that no State has reduced its fatality rate by the use of radar or after the radar was adopted.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I wonder whether Senator Wade would give the fatality death rate in the State of New Jersey. Would he please tell the Members of the Senate as to whether or not the State of New Jersey has radar?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I think it is common knowledge that the State of New Jersey uses radar. It has, for a number of years, had a very low mortality rate, even before it adopted radar.

Mr. ROONEY. Would the gentleman give us the mortality rate in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania?

Mr. WADE. I do not have the figure for 1959 or 1960. However, the 1958 rate was 3.2.

Mr. ROONEY. The death rate for 1959 was 4.4, Mr. President, compared to a mortality rate in the State of New Jersey of 3.1. You may compare this figure with the fatality rate in the State of Connecticut,—and this State really set the pace for a highway safety program throughout the United States—which has a fatality rate of 2.6. I think this is largely because of a good, sound highway safety program, with radar as its cardinal part.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I do not know whether the gentleman is continuing his interrogation or not. However, unfortunately, he misquoted those figures, according to my 1958 results. He did not misquote them very much, but enough that they were misquoted. He quoted New Jersey as having 3.1 and Connecticut as having 2.6. The correct rates are 3.7 and 3.2.

Mr. MULLIN. Mr. President, I do not have much confidence in mortality rates and what causes them. However, I do know that in States where they have long, winding roads, and mountains and terrains are uneven, they are more likely to have accidents. Accidents are more apt to occur in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia than they are in level States, such as New Jersey, Connecticut and other States along the Seaboard. However, Mr. President, I do not understand where that has anything to do with this particular amendment. I am only asking that it be started out on the State highways, if it is going to be started at all. Forty-two thousand miles of highway gives us plenty of room to get a start in putting this program into effect.

The State Police are asking for 100 more State Policemen. If they are going to operate radar all over the Commonwealth, I suppose they are going to ask for more. Therefore, I think this amendment—considering the number of years they have been trying to obtain radar and trying to push it—should be adopted, if it will increase the chances of the bill to pass.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think for all of us to follow—perhaps it is a little bit late for introducing this—what Senator Wade was reading to all of us here, this related to the motor vehicle death rates, by States, in 1959. This is mileage death rates; motor vehicle traffic death rates per 1,000,000 vehicle miles. Interestingly enough, the State which ranks highest in the entire Country, with the highest number of death rates—9.5 per 1,000,000 vehicle miles—is the State of Nevada. Nevada, as most of us realize, has many flat straightaway areas. People there probably do exceed the speed limits. There may be other reasons or variations for this, but they do have that high rating.

In Pennsylvania, we have 4.4; in New Jersey, 3.1. I am certainly willing to accept the amendment introduced by Senator Wade, who is very close and an expert on the subject. It might be 3.2 instead of 3.1 in New Jersey. He quoted to us that in West Virginia it was 6.6, which seems very high. However, they may have other problems in West Virginia.

If the gentleman does not want to answer this question, he does not have to. How much higher would this rate be without any radar at all? I think it would be considerably higher. Without anyone patrolling the highways or doing anything about it, people would just drive themselves to death. I think we should look into this matter as a new innovation in saving lives and preventing people from being killed. I think we should pass on this amendment in that vein and in that spirit.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, just to keep the record straight, I am liable to find myself now, as I found myself last week, voting "no" as one man.

I am against radar. I shall vote against the amendment and I intend to vote against the bill, unless I am convinced tomorrow by the demonstration.

Last week, we passed a bill here pertaining to brake linings. We gave one man in this Commonwealth the power to designate the type of brake lining we may use in the future. What about tires? What about used tires or recapped tires? Are they a safety factor? Yet, they pick out brake lining.

I agree with my colleague from Armstrong that you will set up more speed traps. This will become a police state. It appears that we are not worrying about safety, but how many people we can arrest. Every man on this Hill who possesses a badge, in all departments, has one thought in mind; namely, who can I arrest today? Pennsylvania is fast but surely becoming a police state.

Therefore, Mr. President, I shall vote against the amendment and, no doubt, I shall stand alone by voting against the bill when it comes to final passage.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, if the use of radar is worth adopting, it will be because we believe that it will deter excessive speeds and reckless driving. A lot of discussion has been put on that. This is really a question which I believe we should properly defer until tomorrow because it is the main question of the bill.

We are also going to have a demonstration tomorrow. However, if we can see that we may pass this bill tomorrow, —if those who are opposed to radar, as well as those who are for it, will concede that this bill may be passed tomorrow—then it seems to me that we will get back to the question which is before us as to what shall be contained in the bill. I think whether you are for radar or against radar, if the bill passes, you will want it to be an effective bill.

The question is here: What shall be the limit of the use of radar? I would like to call to the attention of all people here the fact that automobiles will go just as fast on a narrow township road as they will go on the broadest State highway. I would also like to point out that death by automobile, with a body or a head going through a windshield because of a collision, is just as horrible a death on a township road as it is on a State highway.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occured:)

Mr. DONOLOW. Mr. President, not having heard my name called, I wish to be recorded as voting "no".

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. ROONEY and Mr. MULLIN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—31

Bell,	Kessler,	Mullin,	Stroup,
Berger,	Kromer,	Pechan,	Taylor,
Confair,	Madigan,	Propert,	Van Sant,
Ehrgood,	Mahady,	Ripp,	Wade,
Flack,	Mallery,	Scott,	Wagner,
Fleming,	McGinnis,	Sesler,	Ware, III,
Hawbaker,	McMenamin,	Shafer,	Yatron,
Keller,	Miller,	Stevenson,

NAYS—17

Camiel,	Hays,	Rooney,	Staisey,
Devlin,	Kalman,	Sarraf,	Stiefel,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Seyler,	Weiner,
Donolow,	Murray,	Silvert,	Lane,
Haluska,			Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the amendment was adopted.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request a ten minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, there will also be a Republican Caucus at the same time, to be held in the Republican Caucus Room.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a ten minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading, as amended?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I now request that Senate Bill No. 79 go over in its order, as amended.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, we had a gentleman's agreement in this Body that amendments could be offered to this bill on third reading.

I have additional amendments that I wanted to offer.

If the gentleman will agree that we may offer the amendments tomorrow or on some future legislative day, I would have no objection to the rest of the Calendar going over in order.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if the gentleman insists upon offering his amendments this evening, I will be very happy to stay here and be here with him. I have no objection. I told the gentleman that any time he wanted to offer his amendments, they would be acceptable to me. If he would like to do it this evening, I will be very happy to remain and we can work on these amendments.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not think I understand just what is being discussed here. I was under the impression there would be no change in our understanding that amendments may be offered on third reading, and I am sure there was no misunderstanding on the part of Senator Weiner.

Mr. WEINER. No sir.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I may be presumptuous in speaking for the Majority Leader, but I am sure I understood that amendments may be offered and debated tomorrow or on another legislative day in accordance with our usual custom. Is that not correct, Senator Weiner?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, that is absolutely correct, and tomorrow will be fine.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have an objection. I do not know whether it has been resolved between the two leaders or not. However, if the agreement was that I may offer these amendments tomorrow, it will be perfectly satisfactory with me.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, that is distinctly the statement of the Majority Leader.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, at the request of the Majority Leader, Senate Bill No. 79, on third reading, will go over in its order, as amended.

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 84, 86, HB 95 and SB 192—Without objection, the bills were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILLS ON SECOND READING CALENDAR OVER IN ORDER

All bills on todays Second Reading Calendar were passed over in their order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL REREFERRED

Mr. SARRAF, by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Public Health and Welfare, returned to the Senate, HB 332, which was rereferred to the Committee on Agriculture.

SENATE RESOLUTION

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE HONORABLE JOHN J. KANE

Messrs. STAISEY, DEVLIN, RIPP, SARRAF, McGINNIS and FLEMING, by unanimous consent, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 20), which was read as follows:

In the Senate, March 6, 1961.

The death of the Honorable John J. Kane, on Sunday, March 5, 1961, marks the passing of a respected and beloved labor, government and civic leader in Allegheny County.

Mr. Kane was born in Pittsburgh on May 17, 1890, was educated in the public and parochial schools of Pittsburgh, took a brief course in economics at Duquesne University and an evening course at Carnegie Institute of Technology, and was active in labor circles for many years. He was president of the American Federation of Labor Newspaper Pressmen's Union, Local 9 for many years, and served Pennsylvania representative of the International Printing Pressman's Union of North America, and president of The Pittsburgh Allied Printing Trades Council a member of the Brookline Board of Trade of Pittsburgh, and served in the 1933 Session of the General Assembly as a member of the House of Representatives. In that Session of the General Assembly, his sponsorship of humanitarion legislation distinguished him as a person truly concerned with the welfare of his fellow humans.

Mr. Kane's distinguished tenure as a member of the Allegheny County Board of County Commissioners for twenty-four years is a record unparelleled in county government within this Commonwealth. As a member of the board, he was instrumental in building the county government of Allegheny County into the important unit of government which it is today.

Independent in histhinking and actions, he tempered his independence with a true spirit of service to the public, which made him a public officer whose record is one which will long be admired by both the general public and students of government; therefore be it

RESOLVED, That the Senate of Pennsylvania hereby expresses its profound regret on the death of the Honorable John J. Kane, and the members thereof extend their individual sympathies to his children in this, their hour of sorrow and bereavement; and be it further RESOLVED, That copies of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. Kane's children, Mrs. Dorothy Smallhoover, Mrs. Rita Kane Burns, Mr. John J. Kane, Jr., and Colonel Franics X. Kane.

On the question,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, the resolution just presented was presented in the name of all Senators on both sides of the aisle from Allegheny County. It was presented in respect for one of our most distinguished citizens.

John J. Kane was many things to many people, but he was one thing to all of the people in Allegheny County. The first of those things was that he had an abiding faith in the ability of democratic government to serve people. To this end, he dedicated his life and his time. Because of this, Allegheny County merged as not only the most progressive county in Pennsylvania, but also the most progressive county in all of America.

He also had an abiding faith in this simple principle; that we are ordinary people with extraordinary possibilities. Because of that, Allegheny County has become not only the workshop of Pennsylvania, but the industrial basin of the world.

If anything can be said of John Kane, then, indeed, this has to be his memorium: John Kane was that kind of man who took time out to be human.

The people of Allegheny County are, indeed, depressed by reason of his death, and yet we have cause to be encouraged because in his liftime, he gave us service and in death he has given us a rich inheritance.

Of John J. Kane, Mr. President, it can honestly be said that his life was spent—and in a very real sense it was consumed—in the service of his people in Allegheny County.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate adopt the resolution?

The resolution was adopted.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I believe it would be proper for the Members of the Senate to rise for a moment in memory of John J. Kane, one of Pennsylvania's greatest citizens.

(Observance of moment of silence in memory of the late Honorable John J. Kane.)

BILLS ON FIRST READING

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the first reading of all bills reported from committees for the first time at today's session.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

The bills were as follows: SB 113, 258, HB 44, 45, 46, 54 and 73.

And said bills having been read at length for the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

PETITIONS AND REMONSTRANCES

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am not going to petition or remonstrate. I just want to make sure that every Member of the Senate—as well as the members of the press—is invited to the demonstration of the radar mechanism tomorrow. There will be automobiles and State Police cars in front of the Capitol which will take the people to the demonstration and will bring them back here. They will be back at the Capitol no later than noontime. They will leave promptly at 10:00 o'clock.

This invitation is open to the Members of the Senate and the press as well.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Reverend David R. Hoover, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Father in heaven, Thou Who art near and dear to each one of us in every hour, we look to Thee with the confidence and assurance which Thou dost engender in our lives. Not only do we recognize our dependence upon Thee, but we are aware of the great responsibilities which Thou dost place before us. We bow in deepest humility because of our failures both of omission and commission, and the allurements and enticements of the world about us. We pray that Thou wilt not only make us conscious of our failures to live up to the best we know how, but that Thou wilt also inspire us to accomplish that which Thou wouldst have done: through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. J. A. O'DONNELL.

(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 33.

In the House of Representatives, February 28, 1961.

The Constitution of Pennsylvania, Article II, Sections 16 and 17 provide the manner in which the Commonwealth shall be apportioned into representative districts and senatorial districts.

The Constitution of Pennsylvania, Article II, Section 18, places a mandatory duty on the General Assembly, after each decennial census, to apportion the Commonwealth into representative districts and senatorial districts agreeable to the provisions of Article II, Section 16 and Section 17.

The General Assembly has not so apportioned the Commonwealth's senatorial districts after the last census in 1960, in fact, they have not been apportioned since the census of 1920. Because of this, the present apportionment of the Commonwealth into senatorial districts is not agreeable to or in conformance with the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

In the thirty-eight years since the last senatorial apportionment in 1921, the shift and growth in population in this Commonwealth have raised complex, technical and political problems with relation to apportionment under the provisions of the Constitution;

In 1960 we had a new census consequently the representative districts should also now be reapportioned. There is a question as to what effect this will have upon the make-up of the General Assembly; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the Speaker of the House appoint three members and the President Pro Tempore appoint three members who shall be a joint committee and who shall be directed to make a comprehensive and intensive study of the problems of reapportionment of representative and senatorial districts and the need for the same. The study shall include, but shall not be limited to the following:

1. The need for reapportionment.
2. The feasibility of reapportionment.
3. The shifts in population.
4. The make-up of the General Assembly if reapportionment were made; and be it further

Resolved, That the committee shall report to the General Assembly the results of its studies and investigations and recommendations as soon as possible.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

Mr. HAMILTON IN THE CHAIR

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Pike, Mr. Eshback, desire to be recognized at this time?

Mr. ESHBACK. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. ESHBACK. Mr. Speaker, last week, February 28th, I was reported as not having voted on House bill No. 302. Mr. Speaker, I voted on House bill 302, and my button showed green. I was not out of my seat while all the bills were being voted upon and I wish that error to be corrected.

Mr. Capitolo, the gentleman from Philadelphia on my left, Mr. Elvey, the gentleman from Fulton on my right, will testify that I was not out of my seat and that I voted on every bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. KING asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, knowing that each and every member of this august body is vitally interested in the well-being of our great Commonwealth, and knowing further that each and every member is eager to put his best skill to the task of shaping a successful and prosperous future for all our people, I wound like to make a few remarks to unify our thinking on this, our greatest concern—the future of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

As I see it, the future is extremely bright. There is hard work ahead, and there will be some rough spots. But having had the opportunity to look about myself for a number of weeks, and having had the further opportunity to hear various viewpoints and see various members agree and disagree, I have reached the firm conclusion that this legislature is not going to let the people down, and I am convinced that our people, the people who put this legislature in here, will continue to pick representatives for their State government who have the vision and the will to make things happen, rather than to let them happen—the will and the vision, as I think every man and woman in this group has.

Letting the people down? What am I talking about? How can a legislature let its people down? It can by action as well as inaction. Let us look for a moment at our once great sister State of Michigan. There was a time, ladies and gentlemen, when the workers of this Country beat a path to Michigan as if she were the promised land. And she was the promised land for many years. She was proud, prosperous and confident. She was one of the flourishing States in the Union. Do you realize, members of this Assembly, that the heartbeat of that once great sister State of ours has all but stopped? Frustration and despair are everywhere. The thousands and thousands of jobless do not live on the memory of yesterday when things were plush.

They are not thanking their legislature today for allowing the wage and tax spiral yesterday which finally shut down business. They are bitter men and women—full of resentment and ready to engage in strife. They are not thanking their legislature today for its failure to clamp down on the courts which were openly pro-labor yesterday. But they might be thanking their legislature if, instead of allowing businesses to be driven out, they had provided a climate conducive to business—or at least tolerant. An atmosphere of antagonism and hate against business is a self-destructive thing. After all, the person or the organization which provides livelihood for men and their families is the pillar of prosperity anywhere, and the combined good sense and self-discipline of the citizenry provide the bedrock upon which those pillars have to rest.

Members of this Assembly, I know we have the good sense, foresight, and the self-discipline which are necessary. I know we will not pattern ourselves after Michigan. Instead of giving tax and other relief to Michigan businesses, the legislature there stood by and let things take their course. And you knaw what happened! The great State of Michigan was bankrupt. The legislature capitulated and tapped the veterans' fund. To the burden of existing taxes is now added the threat of new taxes. What business, we have to ask ourselves, is going to risk planting itself in soil of that kind? But that is not all; businesses are folding and fleeing the State.

I think we all know that we have lost out on some new businesses because neighboring states had more attractive tax climates.

What is the point?

My fellow representatives, the point is this: We must keep in mind not only what our own immediate constituents think, but—and this is for the sake of our own constituents, yours and mine—we must keep in mind public opinion throughout the Nation. We do not want the rest of the Country to look upon our great Commonwealth with the critical and dubious eye with which the State of Michigan is being scrutinized.

POINT OF ORDER

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Boies, rise?

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I rise to object to the confusion in the House. The gentleman is trying to make a speech, his first speech in this House, to my knowledge, and he is entitled to be heard. While I do not necessarily agree with him, I think this confusion is inexcusable. I request that we have order in the House.

Mr. KING. Right or wrong, it is public opinion, not in the State of Michigan, but elsewhere, which is slowing down, if not preventing, recovery there. Let us not give any cause to the rest of the Nation to say that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is a State of indigents which lures enterprise into its boundaries only to trap it for the avowed purpose of compelling it to help feed and keep those indigents.

If we combine our pride and faith in our people, with all the experience and ability which is assembled here, this will never happen in Pennsylvania. So let us remember that when the State takes it upon itself to regulate and take charge of more and more facets of our human life, we are headed in the direction of Michigan.

First we undercut the will of the people to stand on their own feet and to use their own ingenuity and courage to handle the affairs of life. Soon not only the will is gone—but the ability as well. Thank you.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. CAPANO asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Workmen's Compensation to meet during the session of the House.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent, before we go into second reading, to make a few brief remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Has the gentleman cleared his request with the majority leader?

Mr. McCORMACK. No, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. It is all right, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The majority leader has consented; you may proceed.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, and Members of the House, I have been concerned the last few weeks with various newspaper stories with respect to certain practices and procedures in this House which all the members are not quite familiar with, and I certainly am not familiar with.

These various practices that have been brought to light have questioned the integrity and honesty of some of the members of the General Assembly.

Since I have been in this legislature—1953—I was aware of the fact that there were some emoluments offered in addition to the salaries and expenses authorized by specific statutory law. As a result of these newspaper developments I am realizing more and more that there are certain sinecures, should I say, of office, that most of the members here have never been privileged to receive. I noticed today that the Speaker has just announcd appointments to the Committee on Interstate Cooperation, and that was one of the particular committees about which the newspapers saw fit to write a story and to infer criticism.

I know, too, that on the committee just appointed by the Speaker—and I am not in any way questioning his right to name these members—but being from the city of Philadelphia, the largest city in the Commonwealth, I note that no one from the city of Philadelphia was appointed to that committee. I note, also, that there are other members, one of whom was appointed to the committee last year and he took a trip to Puerto Rico. I have not seen a report submitted by the members from Pennsylvania who attended that commission. I would like to find out more about it. That is one of the practices.

Since I have been in the legislature I have never once been appointed to a committee of Joint State Government Commission. There are certain members here, new members, who have been appointed to committee after committee and task forces; I have never once, as I say, been appointed. I do not know whether I am being discriminated against, or I do not know whether I am getting the right people to exert their influence in my behalf, but the fact remains that I am as interested in the procedures and the practices and the development of this General Assembly as any other member.

I understand, also, that there are members coming up here who receive compensation expenses for going to meetings. They not only receive it once; they receive it several times for the same day. Those are allegedly facts. Whether or not they are actually facts I do not know, but I think it is high time that we dispel this fog and that the facts be brought out in the light, and they should be laid low if they are incorrect, or they should be rectified if they are correct. I think we should take some action; I am terribly embarrassed; my fellow legislators who know nothing about this are terribly embarrassed by these newspaper stories; we must do something. My integrity is at stake and so is every other member's in this legislature. I want some courageous leaders to come out and tell the newspapers that they are incorrect or give us the full facts. Thank you.

THE SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to state that neither the gentleman from Philadelphia nor the members of the newspaper gallery are in charge of the proceedings of this House.

As a member of this General Assembly, if the gentleman from Philadelphia desires to sponsor a resolution of inquiry, a resolution of investigation, he is always privileged to do so. It is the opinion of the Chair, for the gentleman from Philadelphia to give credence to reports of newspapers without backing that up with a resolution for inquiry and investigation is in derogation of the dignity of this House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Boies.

Mr. BOIES. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to call the attention of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack, to the fact that his objection to the absence of a Philadelphia member on the commission is certainly away out in left field.

The Chairman of the commission is from Philadelphia, the Honorable Senator Weiner.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Walsh.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the privilege of reading an editorial that appeared in the McKeesport Daily News. This is in reference to the criticism that has been made of Governor Lawrence not being on the job.

It is headed, "The Busy Governor."

> "Judgment on the governorship of David L. Lawrence may vary widely, but one thing is certain, the Governor is a hard-working man . . ."

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker. I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The propriety of reading an editorial regarding that subject in the absence of the man who made the original statement, Mr. Agnew.

Mr. WALSH. I am very sorry. I thought Mr. Agnew was here. I will make my remarks tomorrow.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I am sorry, Mr. Agnew will be absent for the week, Mr. Walsh.

Mr. WALSH. This is nothing derogatory to Mr. Agnew.

The SPEAKER. The Chair observes that the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Agnew, is not in the hall of the House.

Perhaps the gentleman would prefer to defer until Mr. Agnew is in the hall of the House. The Chair, as some of the members know, had something to say about Mr. Agnew's criticism of the Governor, but what the Chair has said is in the possession of all the members of the House, but we deferred saying anything on the floor until the gentleman was here.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, this is in no way a controversy between "Chick" Agnew and the editor of the McKeesport Daily News, which is a Republican newspaper. It is a very enlightening article and I do not think that "Chick" Agnew would disagree with anything that is said in it. I would like the privilege of reading it.

The SPEAKER. There being no objection, the gentleman will proceed.

The Chair does want to say this one thing: I thought that we had arranged that there should be a period set aside which would not conflict with the orderly conduct of business in the House when members who desire to address themselves to matters not pending before the House would be privileged to do so.

You have seen today that, when we do not observe that procedure, no one, no floor leader, can arrange a calendar and abide by the time. The Chair would much prefer that if, in the wisdom of the House, it believes that a period should be set aside for addresses by members not pertaining to questions pertinent at the time, then that rule should be enforced, and, if the Chair so rules, that the House should sustain it. It makes no difference to the Chair, but we do believe that addresses on matters not pending stand in the way of the orderly procedure of this Assembly.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Recognizing full well and having confidence in the abilities of our Republican floor leader, knowing that he can read this statement in the Journal and defend himself properly when he does read it, let the gentleman proceed.

The SPEAKER. There being no objection, the gentleman from Allegheny will proceed.

Mr. WALSH. Mr. Speaker, recognizing that "Chick" Agnew is a very high type man, I will ask that this be deferred until he is here.

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Beaver to resume the Chair.

Mr. HAMILTON IN THE CHAIR

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House bill No. 132 on page 11 of the calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 132, entitled:

An Act relating to the establishment operation and maintenance of the State Library and public libraries in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania amending revising consolidating and changing the laws relating thereto imposing duties upon public officers providing for State and local cooperation and assistance in the establishment and maintenance of libraries prescribing penalties and repealing existing laws.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, or anybody else who wants to answer some questions on this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. POLEN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, does this bill apply to school libraries maintained by school districts for the use of its students?

Mr. POLEN. It does not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Could such libraries qualify under the provisions of the bill if they met the minimum standards of being open to the use of the general public for so many hours per week?

Mr. POLEN. I did not catch the first part of that question. Would the gentleman repeat it, please?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Could such libraries, that is, school libraries maintained for the use of students, qualify under the provisions of the bill if they met the minimum standards of being open to the use of the general public for so many hours per week and other minimum standards which might be set up?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I could only give my own opinion on that. My opinion would be that if they qualified as a free, non-sectarian public library, they could qualify even though they were in a school.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That question has been asked by a number of our members because they are looking toward that end. Do you think that could be done?

Mr. POLEN. I think, Mr. Speaker, if they could qualify as a free, non-sectarian public library, the fact that they were in a school would not preclude their being covered.

Mr. TOMPKINS. If such school library could qualify by meeting the minimum standards, then would school librarians who are graduates of our state colleges in library work be qualified for certification as librarians under the provisions of this bill?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, to be perfectly frank, I could not answer that question.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Is there anybody familiar with this bill who can answer it?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Guesman.

Mr. GUESMAN. Mr. Speaker, would Mr. Tompkins please repeat that question? I missed one part of it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. If school libraries can qualify under the provisions of this bill, then would school librarians who presently can qualify for the operation of the school libraries and who are graduates of our state colleges in library work and for which they are hired and paid, could they be qualified for certification as librarians under the provisions of this bill?

Mr. GUESMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think there are two questions there. First, it is my impression that they would qualify as state librarians under this bill, and, second, that if the school library qualifies under this bill there is a provision in the bill restricting the bill to anybody who becomes a librarian in the future. Those persons who have come to the position they hold in the past would not be affected. It is my impression on the first part of the question that they would be qualified librarians under the bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. There is then, a grandmother clause in the bill which would freeze the present librarians? I am talking now about the librarians who come out of our state colleges, qualified as librarians for school work. Would they be qualified to take up work after the effective date of this act in such a library?

Mr. GUESMAN. In a school library I am certain they would. If you are talking about a local or municipality library, I cannot give you an answer.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then you do not know whether they would or not?

Mr. GUESMAN. It is my impression that they will, but I will not stand here and say yes or no definitely, because I could be wrong.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That might have a tremendous bearing on the decision of some of the members on our side.

Mr. GUESMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask Mr. Tompkins what his impression is of the bill in that respect?

Mr. TOMPKINS. In my discussions with the state librarian and other people, they claim that these graduates of our state colleges in that type of work would not qualify under the provisions of this bill. I would like to know why. They claim they would have to take post-graduate work in order to be able to qualify.

Mr. GUESMAN. This is not the impression I have, Mr. Speaker, but as I said before, I could be wrong. It is a matter that each member is going to have an opinion on as each member reads the bill.

Mr. TOMPKINS. You cannot make a very intelligent decision unless you know whether or not that type of graduate can qualify.

Does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Guesman, wish to continue to answer further?

Mr. GUESMAN. I will continue as long as I can.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Now, in a news release on March 2, 1961, Harrisburg Evening News, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Charles Boehm is reported as having said, "Libraries had generally improved in high schools but many elementary students did not have library facilities in their early years of schooling." My question is, would increasing the facilities of school libraries be a duplication in many areas of library facilities and costs within many municipalities?

Mr. GUESMAN. You are saying that secondary students in this Commonwealth have adequate library facilities but elementary students do not. Is that what the gentleman said?

Mr. TOMPKINS. That is the quote from Dr. Boehm. My question is, if you increase the facilities of your school libraries as suggested by Dr. Boehm, would we not in many cases be duplicating the services and the cost in a given municipality?

Mr. GUESMAN. If you extend them only to the elementary school student, you might well be duplicating, but this bill is not limited to the elementary school. This bill is not designed just for the school students. This bill is designed for anybody who can read, from age 6 to 60 or 86.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I understand that very well but the question still recurs, would you not be duplicating the cost and the services by increasing the facilities of your school libraries to compete with your public libraries?

Mr. GUESMAN. No, I do not think so, Mr. Speaker. There are many school districts that are not available to the public. There are school districts where the schools are maintained separately. If you are speaking of increasing the library facilities of the elementary student and, at the same time, under the suggestion of this gentleman you quoted, establish a broader state library system, you are not to knowledge, or in my opinion, duplicating the effort.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Then if these school libraries should be qualified as public libraries you would eliminate then the necessity of a separate public library, would you not?

Mr. GUESMAN. Well, I cannot agree that just by extending a school library you would eliminate the need for a public library.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, be that as it may, we will let the members decide that.

Now, an additional item—a news item in the March 3 issue of Harrisburg Evening News reports, "Pennsylvania spends 91 cent per capita for libraries while Massachusetts spends $3.03 and New York $2.57. The Commission wants to raise Pennsylvania's per capita to $2.15."

The same news item states, "If passed, this library bill now before us would be the first library code of its kind in the Nation." My inquiry is, if the other States mentioned and some others which have also been mentioned in some other conservations with the state library, if the other States mentioned spend as much per capita for libraries as quoted, and if this bill would be the first of its kind in the Nation, then just how are these other States accomplishing their purpose without such a code as here proposed?

Then, I might add, why the necessity for this bill? That is merely an editorial comment on the question.

Now, an additional question. This bill authorizes the levy of a special library tax by a local political subdivision, if necessary, not exceeding three mills, in order to take advantage of the program and state subsidies, is that right?

Mr. GUESMAN. Mr. Speaker, may I yield to Mr. Morley of Philadelphia?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman yields to Mr. Morley of Philadelphia.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's question about the qualifications of librarians, this code does provide the library assistants and personnel to be—"The State Librarian may conduct examinations and promulgate rules and regulations providing for the certification of persons in the above categories based upon actual library experience," not formal education, "as equivalent to the above minimum educational requirements." The only category in which graduate work is required, as I see it in this bill, is in the case of library trainees, who must be college graduates and agree to take a one-year course in graduate work and library science. These are the 25 science trainees provided for in the bill each year.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I am familiar with that provision in the bill, but I still ask why these people who take the four-year course in library science in our state colleges and qualify for your school libraries cannot qualify for pubilc libraries? Now, what is the difference and why the necessity of this additional expense for these trainees? These other people take a four-year course at their own expense. Now, why do we have to have this additional expense for these librarians?

Mr. MORLEY. They can qualify for positions in the libraries under this bill. This trainee bill is to provide special training and special education to put Pennsylvania librarians in the forefront of the Nation. We have been lagging behind in this field and the committee who studied this bill felt that we should provide here in Pennsylvania, qualified people to man the top posts in this field. We are sadly deficient in a good many fields. We have been importing technicians and specialists into Pennsylvania for years. Our educational institutions are not training the people that we need to do the job, to perform the functions of government. We have this condition right in the city of Philadelphia at the present time. Certain heads of departments and commissions had to be imported into this State to perform governmental functions. This bill provides that we here in Pennsylvania train our own people to do our own jobs.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, if that is the case and we have our people in Pennsylvania taking four-year courses in state colleges, I do not know why we impose this additional burden upon them. Following this through, if you want to continue to be interrogated, in the library training program how many schools in the State presently have the program to be able to teach the items which the bill provides for?

Mr. MORLEY. Two, one at Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh and one at Drexel Institute in Philadelphia. That is graduate work and library science.

Mr. TOMPKINS. How many librarians are presently being graduated per year who can qualify under this bill out of those two institutions?

Mr. MORLEY. I do not know.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Does anyone know?

Mr. MORLEY. This bill is to make sure that we do have at least 25 people a year who do qualify and who are badly needed.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, if we do not know how many are being graduated a year, how do we know we need 25 people as trainees?

Mr. MORLEY. The people who are most familiar with this and are in charge of these matters, and who are best qualified, have decided that 25 people a year is a minimum. We need more. We cannot do with less than 25.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I am asking for some more information. I know the bill provides for 25, but I am asking why, if we do not know how many are being graduated from the two schools we presently have?

Mr. MORLEY. We may have to go outside the State to get them. We need a minimum of 25. That is the very thing I am talking about. We should train our own people.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, if we have two schools training them now, how many are being trained in a year?

Mr. MORLEY. This is a program that is designed to give them exceptional training; it is a combination of work and training, a method that has been developed in other fields and has proved very successful. It is an in-training program. They work while they learn.

Mr. TOMPKINS. This is a program, in addition, over and above everything else that Drexel and Carnegie now have?

Mr. MORLEY. This is a program established under this bill. I do not know what Drexel has; I do not know what Carnegie has; I am not interested in what they have. This is something that this legislature is being asked to do for the people of Pennsylvania. It is a minimum number. We may need 200 of these people, but we are starting with a minimum of 25 and this is considered absolutely necessary by the people best qualified to judge in these matters.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, if we have two schools presently offering such programs, certainly our thinking is going to be guided a great deal by how many of these graduate from those schools today.

Let me ask this additional question—

Mr. MORLEY. I might add, Mr. Speaker, I might add one sentence to that: The schools which are today training them are sending them outside of Pennsylvania, probably. This bill provides that after they receive their training they must spend a minimum of two years in Pennsylvania libraries.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Well, I still say I do not know. Let me ask this additional question: Are there any proposals to have such courses installed in any schools other than Drexel and Carnegie?

Mr. MORLEY. I did not hear that question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Are there any proposals to have such courses installed in any other schools other than Drexel and Carnegie?

Mr. MORLEY. Not that I know of.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Washington rise?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to answer the gentlemans question, if he desires me to.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Yes, I would like to have the gentleman answer it.

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, at the present time we do have two schools in Pennsylvania that grant degrees in library science and have an extensive library training program. That is Drexel and Carnegie Tech. Carnegie Tech as of last year, that is this present year, is discontinuing their courses in library science. The University of Pittsburgh is going to take that up by request, and they will carry on the program which was previously handled by Carnegie Tech. So, we will have two schools that give advance degrees in library scienec.

I might say, further, in connection with the training of the librarians that work in the pubilc schools that the number who are presently being graduated is not sufficient to staff properly the school libraries. This training program, according to the information that was given to me, was necessary in order to have competent people to staff the public libraries who had secured the proper training.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if he knows how many students are presently enrolled in this course in Drexel?

Mr. POLEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not, but I believe if the gentleman will recall when we were discussing it, and he can correct me if I am incorrect, that the figure of approximately 75 was given us.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I have no recollection of any figures being given on this particular subject, but you think there are 75 presently enrolled in such courses in Drexel or Carnegie Tech, but you say Carnegie Tech is discontinuing it.

Mr. POLEN. That is my recollection of what the state librarian told me.

Mr. TOMPKINS. This bill, of course, provides for 25 a year.

Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman from Philadelphia, and the gentleman from Washington.

Mr. Speaker, I want to yield, after I make these few remarks, to a couple of members on our side of the House who have some additional inquiries to make on this bill.

Neither the Republican Party nor any of the members on this side of the House are against librarians nor the efforts to increase the educational opportunities of its people. We do not know the method by which the other states have been accomplishing this purpose through libraries, but when the statement is made that this is the first bill of its kind in the Nation, then I think we are entitled to inquire, is this bill necessary? Are the other States obtaining the desired results in a manner different than purposed in this bill? If so, how? I personally have devoted a great deal of time in trying to get answers to all these questions, but the further I inquire, the more I do not know.

Is the state control provided for in this bill necessary? How far can the State extend its control now and eventually in libraries which are privately endowed? How far in libraries which have no endowment? This bill gives the State the right to make rules and regulations, and to fix certain minimum standards for libraries. Will this eventually grow, like the Department of Public Instruction, that from month to month you do not know what to do because of some rule or regulation which results in, if you do not comply, with getting no state subsidy.

I am reminded of the admonition contained in the following lines: "For this is the law and the law shall run 'till the earth and its forces fill; that who so eateth another's bread, shall do the other's will."

The members on this side of the House are divided on this bill. Therefore, each will vote as he sees fit. What I have said is not a party position of the Republican members of this House. They are only my own personal observations on the bill. If this bill passes and is signed into law, I would like to suggest that one of the first publications placed in the state library would be one telling how you get full and complete information from a governmental agency or a beaurocrat.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Dengler.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Dengler.

Mr. DENGLER. Mr. Speaker, there is a fundamental concept involved in this bill that I would like to talk about briefly.

First of all, there are two types of education. One is the formal type that takes place in our schools from nine to three and then there is the extended type that takes place after school.

A public library, in my estimation, is an extension of education just as listening to recordings, or going to the movies, or watching television. Those are educative agencies just as much as going to a library.

Now we are very careful in our schools that we have people who are qualified to teach, and according to this bill we have set up some very rigid standards for people to qualify as librarians.

I am going to vote against this bill, not because I am opposed to libraries. As an educator, I am very much in favor of libraries, naturally. But we have in our own district very fine libraries. We have added one-half a mill to our tax rate and we take care of our library situation in that way on a local level.

Now the reason I am opposed to the State getting into the library business is because we had a state director of music in the person of Dr. Claude Rosenberry for many years. That position was not filled when Claude Rosenberry passed away about three or four years ago. In my estimation, ladies and gentlemen, the music that the people hear coming from radio and television today and the music that people hear from our symphony orchestras in Pennsylvania, the Pittsburgh and the Philadelphia orchestras and many other, probably should be subsidized also. I know they have a deficit.

If we are going to raise the cultural level of this state, let us not confine it to the library; let us raise it generally. And I think that as far as music is concerned, and I know something about this because I am in this business, I think we should look into it very carefully before the State goes into the library business. If it does, then I would say to you, let us reappoint a state director of music. Let us subsidize good music. If we are going to raise the general level, let us not keep it just in one particular category.

Let us also be careful what type of records people buy. We should probably have a censorship on the record business. Some of these records that I have heard and have bought are absolutely an abomination not only to the ears but to the state's intelligence in general.

So I would say I do not think that we need a statewide control. I think we have intelligent people in Upper Darby, I think we have intelligent people in Pittsburgh; I think we have intelligent people all over this State who can take care of their own local libraries, and I do not think the State Legislature should get into the library control business; and if you are going to, I think I ought to introduce a bill that is going to reinstate our state director of music and let us put this cultural level not only on the library level but on all cultural levels.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Kistler.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Kistler.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, during this session, as in others, the members of the General Assembly will be called upon to review, discuss, approve, and reject many new pieces of legislation. Some of the bills will be of great and lasting importance. The resulting regulations, services, expenditures or taxes may affect millions of our people and reach directly or indirectly into every home. Other proposed bills will be trivial or of minor relative importance in their effect upon the general welfare.

We have under consideration House bill No. 132, an act relating to public libraries. I believe this bill is a bill of great importance, one that deserves our fullest consideration and understanding.

Libraries, like a school, a church, or a corner drug store are accepted as commonplace, prosaic institutions in the communities where they exist. They have no flashing signs or waving banners. They create few headlines and seldom advertise their books and benefits. They are places we pass as we rush to spend our money at the super market, the gas station, the bowling alley, or the liquor store. They cost us little money and the amounts are insignificant. In a State and a Nation spending billions upon billions of dollars for public highways, welfare and defense, the cost of libraries is hardly worth mentioning.

But small and isolated as they are, cheap and insignificant as they may be, in comparison with the amounts expended in such major fields of public concern as those just mentioned, we should not take a trivial view of libraries. They are very important, very important. Because of this, House bill No. 132 is important, extremely so. Certainly it should not be accepted or rejected from the standpoint of partisan politics. Any legislation that strikes deeply into the welfare and security of our Nation should be above party politics. The people who sent us here accept the fact that most of the time we will be Democrats and Republicans. But on fundamental issues they expect we will be something more. Occasionally they want us to be Americans in the highest tradition.

This year the Nation will spend more than $40 billion, let me repeat, more than $40 billion, or if you prefer, $40,000 million, to protect the free world from the military might of Russia, China and their puppet states. It is right and proper that we should spend this money. Otherwise, to paraphrase Bertram Russell, we might truly have our choice of being "Red or Dead."

Despite our tremendous armament program, despite our B-52's, our Thor and Atlas missiles, our Polaris submarines, the vast and totally committed power of world Communism is spreading and expanding and enveloping more land, more people, more nations each year. The cold war they are waging is not of guns and planes and missiles; it is one of false ideas, propaganda, distrust, subversion and the big lie. The war is one of ideas; their ideas versus ours, their theories of life against ours, their belief in the total supremacy of the state against ours in the worth and dignity of the individual.

Let us not delude ourselves. We will not defeat Communism with bigger fins on our cars, more colored televisions in our homes, more fun in the sun. We will defeat them only if we are as dedicated, as committed, as loyal and as intelligent in living and promoting democratic capitalism as they are to communist slavery.

With the possibility of the total destruction of the human race handing over our collective heads, may we never, let us pray, have to fight them with bombs. But we can and must fight them with our ideas, our beliefs, and our examples of wealth, prosperity, and security that comes with free enterprise in a Christian nation.

Nor is the war alone with Communism. The war is an internal personal struggle for the minds and morals of our people. The greatest battle you or I or our children shall ever wage is the battle that shall be waged within our hearts. These are days when our newspapers are flooded with tragic stories involving our children, that, in the world of semantics, are glossed over with the oversimplified phase "juvenile delinquency." These are days when the strength and sinews of the world's greatest Nation are being etched by the cancer of low morality in important segments of our society. Only yesterday our papers carried the front-page story of the action of an empty-headed grand jury that proposed legalized prostitution in the city that cradled the liberty of this Nation.

The hour is late, Mr. Speaker. The time is at hand when those who love liberty must strike resounding blows of every description with every available weapon against the evils that beset us so America may pursue her destiny as the leader of free men everywhere. You do not do this with guns. This you do with ideals and ideas.

Where do we keep ideas? Where are they stored? How are they preserved? By what means are they transmitted? How are the democratic principles and the means and methods of our way of life passed from one to another, from generation to generation? Most of this is done by word of mouth, from parent to child, from teacher to pupil, from speaker to audience. Basic to all are books. Books are the arsenals of the mind, the stockpiles of all knowledge and wisdom. Without them our civilization would perish. Abolish our libraries and books, our magazines and newspapers, our reference shelves and tables and you will set mankind back 10,000 years to primitive, prehistoric times. Abdicate our responsibility to furnish good literature to the purveyors of comic books, permit our culture to descend to the level of "Gun Smoke" and "Mr. Dillon," and we will lend truth to those who say we are a decadent people.

What has this got to do with House bill 132? Just this: ideas are bullets and books are guns in our present war with Communism and all other ills that would destroy this blessed land. They are major weapons. House bill No. 132, if enacted into law, will expand and improve State, regional and local libraries. The bill, as amended, will give needed financial aid to struggling local libraries without creating State control or domination. It will encourage the creation of libraries in hundreds of communities where none now exist. It will bring better books and more of them into tens of thousands of homes in our Commonwealth.

Mr. Speaker, I come to the House from the borough of Camp Hill that yields to no other municipality in the State in the degree of excellence in its public school system. Along with Mr. George, I represent Cumberland County whose people, in their respective municipalities, yield to no others in the Commonwealth in their concern for the educational welfare of their children. And I would not presume to suppose that there are not others here who could not make a good case for their communities. But this is the time to back our words with deeds.

Let me give you an illustration of what can be done with a library. Five years ago there was no public library in the whole eastern section of Cumberland County. One was slowly and painfully created in the borough of Camp Hill. With a great amount of local effort and a small amount of seed money from an enlightened borough council, three wise county commissioners, and the State, a library now exists with 12,000 volumes and a circulation of nearly 50,000 books a year. The State's per capita contribution to this commendable enterprise can be measured in pennies; and yet the financial aid and advisory help the State gives are essential if the library is to grow to its full potential.

The Bosler Free Library in Carlisle has seen its circulation of books jump from 17,000 books to over 50,000 books per year in the past four years. The Shippensburg Public Library has increased its circulation from 20,000 to approximately 30,000 books in the past five years. And, if you please, Mr. Speaker, about 50 percent of the books loaned in each of these libraries are non-fiction books in both child and adult categories. These are not books borrowed in pursuit of the hedonistic philosophy of escape from the world's tensions through pleasure, but books whose pages hold the answers to the challenge of free men everywhere.

New libraries are forming in Mechanicsburg, Newville, and New Cumberland to fulfill the words of Thomas Jefferson when he said, "Along with the usufruct inherent in our Constitution goes the responsibility of leaving this blessed land to its real owners, our children, better than we found it." What we have done and are doing in Cumberland County every community in Pennsylvania can do. The library bill will speed the task.

In a fight with foreign ideologies that avow that they will "Bury Us," the vanguard must be books, not bullets. We must wage a war of the mind and spirit if we are to avoid one of the flesh.

In augmenting libraries with state assistance as comprehended in House bill No. 132, as amended, we are in perfect harmony with Abraham Lincoln's philosophy of government: "Do for the people what needs to be done but which they cannot, by individual effort, do at all or do so well by themselves."

We need to lift our libraries out of the deep south where as a state we now rank thirty-second in library support, and put them into comparable condition with those of New York State and New England. We need the informed, intelligent, disciplined, democratic citizens they can help produce. They need our aid. That is why, Mr. Speaker, I respectfully request the members on both sides of the aisle to vote for House bill No. 132, not as Democrats or as Republicans, but as dedicated Americans, determined to arm our Nation with the books from whose well springs a democratic society may refresh itself and go forth to lead the world of free men.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Centre, Mr. Fulmer.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Centre, Mr. Fulmer.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate either the majority leader, Mr. McCann, or the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Polen.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will be glad to be interrogated, or yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, who has studied this bill very carefully, if it is germane to the bill.

Mr. FULMER. It makes no difference to me, Mr Speaker, I would just like to have some clarification of the language in the bill. So, if you want to clarify it, or the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, I shall interrogate.

Mr. McCANN. I yield to the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, who I believe, is ready.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, try to assist us in helping to clarify the language pertaining to taxable property. If he will refer to page 14, line 4, in the bill, he will see there that it says "equal to one-half mill times the market value," and the same language is used on the same page in line 8, and the same thing is referred to on page 15, line 14, but when we refer to Article IV, page 25, line 5, page 26, lines 1 and 2, page 30, line 3, and page 31, they just talk about taxable property. Am I to assume, Mr. Speaker, when we were told by definition in Article III that we are talking about market value, that we are talking about the same values in Section 4?

Mr. MORLEY. Yes, sir. Those marketable values are only a yardstick. They apply throughout the bill.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, perhaps the gentleman from Philadelphia did not understand the question and, if that be the case, I will be glad to repeat.

My question, Mr. Speaker, is this: In Article III, in the lines I have mentioned, and there may be others, it infers that the millage is supposed to be on the market value of the property, but in Article IV it only says millage on taxable property. Now, Mr. Speaker, my question is, is the same meaning supposed to be implied in Article IV as is spelled out in Article III?

Mr. MORLEY. Yes, sir, it is. It is the exact language of the present law.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, may I then inquire of the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, if he is aware of the fact that Article IV is present law, but that which is spelled out there in Article III, when it changes to market value, is not consistent with borough codes, for example?

Mr. MORLEY. This bill provides that it be based on the marketable value of the property as determined by the Tax Equalization Board.

That is quite clear and simple. It says that it refers to the marketable value of property— the market value of property is determined by the Tax Equalization Board.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, perhaps we are not reading from the document, but I would like, just for clarification, to ask the gentleman to refer to page 25, line 5. I would like to have him just read line 5 to me and to the members of the House.

Mr. MORLEY. What page is that?

Mr. FULMER. On page 25, Mr. Speaker, line 5.

Mr. MORLEY. "In cases where such questions shall be submitted to the voters of the county they shall not be submitted to the voters residing in cities, towns—"

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry. I inquired of the gentleman if he would read to the members of this House only line 5 on page 25.

Mr. MORLEY. Special taxes for these purposes not exceeding 3 mills on the dollar may be levied on taxable property.

Mr. FULMER. Now, Mr. Speaker, would the gentleman tell me just where in that line he sees the word "market"?

Mr. MORLEY. The two items have no connection whatever. One is only a yardstick. This applies specifically to permissible legislation which permits a township or borough to levy taxes. The other does not.

Mr. FULMER. The reason I asked the question, Mr. Speaker, is because I realize that there are two separate articles. It is my impression that in Article IV it should be referring to assessed value to be compatible with the code.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is talking about two different things.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, maybe I am speaking about two different things—one of them refers in Article III to taxable property, and the other, Article IV, talks about taxable property. All I was trying to determine is whether they talk about market value in both instances, or if one was referring to the assessed value of the taxable property.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Philadelphia a further question.

On page 24, section 304, it says that the state aid shall not be made until such plan is approved by the state librarian. Now, in earlier parts of the bill we have placed amendments to take out the word "recommend" and insert "after counselling." Now, I would like to have the gentleman from Philadelphia explain to this House if this section 304 could undo all that happened in the previous sections by saying that the plans must be approved by the state librarian and thereby giving the final sayso to the state librarian?

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, he asks four or five questions, but as far as the state librarian approving a library plan before it is eligible for state aid, that is true. There are certain qualifications set up in this bill, and one of the remarkable features of the bill is the fact that they are so minimum, that the state librarian has so little authority and so little supervision over these libraries. The management of the library is completely in the hands of the local people. The libraries are independent libraries. They do not have to join the system, but there are minimum controls and minimum accountability, and the members of this legislature, in the case of misuse of funds or misuse of authority, would be the first people to demand such responsibility and such accountability.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I would just like to advise the gentleman that he is not supposed to become impatient with me. I am not campaigning against this bill. I am just trying to get some clarification of the language. So, if he will be patient, maybe we will just get it clarified and everybody will be happy.

Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley, refer to page 28 of the bill. In section 404 it appears to me that, after the people shall have voted an annual tax rate for the libraries, subsequently the municipal authorities may increase the rate not to exceed 3 mills without the consent of the electorate. Is that right? In other words, Mr. Speaker, what I am saying is that if the electorate should vote for ½ mill support for the library, then according to this, as I read it, subsequently the municipal body, be it a borough council or city council or school board, could increase the millage without going back to the electorate as long as they did not go over 3 mills. Is that right?

Mr. MORLEY. That is right.

Mr. FULMER. I thank the gentleman, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I shall label my brief remarks as "The Tender Trap," subtitle, "Shades of the County Health Plan."

We have before us today one of the most cleverly conceived efforts to falsely create a popular demand where none exists that I have ever witnessed. Prior to the formation of the commission which studied and promulgated this legislation, I do not htink any of us were aware of this tremendous shortage, this so-called inadequacy of libraries throughout this Commonwealth. After the formation of the commission, composed principally of people in the library field, with very little public representation, as far as I have been able to ascertain, we come up with this tremendous demand for this library bill. Assuming for the sake of argument the necessity for such legislation in this field, why is it that the long arm of the State, as a condition to State aid, always and invariably must impress upon any legislation which is advocated the tremendous amount of State control,—the long arm of the State over each and every one of our individual libraries? It is true that the bill says that without regard to State aid the state librarian can only counsel with local library authorities, but there is no question that if the local library wants State aid it is going to adhere to rules and regulations promulgated by the State librarian. Every penny that you would be entitled to at the local library level, from A to Z, how to be spent, what books you shall buy, how you will run your library is going to be conditioned by the State. In my opinion, the language of the bill saying the management of the library is still under the local authorities is mere pap, pap to make you buy something which is otherwise unpalatable. It goes without saying that the history of the legislation, if enacted, is going to be comparable to the history of the so-called county health plans. You are going to get State aid as a condition to giving up all your local rights and duties and responsibilities. You will get it all right. You will also have a firm State control over everything that goes into that library, the personnel, and how it is to be run. And, lastly, you will be asked to contribute through the so-called local effort.

In the final analysis, how many people are going to want the local effort necessary to get the State aid? We have had similar legislation in other fields go on the books in this Commonwealth for many years, and I know of only one or two instances where it was accepted, and, where it was accepted, it has been rejected, and I speak of Butler County with respect to the county health plan.

Yea, the tender trap is there. It is there because those people bought the program. Then they soon found that at the local effort with the State control it was too much for them to stomach. And this is a duplication of that type of program.

I am very much interested in the education of our youth. I use libraries, and I am interested in having libraries available for the use of others, but for Heaven's sake, can we not in some way provide subsistence, if that is what is needed, in areas where it is needed, without superimposing the State hierarchy on every little thing that is done with respect to State aid? If that is the type of legislation we would propose, I would support it, but I cannot support this type of legislation.

Finally has anyone given any consideration to the cost here involved. I understand the Governor's budget today calls for $500,000 towards this effort—just a part-year implementation of the plan. What is the total cost? It has been difficult for me to find out from anybody precisely what the total cost will be, both through the State and the local effort. I am told when the plan is "fully implemented" it will cost some $6.8 million, that is, the State effort will cost that much, and the local effort will be considerably in excess of that amount.

I have no objection to giving the people the right at the local level to impose taxes upon themselves through the local governments or by referendum. That is a fine idea. It represents local government at its best, in my opinion, but to sit here and say that we are going to probably have future expenditures of some $6.8 million and perhaps more at the State level without, in turn, in any way discussing the tax problems incident thereto, to me is short-changing the public—the tender trap again.

If we are to have this bill, I think we should, at the same time, not some time in the future, let the people know—discuss and let the people know what taxes are going to be imposed at the State level for the State aid, not postpone that to some future date when future legislatures will be faced with it, not to postpone it to some future date when a governor can come into this legislature and say, here's another one of your mandated programs costing $6.8 million. What are you going to do about it? The time to think about these problems is now and today, not some time in the future.

I sincerely hope that you gentlemen will give consideration to these things as you vote upon this bill.

Thank you.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I yield.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Morley.

Mr. MORLEY. Mr. Speaker, this bill is one of the major building blocks in Pennsylvania's program to get back on the track as one of the leading industrial, commercial, educational and cultural centers of the Nation. I do not think there is a member in this House who would seriously contend for one minute that library conditions in the State of Pennsylvania today are satisfactory. We have 1.5 million people who have no library facilities whatever. We have 6 million more who have totally inadequate library facilities. Nobody can justify that in the second half of the twentieth century in the State of Pennsylvania.

I have heard a number of reasons why we should not be for this bill this afternoon, but I have yet to hear one good reason why we should not support it.

Frank O'Connor, the Irish writer, once said that writing was the poor man's art. If it is, then I believe the libraries are the poor man's colleges and the peoples' universities. It goes right to the people who need it most, and to say that we are to deny to our people the opportunity to sharpen their skills, develop their talents, and broaden their knowledge so that they can compete today in this fast-moving, rapidly-changing world is stark nonsense.

They mention controls. We must have a certain degree of control. As I pointed out before, in this bill it is minimum. Abraham Lincoln over 100 years ago, shortly after he addressed this House in his inauguration speech, under similar circumstances, when people spoke of dominant government controls, and so forth, said this, "While the people retain their virtue and their vigilance, no administration by any extreme of wickedness or folly can in the short space of four years seriously injure the government."

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that we here in this House have the final responsibility, we have the ultimate authority. These people must come back to us year after year and no superintendent of public instruction, or no state librarian can, in the short space of one year, seriously harm the libraries of the people of Pennsylvania. We should give our people the tools with which to do the job. If we do, Pennsylvania for years to come will say of us that we had the intelligence and the foresight to recognize this problem and the courage to do something about it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Carbon, Mr. Bonner.

Mr. BONNER. Mr. Speaker, after listening to the debate, I recognize that the mechanics of this bill are not perfect. I also recognize that the goals and attainments of this bill are desired by everyone. I also realize, and so does everyone else, that the rise of Adolph Hitler in Germany was preceded by book burnings throughout the nation of Germany. For that reason, I am supporting this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. McCormack.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to speak on this bill today, but, after listening to the debate, I feel that I should say a few words.

I had the occasion this past weekend to have in my possession a two-volume library survey in Pennsylvania, commissioned by the state librarian at the request of former Governor Leader. Certainly, from different remarks mentioned today, it seems to me that there was an impression created that this was some sort of haphazard program that was not carefully gone into.

When I received this two-volume edition of this survey, my original intention was to vote against the bill because of the fact that, being from Philadelphia, we have a number of free libraries there and, as far as I am concerned, adequate services to fill the needs of my constituents and the average individual. As a matter of fact, one block from my home we have a branch of the free library of Philadelphia. So, realizing that this is going to cost $500,000 this year and, as the gentleman said, an estimated $6.8 million hereafter if all of the local communities and counties participate, my first thought and conclusion would be to vote against it because we in Philadelphia, in my community, do not need it.

I was going to preface my argument against this bill by reading this survey. But then I read in the survey that this is primarily designed to help those areas, those rural communities, that do not have library facilities. I do not want to bore you by reading from this survey, but certainly there are a few points that should be made.

First of all, I would like to state—and if this can be contradicted I certainly would like to hear it—that it says that 2,161,526 Pennsylvanians have no local public library of any kind, that 5.7 million Pennsylvanians with some library services actually have facilities that are greatly inadequate for meeting their subject and information needs, that 7,455,000 lack reasonable access to specialized research materials.

Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins, asked for some figures before in his interrogation, and I think the answer might be in here. For that reason I would like to ask Mr. Tompkins if I may interrogate him.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cameron permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I am always happy to be interrogated by the gentleman from Philadelphia.

Mr. McCORMACK. Did you have the occasion to peruse these two volumes of the survey, Mr. Tompkins?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I did not. I never received them and, so far as I know, although perhaps I never specifically requested them, I have never had an opportunity to review them.

Mr. McCORMACK. Were you aware of the fact that there was such a survey?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Yes, I was.

Mr. McCORMACK. Did you not state on the floor today that you went into this very carefully?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I did not mean that I read the survey very carefully. I read the bill very carefully.

Mr. McCORMACK. Did you go into the problem of library services in Pennsylvania very carefully?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I was aware of the figures that you quoted from there, yes. I have seen those figures.

Mr. McCORMACK. That is all I have, Mr. Speaker, thank you.

With respect to trained personnel in Pennsylvania libraries, I would like to very briefly read a portion of a paragraph on page 148 of the survey: "The need for trained personnel presents special problems. At present there are 377 qualified librarians in Pennsylvania libraries, 222 in the two big city systems, 155 in the rest of the State. This 377 figure is 23 percent of the total of the present staff, rather than the necessary 40 percent. Pennsylvania now has about half as many total library staff members as are needed, 1,629 rather than 3,100, but only one-fourth as many professionals as needed. In addition to the 377 professionals, there are 282 college graduates working in public libraries, one potential source of persons who go on to get professional preparation." I am still reading from the report, "The need for qualified librarians can mean that the proposed program is simply the need for 1,250 rather than 377 trained professionals. The problem seems insurmountable. The existing library schools in Pennsylvania graduate approximately"—and this is in answer to the query by the gentleman from Cameron, I just wanted to call this to your attention for I think this is one of the questions you asked. "The existing library schools in Pennsylvania graduate approximately 50 persons a year for public library service." I do not know whether that is the answer that you wanted, but that is the report. "If every one of them took a job in Pennsylvania and if none of the present professionals retired, it would still take 19 years to fill the vacancies which the program will create. It must be remembered that a fully trained librarian has four years in college, plus a year of graduate library school."

Mr. Speaker, I know that the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Bowman, said that the State is assuming a certain amount of control and I think that we as average legislators and individuals are opposed to that as a general principle, but at the same time I think the gentleman from Dauphin would agree that we should have some control because we are spending the taxpayers' money. We are directing how the money should be paid, and therefore a certain amount of liberal controls are not only necessary, but they are also desirable, because we have to appropriate this money.

I think, considering everything, considering the facts in this survey, there is a need, and I think it has been demonstrated, that the local communities and the counties have not been able to fill it, and, therefore, we ought to adopt this type of program. As the gentleman said, it is not a perfect program. I think it is a step in the right direction. I am willing to take that chance and, on balance, I think, over-all, it is a good bill. I am going to ask that you vote for it.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will yield to the gentleman from Clarion, Mr. Varner.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Clarion, Mr. Varner.

Mr. VARNER. Mr. Speaker, I want to put in the record that I will support this bill because I think it will be a good thing for my home town of Clarion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, it is my understanding that I will close the dabate and, therefore, I will be very brief.

I would like to clear up a few points, to clear them without a moment of hesitation as to intention. As the bill is amended, we very clearly indicated the desire of this House that there would be no censorship. For the purpose of intention as to that, we also are willing to incorporate the intention of the House on the freedom to read, which has been adopted by all of the libraries in the Nation, the various foundations, National Education Association, and other groups, to clear up without a question of doubt as to censorship.

To clear up a point very quickly about who will be serving on the library advisory council or commission, if you read a section of the bill you will see clearly the numbers designated that would serve on this 12-person commission. The recommendation of the General Assembly will be that two members of each political party will be a part of that commission, that they will serve and they will be our guiding light advising us on that commission. I say to you that we are well prepared to debate many points, which I think most of you have clearly defined in your own mind.

There has been considerable editorial support for this library program. The Harrisburg Patriot speaks distinctly and well in its edition of Tuesday, March 2. The Bethlehem Globe-Times very clearly indicates its editorial position of why the aid over-shadows its risks. The Centre Daily Times clearly in its editorial states exactly opposite to the gentleman from Centre County, "State Libraries Need All The Help Possible." The Valley Independent very clearly indicates its position on the library bill. Perhaps this is not grass-roots thinking, but to me it is, for I think the people who write the editorials in the smaller newspapers of our Commonwealth pretty well try to lead or help the thinking of the people whom their newspapers serve. They support this position very clearly. As of yesterday there have been no editorials in any of our major papers, or small papers, that we have been able to check, which have editorially opposed this library program.

Therefore, without belaboring the points in the library bill, I am going to say that we believe we have clearly defined the position. This bill will be voted across party lines today, Democrats for it, Democrats against it, Republicans for it, Republican members against it. That is the way a major piece of legislation should pass, and this bill will pass in a few minutes.

Mr. Speaker, I hope that some of the questions on fiscal problems that were raised here today can be answered clearly as future years move on. If we are making a mistake—since we will, after passage of this bill, appropriate $500,000 in the General Appropriation bill to implement this program—we also will control the financial appropriations of future years, and should we be in the position that you speak of, it will be this General Assembly that will say no.

Therefore, I ask you today to say, yes, and support this measure.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Centre, Mr. Fulmer.

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I would like to advise the majority leader, Mr. McCann, and the rest of the members of the House that I did mention I was not speaking against the bill, but that I was just trying to get some things clarified as far as the bill is concerned. Just in case he is impatient, I am going to advise him that I am going to vote for the bill.

Mr. McCANN. I thank the gentlemen.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. HORST filed the following reasons for his vote on House bill 132:

The following are my reasons for voting against House bill 132 this day.

I am not opposed to libraries and feel that they are an essential part of our educational program. Franklin County has a county library which is run and financed at a local level. We have two endowed libraries in our county at the present time and a third one coming up. I am opposed to centralization of power and any more tax burdens being added to the already heavy burden the taxpayer has at the present time, caused mainly by State control and subsidization.

As explained to us in caucus, this bill in five years would develop into a $6,800,000.00 or more, program for the State's share of finances. It provides for 3 mills at a local level and a maximum of $2.00 per head which can be taxed at a local level to finance this program.

My constituents in Franklin County would allow me to vote for a bill which would grant the Commonwealth the right to appropriate small sums of money to various county libraries and endowed libraries so that they will be able to operate and maintain these libraries in an efficient manner. House bill 132 sets up an organization which will cost millions of dollars and waste the taxpayers' money. This I am opposed to. My constituents are not opposed to taxes when they are spent in the right way, but they are opposed to waste.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 343, entitled:

An Act establishing and regulating the fees to be received and charged by the prothonotary of the courts of common pleas of this Commonwealth in counties of the second class.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WALSH asked unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend Title, page 1, last line of Title, by striking out "Act of 1915" and inserting certain acts.

Amend Sec. 1, page 14, line 1, by inserting after "notice" but requiring a court term and number.

Amend Bill, page 20, by inserting between lines 1 and 2 Section 3. All other acts and parts of acts are repealed in so far as they are inconsistent herewith.

Amend Sec. 3, page 20, line 2, by striking out "3" and inserting 4.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of amendments at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, that the bill as amended lie over for printing.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. LEONARD asked and obtained unanimous consent to make a statement.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, Allegheny County lost one of its greatest citizens, a former member of this House and the former chairman of the board of county commissioners, who passed away on Sunday, March 5, 1961.

Perhaps the greatness of this man was best expressed by his Republican colleague when, at a dinner a few years ago, he stated, "John J. Kane is truly a great public official. I wish that we had him on our side." His words may have been more eloquent than mine, but the thought is the same.

John Kane is no more. His mind and tongue cannot offer words of wisdom to the members of his party, nor to the citizens of Allegheny County. His body is still, but his spirit will live on and his deeds will serve as a symbol to the present administration and to future county administrations, be they of one party or another.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. LEONARD offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1961.

It is with much sadness that we take note of the untimely death of John J. Kane, County Commissioner of Allegheny County for the past twenty four years. His death marks the passing of a man who always maintained a firm grip on the affairs of Allegheny County to which he had become a dedicated servant.

His true friendship, his many courtesies, and his many public services will be sadly missed. Allegheny County has lost a true friend. We hereby extend our condolences to his surviving children; Mrs. Dorothy Smallwood, Mrs. Rita Kane Burns, John J. Kane, Jr. and Col. Francis X. Kane, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives extend condolences to the surviving members of his family and hereby commend these surviving members on a father who was a true friend, a worthy public servant and a man in whom all men and women placed implicit confidence, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to his late residence at 517 Fordham Ave., Brookline, Pennsylvania, on behalf of the Allegheny County Delegation.

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Cameron rise?

Mr. TOMPKINS. To make a statement.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman yield to have one more condolence resolution?

Mr. TOMPKINS. I only wanted to make an announcement with reference to the caucus tomorrow. The caucus will be after we take up the session at 1:00 o'clock.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. GAILEY offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1961.

On Wednesday, February 22, 1961 Robert S. Spangler, a former speaker of this House of Representatives passed away.

Mr. Spangler was a member of the General Assembly from 1913 to 1923 and from 1929 to 1931. He was elected Speaker for the 1919, 1921 and 1929 session.

Robert S. Spangler was a practicing attorney at the time of his death and the residents of York long admired him for the lifelong services which he gave to them; therefore be it

Resolved, that the House of Representatives extend its deepest sympathies upon the death of Mr. Robert S. Spangler; and be it further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to Mr. Spankler's brother, Edward W. Spangler in Venice, Florida.

PERMISSION TO ADD ADDITIONAL SPONSORS

Mr. PETROSKY asked and obtained unanimous consent to add additional sponsors to a bill to be introduced by him.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1961. 145th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 38. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1961. No. 25.

SENATE

TUESDAY, MARCH 7, 1961.

The Senate met at 2:00 p.m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant Governor John Morgan Davis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, DOCTOR A. DIXON ROLLIT, D. D., Rector of The Church of the Ascension, Pittsburgh, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, our Heavenly Father, Who declarest Thy glory and showeth forth Thy handiwork in the heavens and the earth, we thank Thee for having brought us safely to this moment in our lives. We thank Thee also for those who, by the people's choice, have been called to serve in the high office of Senator in this Commonwealth.

At this hour in our history, when so many grave and vexing problems have to be faced, when such brave and righteous leadership is our greatest need and when our lives without Thee are apt to become feverish, hectic and irritable, keep us mindful of the unseen hosts of those who now in Thy nearer presence and higher service always surround us as we sit where they sat. Keep us aware of the great tradition in which we stand. Alert to the millions of men, women and children whom we represent that always inspired by such thoughts, we may have the courage to be humble and open the windows of our souls to Thee; that such spiritual strength flowing freely into our lives may bring peace to our anxious minds, love and compassion to our sometimes cold hearts, and health and strength to our bodies, enabling us to do the work which Thou hast called us to do in truth, beauty and righteousness; faithful to every challenging duty, loyal to every high claim, and thus proving ourselves worthy of the trust the peoples of this Commonwealth and Nation have committed to our hands.

We ask it in Thy Name. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. LANE, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

Whereas, To this end the Pennsylvania State Democratic Party, as did the Pennsylvania State Republican Party in the past when it was the party in power, joins with all the various departments of the State government and the numerous boards and commissions within the State Government and all the employees of the State and the various boards and commissions in offering its and their services and cooperation to promote the orderly transition of the Department of the Auditor General and the Department of the State Treasury over from its present fiscal officers, Auditor General Charles C. Smith and State Treasurer Robert F. Kent to the new fiscal officers elect, Grace Sloam and Thomas G. Minehart; therefore be it

Resolved, That the State Democratic Party, the various departments of the State Government and its boards and commissions and all of their employees hereby join in offering their services and cooperation to help in any possible way to the orderly transfer of the powers and duties of the fiscal offices of the Auditor General and State Treasurer; and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of the Commonwealth offer its services in whatever way it can be of service in this transition of powers and duties; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Hon. Charles C. Smith, Auditor General of the State of Pennsylvania and to the Hon. Robert F. Kent, Treasurer of the State of Pennsylvania.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, the purpose of presenting this resolution is so that we have on record—and I have been reading about this in the newspaper and I do not have it firsthand—that there has been some request made of the present occupants of the offices for either a task group or a task force to go in and sort of set up the departments.

The most important feature of the entire phase of this transition is so that the people who depend on the State payroll do not miss any paydays. I believe everybody is in agreement that people who work for the State are not that highly paid that they can afford to miss one or two paydays, or have them go by without receiving any checks. I do not think this will happen. I think everybody will be willing to cooperate. The only purpose in doing this is to state that everyone is willing and ready to cooperate.

If there has been some misunderstanding or some point where everyone does not quite see eye-to-eye in this picture, we hope we can be the oil on the troubled waters, if there are any troubled waters. However, I do not think there are, and we hope we can lend our services as well.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, do I understand that immediate consideration of this resolution has been requested?

The PRESIDENT. Yes sir.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I agree with the Majority Leader, of course, that the orderly transition of the changeover should be done with the least complications and I am sure that the incumbent officers—I only read this in the paper, too, and I have no direct knowledge—will be perfectly willing to cooperate with the incoming officers in any way possible.

The sentiments expressed in this resolution are so overwhelmingly noble that I believe it would be quite proper to sort of define the areas in which the assistance of the entire Senate Body might be made available to the departments of the Auditor General and State Treasurer. Consequently, Mr. President, I would object to the immediate consideration of this resolution and ask that it be studied in the appropriate committee.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, while listening to the Minority Leader, I thought it might be possible that should we grant immediate consideration to this resolution, he might lend his advice and counsel to the Members of this Senate due to his long experience, and probably we might be in a position to more or less efficiently make these transfers.

I believe Senator Berger recalls a few years ago when there was a change in government, there appeared to be quite some delay. I do not believe it is the fault of anyone. This resolution was written for the primary purpose of using the power and prestige of this Senate—both the Republicans and Democrats—to bring about an orderly transition.

I say that it is in very poor grace, indeed, that he would object to the immediate consideration of this type of resolution which does not criticize anyone. It only asks that we cooperate in the orderly transition, on which we should get to work, and this delay I feel is very unnecessary.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I do not recall in any sense that I criticized the resolution or its sentiments. In fact, I believe that I was complimentary toward them. I merely thought the area ought to be defined in which the services of the entire Senate Body would be of use in this transition period. I am sure the committee which receives this resolution—and it may even be the Rules Committee; I do not know—will handle it properly. If they think they could narrow the scope of it, possibly by a committee appointment or something, that would be the proper way to handle it. As a consequence, I believe—and have so stated—that would be the correct way to handle this resolution.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I am quite disappointed in the Minority Leader because in my scholarly address, which I made to the gentleman, I indicated that the Senate could utilize the services of our distinguished Minority Leader. He has had a lot of experience here and he is very astute in his operations. I thought with his able assistance, we could bring about the orderly transition of these two fiscal offices.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, it is quite possible that the committee, in considering this resolution, will be so minded as to call upon Senator Lane, and possibly upon me and some others, as a committee which might act in this capacity. However, I believe we have had a number of statements made from time to time to the effect that the Legislative ought not cross over into the Administrative and vice versa. We should consider that, too, in this type of resolution.

For that reason, Mr. President, and the other reasons which I stated, I believe this resolution ought to be studied in committee.

The PRESIDENT. The resolution is referred to the Committee on Rules.

At this time, the Chair turns the gavel over to the gentleman from Allegheny, Senator Ripp, to preside.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Joseph D. Ripp) in the Chair.

RECESS

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a fifteen minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Republican Caucus.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a fifteen minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

CALENDAR

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 75—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 79—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 79 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, you certainly do hear objection thereto. I object to Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 344, going over in order.

This bill has been on the Calendar and is now I think in its second week. I believe this problem has been debated, adjudicated and gone into in full measure. The people who are opposed to this measure today will not be in favor of it next week. The people who are in favor of it today, I am sure will be in favor of it next week also.

I do not know why this matter is so controversial, but they say it is. However, this is the position which some people have taken. Therefore, I think we should face the matter and vote on it. If the bill fails, that is one thing. If it passes, it will no longer be in our province and we will no longer have to worry about it.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I would be wholeheartedly in agreement with the distinguished Senator from Philadelphia if it were yesterday afternoon at this time. However, this morning I was out on Route 22 and witnessed the test of the radar. There is a question in my mind as to whether or not this will be acceptable to the people of Pennsylvania, after they have the opportunity of reading the reports which will appear in the press throughout the Commonwealth within the next twenty-four and forty-eight hours.

Therefore, Mr. President, I now move that Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 344, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a second to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, an editorial appeared in this morning's Philadelphia Inquirer, which carried the following heading: "No Sops to Speeders in Radar Bill." There also appears a cartoon, with the following caption; "Tender-Hearted Legislative Opposition." It goes on to lampoon anyone who would condone a highway speed demon or others who might cause death on the highways.

The closing paragraph of the editorial reads as follows:

> "It's time for Pennsylvania to graduate from the horse-and-buggy days of traffic law enforcement. Radar evidence should be legalized without any compromises to the speed maniacs who are largely responsible for this State's alarming traffic toll."

How, by not acting on this measure for another two days or another week, it is going to solve this problem, I fail to understand. If the gentleman feels this bill is a bad one, then I think he should vote his conscience and vote against the bill. If he feels it is a good bill and will accomplish the purpose which is desired, he can do that today just as well as next week, the following week or the week after that.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I second the motion made by Senator Van Sant that this bill go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. It has been duly moved by Senator Van Sant, and seconded by Senator Bell, that this bill go over in its order.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may the Senate be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, Senator Weiner pointed out an editorial which appeared on the Philadelphia Inquirer today. I also read that editorial and I have here an editorial from the Allentown Morning Call, also endorsing the use of radar on the highways of Pennsylvania.

Recently, at several meetings, I have felt that I could and would vote for the radar bill. However, after the question mark which was raised at the demonstration this morning, I do feel that an opportunity should be afforded to all the citizens of Pennsylvania, all the newspapers which have endorsed radar, all the radio and television stations, and all the people who have been for it and who are all for highway safety. At the same time, we do not want to see the persecution of the population of Pennsylvania through some type of a machine which is open, perhaps, to error.

May I ask for a roll call, please, Mr. President?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, before the roll is called. I would just like to get one thought across if I can possibly do so.

I think we should get away from this negative type of thinking. These machines are not set up to persecute or prosecute anyone. The purpose of them is to prevent people from destroying other people and to save lives. It is a positive type of thing. We are the only State that does not have radar. We are in a sea of States which all have radar, all of which have reduced the amount of traffic deaths they have had.

I will be very happy to debate this matter with Senator Wade in a few minutes. However, on this motion, I would also request a roll call.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A roll call having been requested, the Clerk will call the roll.

May I say that all those voting "aye" will indicate that they want the bill to go over in order? All those voting "no" will indicate they want the bill to be considered on third reading.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I understand that we are calling the roll only upon a motion to have this bill go over in order and that should confine us. However, as long as the Majority Leader has raised the question, I want to say that he made a categorical statement that those who are in favor of it are still in favor of it and those who were against it are still against it. I think that statement is certainly open to some question for the reason, Mr. President, that I know there were several people on this side of the aisle—I being one of them—who were very seriously considering approving this bill. At this time, we feel the bill should not be brought before us for the reason stated by Senator Van Sant when he asked that the bill go over in order. If it is not the disposition of the Majority to have this bill go over in order, let us put the motion to a vote and then we will get on with the consideration of this bill.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, it might be that the statement I made is open to question. All statements which people make are open to question. However, I think the facts speak clearly for themselves.

When this matter was previously in the Senate, in committee, it never say the light of day. This is the first time since I have been in this Senate—and many others have been here much longer than I—that this measure has come before us for a vote. When I say that those people who were for the bill are for it today, and those people who were against it will be against it no matter when it comes up, I think that might be open to some question. However, I believe the facts are pretty clear.

Heretofore, Mr. President, those who were in favor of this measure never got the opportunity to have it brought before the Senate. However, this matter is now before us and I think everybody should take the position of either being in favor of it or against it. I do not think there should be any haggling or hiding behind any kind of nonsense about awaiting a new test or this or that. This measure is either good or bad and today is the day for us to be counted.

Mr. CONFAIR. Mr. President, I must disagree with the Majority Leader because I have openly said that I was going to vote for radar. My statement appeared in this morning's newspaper and last Tuesday, on "Capitol Correspondents," I said the same thing.

I, too, saw what happened out on Route 22. I also called my home town and those same newspapers back home which were in favor of radar told me not to vote in favor of it now. They said: "Let us hold it up and find out what is going to happen." This comes from the very same people who were in favor of radar.

Mr. President, I, therefore, ask the gentlemen on the other side to put this bill over in order until Monday, in order for me to go back home and study it further. The Colonel gave me permission to make tests back home, with radar. I want to show my people and see for myself again whether all radar equipment acts the same as I witnessed today. Therefore, I think the bill should be carried over in order, to give us a fair chance back home.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I think the Majority Leader's remarks are entirely unfounded. I will go to the record, Mr. Majority Leader. In 1959, I not only voted in favor of radar in the House of Representatives of Pennsylvania, but I debated and worked actively for it.

Today, I saw what happened, and I am going to put into the record, when it becomes the proper time to debate this bill, what my eyes saw. I am going to tell you, Mr. Majority Leader, this is one gentleman whose vote was changed by what he saw this morning.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe if the gentleman was paying attention to what I was saying, he would recall that I stated categorically—and I stand on that statement now—that this measure never came before the Senate for a vote even though it reposed in the State Senate Highways Committee. Even though there were many times when I offered discharge resolutions asking that committee to bring this bill to the floor, this bill never came before us for any kind of a vote. I stand on the statement that this is the first time this measure has been before us for a vote here today.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I concur with the Majority Leader on that statement. However, I do not concur in his other statement concerning the fact that people had made up their minds and so on. Of course, the record will show what he said.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate my distinguished colleague from my neighboring county of Lehigh, Senator Van Sant.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Van Sant, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. VAN SANT. I will permit myself to be interrogated, Mr. President, with the understanding that we are debating the motion and not the vote on this bill.

Mr. ROONEY. Senator Van Sant, you were very much concerned about what happened this morning and what you saw this morning. What did you see this morning? Will the gentleman answer that?

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I believe this is on the bill and not on the motion, and I will permit myself to be interrogated later if the bill is called up today for consideration.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, my question is based on the statement of the Senator from Lehigh County regarding what he saw this morning. May I ask the Senator what he saw this morning?

Will you please rule, Mr. President, whether this is on the motion or if this is on the bill itself?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Van Sant, I believe Senator Rooney is correct in putting the question to you. You are called upon to answer the question if you so desire.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I here question any ruling the Chair may make upon the right of a Senator to respond to a question. It is entirely within his own discretion and by his own permission.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. I said that, sir; if he so desires. You apparently did not hear the entire statement. You may proceed, Senator Rooney.

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Van Sant, will state it.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I would like, on a point of personal privilege, to delay answering any questions until we vote on this measure.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, do I assume that the gentleman from Lehigh County refuses to be interrogated on his original statement that what he saw this morning has caused him to delay his decision to vote on this bill?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. You may assume what you so desire, sir.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, at the proper time, I will be very happy to answer the gentleman.

Mr. ROONEY. Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I cannot understand why it is so pressing today—at this moment, rather—to pass this bill. The Minority Party has asked to have the bill go over in order until Monday because of what happened this morning.

I also witnessed what happened this morning. I dislike very much opposing my own Floor Leader, but I think, with all sincerity and modesty, the bill should go over in order to give all of us an opportunity to wait until Monday afternoon to vote upon this bill. If my Leader insists upon voting today, I shall be compelled to vote to have the bill go over in order.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

VERIFICATION OF THE ROLL

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I ask for a verification of the roll.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Request has been made to have the roll verified.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, there is nothing before the Senate but the roll call, and I have asked for a verification. The gentleman is out of order to interrupt the roll call.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Senator Berger's point is well taken. The roll call will be verified. The Clerk will proceed to call the names of those recorded as having voted in the affirmative.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted in the affirmative as follows:

Bell	Haluska	Mallery	Stevenson
Berger	Hawbaker	Miller	Stroup
Confair	Keller	Pechan	Van Sant
Ehrgood	Kessler	Propert	Wade
Flack	Kromer	Scott	Wagner
Fleming	Madigan	Shafer	Ware

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any corrections? The Chair hears none. The affirmative roll will stand as verified.

The Clerk will now proceed to call the names of those recorded as voting in the negative.

The Clerk read the names of those recorded as having voted in the negative as follows:

Camiel	Lane	Murray	Silvert
Devlin	Mahady	Ripp	Staisey
DiSilvestro	McCreesh	Rooney	Stiefel
Donolow	McGinnis	Sarraf	Weiner
Hays	McMenamin	Sesler	Yatron
Kalman	Mullin	Seyler

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any corrections to the negative roll?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, how is Senator Chapman recorded as voting?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman is not recorded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, how is Senator Wolfe recorded?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman is not recorded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, how is Senator Taylor recorded?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman is not recorded.

There being no corrections, the negative roll will stand as verified.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. VAN SANT and Mr. WEINER, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—24

Bell,	Haluska,	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Berger,	Hawbaker,	Miller,	Stroup,
Confair,	Keller,	Pechan,	Van Sant,
Ehrgood,	Kessler,	Propert,	Wade,
Flack,	Kromer,	Scott,	Wagner,
Fleming,	Madigan,	Shafer,	Ware, III,

NAYS—23

Camiel,	Lane,	Murray,	Staisey,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Rooney,	Stiefel,

Donolow,	McGinnis,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Hays,	McMenamin,	Seyler,	Ripp,
Kalman,	Mullin,	Silvert,	Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the affirmative, and the motion was agreed to.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 84—Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 84, go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, why is Senate Bill No. 84, Printer's No. 274, going over in order at the present time?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Potter, Mr. Berger, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BERGER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. LANE. Senator Berger, could you tell the Members of the Senate why you requested Senate Bill No. 84 to go over in order?

Mr. BERGER. Yes, Mr. President, I can. I understand there are Senators who desire to offer amendments to Senate Bill No. 84, and probably the amendments will be acceptable when they are shown and read.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, of course we are willing to accept amendments at any time. Since this bill is on third reading, are the amendments prepared at this particular time?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, as far as I am informed, the amendments are not ready.

Mr. LANE. Thank you very much.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

RECESS

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I now request a fifteen minute recess of the Senate for the purpose of holding a Democratic Caucus.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Are there any objections? The Chair hears no objection, and declares a fifteen-minute recess of the Senate.

AFTER RECESS

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The time of recess having elapsed, the Senate will be in order.

THIRD READING CALENDAR

BILLS OVER IN ORDER

SB 86—Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I request that Senate Bill No. 86 go over in its order, inasmuch as I am having amendments prepared.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to point out to the gentlemen that they have already taken Philadelphia and Allegheny Counties out. I do not know what else is left.

I have no objection to the bill going over in order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

HB 95—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. WEINER.

SB 192—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. ROONEY.

SB 79 CALLED UP

SB 79—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to refer back to page 1 of today's Third Reading Calendar and call up for consideration Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 344.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 344, is over in order.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe the gentleman is absolutely correct. As long as it was put over in order, I now have the privilege of calling it up and ask that we consider it. I believe that motion is always in order.

BILL ON THIRD READING, DEFEATED ON FINAL PASSAGE

SB 79—Read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I have amendments to offer to this bill. However, I am sorry that I do not have the amendments at hand at the moment.

I first would ask, Mr. President, for unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I believe I stated to the gentleman that his amendments would be permitted today or any other time when the measure came up before us. There will be no problem about that.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Does the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, have his amendments ready to be presented?

Mr. WADE. It will just take a minute, if we may be at ease, Mr. President.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease. The gentleman may take his time.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. WADE and MULLIN, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

> Amend Pg. 2, line 17, by adding at the end of the line after the word "operation" the words: "at the immediate time and place."

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I presume each Member of the Senate now has the bill.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Let us please have order. Senator Wade has the floor.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, this amendment applies to page 2 of Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 344. It is to add to line 17, on page 2, the following: "at the immediate time and place."

Mr. President, the famous Petersburg, Virginia, Case is one which first comes to my mind when offering this amendment. This is the case where no evidence of a radar machine was observed by those passing on the highway. It was a four-lane highway; two lanes south and two lanes north. When the traffic had stopped, as reported to me—and the maker of the statement is willing to take an oath to the statement—at the traffic light, an officer appeared. Going down between the two lines of automobiles, he picked out cars and told the drivers to stop about a block further on. When he got down there, he found that all the cars which were stopped were from out-of-State. When they appeared before the Justice, on this Sunday morning, they were told they were not being fined, but that they simply were to deposit $23.60 each and that radar had been in operation back on the highway. However, none of the drivers had observed any signs whatsoever of a radar machine being in operation.

Mr. President, after the fiasco and the horrible example of what radar does,—and this is one of the abuses—this is one of the reasons I insist that this amendment should be in the bill.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of Senator Mullin and myself, I have offered this amendment.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, at what stage are we now in considering this amendment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. We are just about ready to consider whether or not you want to adopt the amendment.

Mr. SEYLER. Thank you, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, may we be at ease for a moment?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Senate will be at ease.

(The Senate was at ease.)

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, are we now voting on the amendment to this bill?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. That is correct, sir.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, to keep the record straight, I remarked yesterday that I would vote against all amendments, and that I will vote against the bill as it is. Therefore, I shall vote "no" on the amendment.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a roll call vote.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A roll call being requested, the Clerk will call the roll.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BERGER and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Bell,	Hawbaker,	Pechan,	Stroup,
Berger,	Keller,	Propert,	Van Sant,
Confair,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wade,
Ehrgood,	Kromer,	Shafer,	Wagner,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Ware, III,
Fleming,	Mallery,

NAYS—25

Camiel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Staisey,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Rooney,	Stiefel,
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Hays,	Miller,	Seyler,	Ripp,
Kalman,			Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the negative, and the amendment was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Messrs. VAN SANT and WADE, by unanimous consent, offered the following amendment:

> Amend page 3, between lines 14 and 15, by adding the following new subsection:
> "(4) No charge of exceeding the lawful speed limit shall be brought against an alleged offender if at the time said offense is charged he shall have been in the act of lawfully passing or accelerating to pass another vehicle in a parallel lane,"

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, earlier this afternoon, Senator Rooney asked me to say something about what I saw this morning out on Route 22 at the test of the radar equipment.

One of the things I saw prompts this amendment. The reason is that on one of the trips made by a State Police car, the driver chose to stay on the inner half of the highway, next to the medial strip. When the machine was registering the approach of that vehicle,—and there were no other cars present at that time—because it was on the inside lane, it was out of the scope of the radar machine. There were other men who saw this same thing on both sides of the Senate. When the car approached to about fifteen or twenty feet from the machine, it registered, and it threw the needle over very fast and right back again. It was so fast that even an experienced eye would have had a hard time deciding just what would be the exact speed of that vehicle as it went by the radar equipment.

This amendment would only indicate, when two vehicles are approaching radar equipment at the same time, which one is to be arrested and which one is recording on the radar equipment. It is for that reason I offer this amendment. I sincerely hope both sides of the Senate will support it.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I request a roll call.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A roll call being requested, the Clerk will call the roll.

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred):

Mr. DiSILVESTRO. Mr. President, I desire to be recorded as voting "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I would like to be recorded as voting "aye."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. BERGER and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Bell,	Hawbaker,	Pechan,	Stroup,
Berger,	Keller,	Propert,	Van Sant,
Confair,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wade,
Ehrgood,	Kromer,	Shafer,	Wagner,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Ware, III,
Fleming,	Mallery,

NAYS—25

Camiel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Staisey,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Rooney,	Stiefel,
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Hays,	Miller,	Seyler,	Ripp,
Kalman,			Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the negative, and the amendment was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Wil lthe Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I am about to make a motion that this bill go over in order on final passage until Monday, March 13, 1961. It had always been, to my knowledge in my many years in this Senate, Mr. President, well understood that when a bill is put over in order, it means that the bill is over in order until its appearance upon the next day's or the next Session's Calendar. There has never been the slightest misunderstanding in the mind of any person as to the intendment of a bill going over in order. We also put them over temporarily.

Now if it is necessary, Mr. President, each time we ask that a bill go over in order that we must specify a date and time that that bill shall again appear upon the Calendar, I am perfectly willing to do that. However, I do say that I do not believe there is anyone in this Senate who is not firmly convinced, and did not well understand, that when a bill has been put over by a motion, that bill was to appear upon the next day's Calendar or on the next Session's Calendar.

I merely want to get those remarks put on the record so we will know exactly what we are doing here. If it is necessary to be meticulous about stating a date and time to which a bill shall go over, then I am perfectly willing to abide by that. However, this is a complete change in the precedure in this Senate, and I want it well understood that the tactics used were distasteful. If that is the rule and that is to be the rule, then, Mr. President, we are perfectly willing to abide by it.

So, Mr. President, I am making this motion that Senate Bill No. 79, Printer's No. 344, go over in its order on final passage until Monday, March 13, 1961.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there a second to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I want to say this: That I am beginning to doubt the sincerity or the seriousness of the gentlemen on the other side as to their desire to pass a radar bill for the reason that a statement, by a gentleman whose words I always consider very seriously, appears in today's paper. I hope Senator Lane will permit me to quote him, as stated here in the paper. It says:

> "If they don't put it (the bill) over in order today, the bill is dead."

Mr. President, never in our most solem deliberation on this bill did we ever have any definitive action as to who was or who was not going to vote for this bill. As far as I know, the bill is not dead.

It appears, however, that the desire on the other side is to have the bill brought to a vote and, apparently killed, for the reason that they are not willing to have the bill go over in order until Monday when it might have a better chance of passage.

That is only a conclusion which I must draw from what I have read here in the paper. If I have misquoted Senator Lane, I do it only on the authority of the gentleman who wrote the article.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I have listened—

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade, who will state his point of order.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, a motion has been placed before this Body without being seconded. I rise to second the motion, and submit to the Chair that there is nothing in order except seconding the motion.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair recognizes that the motion has been duly made and has now been seconded by Senator Wade.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. LANE. Senator Wade, I might even be debating your motion, and I would be in order on that.

Mr. President, with reference to Senator Berger's statement, I did not make any such statement, to the best of my knowledge and belief, with reference to the bill going over in order; that if it did not go over in order, it would be dead.

I recall talking to someone with reference to the bill. I said I thought there was a possibility that the bill would go over in order. That was my statement.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would like to comment on the remarks of the Minority Leader with regard to the procedure of putting a bill over in order. It is true that when this Body takes action to put a bill over in order, it is understood to be over in order until the next day.

I would remind the gentleman that this Body, at any time, by a majority vote has the ability to reverse any action that it has previously taken. This is not sharp practice, misunderstanding or anything else. It is simply a matter of this Body changing its mind. I would say with any kind of action that this Body takes, it has the right by a majority vote to reverse the action which it previously took by a majority vote.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, that was a slight digression. However, at the same time, before continuing in the matter of the quotation, I want to point out to Senator Seyler that he is absolutely, one hundred per cent correct; that this Body can reverse any action that it took by a majority vote; and that is exactly what I object to in this. It was understood, and it was passed by motion, that the bill go over in order, and there was no attempt made to reverse that action on the floor of this Senate.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I would have to take exception to the gentleman's remarks again because, as a matter of fact, the action was reversed by unanimous consent. The Majority Leader asked that the bill be called up. There was no objection, and so it was called up. Unanimous consent is certainly a higher vote than majority action.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, that was a slight foul ball. There was no request for unanimous consent to bring the bill up again.

The statement that I made was that when a bill has been voted over in order, it has always been well understood that that bill was to appear upon the subsequent Calendar.

There was no reversal of that action or any attempt made to reverse it. It was simply that the bill was apparently in line to be called up, in spite of the well understood practice in this Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I might address myself to the motion before us, I believe they are impugning the motives which we have in passing this measure. Might I respectfully suggest to the gentlemen on the other side that if they will vote for this measure, they will see that it will pass, with all the Democratic Members joining in with the Republican Members to pass this measure. I know of no better form of flattery than by imitation. If the gentlemen on the other side will follow us and give us their votes, they will see that this measure will pass. I think the gentlemen will find we are very sincere and the bill might find its way over to the House of Representatives, as well.

I do not know of any other way in which we can demonstrate our sincerity. If we were not sincere, we certainly would not be pressing for this measure to get through today. We would not have the bill before us, if we were not sincere, in order for you to definitely vote for or against it.

As I stated earlier— and I hate to waste the time of the Senate by repeating what has been said before— this is the first time we have ever had an opportunity to really vote on this measure. I think people have gone around this Commonwealth making statements, and they have been attributed to many Members of this Senate. I have never heard anybody make a statement against this measure publicly, by newspaper, television or radio. If I am wrong, I shall be very happy to be corrected. However, I have always heard people say that they are for this measure and want to vote for it. I think today is the day when you are called to task and you can demonstrate your own sincerity by doing just that.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, far from desiring to deny the opportunity to vote upon this measure, we had moved, and the motion was carried, to have the bill go over in order. This would afford an opportunity to vote upon the measure and also afford an opportunity to certain of our Senators to further satisfy themselves as to the propriety of this measure. If imitation is the sincerest form of flattery, Mr. President, then I want to say that on this side of the aisle, today's demonstration has changed several minds which, apparently, is an imitation of some persons on the other side of the aisle.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, it seems to me that we are debating the bill rather than the motion to put the bill over in order. I do want to speak on the bill, whether it comes up for final passage today or on Monday, as we were all led to believe.

My point of order, Mr. President, is: Is not debate on the bill out of order on this particular motion?

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman is correct.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I ask for a roll call on the motion.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, about a half an hour ago, the record shows that I voted to have the bill go over in order. I felt that the Minority Party—they could be called that, but they are not—should study the bill further until Monday. I have no keen interest in the bill either way. However, since my vote was cast, I have found out that some of the Democratic Members cannot be here next week. It appears quite likely that it is the sincere desire of the Democratic Leadership to bring this measure to a vote today.

Therefore, Mr. President, I will vote to have the bill brought up on final passage when I cast my vote.

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I will be very brief. Probably an explanation should be made here with reference to our endeavors to act on this bill today.

For the information of the Membership, we must act on this bill today because it is my understanding there will be one or probably two of our Members who will not be present next week. Therefore, we feel we should come to some conclusion today, while all of the Members are present. Let us be very frank about it.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, I question Senator Lane's remarks in view of the fact that I indicated earlier that I might vote for this bill next Monday. I think there are other Members on our side of the aisle who also might vote for it. Therefore, the absence of two people would not make a lot of difference.

I still think we owe the people of Pennsylvania the privilege of having the opportunity to digest the news which will reach them by radio, television and newspaper during the next several days. Perhaps, if the people understand this matter a little better, they probably will not be so eager to adopt it here in Pennsylvania.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WEINER and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Bell,	Hawbaker,	Pechan,	Stroup,
Berger,	Keller,	Propert,	Van Sant,
Confair,	Kessler,	Scott,	Wade,
Ehrgood,	Kromer,	Shafer,	Wagner,
Flack,	Madigan,	Stevenson,	Ware, III,
Fleming,	Mallery,

NAYS—25

Camiel,	Lane,	Mullin,	Silvert,
Devlin,	Mahady,	Murray,	Stalsey,
DiSilvestro,	McCreesh,	Rooney,	Stiefel.
Donolow,	McGinnis,	Sarraf,	Weiner,
Haluska,	McMenamin,	Sesler,	Yatron,
Hays,	Miller,	Seyler,	Ripp,
Kalman,			Presiding Officer

So the question was determined in the negative, and the motion was defeated.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, I rise to oppose this bill. I feel, in my opposition, that I have as carefully studied radar as any Member of this Senate. In 1957, I sat as a member of the Joint State Government Study Commission on Traffic Safety. I heard testimony. I have observed it in other States and, until I went out on Route 22, some ten miles east of Harrisburg, this morning, I believe I would have voted for radar. The record of the House of Representatives in 1959, indicates that I not only voted for radar, but I took part in a floor debate—it was a bitter floor debate—strongly urging radar.

However, this morning, Mr. President, when I went out on Route 22, I saw the same thing which the majority of the Senators saw. I was severely shaken in my belief in radar and, in popular slang, I felt as though I had the rug pulled out from underneath me. After what I saw this morning, I do not think that anyone can say, because I am voting against radar tonight, that I am against highway safety. I will match my record on that point with anybody in this Senate.

Like all of us, I have been very much concerned with the carnage on the highways. There is not a man in this Senate Chamber who would not do everything possible in order to stop death on the highways. However, after what I saw this morning, I cannot believe that radar is the infallible machine that I thought it was yesterday.

I stood two feet from the indicator and I saw the indicator show a car approaching at fifty-four miles an hour. This was the green, State Police car. As it circled back and came to a stop, the question was asked: "How fast were you going?" The answer was: "Sixty-two miles an hour." In other words, Mr. President, there was an error of eight miles an hour. This State Police radar equipment and the vehicle in which it was set up, I am quite sure, if anybody wanted to spend the time by looking into it, was probably one of the most carefully set up radar sets that Pennsylvania will ever see or ever has seen. I have that much confidence in our State Police. They are a wonderful group of officers. I am sure they set that machinery up very, very carefully. I am sure they calibrated it very carefully. In fact, immediately before the test, I personally saw the officer in charge use three tuning forks. He called them the "radar tuning forks." One was set for fifty miles an hour. He hit it against the machine and the machine indicated forty-eight miles an hour. The officer said that the second tuning fork was a sixty-mile tuning fork. He hit it against the radar machine and it indicated fifty-nine miles an hour. He then got the third tuning fork and said it was the seventy-mile an hour tuning fork. He hit it against the machine and the machine showed sixty-eight miles an hour.

After the test, I personally went to the green, State Police car and asked when they had calibrated that speedometer. The State Officer—I do not know whether he was a State Policeman or somebody who was employed by the State Police—said that the speedometer on that green automobile had been calibrated last night. How much more accurate can you calibrate? Yet, there was an error of eight miles an hour.

I also read this newspaper and was amazed at what I read in it. I also saw the Associated Press dispatch that went out this afternoon wherein it stated that Colonel McCartney, who is a wonderful gentleman and Commissioner of the State Police of Pennsylvania, when he heard that the speedometer on that green automobile registered sixty-two miles an hour and the radar calibration was fifty-four miles an hour, is reported in the press as saying: "It cannot be; it cannot be." Well, gentlemen, if you or your constituents are driving down a road at forty-three miles an hour and a radar operator stops you and tells you that you are going fifty-one miles an hour, which is the same eight-mile an hour error—and they can go one way as well as another—how would you feel? Are you going to say that it cannot be possible? You are just a little guy.

This machine which we saw this morning was a very remarkable machine. It was remarkable in how inaccurate it was. I do not know the reason. I do not know why it would not work. However, if that machine, so carefully calibrated, did not work this morning, it will not work when it is not that carefully calibrated.

We have heard an awful lot about radar. I have heard both sides of the argument. I have heard people saying that it makes mistakes. I have heard people saying that it does not make mistakes. However, gentlemen, my two eyes saw this morning. They saw an error of eight miles an hour.

For that reason, Mr. President, although I voted for the radar bill in 1959 and have worked for the radar bill, I am going to vote against it tonight.

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I was delighted to learn that my distinguished colleague, Senator Bell, agreed this morning that the radar set was accurate and that the radar set was properly calibrated, because, Senator Bell, I can assure you it was.

When Commissioner McCartney made the comment, "It cannot be," Commissioner McCartney was right.

For all of you Republican Senators who now have decided to make a political issue out of radar and highway safety, I have a revealing note that I have just received from Commissioner McCartney, and it may sway some of my Republican Colleagues who said publicly they would vote for the bill. They may now change their minds.

After this morning's demonstration, I asked Commissioner McCartney something about the automobile. I asked Commissioner McCartney to take the automobile back to the garage. I should like to read, for the record, the memo that I have just received from Commissioner McCartney:

> "Following the radar demonstration, the vehicle involved in the faulty reading was checked to determine the cause for this faulty speedometer reading.
> "The first indication was that the speedometer hand was not steady and actually wavered. The speedometer cable was removed and was found to be void of any lubrication. This is a brand new automobile with a mileage reading of less than 50 miles, and the lack of lubrication was a factory omission. Several new cars delivered simultaneously with this particular unit were checked and found to be properly lubricated, which would establish that this unit in question was an exception.

"The automobile was returned to the delivering dealer and upon inspection, it was found that the frame cross member through which the speedometer cable housing passes, was [actually] bent. It was also noted that the speedometer's cable housing had a noticeable kink. This cable damage, together with a lack of proper lubrication, establishes clearly the reason for a faulty speedometer reading. To further confirm the results of this examination, a new speedometer cable and cable housing were installed, employing the same speedometer head. The new assembly registered accurately on a dynamometer.

"Other vehicles employed in this same radar demonstration this morning registered accurately with the radar unit. This would definitely establish our contention that the one unit in question was faulty and would have no direct bearing on the accuracy or dependability of the radar set [unit] itself."

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. President, I had intended yesterday to vote for this measure. I felt that the establishment of radar signs on our State highway system would certainly have a salutary effect on the drivers and would probably decrease the number of accidents. I felt if it saved any lives at all, it would be a good thing and in the best interest of the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

This morning I had really not intended to go out, but I thought I should go out. I went out and saw the tests that were made. There is no question—and I think we are all in agreement—that there was an eight-mile variance. I certainly could not stand here today and vote to legalize radar, after the tests that were made under what were supposed to be ideal conditions. They were made with equipment furnished by the Pennsylvania State Police. They were made with the equipment operated by what we were told by Colonel McCartney were men who had been traind for some time in the accurate use of radar equipment.

Then we found after the vehicle was driven on two occasions, with the leading proponent of radar in the Senate of Pennsylvania, the leading opponent of radar in the Senate of Pennsylvania, along with an unbiased and not disinterested—certainly interested—member of the press of Pennsylvania in the car, there was no question of the fact that there was a variance of eight miles. I could not vote for a measure which would jeopardize the driving privileges and possibly the livelihood of millions of Pennsylvania operators. We cannot enact into law a measure that clearly, on an official demonstration to the Senate of Pennsylvania this morning, disclosed an inaccuracy to the point that was disclosed to us today.

I cannot, Mr. President, understand the Majority Leader's stand when he would not permit this bill to go over in order for a few days. I have no reason to believe that what Senator Rooney said might not be correct. However, if there was something wrong with those machines, then certainly it would appear to me that another set of tests should be made, and should be set up for sometime next week or the following week. If the conclusion which Colonel McCartney has given is correct and there was something wrong, I think we should not only have one additional test, but several should be drawn. Then if it is proven to be the vehicle that it is supposed to be, unquestionably I think many of us could vote for it.

I believe many feel as I do today that without being proven to us this morning, it would be impossible for us to vote for the measure now.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I wanted to engage in cliches, I would have to say to the gentlemen on the other side: "Gentlemen, deeds not words." All I keep hearing is: "I want to vote for this bill and I want to do everything I can for it." However, I never noticed when any of the amendments were brought up that there was a solid vote for every one of them and great feeling that every one of them would pass, even though they would eventually emasculate this bill. They would eventually put this bill in serious jeopardy,—if it passed the house so that it would be in position to actually be enacted into law—because of some of the actions that might be taken against this measure as not being too clear, not being clearly defined as to the intention of the Legislature, and so on and so forth.

These amendments were meant to cripple the bill. I am well aware that not one of them is new. I think everybody here who has lived with the radar bill and the amendments thereto has seen them all before.

I would like to point out to the gentlemen on the other side, who are quite concerned about radar generally, that if this is their great concern and they feel this is not a proper system, I would suggest that each and every one of them contact their Congressmen to make sure we do not spend another nickel on the radar that this Country is depending upon for its early warning system, for the defense of the Country, and the landing and take-off of planes every single day at our commercial airports.

I think we are spending a great deal of the taxpayers' money in this area. If these gentlemen feel this is not proper, I think they ought to address themselves to that subject first. This other mater is only secondary.

I would like to point out to the gentleman that the accuracy of radar, in most of the literature I have seen, is within about two per cent of being accurate. We saw this morning that where there was an error between the speedometer and the radar, it always erred in favor of the driver. I think if we are looking to help the driver, this is another way of doing it.

I would like to say to Senator Bell that I noticed on occasion he wears glasses. Most people do wear glasses or use some other aid to help them to see. Since he was depending completely upon his own two eyes on what he saw, it might be this might be open for question. I think the benefit of the doubt should be granted to the people who drive and who are engaged in this work every single day of the week.

I also feel that in handling this problem, we are making a great to-do about nothing. We are only asking that the State Police be given another aid to help them control the highway pattern, the highway traffic, and to keep fatalities down. What is so serious about that? What is so earth-shaking? What are we doing here that is going to change the course of history in the State of Pennsylvania? I do not see anything.

Even in the demonstration we saw this morning, it might very well be that the speedometer on this car was not properly calibrated. Nobody pointed out that possibly the car was not working properly. Suppose the car did travel at sixty miles an hour and suppose the radar only showed a speed of fifty-eight miles an hour. Does that mean that radar is wrong? I would be inclined to believe that perhaps the car was not operating properly. How is this going to affect anybody? Suppose they stopped this automobile and they told the driver to slow down or issued him a warning.

Is this going to create any havoc in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania? Suppose they stopped this man from going on and killing somebody, or at least warned him that he was traveling too fast and not using proper judgment. Is this going to change the course of history in the State of Pennsylvania?

Why are we spending these late hours here working on something that should be a matter of course? Why are all of these gentlemen saying they were going to vote for this measure, but now they are not going to vote for it? I do not think they ever intended to vote for it in the beginning, or else we would not be having this long harangue and putting this bill over every single day.

If we are going to vote on a measure, let us bring it up. Let us vote for it and let us get it out of here. If we are not going to vote for this bill, let us do that also today. I think the record should be pretty clear.

Mr. McMENAMIN. Mr. President, I think everyone can agree with the remarks just made by Senator Weiner. I am wondering then what is the reason for the heat that has been generated here in this debate. I am sure everyone here either is or should be interested in highway safety and is interested or should be in cutting down the terrible toll of death and injuries from accidents on our highways.

I think what is in the back of everyone's mind is the problem of enforcement. This has nothing to do with the radar bill. As Senator Weiner has said, I think we have confiidence in the State Police and we have confidence that radar is sufficiently accurate to help them in their efforts to cut down speeding and accidents.

I think many of us here have had experience, however, with the question of drivers' licenses and their suspensions. I believe all of us have been alarmed and dismayed by the often arbitrary, highhanded action of the bureaucrats in the Bureau of Highway Safety who frequently, for technical reasons, take away a man's right to drive. I think we have reached the point in America where a driver's license is not a privilege. I believe we have come to the point where we must consider that a citizen has some property rights in that license, because frequently it is the means of his earning his livelihood. All of us know cases where men have lost their drivers' licenses for thirty days or some other period of time and, as a result, have lost their jobs. One instance was reported to me this week of a man with eleven children who wound up on relief, as a result of having lost his license on a minor infraction.

I think the way to cure this fear is by subsequent legislation, such as we had in other Sessions, to either recreate a restricted driver's license or to have, for professional drivers, two types of licenses; namely, a professional license and a pleasure license. Then if a truck driver or a man who needs his license to work should be arrested for some infraction, while taking the family out on Sunday, he still would be able to go back to work on Monday morning. I am sure such a measure would receive considerable sympathy in this Session of the Legislature. I would look forward to supporting and sponsoring such legislation.

Mr. President, for the sake of all Pennsylvanians, I think we should give the State Police this further aid of radar in trying to crack down on speeders on our highways.

Mr. BELL. Mr. President, in the ramblings and scattergun speech of the Majority Leader, Senator Weiner, he made reference to the fact that I am semi-blind. I have been called other things, but never blind. As proof of this, Senator Weiner, if Senator Miller would hold up The Philadelphia Observer, which he just threw in the wastebasket, twenty-five feet away, I will read the top lines of it. Fortunately, I have very fine eyesight. The reason for my wearing glasses is to read the many bills which come across the desk. I did not need them until last Friday, however.

Mr. VAN SANT. Mr. President, as so many, I do not wish to prolong the debate on this subject, but I was rather astounded to learn there was faulty equipment and that a new vehicle was used in the test this morning. Admittedly, the driver of the car was traveling between fifty-four and sixty-two miles per hour and it was discovered there was a faulty speedometer in the vehicle.

Here we are, talking about highway safety, and it amazes me. I merely ask: "What would have happened if that faulty equipment had occurred in the steering or motor, traveling at sixty miles per hour? What would have happened?"

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I was present, along with the rest of the Senators, at the radar test made today. It is true that the first car was registered by radar at fifty-four miles an hour. The person who drove it said that he was traveling at sixty-two miles an hour. However, we have heard the explanation that there was improper lubrication in this automobile.

We also saw the next car going by at sixty miles an hour and it was clocked at between fifty-nine and sixty miles an hour by radar.

Mr. President, no one here has contradicted this statement which has been issued by Commissioner McCartney and which is in the possession of every Senator here. I will read a very small part of it, as follows:

> "Highway radar is now in use in one form or another in forty-seven States in the Union, plus the District of Columbia. All of the States adjoining Pennsylvania are using highway radar as an enforcement tool; Ohio, since 1954; Maryland, since 1953; Delaware, since 1954; New York, since 1956; and New Jersey, for several years."

Is there a single Senator here who can deny these facts? Is it possible that all our surrounding States are subjecting their citizens to an improper control of their driving? Would anyone, who is fair-minded, say that here are forty-seven States using radar and they do not know what they are doing? Can anyone deny the statements made by Commissioner McCartney, which are in the possession of every Senator here?

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, I do not want to prolong this debate, but I think it is a matter of record that yesterday I supported an amendment to this bill. I think the Members on both sides of the aisle realize that I felt friendly toward the passage of this radar bill. I do not want to go into the business of what we saw this morning. My nose—and it is a big one—was right near that needle. I was not more than six inches away from that needle.

I do not doubt that perhaps Commissioner McCartney's explanation was proper. However, I do not understand what is wrong with the request of Senator Confair who, earier this evening,—we have been debating this matter for a couple of hours and are no further along than when we started—said that he had received permission from the Commissioner of the State Police to have tests made in this area, in order to substantiate that the test which we saw this morning was incorrect.

Mr. President, I do not understand why this bill cannot go over in order until next Monday. The Majority side does not have the votes to pass it anyhow and, therefore, I think we are just wasting an awful lot of time.

In reply to Senator McMenamin, I did not tell him, but I talked to several Members on the other side of the aisle and told them that I have prepared for introduction, next Monday, a bill to restore restricted licenses. I talked to one of the heads of the Department of Revenue earlier this afternoon and I talked to a couple of other Senators. I, too, want to bring out the fact that in the area in which I live, a man who loses his license for fifteen days, where we have no bus transportation nor any motor pool for him to get to work, very often loses his job and goes on relief. I think that is unfair. I am hoping next week we can get this matter straightened out.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I have taken the position of being against radar not because of radar itself, but, as I stated yesterday, because of a new method employed to prosecute our motorists.

Of course, I realize that without radar, they also have other methods. I am not too keenly interested in radar, either for or against it. However, the gentleman from Armstrong has spoken my feelings and the gentleman from Lackawanna has expressed my feelings. I told my colleagues in Caucus that I would vote for radar with one reservation. Regarding that reservation, my position holds pat. My reservation is to do something in this Session to assist these people who—many for the first time—have been caught speeding, thereby losing their driving privilege.

Yesterday morning, a friend in my county, who has driven for forty-five years, was caught speeding on a Sunday afternoon. I made every honest attempt to procure for him a special license, in order for him to drive his truck. I was laughed at. Yesterday, he applied for relief, with a wife and eleven children. We pick up that tab and we pay it.

If I have the assurance that the Members of my Party and the Members of the opposition Party will go along with me in sponsoring a bill to give such people an opportunity to drive their automobiles to work, I will vote for any safety measure.

Therefore, Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Senator Weiner, would you cosponsor a bill with me to make it possible for those who have lost their licenses, for any reason whatsoever, to at least have one opportunity to earn their livelihood? If they are then caught for speeding, I shall have no sympathy for them.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I will answer the gentleman by saying that we are preparing such a bill and plan to introduce it on Monday, with the sponsorship of myself, the Members of the Democratic Caucus, and anyone else who wishes to join us.

Mr. HALUSKA. Thank you, Mr. President.

I now desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Senator Lane.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. HALUSKA. Senator Lane, would you join with me, Senator Weiner and others from both sides of the aisle, in sponsoring a bill and trying to pass it during this Session, making it possible for those poor unfortunates, who may lose their driving privileges, to once more have them restored?

Mr. LANE. Senator Haluska, you are talking my type of language and so is Senator McMenamin.

Unfortunately, you were not here during the last Session of the Legislature, but I had the opportunity and the responsibility of working on highway safety legislation. We had set up a point system here, Senator Haluska, which was unanimously approved by the Members of this Senate. In this point system, there were provisions for a limited operator's license. However, the legislation went over to the House and got lost in committee.

I firmly believe that the bureaucrats which exist in the Bureau of Highway Safety have overworked themselves in persecuting the public in Pennsylvania, with reference to restrictions of operators' licenses. I firmly believe, too, that this old hogwash about operating a vehicle on the highways being a privilege is not correct. I believe today it is a right. I strongly feel, Senator Haluska, that such legislation should be passed. I will guarantee you that I shall do everything possible to get it passed in this Senate.

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, unfortunately, I was not here during the last Session of the Legislature and I had no knowledge of any attempt being made to pass a bill along the lines that my good friend from Washington County spoke about. Today, for the first time, I have heard on this floor, from both the Republicans and the Democrats, that they are inclined to go along with such legislation. This is possibly the only break which the small man in Pennsylvania will receive from this Session.

On the basis of the Members' words of honor and their sincerity, I will go along with any safety measure, providing I have their support to sponsor a bill, I repeat, to give those people who have had their licenses suspended one more opportunity.

Mr. STAISEY. Mr. President, my distinguished colleague, Senator Haluska of Cambria County, has interrogated the Majority Leader and the Majority Whip of this distinguished Body.

I occupy no position of leadership in the Party. However, if it is going to give the gentleman any reassurance, Senator, I will gladly join you in cosponsoring a restricted license bill and debate it for you.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Washington, Senator Lane.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Lane, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LANE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Senator Lane, do you recall that I was one of the four Members—two from the Senate and two from the House—who worked so hard with the Governor on the point system and the restricted license basis in 1959? Is that correct?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, that is certainly correct. I might say, Senator Ehrgood, that you were a very important member of that committee.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Thank you, sir. I cannot help but agree.

Senator, is it not correct, as you stated, that we did pass the bill in this Senate, and it was killed in the House? Is that not correct?

Mr. LANE. That is correct, sir.

Mr. EHRGOOD. It is correct, is it not, that the House of Representatives in the 1959 Session was in control of the Democratic Party?

Mr. LANE. I might say that they had what you call a paper thin majority. They were in somewhat the same position as we are. You know, we have the blame and not the gain.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Senator Lane, did the bill ever come out of committee in the House of Representatives?

Mr. LANE. Not to my knowledge; I do not believe so.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Senator Lane, for the benefit of Senator Haluska, whose sentiments everyone re-echoes, would you be good enough to guarantee that the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will sign such a bill granting restricted licenses?

Mr. LANE. Mr. President, I do not believe I am in a position to make such a statement. My statement to Senator Haluska was, if you recall, that I would do everything possible to have this legislation passed in this Senate.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Members of the Senate, may the Chair interpose? This type of interrogation is getting far afield. The question is: Will the Senate finally pass this bill? This type of debate is not in order. Therefore, let us confine ourselves to this bill.

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, the only reason I went into that is because Senator Haluska, of Cambria County, had given that as a basis for voting. I do not know how he is going to vote, to tell you the truth.

Certainly, I cannot be satisfied with such a measure. I think a bill like this should be put over in order until we have the companion restricted license bill to go along with it. Then I might go along and vote for the bill, too. It is very difficult.

I am hopeful that Senator Haluska will agree wholeheartedly with me, because if his basis for voting for the bill would be restricted licenses, he certainly would not put the cart in front of the horse.

Mr. SESLER. Mr. President, at the risk of being redundant, I would like to make two points.

I believe we are confusing the issue of whether or not we should use radar as a means of enforcement on the highways in the Commonwealth with the question of what penalties should be enforced in this Commonwealth in the event we violate those laws.

Some of my distinguished colleagues may consider this a ground for horse trading, but I do not believe so. I believe we should consider independently the merits of radar. If we are convinced that this is a proper and adequate means of enforcement in this Commonwealth and that it will be an aid to our State Police in enforcing the law, then I think we ought to consider it on that basis alone.

We all know—as our distinguished colleague from Philadelphia has pointed out—that many States have previously considered radar. Further, radar has been in operation at various points in this Commonwealth for a period of time, and it has been used and inspected by our State Police at great length.

I am prepared to place my confidence in our Commissioner and in our State Police who have inspected, who have examined and who have tested this, and also to rely on the fact that many other States have seen fit to use this as an arm of enforcement.

It was nice for us to go to the demonstration this morning. In that demonstration, we saw at least three runs. Two of those runs were very accurate, and one of them was inaccurate. I am prepared to accept the explanation that has been given to us by the Commissioner. However, moreover than that, I can go out next week on the highway, and I can look for repeated demonstrations. I can go back to my county, if that is necessary, and ask for an inspection. I do not think this is necessary. I have talked to the State Police on many occasions, and I am sure my distinguished colleagues in this Body have seen and read about radar for a number of years preceding this.

There is also a third question that has not been mentioned at all. That is the risk that we put to our State Policemen who must engage in these high speed chases frequently, and the wear and tear on the Commonwealth's property. These are factors to be considered.

If my distinguished colleagues in this Body feel the penalties are being enforced against those who violate the speed laws, then that is another subject for debate.

I, for one, feel that we can fairly and squarely face the issue tonight as to whether or not radar should be used as a means of enforcement. I believe the evidence is adequate, and that we should give this a fair test; a test without warning signs; a test designed to determine whether or not it is an aid to our State Police to enforce laws that we have seen fit to pass.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I think there is probably a question in the minds of all of us as to the rapid deterioration of that speedometer on that police vehicle, because as I understand it, that speedometer was tested only the night before the vehicle was operated on the highway out here on Route 22. I do not say it is impossible—certainly, it is probably correct—that the cable needed greasing and possibly the speedometer this morning was not in as good shape as it was the night before.

Mr. President, I think the question that is in the minds of many people regarding this bill is not as to the use of radar, but as to the use of the evidence produced by radar and detailed to the court by the officer who read the dial. The fact that you cannot go into the instrument and interrogate it is a very, very important thing.

Mr. President, I believe radar does have a real place in the safety program on our highways, and it is being used for just that right now. I know there are signs all along the road indicating radar checks, and it is being used to instruct and educate the motorists. It is used in warning motorists, which is exactly a proper use for it. The officers, having used the radar to note the speed of a vehicle, warn that motorist and that motorist knows that he is under surveillance. It has the same practical effect, by the use of a sign along the side of the highway stating there is a radar check being conducted, as has a police car plainly marked on the highway. It reminds the motorist that he is in jeopardy if he does not obey the speed laws and the safety laws of the Commonwealth.

If it is only for the purpose of making arrests, Mr. President, that is one thing. If it is to promote highway safety, that is definitely another thing. The use of it as is being presently made, is a reasonable and proper use, without the use of the evidence adduced by the needle as the automobile makes an impression upon the beam.

Mr. President, one thing I saw out there impressed me, and that is the very rapid indication that was made when the vehicle came within 150 feet of where that radar car was set up. If an officer is going to read that needle, identify the automobile by make and year, take the license number, and telephone down the road, I say there is considerable chance for human error as well as machine error in the use of radar to enforce the speed laws of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

In conclusion, Mr. President, I would like to briefly interrogate the Majority Leader, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Senator Weiner, I believe you stated that you would like to have the radar bill passed in the Senate of Pennsylvania. Is that correct?

Mr. WEINER. I would, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. In order to pass the bill, Senator Weiner, I presume you would require twenty-six votes.

Mr. WEINER. I would say that is correct, Senator.

Mr. BERGER. Do you not believe, Senator, that if this bill is desirable and will have a very real value in promoting highway safety, it would not be too great an effort to allow the bill to appear upon the Calendar at a later date after the opportunity has been given to the Members of this Senate to verify the explanation which has been made, and to find out that the evidence of their eyes was, let us say, a little faulty, as you have implied here, and that the machine itself is accurate and that it does do the job?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I can only answer that question in this way, and I am not trying to evade the question. I can only go by what has happened here in the past.

You heard one of the Republican Senators, Senator Bell, tell you he voted on this measure in the House and helped pass it over here to the Senate. The bill has come over here on a number of occasions, been introduced to this Senate, and has never gotten out of committee. On measure we have ever had on radar and requested that it be submitted to the floor, this request has always been denied.

At some stage of the game, if you are in a position of responsibility, you must take these measures as they are handed to you and bring them before the Body. If they are defeated, then as far as the people who have been going around saying they are in favor of this particular measure, but now vote against it, you can only take into consideration that their actions speak louder than their words.

At some date this must be done. I do not know how long we can postpone it. If the people who keep saying they are in favor of this measure—and they are on both sides of this aisle—decide to vote against this bill and it goes down in defeat, we may resurrect it and they will have another day on which to vote on it. However, we may not resurrect it, and so this may be their only opportunity to vote on this measure.

All I can say is that being in a position of responsibility,—and the Governor has asked that this program be put across—sometime during this Session we must do it, and today seems as good a day as any. The bill has been on the Calendar for a few weeks. One of the principal opponents of this bill, whose name I shall not mention to protect the guilty, has, I am sure, investigated this measure from one end to the other and has all kinds of data which he has brought to the attention of his Caucus and to the Members of this Senate. He has not convinced me, fortunately for him or for the Democratic Party. I do not know which. However, I am not convinced by those arguments, and I would like to vote on this bill. I am sure other Members feel the same way, and I am sure I have not convinced anybody else who is against the bill to be in favor of it.

Therefore, one of these days, we are going to have to look at this measure, and if there is anything particularly wrong with this day as compared with some other day, I would be very happy to be convinced on that subject as well.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Senator Weiner.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Weiner, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr WEINER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. BERGER. Senator Weiner, I would inquire whether it is your best judgment that this bill would be in greater jeopardy of not passing at a later date than it would be today?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I am not clairvoyant. If I were, I would not be in the Senate. I would probably be in the stock market. That matter aside, I feel that when measures come before you, you must act on them.

There are many measures which come before us, Senator, that are not popular, and I have no way of knowing whether a measure is going to pass or not until the final roll is taken up yonder. When that comes down to us, then I know we have either passed the measure or it has gone down in defeat.

I have talked to the people in our own Caucus and have consulted with them. I have some idea of where they stand. I have also heard pronouncements in newspapers and publications, which I am sure you and every other Member receive, as to where they stand on this situation. When I do the addition of where our people stand and where your people stand, I feel there ought to be enough votes to pass this bill. If I am in error, we may correct that at some later date. If I am not in error, the bill will pass today.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I thank the gentleman.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, the evidence against the use of the electronic device known as radar, and the pitiful demonstration given this morning, is so overwhelming that it would take hours to recite it in detail. Misinformation has been spread far and wide by those who would like to increase their power, and it is most misleading and confusing. The good points they attribute to it are not substantiated by facts. However, I have consolidated the information I have as best I can and will be as brief as possible. At the same time, I will endeavor to explain to this Body some of the shortcomings which have clearly developed.

I repeat, Mr. President, that in the demonstration given us this morning, it was explained by Commissioner McCartney and others of the State Police that the machine had been thoroughly gone over, as late as yesterday. That produces a very weak alibi. I refer to the statement made by the Chairman of the Highways Committee, Senator Rooney. I do not criticize him for one minute because the statement was issued by Colonel McCartney.

Let me make this statement clear and concise. If I thought the adoption of radar speed traps would save a single life on the highways of Pennsylvania, I would be heartily in favor of it. We all agree with the premise that an urgent need exists to do all we can for safety on our highways. I am just as strongly in favor of safety on the highways as any Member on either side of this Senate is.

Twenty years ago, the automobile fatality rate in the United States was 12.1 per hundred million miles traveled. In 1958, the national rate was 5.6. Incidentally, our Pennsylvania rate was 4.3. The 1958 national rate of 5.6 was a reduction of more than 45 per cent in eighteen years. This tremendous reduction in fatality rates was accomplished by the constant cooperative educational methods, modernization of vehicles and highways without, I repeat, without morbid enjoyment of using cruel and sleuthful methods of traffic law enforcement. Is it unreasonable to assume that a continuing effort toward more and improved highway facilities would continue this downward trend in the fatality rate? What I am trying to say is this: Have all reasonable and fair measures of traffic law enforcement been explored? Have our highways received proper maintenance? They have not, during recent years.

The popular notion that speed is the main contributing factor to the accident rate can stand much scrutiny. A national publication, the United States News, dated February 20, 1961, had the following to say:

> "Highway Hazards:
> "By making detailed studies of highway accidents, safety authorities are throwing new light on the causes. A study of 250,000 accidents in New York by the State Motor Vehicle Department showed that the three leading causes, by per sentage, were: Failure to yield the right-of-way, 25 per cent; following too closely, 22 per cent; and speeding, 13 per cent."

The Federal Government transmitted a report from the Secretary of Commerce on March 3, 1959, known as House Document No. 93, which had, among other things, the following to say about speed:

> "Speed and Accident Involvement:
> "Factual information on driving speed has unusual pertinence for the traffic-accident situation. The average speeds observed on the various study sections ranged from forty-two to fifty-nine miles per hour, with an over-all average of fifty-two. Night driving speeds at most locations were quite similar to those measured during the day, and the over-all night and day averages were almost the same.
> "High speeds, per se, have borne the brunt of criticism among many efforts in safety education, promotion, enforcement and regulation. The results of this extensive study of major highways in rural areas, however, show that drivers who were traveling at speeds below forty miles per hour were involved in accidents at a rate several times higher than that of drivers traveling at faster speeds. The daytime involvement rate was lowest for speeds between fifty-five and seventy miles per hour and increased at higher speeds.
> "Although reasonably reliable estimates of vehicle speed just prior to an accident can be made by experienced traffic police investigators, it is recognized that not all accidents used in the study were investigated and that involved drivers, especially those at fault, often underestimate their speed. Nevertheless, the differences in the involvment rates at the various speeds are substantial enough to suggest that relatively high speed driving is, on the average, safer than either low speed or excessively high speed driving on main rural highways where good design and other features are adequate to accomodate it. This finding does not apply necessarily to anything other than main rural highway conditions."

It is under these conditions that radar would be most frequently used, thus further negating the need.

Incidentally, this information, being revolutionary, was carried in many national publications, such as Newsweek, of March 16, 1959, and others.

Other States have legalized the use of this speed trapping device. That is true and has been said many times on this floor this evening. The use, however, is usually very short-lived. The reasons are that it does not change their fatality or accident rate. The record clearly proves this. Mr. George Lowe, now of the Atlantic Refining Company, who frequently honors us with his presence, sent me the results of a twenty-seven State survey, under date of March 9, 1959, in which radar had been legalized. Out of the total, ten States stated there had been no change in the number of accidents. Ten States did not even go to the trouble to reply. Most of the remaining States were evasive in their answers. The average length of time radar had been in use in these States was 3.6 years.

Now it is true that some few States persist in the use of this speed trapping device. There is no question about that. They have a vertiable gold mine and receive a generous portion of parasitic income from this source, particularly from visitors of other States.

Does radar work? We had a demonstration of radar this morning. Let us keep in mind that radar speed traps never stopped a speeder. It can only detect, accurately or inaccurately, the speed of a moving vehicle. Additional officers must be assigned to record the speed and this, indeed, if reported honestly, is a very delicate thing for any human being to do. Again, that was brought out very clearly here this afternoon. Those who observed the needle going over fast and right back, know that the human eye can hardly detect the extent to which that needle went. Other officers must be used to make the arrest.

How accurate is it? We witnessed its accuracy this morning. The technicalities of traffic radar application are a topic which would require hours to discuss. I have studied it at some length and have read much authoritative comment that questions its reliability. Rather than burden you with this mass of detail, let me quote from a letter of our own Colonel Frank G. McCartney, who was with us this morning. He is our present Commissioner of State Police and he wrote this letter on March 12, 1959, to the Honorable Roy Shafer, Legislative Secretary to the Governor, and had the following to say. Remember, Colonel McCartney was then Colonel and Commissioner of the State Police, as he is now. The letter reads as follows:

> "The subject proposed legislation amends the Act of May 1, 1939, (P. L. 903) known as 'The Vehicle Code,' amended May 28, 1959, (P. L. 1769), section 1002, entitled 'Restrictions as to Speed,' subsection (d), to provide for the use of radar equipment and reduces, under all other conditions, the distance a vehicle will be timed from one-fourth of a mile to one-eighth of a mile, by a peace officer using either radar equipment or a motor vehicle equipped with a speedometer tested for accuracy within a period of 30 days prior to the alleged violation.
> "You are advised this Department objects to the proposed legislation on the basis it is our understanding radar equipment will not measure the speed of a vehicle for a distance of one-eighth of a mile with the radar equipment mounted at street level."

However, sometime subsequent to writing this letter, the Commissioner quickly changed his mind. It apparently was after an official visit. I do not know that to be certain, but I do know that he quickly got over to the other side of the issue.

Mr. President, let me repeat and read from a statement which the Commissioner intended to read this morning to the Members assembled to see the demonstration. He again quickly changed his mind and was very embarressed at the operation and did not read the statement. However, he had handed it to us. He had the following to say in his statement:

> "But if the object is moving, the frequency of the returning waves will vary, according to the speed of the object. On the highway, this means the greater the speed of the vehicle, the greater the frequency varies"—thereby, I might add, causing mistakes—"between the transmission waves and the returning waves."

That was the statement given to us by the Colonel this morning. I sense, perhaps, that he will have to change his mind on that.

Let us consider the possible effect of improved, well-maintained and new highways on the issue of traffic safety. I think we could get a pretty general agreement among highway users that the maintenance during the past several years has fallen much short of what might be expected.

In another area, during the past four years, $679,392,979 has been available for new construction. Now with new revenue measures already enacted, much additional money will be available. If the funds set aside were properly used, we could expect much improvement on our highways, which has been proven time and time again to be the best highway safety measure possible. Witness a local condition: The improvement of the so-called Gettysburg Pike, between Harrisburg and Dillsburg, four year ago. This has brought the accident rate down to the extent that where there were ten accidents before, now the records clearly prove that only three accidents occur. Again, gentlemen, I ask you to let us explore and use these proven measures which have contributed toward a steadily decreasing highway fatality rate over the years.

The use of radar speed traps is a heartless infringement upon the rights of Americans. When a citizen is brought before the bar of justice, he is traditionally innocent until proven otherwise. A party involved in a radar speed trap arrest has generally no technical knowledge of electronics and finds himself in court, bearing the burden of the presumed guilt and of proving himself innocent in a contest with an inanimate machine of questionable accuracy. This is not my opinion, alone. Writing in the "Electronics World" of December 1960, Mr. J. Kelly Johnson, an electrical engineer and a Fellow in the Institute of Radio and Radar Engineers, and a licensed professional Engineer in New York and Illinois, had the following to say in that publication:

> "I believe that the car riders, the police and the courts should be advised that the reliability of the evidence provided by these so-called radar instruments is by no means 100 per cent.
> "Because none of those parties involved in a 'radar arrest' and trial has, in general, any technical knowledge of electronics, the defendant finds himself in court, bearing the burden of presumed guilt and of proving himself innocent. This is contrary to the basic principles of American jurisprudence. In order to even attempt to prove his innocence, the accused must engage the services of an attorney and an electronic expert. This is a very considerable expense in order to avoid what is usually a very paltry fine. Even then he is not usually likely to win acquittal because of the 'aura of infallibility' which has been built up, undeservedly, about the device.
> "Radar speed meters are not only not radar, but may provide unreliable evidence due to errors falling in any one or in all of the following four categories: "System limitations,"—as we observed this morning—"equipment limitations, improper use of equipment,"—which might have been at fault this morning—"and incorrect interpretations of results."

Let me say at this point to the Majority Leader that the system of radar used in the National Defense is entirely different than the Koppler method which is used on the highways

> "Even if the device were as reliable, say, as the chase car's speedometer, which is certainly not the case,"—and I am continuing quoting from the article—"there are so many possibilities of error in the other three categories that neither the courts, the police, nor the arrested party should assume the speed-meter data to be accurate without specific proof and corroborative evidence, beyond a reasonable doubt, and this must be furnished by the prosecution.
> "I feel that it would be a disservice to the multitude of honest citizens, who in spite of veracious assertions of their innocence have been or may be arrested and convicted on the mechanical evidence of this fallible device, if you did not publish some statements calling attention to the facts which I have pointed out in this letter."

Mr. President, this will be verified by literally hundreds of those who have been accused of radar traffic violations in our neighboring States. It is an unfair and unjustified instrument to be used. Not all those who occupy the seat back of the wheel of an automobile are murderers or criminals, even though they occasionally exceed speed limits. They have a right to a fair day in court. I suggest that each Member of this Body, who is considering voting for this measure, think back over the past 100 miles he has driven and reckon with himself as to whether or not he did, at least on one occasion, exceed the speed limit.

Gentlemen, you are Members of a deliberate Body, the Senate of Pennsylvania. Because one appointed official—and you might take a look at his record—says that we should adopt this speed trapping device is insufficient reason for us, as Legislators, to jump through the hoop.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Cumberland, Senator Wade.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, allow himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WADE. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. WEINER. Senator, suppose I were to say to you when they pick up a man for driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor that the only examination he receives is that of a physician who checks his temperature, possibly his blood pressure, has him walk around and looks into his eyes to see if his pupils are dilated, would you say this is an unfair method?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, that question is irrelevant to the subject at hand. However, let me tell the gentleman this, for his information, because he reflected several times this afternoon on the actions of the Highways Committee.

The Chairman of the Highways Committee, as Mr. Rooney will bear out, is not the entire committee. We had that legislation and I was one hundred per cent in favor of it, and would vote for it tomorrow. I am speaking of the legislation to which you refer. However, I think it has no place at all in this discussion this evening.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would like to just ask the gentleman if he would answer my question, after which I will be very happy to listen to anything he has to say. Would you consider that a proper method of deducing whether a person is or is not drunk?

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I refuse to answer that because of the fact that it is not germane to the problem before the Senate.

Mr. WEINER. Senator, this is the wrong time to take offense, especially when we are discussing this subject.

Might I point out to you, Sentor,—and I want to thank you very much for your responsive answer—that many people are picked up in automobiles who are presumed to have been drinking? The only test they will receive is that of a physician who is called to the police station and puts them through the tests that I have just pointed out to you. When these people are tried in court, the only thing that happens is that some policeman gets up and says he picked up this man because his car seemed to be zigzagging down the highway or whatever the reason may be. The physician then states his conclusions as a result of his examination. This is the point at which the person who has been accused begins to defend himself. How is that any different from what we are discussing here?

One of the authorities that you quoted, Senator, a Mr. J. Kelly Johnson, Electrical Engineer, a fellow of the Institute of Radio and Radar Engineers, and licensed professionally in New York and Illinois, says that the evidence produced by these radar instruments is by no means 100 per cent correct. He does not say it is faulty or goes down to zero. There are many things that are not 100 per cent, and we use them as having evidentiary value. They are not the sole test before anyone. They just are an aid or an adjunct to what is going on.

I also would like to point out to you, Senator,—

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, may I interrupt? I apoligize to the distinguished gentleman from Philadelphia. May I ask him whether he is giving me a personal lecture, is he interrogating me, or is he addressing the Senate?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, if I seem to be directing my remarks only to Senator Wade, it is just because I have been reading and listening to what he had to say. This is for the entire Senate, Senator.

I would just like to point out, also, that nothing has changed, Senator. I remember two years ago,—and I will pick up the record and it reads almost like this one does—two years before that, and two years before that. You excoriated Mr. Shipley at quite some length, and went on at the same rate as you went on here about these different problems and all of these hardship cases.

I do not think I have ever heard you say anything positive for radar. There must be something good about it. There must be somthing worth-while that you can point out to us about it, other than that we should not have it. I think if you did that and tempered those remarks about Mr. Shipley,—who, I understand, is ill and is now on a leave of absence from the State and from his duties—I think we could get to the heart of this problem. The problem is not Mr. Shipley. The problem is radar. Either we do or do not have it, and the enforcement of it is a different matter completely.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman from Cumberland, Mr. Wade, will state it.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, I want to correct the gentleman in that I did not mention Mr. Shipley's name, and I intentionally avoided doing that knowing that he was—I was told this morning by Colonel McCartney—in the Harrisburg Hospital. I do not know that he said Harrisburg State Hospital. It was the Harrisburg Hospital.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I think the gentleman is completely out of order on his point of order. I would like to also point out that he should have read his statement carefully. I will read to you what you stated about Mr. Shipley. If you want me to do that, I will be very happy to do so.

As a matter of fact, Senator Wade, you go on to point out his previous record at the close of your remarks, and you ask us to look at his record before we take his word about anything or want to follow his suggestions.

Mr. President, I am not going to carry this any further. The people who have this statement can look through it and decide whether Mr. Shipley's name is mentioned or his record or anything else about him.

Mr. DEVLIN. Mr. President, I just want to take one minute for a remark. It has been my privilege to attend the Mayor's Highway Safety Conference in Pittsburgh every year since 1956. I think, Mr. President and my colleagues that we only have one problem here. We only have one question here to answer, and that is whether we will accept and whether we will authorize the use of another deterrent against the highway carnage that has become so frightening Nation-wide. I would think and I would hope that we would all bear this in our conscience when we are casting our votes on this bill.

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, one brief note. I did mention Mr. Shipley's name in my discourse, and I apologize to Senator Weiner for saying I did not. However, anything I said or thought about him, I will not take back.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

(During the calling of the roll, the following occurred:)

Mr. ROONEY. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I wish to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. SILVERT. Mr. President, I desire to change my vote from "aye" to "no."

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The gentleman will be so recorded.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, before the vote is announced, my reason for changing my vote—and I believe I speak on behalf of my colleagues—is that we do not have enough votes to pass this bill. Rather than see the bill completely defeated, we want to at least be in a position, if the gentlemen on the other side reconsider their position, to bring it back.

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—22

Camiel,	Kalman,	Miller,	Seyler,
Devlin,	Lane,	Mullin,	Stalsey,
DiSilvestro,	Mahady,	Murray,	Stiefel,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye," the question was determined in the negative, and the bill was defeated.

RESOLUTION INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. MARSH. RESOLUTION No. 34.

In the House of Representatives, March 6, 1961

It has come to the attention of the members of the House of Representatives that inhuman and cruel treatment has been accorded dogs taken into custody by the personnel of the law enforcement agencies charged with the apprehension of these animals.

It has also come to our attention of promiscuous killing of dogs by these enforcement officers, which are properly tagged. In many of these instances if these dogs had been apprehended by the use of a chemical dart gun they could have been readily returned to their owners. It is the sense of this House that the treatment accorded many of these stray animals is cruel and inhuman; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Secretary of Agriculture be requested to instruct all enforcement agencies to cease any promiscuous killing of properly tagged dogs and that in the apprehension of these animals, a chemical dart gun be used so that they can safely be placed in custody until claimed by their owners. This resolution in no wise is meant to interfere with those provisions of the law pertaining to dogs with rabies or caught in the act of attacking a person or other animal; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of Agriculture be sent a copy of this resolution.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. HAUDENSHIELD. I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HAUDENSHIELD. Mr. Speaker, I have the authority to not only speak for myself, but for three other gentlemen from Allegheny, Mr. Gibb, Mr. Goldstein, and Mr. Donaldson.

Due to circumstances beyond our control, we were unable to attend yesterday's session. Our plane from Pittsburgh was delayed and ultimately grounded. We would like to go on record as favoring House bill 132. Had we been present, we all would have supported this measure. We so indidcated our feelings by telephone to the majority leader.

I would like the record to show that if we were present we would have voted yes on this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the records of the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the majority leader, the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. May I confirm the statement of the gentleman, Mr. Haudenshield, who called from the airport in Pittsburgh yesterday, stating that the plane flight was cancelled, and by telephone they indicated they would vote "aye" on House bill 132. Then the plane trip was cancelled and they had to come by automobile. This will substantiate the statement entered in the record.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

PERMISSION GRANTED COMMITTEE TO MEET DURING SESSION

Mr. FILO asked and obtained permission for the Committee on Boroughs to meet during the session of the House.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent leave of absence was granted as follows:

Mr. Tompkins for Mr. GROSS for today to attend funeral.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inquire of the majority leader if it is the desire of the majority leader to go ahead with resolutions awaiting the return of the members?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, may we proceed with resolutions, to save time, until the committees come back.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 25

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House resolution No. 25 on page 12 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1961.

Two decades ago the General Assembly repealed miscellaneous civil service statutes applicable to specific departments and established uniform requirements and conditions for all employes of the Liquor Control Board Bureau of Employment Security Department of Public Assistance and the Civil Service Commission

Since the passage of the Civil Service Act of 1941 separate and distinct statutes have provided civil service for employes of the Board of Parole and the Department of Health In addition civil service has been established by departmental action in the Office of Children and Youth the Office of Mental Health the Office for the blind the Office for the Aged the Office of General and Special Hospitals and the Bureau of Rehabilitation Furthermore the Executive Board of the Commonwealth by resolutions established civil service for selected professional and technical employes for all departments

The uncoordinated actions of the legislature the departments and the Executive Board have well-nigh destroyed the uniformity of employment conditions established by the Civil Service Act of 1941

To day qualifications performance standards and employe rights differ markedly among Commonwealth departments and offices within departments Arbitrary differences affect an employe's morale adversely restrict the transfer of employes among agencies and departments impair employe advancement and impose excessive costs upon the Comomnwealth Again though the Act of 1941 explicity provides that "* * * no applicant shall be required to be possessed of any schollastic education in order to be permitted to take any competitive examination * * *" it has become a practice in departments in which civil service was administratively established to require applicants "to be possessed of scholastic education" before they are permitted to take a competitive examination

The present heterogeneous conglomeration of civil service practices is in need of searching inquiry therefore be it

Resolved That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to examine present Commonwealth civil service practices and develop a unified simplified and equitable system of civil service for Commonwealth departments agencies and offices and be it further

Resolved That the Joint State Government Commission make a preliminary report of its findings to the 1961 Session of the General Assembly and report to the Session of 1963 its conclusions and recommendations together with drafts of legislation necessary to carry the recommendations into effect

SENATE RESOLUTION SERIAL No. 105

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS TO ESTABLISH A CIVILIAN CONSERVATION CORPS

In the Senate, January 23, 1961.

Pennsylvania is proud of the many beautiful forests that dot our countryside. No other state can boast of such preserves, but without conservation some day our beautiful woodlands will be a barren area.

The same is true of our water supply. Today it is abundant but without care and conservation we might find ourselves faced with a shortage of water in the future.

A way to solve these problems would be to reestablish the Civilian Conservation Corps which worked so well during the thirties. The creation of this force would not only help our forests and water supply, but it would also aid in the curbing of juvenile delinquency, and the problems of unemployment which we face today; therefore be it

Resolved (the House concurring), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania memorialize Congress to establish a Civilian Conservation Corps; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each house of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, that the clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

RESOLUTION

CONDOLENCE

Mr. TOMPKINS, Mrs. KOOKER and Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS, Jr. offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 7, 1961.

The death of Senator Joseph R. Grundy on March 3, 1961 brings to an end the life of one of the Commonwealth's outstanding citizens. Senatory Grundy will long be remembered for his forceful and vigorous influence on the political history of this State.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 356, printer's No. 478

was passed over at the request of Mr. McCANN.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, before you call up House bill 365, I wish to state I have not checked the roll, but I believe there were no Republican votes cast on House bill 355 for its passage. House bills 355, 356 and 387 are a series of companion bills granting to the Governor and to other members the right to attend and to be prseent at that meeting by their highest deputy, secertary of administration.

We have given this same right to the legislative members now serving on these authorities by law. You passed in this House and the Senate the acts which gave to the Speaker and the President Pro Tempore, the minority floor leaders of the House and the Senate, the right to designate a substitute to attend the meetings, or to appoint someone in their stead. Yet, here in the executive branch you deny that right and do not cast any single affirmative votes in support of the measure.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 376, entitled:

An Act amending "The Fish Low of 1959" approved December 15, 1959 (P. L. 1779) authorizing the Pennsylvania Fish Commission to set aside certain waters to be used exclusively for fishing by children and disabled persons.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I wonder if the sponsors of this legislation can tell me how they are going to select an area that is going to be set aside for children and to say that persons can fish? I wonder if they can tell me where they are going to designate that area and how they can tell there is going to be fish in that particular place?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman desire to interrogate someone on the bill?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, so the record will show clearly, the Fish Commission would have the authority to designate such places on the streams, and I believe it is the Fish Commission that stocks the fish in the streams, so I would certainly hope that they would place some fish in that designated area.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the majority leader for his explanation.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 517, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58) prohibiting certain acts relating to counterfeit or facsimile registration plates numbers or markers.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I would like to yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott, to clarify some of the confusion over this bill.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I had not intended to debate this bill and I will not, except to say that it seems to me that this is a good piece of legislation. There was some objection raised in our caucus through a misunderstanding, I think. The misunderstanding was that if a person, for example, wrote his own license number on a piece of cardboard if somebody had taken his license plate that that would be a crime under this bill. It is not a crime under this bill as amended.

I would also like to say there is some objection that the penalty may be too high. However, the bill allows the penalty to be at the discretion of the court. I think in instances where there is a deliberate business of manufacturing forged plates there should be a severe penalty. I think it is a good bill.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I was under the impression that this bill was to be passed over. As I quickly read the bill, and I so advised the majority leader, I think there are printing errors which change the meaning of this bill. As I read the bill, it, in effect, says:

"No person shall sell, offer for sale, make, procure, attempt to procure, or knowingly possess a counterfeit or any registration plate or marker issued by the secretary . . ."

Now, reading that correctly, we cannot procure something that the secretary issued which was a counterfeit in the first instance.

I mentioned this to the majority leader. I do not think it is a serious error, but I think it is an error that should be corrected before we act on this legislation.

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman is absolutely correct.

On page 3, line 2, that should read:

"a counterfeit of any" rather than "or any".

The gentleman is correct.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. FINEMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the third reading postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Fetterolf.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, I want to call to the attention of the House that in the act as amended the word "facsimile" has been deleted. However, in your calendar for today the word "facsimile" is included in the title.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair thanks the gentleman.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 529, entitled:

An Act amending the act of March 15, 1899 (P L 8) entitled "An act to regulate the manner in which appropriations to educational penal reformatory charitable benevolent or eleemosynary institutions shall be paid" further providing for reversion of unexpended balances of sums appropriated for specific purposes.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Schuster, rise?

Mr. SCHUSTER. I rise to a question of personal privilege, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. SCHUSTER. Mr. Speaker, I got locked out on that last vote, and I would like to be recorded as voting "aye."

The SPEAKER pro temopre. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the record of the House.

BILL CALLED UP OUT OF ORDER

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up on page 11 Senate bill 178, printer's No. 343.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hears no objection.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 178, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 25 1945 (P L 1050) entitled "Local Tax Collection Law" further regulating compensation of tax collectors in boroughs and townships of the second class

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate someone who can explain the last amendment placed in this bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, a member of Local Government Commission, may answer.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KORNICK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, will you explain the amendments which were placed in the bill by the House having reference to the county commissioners?

Mr. KORNICK. Before this amendment was placed in the bill it was discussed very thoroughly with the representatives of the various governments concerning second-class townships, boroughs and the county commissioners.

The purpose of this amendment is to try to secure better government at home. There is not any motive on my part to destroy the bill, or to wreck it, or to hold it up. My intentions are honest and sincere. It was my amendment. It was not given to me by anyone, and it is my desire with this amendment that the county commissioners shall meet with the local taxing authorities and try to agree severally to a commission or wage paid to a tax collector.

Mr. ISAACS. Well, Mr. Speaker, in my county, which is a third-class county, there are about 52 political subdivisions. Does it mean that the county commissioners would have to meet with the taxing authorities of every one of those?

Mr. KORNICK. Yes, sir, Mr. Speaker. That is the purpose of the amendment.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, it seems to me this is a rather cumbersome thing. I was not aware until today that this bill had been amended, and I certainly do not question the gentleman's intentions. I do not care too much about what the various gentlemen he referred to think of this bill. However, I am certainly interested in what the tax collectors think of it and what the Pennsylvania State Association of Tax Collectors think of it. I cannot see the rush in passing this bill today. I ask that it be held up. As I understand it, it only has to be passed two days before the last date for withdrawal.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I wish I could concede to the gentleman's request, but it is impossible for we are now fighting time. The bill either passes or falls today. I wish I could concede to his request but it is impossible.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I would certainly like to have been here when the amendment was offered. I would have been aware of it, but I believe we were in caucus at the time and I just became aware of it today. Inasmuch as I have had no chance to contact the Pennsylvania State Tax Collectors' Association or any of my tax collectors, I am going to vote against the bill.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would also like to interrogate the gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KORNICK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, does this amendment which Mr. Issacs discussed mean that the commissioners and the local school districts in boroughs must agree on a uniform commission, or salary?

Mr. KORNICK. No, sir, Mr. Speaker, it does not. The use of the word "severally" does not mean that they must.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. It says that they shall severally agree at that time. Now does that mean that they must agree, since it uses the word "shall"?

Mr. KORNICK. No, the word "severally," I understand, takes care of that. The purpose was to give the local government a voice and no one group to overpower the other group. In other words, we have three separate values here.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I think, Mr. Speaker, that this is a desirable piece of legislation to let boroughs and school districts fix the salary if they want to for the tax collector, but it seems to me that you get into a very unwieldy situation with this amendment. I would like to ask the gentleman, whether a county will be able to fix a salary for a tax collector for the collection of county taxes?

Mr. KORNICK. Yes, they can, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Is the gentleman aware of the fact that under the county code, I believe it is, or another statute, that the county must charge a commission?

Mr. KORNICK. Under the present act, is that what you mean?

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Yes.

Mr. KORNICK. Under this bill, districts will have the right to set a salary or a commission. They now have the right to set a salary or a commission. They now have the right to set a commission of not more than 5 percent.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Is there anything in here to repeal the existing statute?

Mr. KORNICK. No, they have the right of either or both under this amendment.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Must the commissioners and the tax district agree unanimously on what is to be charged by a tax collector?

Mr. KORNICK. No, sir. Not under this bill, they do not, sir.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I realize that there is a time element involved here. It seems to me that there is a very clear-cut way this can be corrected.

The present law provides that the tax collector's compensation shall not be changed unless it is done at least ten days prior to the day fixed by law for candidates to withdraw from the nomination, previous to the day of the municipal election. Now I think the words "municipal election" are pretty clear. At least it always seemed so to me. I thought that meant the election in November. I think this situation has arisen because of a lower court case which held that the municipal election meant the primary election. I think that decision is wrong, but nevertheless that is on the books. I think we could easily correct this by just saying that they can change the compensation ten days before the municipal election, the last day to withdraw before the municipal election in November. That will give all these municipalities the rest of the summer to correct this.

I think this is a very faulty piece of legislation the way it is drawn now.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, I would like to say a few words with respect to this amendment and perhaps answer a question or two which the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs and Mr. Lippincott, have brought out.

I have been informed that the purpose of the county commissioners gathering together the various taxing agencies and agreeing upon either a commission or a salary is frankly only to divide the onus of a situation which might arise from the time the original commission was set by the taxing body and the time when that commission might expand from, say, $8,000 annually to, perhaps, $15,000, and the public finally point a finger at one of the taxing authorities and say, you did this.

In this manner all of them get together, agree upon a collector's salary, and all carry the load of the public wrath. That is exactly the way it was explained to me.

In section 36.1, on page 3 of the bill, where an amendment has been entertained, they change the number of days prior to the last day fixed by law for candidates to withdraw from ten to two. The reason for that, as I understand it, is to allow this bill to pass this House, be concurred in by the other body and to become effective for the primary elections this spring. Those are points which were outlined to me prior to this session.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Does the gentleman from Centre, Mr. Fulmer, desire to be recognized?

Mr. FULMER. Mr. Speaker, I want to say that I, for one, am in favor of this amendment which permits the taxing body to set a wage, or salary, or commission. But I must confess that this amendment to which we are addressing ourselves now has left me in somewhat of an awkward position, because when I read this it says: "The respective taxing authorities shall meet at the call of the county commissioners at a time prior to the last day permitted by law for the fixing of the tax collectors' commissions and shall severally agree at that time to the commission salary or wages to be paid the tax collector."

This leaves a couple questions in my mind. Number one, on line 16 it says, "law for the fixing of the tax collectors' commissions." It says nothing at all about setting the salary or the wages, and this seems to be inconsistent in itself because at one place we are amending the bill to include either salary, wages or a commission, but yet in line 16 and prior lines it says that the "county commissioners at a time prior to the last day permitted by law for the fixing of the tax collectors' commissions," and nothing is mentioned therein about the setting of a salary or wages.

While I am sure that Mr. Kornick has good intentions with this, it seems to me, further, that he is putting himself in a bind and just ruling himself right out of the picture of getting what he wants. Furthermore, the time set here is only prior to the last day as set forth by law, and the law says it shall be at least two days prior to the date fixed for the candidates to withdraw.

Now, I can see a real confusion here if the county commissioners would try to set a particular day for all these people to come in at one time and prevent the various taxing bodies from meeting at any other time to set these. The gentleman can very easily defeat himself by this amendment, and I am sure that we want to do what you want to have accomplished, but you are defeating yourself in trying to help yourself.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Montgomery, Mr. Fetterolf.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, I would like to make one more comment with regard to the bill.

I had a conversation with the secretary of the State Association of Township Supervisors, and he is in favor of this legislation.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, I have carefully discussed this bill with the sponsor of the amendment. I think he agrees with me and with Mr. Fulmer, Mr. Lippincott, and Mr. Isaacs that perhaps this amendment is not as perfect as it should be. But I think those of us who are interested in reducing the compensation of certain tax collectors in this State and who think the best way to do that is to legalize the paying of a salary or wages are in a position where we will either vote for this bill today, even though we know that this amendment is not perfect, or we do not do anything for the next four years. These tax collectors, at least in my county, are all being elected at this municipal election. I think that is true over the entire State.

I, for one, am going to vote for this bill as it is, and I think Mr. Kornick, the sponsor of this amendment, will agree with me at some future time to either take out this amended language entirely or to clear up the objections to it. I think he will so agree.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Williams, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that we are going to regulate wages and salaries here for tax collectors and this can be done under present law without this legislation? It is true that they get a commission, they are allowed 5 percent commission, but, by the same token, this commission can be reduced at any time and the wages can be brought down, as we have done. I cannot see any reason for this legislation when the commissioners, the boroughs and townships have the same authority.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. I think I heard most of what the gentleman had to say. It is your understanding that the rate of commission to the tax collectors can be changed from year to year?

Mr. FILO. No, not from year to year.

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Then my answer to your question is simply this: I come from Bucks County, one of the fastest growing counties in the State. We have townships where the assessed valuation will increase as much as 30, 40 and 50 percent during the four-year term of office of the tax collector. So when that tax collector initially goes into office, if you set a rate of 2 percent, this will provide what you think is an adequate income, but by the time that tax collector goes out of office, doing the same amount of work, he will be collecting perhaps 50 to 100 percent more than you originally intended that he would receive.

We think the best way to accomplish our purpose is to fix a fair salary or wage, which this bill will allow us to do, and which will not change during those four years. A fixed commission will result in a difference in salary or wage as a result of multiplying that commission by the taxes collected. We understand your objection; we understand what you have to say; but we do not think that the present law provides for the situation.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, by the same token, is it possible that we may set pretty high standards of wages for tax collectors in some boroughs and municipalities? Say in a small community, where the yield would probably be so small, you would set a salary for this tax collector at an enormous sum. That is possible?

Mr. A. D. WILLIAMS. Mr. Speaker, the answer to that question is simple. This bill provides for the complete and ultimate home rule. It permits the local township or borough to provide a salary or a wage, or a commission, in those small communities to which the gentleman refers, and perhaps the commission will work. We are concerned with the larger townships and boroughs in the State where commissions do not work, where commissions provide an inequitable and a high salary, a high wage, which the tax collector should not receive for the work done. We think this bill solves the gentleman's problem. I wish he would vote for it and solve our problem.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, we are asked to support here this afternoon a piece of legislation which is admittedly faulty. It is badly written and, if passed, can be subject to attack in the courts.

We have had since the first of the year to pass this kind of legislation if we were anxious to pass it. And I, for one, think we are being certainly not very smart in voting "aye" on a piece of legislation which admittedly and has been admitted in this House this afternoon is not in order. It is not right. It even contradicts itself. I think if we have to run this bill this afternoon the members of this House should defeat it.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Steckel.

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, consent to be interrogated?

Mr. KORNICK. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, I have two questions. Will the gentleman agree that under the present law the second-class township or the borough determines its own rate of compensation for the tax collectors in its district?

Mr. KORNICK. I do, sir.

Mr. STECKEL. Now, under this bill, will it not be necessary for the local township supervisors or the borough council to first procure an agreement with the county commissioners before they can set their rates?

Mr. KORNICK. No, sir. That is not true.

Mr. STECKEL. That is not true?

Mr. KORNICK. That is right.

Mr. STECKEL. But does not the amendment require that they shall meet at the call of the county commissioners?

Mr. KORNICK. It says they shall meet and certainly agree, but it does not mean they have to accept the decision of the county commissioners.

Mr. STECKEL. Well, at any rate, will the gentleman agree that the local township or borough can no longer on their own initiative, wthout first meeting with the county commissioners, change the rate, either salary or commission or whatever it be?

Mr. KORNICK. Will you repeat the question again?

Mr. STECKEL. I will.

To restate it: presently the township or the borough decides in its own meeting what the rate of return shall be for the tax collector.

Mr. KORNICK. That is right.

Mr. STECKEL. Under this bill they are required to have some sort of an agreement or a meeting or something of that nature with the county commissioners. Therefore, they do not determine the new rate on their own initiative and by their own passage. Is that correct?

Mr. KORNICK. No. The amendment says the respective taxing authorities shall meet at the call of the county commissioners at a time prior to the last day permitted by law for the fixing of the tax collectors' commission and shall severally agree at that time to the commission, salary or wages to be paid the tax collector.

They can certainly set their own commission or salary; the commission can do the same thing; and the authority can do the same thing. The only thing is, you cannot compel or make someone agree to something that they do not want. I thoroughly agree.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Greene rise?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know if the gentleman from Lehigh would like to have me clear a point on the bill for him?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Lehigh yields to the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. There is no disagreement that this bill pertains only to boroughs and townships. That is what the proposed legislation deals with. The taxing bodies in the boroughs and townships are three of a kind. It is either a borough council, a board of supervisors of the township, or the school district. There are no other taxing bodies in that class of government.

At the present time there is no law that permits a tax collector to be paid a salary. That is agreed. The tax collector is paid a commission. That commission can be from zero to five percent. That is now the law. That commission is determined by the taxing body, the taxing body being the council, the supervisors, or the school board.

Under Mr. Kornick's amendment, if I follow this correctly, the county commissioners would call the taxing authorities, taxing authorities being borough councils, supervisors, to a meeting. Now, if I follow the next part clearly, my township, under this bill if it were law, could still, if they so decided and they have the right now, pay the tax collector a commission, that commission being from zero to five percent, determined by them.

But if they decided to eliminate the commission and pay the salary, they would set the salary of the tax collector. Now the question of salary in there becomes the question of more than one political subdivision meeting together to determine. Take our legislative district with twenty townships and six boroughs. Each of them would fall into this bill. Would they have to meet together, all of them, and determine together? My opinion was that they did not. They would meet but they would determine separately, each one of them, what they wanted to do.

Now I believe I have tried to cover the points of the amendments placed in this bill by Mr. Kornick as it appears on the House calendar.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Lehigh, Mr. Steckel.

Mr. STECKEL. Mr. Speaker, I thank the majority leader.

Under the present situation the school districts already had the rgiht to pay their tax collector a salary rather than a commission, and to do this they are not required to meet with the county commissioners.

Now, we give, under this bill, as I understand it, the right to the townships and the boroughs, requiring, however, that they must first meet with the commissioners, even though they may theoretically come to a different tax rate in different townships.

But we are requiring of the townships and the boroughs, before they determine a salary rather than a commission, something which is not required of the school district presently.

Can the majority leader explain why this restriction is put on townships and boroughs and not on the school districts?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

I cannot answer the question directly but we are in the municipal election year. We are now in sufficient time. I do not know that I can answer for Mr. Kornick the exact schedule of this, but now candidates are circulating their petitions for tax collectors in their respective political subdivisions, boroughs and townships.

At this point, if I follow the bill, the withdrawal date becomes an important date as well as filing your petitions. Carefully check this and see.

Now if you are a candidate for tax collector, you are a candidate for a job that pays so much money. This is what the present tax collector receives. In some cases we will say, there would be some $500 on commissions to, perhaps, $20,000. I would not know the highest. But if this were law, the taxing authority could change the salary, which they do not have the right to do now. Therefore, if you did not want to become a candidate under the change, you could withdraw. Does that tie into the dates right?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gnetleman from Lehigh, Mr. Steckel.

Mr. STECKEL. I thank the gentleman.

Actually, I am not concerned with the time element of the bill. I realize why the time is in there. I am simply questioning the addition of the paragraph requiring the extra negotiation of the county commissioners which procedure is not required of school districts when they place a salary on a tax collector's job rather than a commission. I am not discussing whether commissions or salaries are correct. I am simply trying to inquire as to why the procedures for setting the salary should not be the same for these municipalities as it is for the school districts, and I do not believe that requiring the joinder of the, or a meeting with, or whatever the terminology is, the county commissioners is any improvement on home rule as we know it presently. It is rather a restriction.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I do not know whether I am confused or whether the majority leader is confused, but I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I will.

Mr. FILO. Mr. McCann, did you state that where a taxing body would have to go before the county commissioners, in the case of a borough they would have to go before the county commissioners to set a salary? Did you make that statement?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I was talking about the amendment that is in the bill. If you will read carefully, it says, "at the call of the county commissioners," doesn't it?

Mr. FILO. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCANN. It says, "the taxing authorities." There are only two taxing authorities involved in this bill, borough councils and township supervisors.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, the county commissioners have no say whatsoever what the school board or the taxing boards in the various boroughs can put on for a tax collector. They do not regulate his commission. It is strictly up to the local borough, up to the people in the borough, the taxing authority, which Mr. McCann states. It is the school board and the council. I cannot see where the county commissioners should come into this act and set a standard of tax commissions or wages.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not think you can read that in the amendment that has been proposed here. No one can take away from the taxing authorities their right to set the commision now in law. That is vested solely in council and township supervisors.

Mr. FILO. That is what I was wondering.

Mr. McCANN. But it says at a meeting at the call of the commissioners. Now, the county commissioners, I suppose, say 10 townships and 15 boroughs cannot set anything. The only people who have the power to set it are the taxing authorities which this bill deals with. This bill deals only with council and township supervisors.

Mr. FILO. I completely disagree with the amendment of even having the county commissioners call a meeting. I think this should be up to the local municipalities, or the boroughs and townships. They can clean their own house and we do not have to do that for them. By the same token, I just read a good article, apropos here, in the Pittsburgh Post Gazette. I would like to read it. It might clarify the thinking of some of the members here. It says:

> "Scott Township Tax Collector Facing Cut. School Board Votes To Cut His Pay More Than Half."
> "The Scott Township School Board has voted to cut the income of the township tax collector in half, a move which would save the township an estimated $50,000 in the four-year term served by the tax collector.
> "Under the new plan, the collector could make up to $12,000 a year, $7,400 of which would be in salary and the remainder in commissions. The present tax collector makes $25,000 a year.
>
> "The new pay schedule would go into effect in 1962. The tax collector must run for election this November.
>
> "Commissioners to Vote.
> "Still to vote on the plan are the township commissioners, but indications are they will approve it because a joint committee from the School Board and the commissioners drew up the plan.
> "Richard McMurray, treasurer of the school board, said, 'The collector's job is not a $25,000 job.
>
> " 'The savings will be plowed back into the township's educational facilities,' he said.
> "McMurray described the plan as having a 'built in incentive' since some $4,600 of the salary will be in commissions.
> "The collector will receive a 10 percent commission on all collections in excess of 90 percent of the amount of tax collected in the previous years, except in the case of property tax.
>
> " 'This would put the bug on his back, so to speak, because the last 10 percent of the tax is the hardest to collect,' Mr. Murray explained."

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Bedford, Mr. Foor.

Mr. FOOR. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. FOOR. Mr. Speaker, may I ask what would happen under the provisions of this bill, if it became law, if the county commissioners neglected or refused to call such a meeting?

Mr. McCANN. I would say to you, Mr. Speaker, in trying to check that very point out, there are no provisions that say other than what the law says, they would have to hold the meeting. But if they did not hold one, I find no prohibitive or corrective measures. Isn't that right?

Mr. FOOR. Mr. Speaker, in that event then, could not the county commissioners sabotage the intent of this law by refusing or neglecting to call such a meeting?

Mr. McCANN. Except by the very fact that commissioners are public elected officials and it is my honest opinion that all public elected officials carry out whatever their solicitor interprets to be the law. This is what they try to do, and that is my honest answer.

Mr. FOOR. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, or the majority leader.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KORNICK. Just a minute, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann.

Mr. McCANN. We have a basic agreement worked out, but our timetable will not work out. In trying to remove the county commissioners' section, if I do this in trying to help the gentleman to straighten this out, tomorrow is the last legislative day this week. A bill cannot be voted on unless it is in print. In an effort to find an honest answer, I would like to propose a recommendation. I can have the amendments prepared in the evening, which will take out this item. Those amendments would do this, remove the county commissioners' part. If the House will permit me, I can prepare it tonight and insert it in the bill and have it printed for the purpose of being on the calendar to be voted on; otherwise it is all over with.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Do we understand that you mean to remove that whole section on the county commissioners?

Mr. McCANN. It is my understanding that in their conferences they have agreed to amend out the section dealing with the county commissioners.

Can I revert? Mr. Parliamentarian, can you answer this question: If a bill is now amended to its original position, to its previous print number, can I, even though it has a new print number but is word for word as in its original position, vote on a printed bill which has a previous print number?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. TOMPKINS. I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. TOMPKINS. If the proposal is to strike out an amendment which has been inserted instead of to add to it or to change it, can that then be done without the necessity of reprinting the bill?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair would like to inquire from the majority and minority leaders if there presently is in print a bill which accomplishes the very thing they are trying to do by amendment? The Chair has been informed there is such a bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has been informed that if the original printer's number is in print as the bill is desired to be now with the amendment, which would strike out the material that has been inserted by the House, that that bill is now in print and we could vote on that particular bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, after I have checked the effective date and number of the statutory act, it would not be effective for 60 days, or until September. Therefore, I would still have to amend to get to the position that we are talking about. So there is only one answer, only one answer, that I ask this House to allow me to present and draw amendments to strike out everything, as agreed, to place in the effective date so this act shall take effect immediately, and that bill would be in a position to be voted on tomorrow in printed form. Then the Senate could concur in it on Monday and it can be signed into law. Otherwise, it is no good after Tuesday.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Does that still give them the time element that is necessary for them to comply?

Mr. McCANN. It is my understanding that Tuesday is the so-called dead-line, and that when it passes it is over with.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, once before in this session we had an amended bill placed on our desk 15 minutes after the amendments were offered. I do not see any particular objection to that being done.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. For what purpose does the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs, rise?

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, to ask permission to interrogate the majority leader to determine if I understand what he is doing here.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Greene, Mr. McCann, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, do I understand the majority leader agrees to put this bill back in the position it was when it left the Senate?

Mr. McCANN. Yes, except on page 3, the last line, which says, "This act shall take effect immediately," must be in this bill. All other new material placed in the bill, in the amended Senate bill, would be removed except, "This act shall take effect immediately."

Mr. TOMPKINS. How about reducing the ten days to two days? That is an amendment that has to stay in the bill.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, can one of us talk at a time, please?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The House will be in order. The gentleman from Delaware has the floor.

Mr. McCANN. Will the gentleman repeat his question, Mr. Speaker?

Mr. ISAACS. My question was: Is the majority leader, under what he said, going to put this bill back in the same position as it was when it came over here from the Senate? I think his answer was very clear, he was, with the exception of the effective date. Am I correct?

Mr. McCANN. That is right. Then some of my fine legal counsel, Mr. Williams and others, tell me that I must take into consideration the two days' section, which is line 14. Is that right? Other than that, it would remove all other items in the bill.

Mr. ISAACS. I think well of the gentleman's side talent, Mr. Speaker, but if I may interject, up until now they have really murdered this bill, so I do not know whether the gentleman should listen to them or not. But if that is what the majority leader can do, I have no objection, I think that is what we should vote on.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Lippincott.

Mr. LIPPINCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I still say there is a very easy way out of this whole thing, and that is merely to allow the change in compensation ten days before candidates can withdraw from the November election. This would solve the whole problem.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Would that still qualify under the Constitution, Mr. Speaker, regarding what the ————

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker——I ask unanimous consent for the majority and minority leaders to prepare amendments to Senate bill 178 and have the bill printed tonight.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Without objection from the floor, the Chair will rule that the majority and minority leaders shall prepare the amendments and have the bill in proper form for consideration tomorrow.

Will the House give its unanimous consent to have the majority and the minority leaders prepare amendments and have the bill printed?

The Chair hears no objection.

The Chair will wthdraw its decision as to the bill having been agreed to on third reading.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. WALSH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, on January 23, 1961, I introduced in this House, House Resolution No. 11. I considered it very, very important to the safety and the welfare of the Country. At that time, I was asked by the University of Pittsburgh to allow them to make their own investigation prior to pressing this resolution. I consented to that. That was on January 25. Now, on March 3, 1961, I received a letter from Phillip H. Powers, the Assistant Chancellor of Development, University of Pittsburgh, as follows:

"Dear Mr. Walsh:

"The purpose of this letter is to inform you concerning the status of the Colodny investigation and an estimate of the ensuing timetable.

"As you know, a search of this kind has of necessity to reach all across the United States and involve scores of people. While we have usually had excellent cooperation and response, it takes much time to get replies from so many sources and to explore all of the leads. While there are still a number of people to be heard from and some additional leads to be searched out, we now feel that by the end of March we will have completed our correct collection of information, including our final discussion with Colodny, and our counsel will have put together a summary of all material accumulated.

"Our committee working with counsel will then undertake to incorporate in the report the facts so found. We hope to submit this report to the Chancellor of the University of Pittsburgh by mid-April.

"Respectfully yours,
P. H. Powers"

Mr. Speaker, you thanked me for being patient. I think I am very patient. I think I am very patient in waiting from January until March to hear from them. I feel that the University of Pittsburgh could have received this information a whole lot faster, had they so desired. I am going to be a gentleman and accede to their request and wait.

Since this has been made public, I have been besieged by quite a few people, by telephone calls, and by letters asking me what has become of the Colodny investigation. They assume it is going to be a whitewash, and they assume that I have dropped it. For that purpose I make these statements today.

COMMITTEE MEETINGS

APPROPRIATIONS, Mr. Polen, chairman, Room 245, Wednesday, March 8, at 9:00 a.m.

STATE GOVERNMENT, Mr. Fineman, chairman, Room 522, Wednesday, March 8, at 9:45 a.m.

RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS

Messrs. REIDENBACH and NEEDHAM offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was read, considered and unanimously adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 7, 1961.

It is with much regret that we here in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are called upon to part company with so sterling a character as Anthony Joseph Drexel Biddle, Adjutant General of this State since 1955. His span of public service covers the years from the beginning of World War I, except for a brief period of private business, down to the present time. Once again public service beckons him not in any new venture but in one that he already has distinguished himself to a very marked degree, this time as Ambassador to Spain.

His record of public service covers the fields of the military and diplomatic service, distinguishing himself in both fields. His accomplishments are too well known and the acknowledgements by his native State, by our Nation, and by the many fooreign governments that have been recipients of his labors, are indelibly recorded in history's pages so as to make repetition here a useless gesture.

We will miss General Biddle; we will miss his warm friendship; we will miss the helping hand that he has always offered to those in need of his services; we will miss that insatiable desire which is inherent in him to be of public service; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives hereby commends General Anthony Joseph Drexel Biddle for the many services he has performed for this his native State as well as our Nation. We wish him God's speed in his new venture in Spain. We regret his leaving us, but our loss is our national government's gain and we look forward to the day of his return to again be our neighbor and friend; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to General Biddle.

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. ELVEY. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Wednesday, March 8, 1961, at 10 a. m., e. s. t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 5:44 p. m., e. s. t.), the House adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, March 8, 1961

The House met at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) in the Chair.

PRAYER

Dr. Martin L. Tozer, Superintendent of Synodical Home Missions and Church Planning of the Lutheran Church of the Central Pennsylvania Synod, guest Chaplain and guest of the House Chaplain, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, the Father of all mankind, hear the prayers of Thy children in all places and conditions of life. Accept the gratitude we render unto Thee for all the blessings of Thy grace. Look with forgiving love, we pray, upon us in this our day. The evidences of Thy love and powers are all about us.

Hear the petitions of our hearts and grant Thy protection and care upon us. Grant us a sense of obligation and duty to Thee and our fellowmen and then the strength to accept that duty as an opportunity to render service to our neighbors and all in our communities.

Grant us we pray, the keen insights necessary to distinguish personal desires from community good, right from wrong, and lead us to make the right decisions and proper judgments for the people of this Commonwealth and our beloved County.

Grant that we may be the instruments of Thy power and that delegated to us by our fellowmen to prevent injustice, evil and delinquency among us so that we may live together in the peaceful pursuits of happiness and righteousness all our days.

These things and whatsoever we may ask in the silence of our hearts grant unto us we pray, not because we are deserving, but because of the merits of Jesus Christ, Thy Son our Lord. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVAL POSTPONED

The SPEAKER. If there is no objection, the approval of the Journal for Tuesday, March 7, 1961, will be postponed until printed.

The Chair hears none.

By Messrs. GRAMLICH, DAVIS, MAGEE and HELM.
(Concurrent) RESOLUTION No. 36.

In the House of Representatives, March 7, 1961.

Economic growth has within recent years been widely propagandized both from a National as well as a State standpoint. One of the vital factors is the flow of commerce from one section of the country to other sections. Every facility, both natural and man made for the movement of commercial and industrial products, is essential to this economic growth.

We have in northwestern Pennsylvania a natural waterway which is not being utilized. This natural waterway is the Allegheny River which flows through the northwest section of this State. This river flows near the oil fields of this State and either through or close to many large centers of our State industrial empire, before joining with the Monongahela to form the Ohio. The Allegheny is potentially a strong facility for water borne shipments but only potentially because of the lack of slack water improvements which has been for many years promoted by the Allegehny River Valley Improvement Association.

Ironically this northwest community is handicapped by undeveloped transport services, especially along the Upper Allegheny Valley. If this area is to enjoy its full economic growth, its natural waterway must be developed; therefore be it

Resolved, (the Senate concurring), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact such legislation and appropriate such funds as may be necessary to build at least two dams between East Brady, Clarion County, Pennsylvania, and Oil City, Venango County, Pennsylvania; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the presiding officers of each House of the Congress of the United States, and to each Senator and Representative from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

DEMOCRAT CAUCUS

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to ask for a 30-minute caucus and ask the members to bring their calendars with them. We have marked the bills on which we desire to caucus. Upon return from caucus we will proceed straight through and finish today's session.

I yield to the minority leader.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, may I suggest that amendments to Senate bill 178, on page 15, be offered at this time in order that the bill may be printed in time for our consideration when we come back.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, we did offer the amendments and the bill is now being printed.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I just wanted to be sure you got your 15 minutes in on that one.

The SPEAKER. Is there a Republican caucus?

REPUBLICAN CAUCUS

Mr. TOMPKINS. We will have a Republican caucus for one-half hour. Bring your calendars with you, please. We will go to the caucus room immediately so we will not lose too much time.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I request all the Democratic House members to bring their calendars with them and come to caucus. If everyone comes right away, we can start and the sooner you will get back here and get done today.

RECESS

The SPEAKER. Without objection, the Chair will declare a recess of one-half hour for the purpose of Democratic and Republican caucuses.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up Senate bill No. 178, bill on final passage.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has been informed that the electric roll call is temporarily indisposed. It will therefore be necessary to resort to primitive practices and call the roll name by name. We also, with the permission of the floor leaders, will resort to a fast roll call on bills on which there is very little opposition.

Mr. McCANN. We cannot have it fixed in a few minutes, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The experts say no, they cannot get it fixed. They have been working on it all night. There is one station, apparently, that went on the blink yesterday and affected the other stations.

The bill before the House is Senate bill 178, printer's No. 375.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of Senate bill No. 178, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 25, 1949 (P. L. 1050) entitled "Local Tax Collection Law" further regulating compensation of tax collectors in boroughs and townships of the second class.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Fayette, Mr. Kornick.

Mr. KORNICK. Mr. Speaker, I want to inform the members that the bill has been amended as per the request of many of the members, and, as far as debate, I think we did all the debating that is necessary yesterday. Therefore, I ask that the bill be voted on.

Mr. FETTEROLF. Mr. Speaker, in looking over this legislation which we are about to vote on, it comes to my mind that the last day for a candidate to withdraw is March 20. This bill provides that the local taxing authorities of either the boroughs or the townships must arrive at either a commission or a wage for the tax collector two days prior to the last date of withdrawal, which would be the 18th of March.

If we pass this bill today and on Monday it goes to the other body for concurrence in the amendments, it would seem to me that the Governor, in order to make this law, would have to sign the bill sometime prior to Saturday.

I give this preface because I understand that in recent days the Governor has not been in his office. I understand he is in Florida on a vacation. I am anxious to know from the majority leader if the Governor, in the event this bill passes the House and is concurred in by the Senate, will be back in time to sign it so this will be effective at the primary of this year?

The SPEAKER. Will the Majority Leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall be most pleased to answer.

I cannot say whether the Governor will sign or veto the bill, but I do know that the bills will be flown to Florida for signature. I have asked to make the trip and they tell me I am not the right person.

Mr. Speaker, we will have then a verbal roll call.

The SPEAKER. That is right. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, if there is to be any courier to Florida, I think the minority whip should be sent down to assure the Governor that there has been no oposition to the legislation.

The SPEAKER. If the minority whip will agree to stay down there for a four weeks' vacation, we will have it arranged.

Mr. McCANN. This is the first roll call and a slow roll call. Ring the bell again, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I would like to inquire if our roll call is done by way of radar?

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows:

Mr. TOMPKINS. In connection with the bill just voted on, Senate bill No. 178, I would like to offer for the record the following letter.

The SPEAKER. The letter will be spread upon the record.

March 2, 1961

Honorable Edwin W. Tompkins,
House of Representatives
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania

Dear Mr. Tompkins:

Your letter of March 1, 1961, addressed to the Attorney General, has been referred to me for attention.

Senate Bill No. 178, Printer's No. 184, amends the Act of May 25, 1945, P. L. 1050, known as the "Local Tax Collection Law", 72 P. S. Sections 5511.1 et seq.

Section 3 of the act, 72 P. S. Section 5511.3, provides in subsection (d) as follows:

"The provisions of this act shall not repeal or supply any local or special act."

This provision was in the original local Tax Collection Law and has not been repealed.

It is, therefore, my opinion that the Act of March 4, 1867, P. L. 306, which was enacted prior to our present Constitution, will not be affected by Senate Bill No. 178.

Sincerely yours,
Harrington Adams,
Deputy Attorney General.

CC: Honorable Herbert Fineman

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 336, entitled:

An Act repealing the act of May 24, 1917 (P. L. 266) entitled "An act regulating the packing of apples providing penalties for violations and imposing certain duties upon the Department of Agriculture".

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, House bill No. 336 repeals the apple act of 1917, P. L. 266, which act is for the protection of the public in the marketing of apples. The provisions of this act are not fully covered by any later statute of Pennsylvania. The marketing act of 1943, P. L. 412, regulates the marketing of grapes, potatoes, apples and peaches, but this act of 1943 does not require designation of variety and size of apples, whereas, the apple act of 1917, P. L. 266, does require designation of variety and size of apples in marketing. Since taste and flavor of apples are frequently determined by variety, the labeling of the variety is a very important fact to the purchaser. A beautiful apple may have an undesirable taste.

The purchaser also needs to know the variety in order to determine the usage of the apple. For example, a Ben Davis apple is fit for baking, a Stayman Winesap is good for shipping, a Summer Rambo makes the best apple sauce, and a Paradise is excellent to eat from the tree.

In general, the labeling of the variety will help prevent any possible concealment of the quality of the apples. It is also possible that the removal of the requirement to designate size may seriously affect the grading of apples.

I say, Mr. Speaker, that at a time when the administration is claiming to want to promote the marketing of apples under its apple tax bill, which is a companion bill to this bill, the administration is now attempting to lower the standards of the apples to be marketed by letting any size of apple be sealed into a box or crate without even informing the public of the variety.

Just what is the administration trying to do by its apple program?

Mr. Speaker, I say to you that this act of 1917 should not be repealed and that it is in the interests of the general public to retain this apple act of 1917 as a part of the statutory law of this Commonwealth.

I ask you to vote "no" on House bill No. 336.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the Majority Leader.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, House bill 336, dealing with the apple law, as the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, states is not being used in Pennsylvania at the present time, and what the administration is trying to do is exactly what the apple growers, the wholesalers and the public want and nothing more. Trying to do something that the apple growers want is exactly what they have proposed—and no one else. In fact, in this very field that you are quite familiar with, evidently being an expert in the field of apple growing, the apple growers in Pennsylvania for a great number of years have attempted to enact the marketing law which will be before this House in a matter of a few days, since it was reported from committee and recommitted to the Committee on Appropriations and will be returned from the Committee on Appropriations to the House to be debated and voted on in the very near future.

There is no question that there are two laws on the books now, Public Law 412 of May 21, 1943, and Public Law 266 of May 24, 1917. House Bill 336 deals with Public Law 266 of May 24, 1917. Now, a recent survey, and the gentleman from Adams knows this, indicates that, of all the other States in the Union dealing in this field, Pennsylvania, along with other States, is a great apple-producing State. Now, if Pennsylvania's position is right, then the other States' position is not correct. If Pennsylvania's position is wrong, the other States' position may be right. This survey was conducted, and it is pretty well assumed that the Department has adopted a policy and does adopt a policy about the film container being a closed package. The marketing law alone takes care of this situation.

You have a comparison of these two laws in your possession. You have Public Law 266 of 1917 and Public Law 412 of 1943, and I was given to understand that you have in your possession a direct comparison of the features of each of the two laws. It would seem to me that if the people who produce apples, who grow apples, the wholesalers and the marketing public would be satisfied to repeal the one law that is not being used, it would make sense to repeal same.

It is also my understanding that additional debate will be had on some of these points when the marketing law bill will be before this House dealing with the apple industry, although it will very likely include other industries, perhaps the Pennsylvania Red Cherry Growers Association, which desires to be considered under the proposed apple law which will be before the House in the very near future.

I would like to say to the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, that the administration is trying to do exactly what it said it would do, and nothing more, and that is, that it wants to help Pennsylvania people in each of these fields. There is no effort, there will be none, to attempt by any legislation to impose upon those people something that they do not want themselves. The communications I have received on this clearly indicate their desire to have the one law repealed, which this House bill 336, printer's No. 365, proposes.

I believe your position is reversed from what it should be, but that is your prerogative and you may speak and vote as you please. We, in turn, clearly believe this is what the people indicated they wanted and we are going by their recommendations. The Department of Agriculture has indicated they also desire to go along exactly with those recommendations.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the majority leader what growers want this repealer? I have had no individual growers tell me that they want this repealer, that is, House bill 336.

How is this bill going to promote the marketing of apples? The administration, in House bill 337, is attempting, they claim, to promote the marketing of apples when, under this very bill, they are doing nothing but cutting down the standards for the promotion of apples. What they are doing here, actually, is allowing you to take any kind of apple and seal it and not label it as to variety. What protection is that for the general public?

This law of 1917, known as the apple act, is a protection to the general public. It is not only a good thing for the rural areas, but to you members who live in the city areas it is a very important piece of legislation. It is for your general protection.

And now, if you are talking about the Department of Agriculture, yes, I have an analysis from Mr. Rainey and it says there is a division of opinion as to whether this bill should be repealed. If you have a copy, it contains the same.

This law of 1917, members of this House, is a protection to the general public of this Commonwealth. I ask the members to keep it on the statute books. The administration is claiming they are promoting apples by the two companion bills, but they are doing just the opposite in this from what they claim they are doing in the other bill. In the other bill, they claim they are promoting the marketing of apples by the apple tax, and so on. And I am not even for that. House bill 337. This bill 336 does just the opposite. You are cutting down standards. You are saying you do not have to mark varieties, you are saying you do not need to mark size, and you are going to take that kind of a product, any old kind of a product and seal it, without knowing the size and without knowing the variety. Then you say you are going to promote a great Pennsylvania product.

Ladies and gentlemen, I ask you to vote down this bill.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I have never seen such vim and vigor from that man from Adams County in my years in this House until today.

May I say that when he protesteth so loud, he doesn't have the facts.

The SPEAKER. Might I remind the majority leader that he is familiar with the kind of apples out of which you make apple sauce.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I can see very easily by the gentleman's remarks that he is not even for the proposed legislation, because he stated so. Now, who is for such legislation? I do not know the names of the apple growers by name, but I know that they do have a statewide organization. I do know that they are members voluntarily, and no other way; that they do belong to such an association; and that they pay their own money and dues, belonging to it; and that they are the ones who proposed this, and no one else. So there must be some by name, including some who live in Adams County who grow apples as an agricultural industry and who belong to that organization.

In addition, you say clearly that the law as now used is on the books. Are the apples now marked in the containers as you indicate? Would you say that the apples are now clearly defined on the boxes or containers as they are shipped all over the United States? Or would you say that they are shipped as apples in classification? Would you care to say as to every grower or every shipper of apples that the law that has been on the books has been enforced in any way? Would you say there is anyone attempting to enforce it? Or would you say that the Department of Agriculture has been trying to work with those people who grow apples and want to ship them without those markings on the box, even though the law says that this is what they are supposed to do? Those would be questions that you should know the answers to, being an apple grower from an apple county, a great county in Pennsylvania.

These things are questions that we put to you, and you know very distinctly the answer to each question. Your position today would be one that would make us believe that by repealing this act we are trying to degrade or hurt this great industry. Perhaps you have the better thinking of all the apple-growing industry than does the association to which they belong. I will have to accept the recommendation of those people who are in that industry, who belong to a statewide organization of their own choosing, who spend their own money and ask for this legislation. Even under the bill that you are going to be against, it will be definitely their own money, their own money that they want to spend in promoting this great Pennsylvania product, these apples. I think they know something about what they are talking about and I will accept their decision.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not like needlessly to take up the time of this House, but in regard to the majority leader's remarks, I think his major premise is wrong in assuming that all the fruit growers or apple growers want this bill or the companion bill, the apple tax bill. I think his major premise is wrong.

I know that the Fruit Growers' Association of Pennsylvania has gone on record in favor of this bill. I also know that the Farmers' Association lobbyists have contacted me against this bill. I also know that many members of the Fruit Growers' Association who live in Adams County have contacted me to vote against this bill. I know they have told me that they sat in the meeting in York, Pennsylvania, and because of a few big ones wanting to push it down their throats they did not like to say anything, and they said, "Francis you say it for us," and I will.

They do not want this bill. I know that there are just a few big fellows who want to push it down their throats. I know the Adams County Fruit Growers' Association went on record in favor of it. But I can find you fruit growers in Adams County who are not for it. And I tell you the general public is not for an apple tax, too. If you want to vote to put an apple tax on the people of this Commonwealth, and there are very few growers who do not want it, you go ahead and do it. This bill is contrary to what you said you were going to do in House bill 337.

I am against this bill because they are inconsistent, and I am also against the apple tax.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I have been trying to get the floor for a half hour.

Mr. TOMPKINS. I will yield to the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority floor leader.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority floor leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I shall.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, for the enlightenment of the House members, we city slickers who do not know anything about apples or how to make apple sauce would like to ask one question so I may vote intelligently on this bill without looking up the past act and what it did and what it did not do.

Mr. McCann, is this bill intended to protect the apple growers, or is it intended as a protection for the general public?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, both acts, the act of 1917 and the act of 1943, when they were written into law, were without a doubt written with the intention of helping to promote and protect the apple industry of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. There are two acts on the books dealing with the very same subject, two specific laws, one of 1917 and one of 1943. If you are asking me if they were written at that time to protect the public, my answer would be: I believe they would be written to help the apple industry in an effort to give to the public a better grade or choice of apples. As far as protecting the public, I would not know that the public had written either one, but there are two acts covering the very same subject and the comparison of the two acts is clearly in Mr. Worley's hands.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman.

Then, according to your answer, Mr. McCann, the end result of this legislation would be not only a protection to the apple growers and producers but to the general public so that they may know what grade of apple they are buying? In other words, they are not buying a pig in a poke, is that correct?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman's question as to what the public buys now in apples I could not answer, because the 1943 law was called the marking law. The 1917 law was called the apple law. Marking requirements, the lettering, facing of packages, the general misrepresentation, the penalty was somewhat similar in some sections, entirely opposite in other sections, but today, right today, the public of Pennsylvania can buy apples in more ways than one. You can buy apples now in any supermarket in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that are not graded as to size, or you can buy apples that are graded. You can buy select apples or you can buy apples that are mixed. There is no question that when you buy a better grade of apple, a selected apple, the public pays more for that product than it does for a mixed size apple, the same as a thousand other items. As far as the public is concerned, it is my honest opinion that the public gets from Pennsylvania the best Pennsylvania apples in the respective grades that they pay for and desire to pay for.

Mr. MAXWELL. I thank the gentleman.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron, Mr. Tompkins.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I do not know anything about fruit growing or apple growing, and I am rapidly getting the impression that if one little apple can cause so much trouble I wonder whether I want to look another apple in the face. The majority leader made a statement which leaves me under the impression that one of the reasons why they want this bill, which is a repealer, is because of the fact that the act is not being enforced, and to me that is a very poor reason why they want to repeal legislation. If it is a bill which has been put down for the protection of the public as well as the apple grower, then I say to you, enforce it.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, to clear a couple points. Will the gentleman consent to be interrogated?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Adams permit himself to be interrogated by the majority leader?

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein.

Mr. McCANN. I would ask the gentleman from Allegheny County, Mr. Goldstein, if the Adams County Apple Producers' Association—

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I have no fear about speaking in this civil war between the apple growers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I have one farmer in my district and he has confidence in the legislature. I have 28,000 registered voters and 54,000 residents who are interested in eating the right kind of apples, whether it is in apple sauce or whether it is in the form of a product made by some of the manufacturers in the various counties in the immediate area of Harrisburg.

I have the bill before me and it seems as though the legislation was passed for the benefit of the public and that a duty was imposed upon the Secretary of Agriculture to enforce this legislation. Now if we have no supplementary legislation intended to take the place of this act, then I say the public will be hoodwinked, and let me speak on behalf of all the farmers of Pennsylvania who do not reside in my district and also the consumers and give you the first paragraph of this act, which reads as follows: "that every closed package containing apples grown in the State of Pennsylvania which is sold, offered, or consigned for sale, packed for sale, or shipped for sale, shall bear upon the outside of one end in plain letters, or figures, or both, the name and address of the person by whose authority the apples were packed, the true name of the variety therein contained and the minimum size or numerical count of the fruit in the package." Then the act further goes on to recite the tolerance which is allowed, and I say to you, Mr. Speaker and Mr. Majority Leader, is this not legislation in the interest of the average public? I am really intrigued to know why an act of this character is being repealed, so please give me an answer and tell me why the public is not being considered in this particular legislation?

Mr. McCANN. I will be most pleased to. If the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, and he is a very able attorney, will go to his public laws, he will find Public Law 412 in 1943. It is the act of May 21. This act is the public law of 1917, Public Law 266, May 24, 1917. The two acts, one is called the apple law and the other is called the marking law. The 1943 law is the marking law. The 1943 law is the law which the Department of Agriculture is using, Mr. Speaker. They are. There are two acts on the books and I would certainly say that both of the acts, both the act of 1917 and the act of 1943, without a doubt, in the wisdom of the people who enacted that law, were enacted to get on the Pennsylvania market Pennsylvania apples that would be healthful to the Pennsylvania consumer, because the apples they shipped from Pennsylvania to other States fell under other laws than Pennsylvania laws, the same as the apples that were being shipped from the State of Virginia and west coast into the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. So I would say to you that in my honest, humble opinion, by repealing, one, the 1917 act, which is House bill 336, that you still have adequate law protection under public law 412 of May 21, 1943.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have before me the act of 1943. The gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, contends that it does not embrace apples.

I therefore now move, because I am confused, that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar so we can get an intelligent decision from the apple growers of Pennsylvania.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will go along with the motion if I am permitted to clear a couple of points before we vote on the bill on Monday.

I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, withdraws his motion temporarily.

The majority leader will proceed.

Mr. McCANN. Would the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, care to divulge to the House, in any way that he sees fit, the apple growers, whom he named in generalities as being a couple of large ones stuffing it down their throats? Would he care to name who they are by name? I assume they are important industrialists in Adams County.

Mr. WORLEY. I will not divulge names, because I do not know whether they want me to on the floor of this House.

Mr. McCANN. All right. Mr. Speaker, I would also like to ask the gentleman from Adams County, is there an organization within Adams County that you represent in this industry?

Mr. WORLEY. Is there an organization that I represent?

Mr. McCANN. You represent Adams County, sir. Is there an organization in your county?

Mr. WORLEY. I try to represent all the people of Adams County.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am trying to be serious now. You represent Adams County. You are the elected official in this House from that county.

Mr. WORLEY. I am serious, too.

Mr. McCANN. Is there a county-wide apple growers' association in Adams County?

Mr. WORLEY. There is an Adams County Fruit Growers' Association.

Mr. McCANN. Is that organiaztion a bone fide organization in Adams County?

Mr. WORLEY. I would certainly have no reason to think otherwise.

Mr. McCANN. Would you care to indicate their position either in support or against this legislation?

Mr. WORLEY. Will the gentleman repeat his question, please? I did not quite get the last part of it.

Mr. McCANN. If such an organization exists in Adams County, which it does, would you indicate to this House whether that organiaztion favors or opposes this legislation?

Mr. WORLEY. I have a letter from its secretary, Mr. Beamer, which states that the organization went on record as favoring the bill, that is, House bill 337. I do not recall whether it includes this bill we have here, or not. I do not have the letter before me, but that goes back to my former remarks, that a good many members are not for it, as well as people who are not members, as well as people who are members of the general public. As you know, I am the representative of all the people over there. I try to be to the best of my ability, so we cannot go by what a few want.

You are doing the interrogating, so I will wait until you get through, then I will ask you something.

Mr. McCANN. I can see, Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is on the hot seat, and no matter how he straddles the fence, the organization also indicated to the Department of Agriculture and to me that they favor this legislation. It was my understanding that you received such communique from them, signed by a secretary, designated as the secretary of that organization, and they also have a statewide organization to which these people belong, stating that they favor this legislation.

The only other question I want to ask you is: Is the Adams County Fruit Growers Association a part of the state organization?

Mr. WORLEY. Is the Adams County Fruit Growers' Association a part of the state organization? First, before I answer that question, I would like to state in regard to what the gentleman said, I am not on any hot spot, I know about the organization's letter, I have one from the Adams County Fruit Growers' Association. But what I am saying is that there are many people involved who are not for it, and if the gentleman investigates he will find many are not for it. How about the fruit growers who are not members of the organization? There are a great many who are members, too, who are not for this bill.

Mr. McCANN. Now, would you answer the question, whether they are members of the organization or not?

Mr. WORLEY. Of the state? I assume they are. I am not certain about that.

Mr. McCANN. You assume they are?

Mr. WORLEY. I am not certain. I cannot answer that question. I think they are, but I am not certain.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman very kindly.

The SPEAKER. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goldstein, for a motion.

Mr. M. H. GOLDSTEIN. Mr. Speaker, I am not going to pursue the motion. The debate has been between Mr. Worley and Mr. McCann. Whatever these gentlemen wish to do is up to them.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Adams rise?

Mr. WORLEY. If we are still debating House bill 336, I would like to clear up a point raised by the majority leader.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order, unless it is the purpose of someone to make a motion to put this bill on the postponed calendar.

Mr. WORLEY. I understand that motion has been—

The SPEAKER. That has been withdrawn, but if it is to be remade by any member of the House, the Chair would not know. But, if the motion is to come, there is no reason why we should extend the present debate.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I am going to make the motion. I was yielding to Mr. Goldstein to have that privilege since he first indicated that, but I have cleared my points and I will have the additional material now for the debate on the bill and I would like to make the necessary motion.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Blair desire to be recognized now, prior to the making of the—

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Auker.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I can now, if the gentleman from Greene will yield for just a minute—

Mr. McCANN. I will, sir.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I am not concerned so much with the apples concerned here. I am concerned with the consumer, the public, and I am also very much concerned with the principle of legislation involved here. As I understand it, there is another bill to be introduced that will surpass—supplement—this law which intends to repeal the act of 1917. Now, I am wondering why, if that act is going to take the place of this act, that is the new act that is going to be proposed and which, supposedly, is to strengthen the apple growing industry and, I suppose, to strengthen the right of the consumer to be protected. Why do we not wait until that act is introduced and passed, and then repeal this act. Then we can vote intelligently and know just what act is going to be introduced and passed, supposedly in this House, to take the place of this act. Why this haste to put a repealer in before the other act is trotted out on the floor of this House so that we can see what it is and know what it is all about? That is why I think this bill ought to be tabled and kept tabled and on the postponed calendar until the other act is brought out, so that we know what we are talking about.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the motion to place this bill on the postponed calendar would have a priority over previous debate.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the final passage postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman rise?

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this motion. We went through all this debate. I think we should vote this bill down today. We have had an explanation on it. The matter that the majority leader is raising, saying that this bill is covered by a subsequent act of 1943, is true in part, but it does not cover the matter—

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, ask him to stay with the question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say there is nothing but the matter before the House. The question is to place this bill upon the postponed calendar.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I wish the House to know that I ask that they support this motion. House bill 337 wlil come out of the Appropriation Committee and it will be voted and debated before 336.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Heavey, rise?

Mr. HEAVEY. Mr. Speaker, I would like to see this voted on now. I love the gentleman from Adams County and the way he has opposed the bill. I have not seen so much action since they tried to put a hot dog stand in my neighborhood!

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, for the information of the membership, I will not be outmaneuvered parliamentarily. If you vote it and it falls, we will vote with you and we will bring it back.

You are wasting your own time. You do as you please.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Whereupon, a division was called for, sixty-eight members having voted in the affirmative and seventy-one in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION TO LAY BILL ON TABLE

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that the bill be laid upon the table.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The SPEAKER. A motion to place the bill upon the table is not debatable. Change the motion.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Cameron.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we will take the same vote upon this motion.

The SPEAKER. The minority leader has expressed the desire to take the same roll call. Shall we then ask for a division?

Whereupon, a division was called for, seventy-three members having voted in the affirmative and seventy-eight in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House bill 336, printer's No. 365, be recommitted to the Committee on Rules.

The SPEAKER. The question before the House is the recommitting of this bill to the Committee on Rules. It is debatable within the purvue of the question pending, but it is not debatable so far as the merits of the bill are concerned.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

For what purpose does the gentleman from Adams, Mr. Worley, rise?

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to oppose this motion. We have taken a great deal of time here and we should vote on this bill today. There is no reason to recommit this bill. The subsequent act of 1943 does not cover everything that is in this law of 1917, which you are attempting to repeal. We should vote this down. Vote this motion down, members.

Whereupon, a division was called for, seventy-eight members having voted in the affirmative and seventy-seven in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the motion was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. For what purpose does the gentleman from Cumberland County, Mr. Kistler, rise?

Mr. KISTLER. I ask for a roll call, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The request was a trifle delayed. It is now out of order.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, is it out of order to ask for a re-vote on the roll call?

The SPEAKER. Such a motion would be distinctly out of order.

Mr. KISTLER. Mr. Speaker, can we have a verification of the vote by roll call?

The SPEAKER. Not now. There was no call for a roll call. There was a call for a division.

Mr. KISTLER. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the minority leader.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I merely wish to make a statement to this effect, that before this session started this afternoon I had made a request of the majority leader to put this bill over until Monday and advised him that we would vote "no," on this side of the House. But he suggested that he could explain this bill sufficiently, perhaps, to convince us that it ought to pass. We have consumed all this time here, in my opinion, to no good purpose.

The SPEAKER. It was a noble exhibition of parliamentary debate. It is the best show that the gentlman from Adams has ever put on in the House. It was a considerable relief from the usual drab routine of so many men on one side of the House voting "aye" and so many men on the other side of the House voting "nay." It was a distinct relief. I think we ought to practice it every once in a while.

The Chair recognizes the majority leader.

Mr. McCANN. I believe it would have been well for the acting minority leader to consider the situation and supported the motion made to place it on the postponed calendar so bill 337 could be brought out and debated. This is directly contrary to the position indicated at an earlier date, that this should go over until such time as some more information could be obtained from the members. This is exactly what we are doing now. The bill will be back, out of Rules Committee when 337 is here and in position to be voted on; 337 was reported from the Committee on Appropriations about two hours ago.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 573, printer's No. 618 and

House bill No. 636, printer's No. 692

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 27

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I call up House resolution No. 27 on page 16 of the calendar.

The resolution was read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1961.

The House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania recognizes the importance of port facilities

The City of Chester has port facilities which have been allowed to deteriorate and now serve very little if any useful purpose

Rehabilitation of these facilities would promote the economy of the City of Chester in creating jobs advancing industrial production and generally ameliorating business conditions

Resolved That the House of Representatives urge the Honorable Joseph Eyre Mayor of the City of Chester and the Delaware River Port Authority to forthwith do all in their power to rehabilitate and develop the port facilities of Chester Pennsylvania and be it further

Resolved That they be urged to enlist the aid of Federal Government and State Agencies in furthering the development of the aforesaid port facilities and be it further

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Honorable Joseph Eyre Mayor of the City of Chester and a copy to the City Council in care of Richard Larkin Chief Clerk City of Chester Pennsylvania and to the Delaware River Port Authority.

STATEMENT BY MAJORITY LEADER

Mr. TOMPKINS. Before the members start filtering away, I would like to remind all of the members on both sides that we have unanimously agreed that beginning next Monday we will start our caucuses at 3 o'clock and the session will begin at 4, and that we will close at 6, so they will have that knowledge.

The SPEAKER. Is that a promise?

Mr. TOMPKINS. That will be confirmed by letter to the Republicans.

I also would like to ask the majority leader, at this time, if he has any information yet on the schedule for Holy Week?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I do not have an official confirmation from all parties concerned, but the schedule would be three days next week, three days the week after that, March 20, 21, and 22, and then, without a doubt, there will be a Holy Week vacation and there would be no session from Wednesday until Tuesday following Easter.

Mr. TOMPKINS. That has not been confirmed as yet, however?

Mr. McCANN. I have gotten the Republican members of the House to agree, the Democratic members of the House to agree, the Republican members of the Senate agree. We are calling now upon the Democratic members of the Senate.

Mr. TOMPKINS. We will know definitely next week, however?

Mr. McCANN. We will.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS HOUSE

Mr. DONALDSON asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker, on behalf of the Republican caucus, I want to submit a series of additional bills implementing the legislative program adopted by this caucus. Because we are closing this session and because these bills have received a certain publicity in the press, I would just like to mention them before putting them in. One of them grants tax exemption for certain older citizens of limited incomes, one amends the Vehicle Code by requiring the attachment of safety belt devices, another bill consolidates the Common Pleas Court in the County of Philadelphia, we amend the State Harness Racing Law by prohibiting public officers, public employes, and party officers from having an interest in parimutuel racing activities, and we request a study of truck braking. These bills have received publicity, they have been submitted, and I trust the majority will see that they receive due consideration by the proper committees.

INTERROGATION

The SPEAKER. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Sherman.

Mr. SHERMAN. May I interrogate the previous speaker, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Donaldson, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DONALDSON. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. SHERMAN. Am I correct that the first bill you mentioned was a bill giving tax exemption to those over 65 with an income of $5,000?

Mr. DONALDSON. That is not quite true. What we propose is a joint resolution authorizing this legislature to grant tax exemption to persons over 65 years of age, and at the same time a statute that would grant the exemption up to $1,000 of the assessed valuation, to those persons over 65 who had an income of less than $5,000.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman realize that House bill 139, which was ordered prior to the time the session started, which was introduced by the Democrats, by myself, by Mr. Gelfand and Mr. Williams, states exactly that position in the form of a joint resolution. Therefore, as a member of the House I think I have the right to object to a similar bill being introduced by the other side.

Mr. DONALDSON. Mr. Speaker,—

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say that any member can introduce a bill of any type, that he may elect to introduce.

Mr. DONALDSON. I would answer the gentleman, Mr. Speaker, if I may. I am aware of the gentleman's bill and I think it is a good one. But, ours is a little bit different; perhaps I did not make that clear. What we propose is the constitutional authority for this legislature to grant exemptions as it sees fit to people in lower income brackets. The gentleman will agree that that is a different constitutional amendment than he has, I believe.

Mr. SHERMAN. Mr. Speaker, House bill 139 is proposing an amendment to the Constitution.

Mr. DONALDSON. That is right.

Mr. SHERMAN. A joint resolution. Now, do you propose anything different than that?

Mr. DONALDSON. We do propose something different, but I would honestly rather not take up the time of the House at this point. I am happy that we are in agreement on the basic premise and I would like to walk back and talk to the gentleman after this House is adjourned and explain the difference. If he has any further questions on it next week we can, perhaps,—

Mr. SHERMAN. One other question. Would you be in agreement to support House bill 139, in the form of a joint resolution as an amendment to the Constitution?

Mr. DONALDSON. I did not quite hear the question.

Mr. SHERMAN. Will you lend your support to House bill 139, the bill that was introduced by myself, Mr. Gelfand and Mr. Williams, in the form of a joint resolution to amend the constitution?

Mr. DONALDSON. I am certainly in agreement with that principle. I think our resolution is a better one. Perhaps, you can support ours. Certainly we could talk about it.

ADJOURNMENT

Mrs. REIBMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until Monday, March 13, 1961 at 4:00 p.m., e.s.t.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 1:36 p.m., e.s.t.) the House adjourned.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal.

Session 1961. 145th of the General Assembly.

Vol. 38. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, MARCH 13, 1961. No. 27.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 13, 1961.

The Senate met at 3:00 p. m., Eastern Standard Time.

The PRESIDING OFFICER (Jo Hays) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. DOCTOR MERVIN A. HELLER, Executive Secretary of Greater Reading Council of Churches, Reading, offered the following prayer:

Let us pray.

O God, Who hast been our help in ages past and our hope for years to come, we bless Thee for Thy faithfulness, of which there is no end. We praise Thee for the gift of life which only Thou canst bestow, and for Thine unfailing goodness which over-arches our days. Forgive us that so often we have lived as feverishly as if we had no Father in Heaven, and as if we were orphans in an alien world.

Here in the quiet of this moment of prayer, may we become sensitive again to Thy presence.

"Drop Thy still dews of quietness
Till all our strivings cease;
Take from our souls the strain and stress
And let our ordered lives confess
The beauty of Thy peace."

Bless this Senate of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and may they labor toward the end that we may have for today, and for the tomorrows which shall come, a good and beloved community. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDING OFFICER. A quorum of the Senate being present, the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. WEINER and Mr. MILLER, further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Mr. BERGER asked and obtained leave of absence for Mr. WOLFE, due to illness.

GUESTS OF THOMAS A. EHRGOOD PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. EHRGOOD. Mr. President, we are privileged to have with us today a group of honor students, twenty-five in number, from the Junior High School Honor Society, of the eighth and ninth grades, from the Annville-Cleona Joint School District.

They are accompanied by their High School Principal, Mr. Richard Gingrich, and their Faculty Advisor, Mr. William Lemon.

I think it would be very fitting for the Chair, on behalf of the Senate, to welcome this group to our deliberations today.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. The Chair, on behalf of the Senate, is happy to welcome the guests of Senator Ehrgood; namely, the junior citizens from the Annville-Cleona High School. We are glad to have you with us and hope that you will find this Session interesting. We will be glad to welcome you back again.

GUESTS OF SENATOR GEORGE N. WADE PRESENTED TO SENATE

Mr. WADE. Mr. President, we in the Senate are honored this afternoon by having with us a delegation of women, from Carlisle, who are representing the League of Women Voters of Cumberland County. They have spent a good portion of today in the Capitol.

Mrs. Flint Kellogg and others are with us this afternoon. This morning, they attended and were very interested in the public hearing which was held by Senator Mahady and his committee.

I would be indebted to you, Mr. President, if you would greet the ladies who are visting us from Cumberland County.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Will the guests of Senator Wade please rise in order for us to identify them?

On behalf of the Senate, we are pleased to welcome you to this session of the Senate today. We are glad that you had the opportunity of participating in the public hearing of a Senate Committee this morning, in the Senate Caucus Room.

I think the Chair failed to ask our junior citizens from the Annville-Cleona High School to rise in order for all of us to recognize them. Will the group please stand up?

March 9, 1961.

Dear Mr. Moomaw:

Act No. 465, approved October 22, 1959, created a Bituminous Mine Law Study Commission for the purpose of making a study and investigation of all laws relating to underground bituminous coal mines and the preparation of a modern code relating thereto.

Section 4 of this Act requires that the Commission make a report to the Governor and to the General Assembly during the 1959 Session of the General Assembly or during the next subsequent regular Session of the General Assembly following the 1959 Session, together with a draft of such proposed legislation as is deemed necessary to carry its recommendations into effect. It is necessary by law that this proposed legislation be unanimously agreed to by the Commission.

I am very pleased to respectfully submit a copy of a report on behalf of the Commission, together with a draft of the proposed legislation which has been unanimously agreed to by the Commission. Sufficient copies of this report have been made available for distribution among the members of the Senate on behalf of this Commission.

Very truly yours,
/s/ Lewis E. Evans

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. PECHAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. PECHAN. Mr. President, last Tuesday, in discussing some legislation, I made the statement that I was having a bill prepared which would give a restricted license to those people who, for one reason or another, might lose their driver's license because of speeding or some other violation of The Vehicle Code.

In my particular area, the loss of these licenses imposes a hardship on many people. I am talking primarily about the first offenders; those people who may lose their licenses for the first time. Let us talk, perhaps, about a fifteen-day suspension. I very strongly believe the Department of Revenue is trying to cut down on speeding and the rate of deaths occurring on our highways. However, in the area in which I live, it is very, very difficult for a person who, for example, works in Ford City and lives out in Manor Township, approximately twenty miles away, where there is no bus service or any car pool. This causes him to lose his job and, subsequently, go on the relief rolls.

The bill which I am sponsoring today, Mr. President, will give that offender, if he can prove it is a necessity for him to use his automobile to get to and from work, permission to use his car. However, if he works five days a week and is off on Saturdays and Sundays, then the use of his vehicle will be denied to him for fifteen twenty-four hour periods. That would consist of about seven and one-half weeks in which he would be denied the use of his automobile during his time off.

The bill as drawn up is, perhaps, not perfect. I am willing, however, to offer another amendment. An amendment which I think is very strongly needed is the amendment wherein a person who drives a truck for a living and is caught speeding, let us say, in a passenger automobile, then I believe he should be granted a restricted driver's license in order to drive his truck. I do not believe that this fellow should be permitted to go scot-free. I think it would promote a bigger hardship for him in not being permitted to use his car for a period of over seven different week ends, in a fifteen-day suspension, than it would for him to lose that privilege for fifteen days.

Therefore, Mr. President, on behalf of my colleagues, Senator Berger, Senator Stroup, Senator Kromer, Senator Confair, Senator Ware, Senator Haluska, Senator Miller, Senator Van Sant and myself, I am about to introduce a very fine bill.

Mr. RIPP offered the following resolution, which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, March 13, 1961.

RESOLVED (the House of Representatives concurring), That when the Senate adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, March 20, 1961 at THREE o'clock P.M., E.S.T., and when the House of Representatives adjourns this week, it reconvene Monday, March 20, 1961 at FOUR o'clock P.M., E.S.T.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

PERMISSION TO ADDRESS SENATE

Mr. McCREESH asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the Senate.

Mr. McCREESH. Mr. President, It is indeed a pleasure for me to introduce this resolution and request its immediate adoption, on behalf of myself and the following friends and sons of the Irish race of Pennsylvania: Senator Taylor, Senator Mallery, Senator McGinnis, Senator Rooney, Senator Mahady, Senator Devlin and Senator Camiel.

SENATE RESOLUTION

CONGRATULATIONS OF THE SENATE EXTENDED TO THE IRISH ON SAINT PATRICK'S DAY

Messrs. McCREESH, TAYLOR, MALLERY, McGINNIS, ROONEY, MAHADY, DEVLIN and CAMIEL, offered the following resolution (Serial No. 23), which was read, considered and adopted:

In the Senate, March 13, 1961.

Wherever the member of the Celtic race and their friends gather on the happy day of March 17th, it is a matter of historic record that their voices will be raised in song and their arms raised with a glass of spirits. For this day is one that is set apart for rejoicing by the descendants and friends of Ireland all over the world to pay honor and tribute to their patron saint, Saint Patrick.

Much of the greatness of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was made possible by the sons of Erin, who in the early days of our history helped pioneer our land and who took part in the conflicts and wars in which this State and America were engaged for the preservation of freedom.

In every county of the Commonwealth are to be found evidences of the brain and brawn and culture of those who trace their ancestry to the Emerald Isle who helped to build our first railroads, mine our first coal, forge our first steel, drill our first oil wells, establish churches and institutions of learning and in other ways aided in the creation of Pennsylvania's proud reputation for its high place in the world's commerce, culture and industry; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania pause to congratulate the Irish, on Saint Patrick's Day, for their manifold contributions to the settlement and development of this Commonwealth as no more fitting time could be selected for our tribute to the Sons of Erin.

SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

DIRECTING THE JOINT STATE GOVERNMENT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE LAWS RELATING TO MECHANICS' LIENS

Messrs. STROUP, MAHADY, DEVLIN, SHAFER and EHRGOOD offered the following resolution (Serial No. 111), which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Judiciary General:

In the Senate, March 13, 1961.

The act of June 4, 1901 (P. L. 431), commonly referred to as the "Mechanics' Lien Law," was enacted subsequent to the adoption of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1874 and in so far as the provisions thereof are not divergent from pre-existing law, is not in violation of Article III, section 7, of the Constitution as a special law. However, many sections and amendments to the act have been held unconstitutional by our Supreme Court.

There is great confusion with respect to the construction and application of the act and the General Assembly requires for its use comprehensive factual information relating to the laws concerning mechanics' liens so that they may be codified, simplified, and clarified in keeping with the constitutional limitations, as to their construction and applications; therefore be it

Resolved (the House of Representatives concurring), That the Joint State Government Commission be directed to study the laws relating to mechanics' liens with a view of codifying, clarifying and simplifying such laws; and be it further

Resolved, That the Joint State Government Commission report to the General Assembly, its findings and recommendations, together with drafts of legislation necessary to carry its recommendations into effect.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. YATRON by unanimous consent, from the Committee on Agriculture, reported, as amended, HB 332.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

SB 84—Without objection, the bill was passed over in its order at the request of Mr. BERGER.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

SB 86—Read at length the third time and argeed to,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I just want the record to show that I and other Members representing Philadelphia County and Allegheny County are aware that we have been amended out of this bill.

However, I want to state that the relationship between the City of Philadelphia and the City of Pittsburgh, with its surrounding areas, is such that I do not think we need any legislation to do what we are already doing. I think they have been living in a harmonious relationship.

It is unfortunate that some people feel we should have been taken out of this measure, and that great harm would be done to this bill by leaving Philadelphia and Pittsburgh in it. I think it is sort of shortsighted on the part of some of the people involved. However, I am perfectly willing to vote for this measure to show that I think we need this type of legislation. It is imperative that we all get along and that these areas all learn to live together and operate together. It will be more economical in the long run for everyone concerned.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILL OVER IN ORDER

HB 95—Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I request that House Bill No. 95 go over in its order.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. Is there objection?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I have no objection to House Bill No. 95, Printer's No. 95, going over in its order. However, as has been said here on many occasions, this has been on the Calendar for quite a while, and probably sometime in the dim future—or, at least, the foreseeable future—it might be brought up for a vote.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I would be delighted to bring it up for a vote today or any day when we can get one more vote besides the twenty-five we have to pass it. I have twenty-five votes. I stated to the gentlemen on the other side that if they would have their entire membership here, I would be delighted to ask the Lieutenant Governor and he might consider voting on this measure.

Having not been afforded either one of those two opportunities, I must reluctantly ask that this bill go over in its order.

I realize it has been here a long time, sir, and I am glad you are coming to my realization that these bills have been on the Calendar too long. If you will lend us a vote or bring in your entire membership, I will be delighted to dispose of this matter forthwith.

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I have not kept calendar on this bill. However, I am sure if we would add up the days, it has been on much longer than many of the bills which the gentleman has referred to as getting stale on the Calendar.

Mr. WEINER. Mr. President, I can only say that I heartily agree that this bill is stale. I am trying to move all of the others so they do not get as stable as this one.

The PRESIDING OFFICER. There being no objection, the bill will go over in its order.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL

SB 175—Read at length the third time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. HALUSKA. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 175 be recommitted to the Committee on Local Government for the purpose of further study.

Mr. SEYLER. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. BERGER. Mr. President, I object to the recommittal of this bill.

This bill simply authorizes the township engineers in townships of the Second Class where there are bridges, having a span of twenty feet or less, to repair the roadway deck or extension of those bridges without the approval of the Water and Power Resources Board.

Mr. President, I can see no reason whatsoever why any objection should be made to this bill. I would like to have it remain on the Calendar until the Members of the Senate can be satisfied that the bill does not have any particular implications which might be harmful. As far as I can read it, it seems to a good, reasonable sort of bill.

Therefore, Mr. President, I ask my colleagues to vote "no" on this motion.

An Act amending "The Borough Code" approved May 4, 1927 (P. L. 519) redesignating the burgess as the mayor.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for third reading.

The first section was read and agreed to.

The second section was read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, on House bill 337, I would like to offer two sets of amendments which are correctional only to the bill, not controversial.

Mr. McCANN offered the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 2, page 3, line 2 by striking out "and" and inserting: "or".

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Ashton, desire to be recognized at this time?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the majority leader and have him explain what these amendments do.

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrrogated?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I will be most pleased to.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Chester will proceed.

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to have the majority leader explain what effect these amendments have on the bill as written.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the two sets of amendments now in possession of the House are correctional amendments only, on one word in one section, one word in another. Without looking at the amendments, there is one place in the bill, on, I think, page 10, where there is the word "apples" and it should have been "agricultural commodities." In one place the word should have been "or" instead of "and" and that is all.

Mr. ASHTON. As I understand it, these amendments which are offered now are only correctional, which I think are necessary.

Mr. McCANN. Those two are, yes, sir.

Mr. ASHTON. But there are other amendments which will be offered next?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, those amendments are the amendments that are non-controversial.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will now call on the majority leader for the controversial amendments.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendments dealing with the Pennsylvania Red Cherry Growers' Association.

Mr. McCANN offered the following additional amendment:

Amend Sec. 2, page 3, line 2, by inserting after "apples" "and red tart cherries"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Greene what effect these amendments have on the bill?

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the amendments would place into this bill the other agricultural commodity, red tart cherries. This is in compliance with the Pennsylvania Red Cherry Growers' Association, located in Northeast, Pennsylvania, in which by letter dated March 3, 1961, they requested that such amendments be placed in House bill 337. In a meeting this resolution was adopted, requesting that this commodity be acted on and handled under this bill. By this amendment there is added to the bill now apples and red tart cherries.

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, these amendments offered by the majority leader are precisely the danger which this bill presents. As far as apples are concerned, the bill was all right as apples, but I have not had a chance to offer the amendments which I wish to offer on this bill, and my amendments would have made it more difficult to change it from apples to any other commodity, because there are many other producers of agricultural products who are scared to death of this bill and the ease with which it can be amended to include other products. I think the offering of these amendments at this time is just a demonstration of how easily another agricultural commodity can come under this act. For that reason I wish to oppose these amendments to include cherries in the present setup. I ask that the members on both sides of the House vote "no" on these proposed amendments, and I ask for a slow roll call.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman is somewhat confused as to how easy it would be to amend the bill, because the only people who would be in this bill would be those who asked to be in it, and these people have asked, by letter, in writing, that they be a part of this program. The apple people have asked the same in letter form, and no one else to the present date has asked.

Are you insinuating that we are going to put in effect such a program and include such commodities which they themselves do not want or do not favor, although it is their money they will spend in promoting this program.

We are now just talking about amendments to a bill. I understood that the gentleman, Mr. Ashton, would be preparing his amendments for introduction to the bill tomorrow and he is permitted to offer such amendments.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the majority leader?

The SPEAKER. Will the majority leader permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McCANN. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'DELL. Mr. Speaker, you say you have a letter there from Northeast? Could I see the letter, please?

Mr. McCANN. I would be most pleased. I have copies for all you Erie County Representatives.

Mr. O'DELL. The reason I mention that is that it puts me in an embarrassing position. I was swamped over the week end with calls from Cherry Growers of Erie County who were opposed to the apple bill because they were afraid they would eventually be put under it. Now you say you have a letter there. I would like to see it please.

Mr. McCANN. Would the page please take a copy of this letter to the gentleman? I bclieve Northeast is in Erie County, in the heart of the cherry industry.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Chester desire a recorded roll call?

Mr. ASHTON. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WORLEY. Mr. Speaker, if we keep on adding amendments like this at the request of agriculture industries, after a while we will be taking in corn, potatoes, wheat, and everything else. The entire economy of the farmers will be run by the State agriculture department. Unless we stop, what is to stop them from extending it further yet and maybe including some other industries such as candy, chewing gum, cigarettes, and booze. There is no end to this, if we keep on going.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill was originally introduced, as we understand it, for the apple industry at the request of the apple industry. The bill, however, instead of being drawn for apples only defines an agricultural product and puts only apples into it. The bill, as written, is a good skeleton bill to just keep adding one product at a time until you might have all the products which a farm does business with included in the bill.

As late as 2 o'clock this afternoon I had information from various farm organizations that the cherry people had not requested to be in this bill this year. If there is information from other sources to the contrary, we have not been furnished that information. I do not see why, when we have set a bill up at the request of an industry, we should expand it to take in additional items which were not originally intended by the bill. For that reason I am going to ask the members on this side of the House to vote against these amendments.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman desires to vote only on the bill in its present form, I will withdraw the red cherry amendment.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I cannot answer that question without consulting with the gentleman from Chester who has amendments that would confine the bill to apples only.

AMENDMENTS WITHDRAWN

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I withdraw the amendments that were offered to the paragraph dealing with red tart cherries.

The SPEAKER. The amendments offered by the majority leader have been withdrawn.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Chester, Mr. Ashton.

Mr. ASHTON. Mr. Speaker, it is very magnanimous of the majority leader to have withdrawn his amendments, but that does not insinuate any willingness on my part not to offer my amendments on third reading tomorrow.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The third to the sixth sections inclusive were separately read and agreed to.

The seventh section was read.

BILLS PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 297, printer's No. 326, and

House bill No. 356, printer's No. 478

were passed over at the request of the SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair requests the gentleman from Beaver to preside temporarily.

Mr. HAMILTON IN THE CHAIR

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 367, entitled:

An Act amending "The Game Law" approved June 3, 1937 (P L 1225) prohibiting the killing or wounding of albino or white deer and imposing duties on the commission with respect to collecting and protecting them.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I would like one of the sponsors of the bill to clarify for me one word therein, namely, the word "predominantly." "It is unlawful for any person at any time to shoot at or wound or kill or attempt to shoot at or wound or kill or have in possession a deer that is albino or predominantly white." I was wondering what that "predominantly" would embrace. Could someone clarify that for me?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Westmoreland, Mr. Maxwell.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, occasionally these deer are not all white. They are part white and part brown. We might say they are in a stage of transition. "Predominantly" would mean when you could clearly see that there was more white color on the deer than brown, and white is the predominant color.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, would you say that a deer that is more than 50 percent would be covered, and not less than 50 percent but more than 50 percent white, would that be predominantly white? Or, is it not a question of percentage?

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, my definition of "predominantly" is more white than any other color.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I think Mr. Breth might be able to clarify this, since he is the game expert here. May I interrogate Mr. Breth?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. McCORMACK. What I am concerned with, Mr. Speaker, is the possibility that the wardens or agents might cause the arrest of some hunter for having in his possession, or killing a deer, when it is a question of whether or not the deer is predominantly white. I would appreciate it if you would clarify that for me and tell me whether or not there is a great margin for possible error.

Mr. BRETH. Mr. Speaker, I think the best way that question can be answered is to explain what happens here in albino mutations. In pure albinoism the first generation comes out white, pure white, in any kind of an animal or fish, having everything white or pink. The eyes are pink, and in the case of the deer the nose is pink, the tongue is pink, the gums are pink, the hoofs are pink, and everything about the animal in the whole structure on its exterior is pink and white.

Now, in the second generation, where an albino, whether it be a male or female of the deer family, would mate with another regular brown deer, you are likely to get a mottled, or, in some instances, a reversion to the regular color of the species. In other words, this is where you come into this term "predominantly white." In other words, the second generation always has a dark eye, either black or brown, brownish nose, brownish hoofs, and perhaps in its body structure it might look like a Holstein, or another type of an animal, cattle animal. If it would be brown and white in a horse, it would be pinto.

In order to answer your question as far as enforcement is concerned, under this particular law and with the warden it would be more or less a matter of discretion if this bill became law, a matter of discretion between the arresting officer and the magistrate, or the jury, to determine whether or not the predominance of white was sufficient to bring it under this act. That is as far as I can go.

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, let me ask one more question. In your opinion, a person who shot or had in his possession a deer that is albino or predominantly white, would you say he would know that he would be violating the provisions of this act?

Mr. BRETH. I would say the word "predominantly" would cover such a situation. If you would see enough white or if there were enough white on a deer to be seen clearly, you would know that you were shooting either an albino or a part albino.

Mr. McCORMACK. Thank you.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Clearfield, Mr. Breth, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BRETH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. FILO. Mr. Speaker, I agree with my colleague from Philadelphia regarding the word "predominantly." I do not know—he comes from Philadelphia—whether Mr. McCormack ever hunted deer or not, but I did. Mr. Speaker, how can you see both sides of a deer at the same time? I would like the gentleman to answer that question.

Mr. BRETH. To my mind, Mr. Speaker, that would be decided by the magistrate or by the arresting officer. If the deer had his brown side toward me, the bullet that killed it would enter the brown side; if the white side were toward me, the bullet would enter the white side. Therefore, q.e.d., the wilfulness of the act would be open and shut.

Mr. FILO. It is true that you could be looking at a deer with only one white spot in the front or on its one side.

I sort of agree, Mr. Speaker, and I think the House membership agrees, too, that the word "predominantly" in there is rather superfluous. It should not be. It is going to cause a lot of mistakes. A lot of people are going to be hurt, especially the hunters will be hurt when they shoot such a deer.

I feel that the membership should vote this bill down.

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, I am wondering why an albino should be protected at all? You have enough trouble finding a deer in the woods that has legal horns on it and being able to shoot it without having to go out and measure how much of it is white and how much of it is brown. I think it would be a very desirable trophy. Suppose that deer is turned in such a manner—I have hunted and shot deer—that the deer could be brown on one side and white on the other. You kill it thinking it is a brown deer, you go over and pick it up and find that one side of it is white and then the man is nailed. I cannot see the purpose in protecting it even if it is all white. It would be a very desirable trophy, in my opinion. I think, as was pointed out by the gentleman who sponsored the bill, the second and third generations gradually get into a mottled coloring and eventually probably become all brown again.

I think it is a bad bill and imposes a burden and a hardship on the hunter, who has enough burdens and hardships when he is out in the woods trying to get a legal deer, without putting this on the books. I oppose it.

Mr. GRAMLICH. Mr. Speaker, I have heard some discussion on this killing of the albino. In the first place, I know that Mr. Breth knows more about game, I believe, than anyone here but, he will agree, in the first place, the albino is a freak. In the second place, if the members who are sponsoring this bill have had the luck that I have had, they never did get a deer. I am sure there are very few hunters go to the woods for the meat; they go for trophies. I assure you, Mr. Speaker and the sportsmen, especially the ones who are sponsoring a bill like this, if you had an opportunity to get an albino, whether he had horns or whether she did not have horns —and it is legal in doe season—I do not care if it is pink, white, predominantly white, or what it is, I think it would be a beautiful trophy.

We very seldom see one, anyway. I am a deer hunter too. Therefore, I think it is a shame to pass legislation like this. Please vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. HARTLEY. Mr. Speaker, the sportsmen do not want this bill. Most of the sportsmen who go out hunting hunt for trophies. But this bill is not a sportsmen's bill. This bill should not be called up. The sportsmen like to hunt and they like to hunt for trophies. When you find an albino, you have certainly found a rare specimen and a freak of nature. Therefore, you would like to have it mounted and you would be able to look at him for a long, long time to come.

Therefore, I oppose this bill.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate Mr. Gramlich.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Venango, Mr. Gramlich, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GRAMLICH. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman made a statement that these white deer are freaks.

Mr. GRAMLICH. In my opinion, they are. In all the history of it, the albino deer is a freak.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Gramlich, what color are you?

Mr. GRAMLICH. Well, I do not know. I might be a freak, but I did not know anybody was concerned about it. And, Mr. Speaker, I only have two legs and pink skin.

Mr. MAXWELL. Mr. Speaker, I did not hear the gentleman's answer but I suppose he said he was white.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman says he is pink.

Mr. MAXWELL. Well then, the gentleman has called himself what he calls the deer, because there are more brown, yellow and black people in this world than there are white. So he terms himself the same thing as he does the deer.

Mr. Speaker, members of the House, before we vote on this bill, if they object to the word "predominantly," it will be all right to hold this bill over and take that word out.

The purpose of this bill is one thing. Now if you want to vote the bill down, it is no great loss to me. But it will be a great loss to the State of Pennsylvania and to the kiddies and the tourists in this country because there probably is not over one albino deer a year in all of Pennsylvania. If these deer were protected and put in a protected area, as Mr. Breth has said, eventually there would be a pure strain of albino deer. To my knowledge this would be the only place in the world where there would be a herd of deer such as this where tourists and people could take their children to see the wonderful white deer herd, in Pennsylvania.

Now, ladies and gentlemen, in closing, practically every country in the world respects the color of white. We have the sacred white cow, we have the sacred white elephant, we have the sacred white cat. Even the American Indians have the white buffalo as their most powerful and their most sacred medicine. Now can we do any less in Pennsylvania except to pass the white deer bill?

Mr. ADAMS. Mr. Speaker, in my opinion it is a bad bill whether the word "predominantly" is in or out. The gentleman who just spoke would lead us to believe that an ablino buck would go out and hunt an albino doe in order to propagate the white species. I think it is very unlikely that that thing would happen out in the woods, and I say we would wind up with mottled deer again, all brown deer. So if a man is lucky enough to get out and find a legal buck with horns on it and it is albino, more power to him. Bring it home. I have been hunting in the woods for about 24 years and I only saw one partial albino deer and that did not have any horns, so I just had to watch it walk away.

Vote the bill down.

BILL PASSED OVER

There being no objection

House bill No. 387, printer's No. 424

was passed over at the request of the SPEAKER pro tempore.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 400, entitled:

An Act requiring the erection and maintenance of medial barriers or guards on the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, I should like to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Filo, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. FILO. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. Mr. Speaker, we are in favor of the purposes behind this bill. The question is, we do not understand the bill as to whether or not the medial barriers that are already built are to be given credit and that this bill is to have 25 or 50 miles additional each year over and above what has already been built?

Mr. FILO. Over and above what has already been built, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TOMPKINS. The bill does not specifically say that, as I recall it, but we are in favor of the purposes of the bill.

I thank the gentleman.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 414, entitled:

An Act amending "The Second Class Township Code" approved May 1, 1933 (P. L. 103), imposing costs in prosecutions for violations when evidence does not show the prosecution is well founded and requiring bonds.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be recommitted to the Committee on Townships.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 416, entitled:

An Act amending the act of May 23, 1945 (P. L. 903), entitled "An act authorizing cities of the third class to establish an optional retirement system for officers and employes independently of any pension system or systems existing in such cities" changing the basis for pensions.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to offer amendments to the bill. If the amendments are accepted, it will make House bill 416 the same as House bill 418, so that pension rights for employes will be the same as policemen and firemen in third-class cities. I have discussed it with the sponsor of the bill and he has agreed to the amendments.

Mr. A. W. JOHNSON asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 4), page 3, line 1, by inserting after "city" or which would be determined by the rate of the monthly pay of such person at the date of retirement, whichever is the higher.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House bill No. 417, entitled:

An Act amending "The Vehicle Code" approved April 29, 1959 (P. L. 58), providing for certain traffic courts in cities of the third class.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BOWMAN. In my opinion, these are very controversial amendments, and I would like both to speak on them and call for a roll call.

Mr. PIPER asked unanimous consent to offer an amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The amendment will be read by the clerk for information.

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 1201.1), page 2, line 12, by inserting after "month" No appointee shall be reappointed until each alderman has served in this court or waived the privilege so to do by notifying the mayor in writing.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give unanimous consent to the offering of an amendment at this time? Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs, who is a proponent of the amendments.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Isaacs.

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to support the amendments offered by the gentleman from Berks, Mr. Piper. When the Vehicle Code was originally passed on May 1, 1929—or approved May 1, 1929—it provided that all summary cases be taken before the nearest magistrate in the political subdivision, the nearest magistrate being a magistrate in the city of Philadelphia, a justice of the peace in the boroughs and townships, and an alderman in the other cities. The purpose of that was evident. It was to keep police from riding by a number of justices of the peace to pick out a particular one. This bill, as it originally was sponsored, provided the same thing as has every traffic court bill which has left this House since 1955. However, the bill was amended and that provision for rotation of magistrates was taken out of the bill. I would say it was a controversial amendment when it was taken out and I ask the members on both sides of the House to support these amendments, and I ask for a roll call vote.

Mr. BOWMAN. Mr. Speaker, as the gentleman from Delaware indicated, this bill now provides that the traffic courts do not have to be served by aldermen in rotation, that is, all aldermen in a third-class city do not have to—are not required to—serve in a traffic court. The mayor can appoint those he feels are competent to serve in the court. I, of course, support the present bill and oppose the amendments.

We recognize that there are many excellent aldermen in a third-class city. Unfortunately, we equally recognize that there are some not so competent alderman in a third-class city, and a few, very few, completely incompetent aldermen in third-class cities. We have no argument whatsoever with those aldermen who are competent. We want them to serve, but the amendments, if accepted, will require us to have every alderman, regardless of his competency, serve in a traffic court. If you want an efficient traffic court, reject these amendments. If you want the system as it is today, reject the entire bill.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I rise to join my colleague from Dauphin County in opposing the amendments to this bill. The phrase "good government" has unfortunately recently become, in many cases, a term of derision. This is certainly not true of this bill. Those of us who live in third-class cities feel that the traffic court plan as encompassed in the bill as it is now written will do two things. First, it will provide for a fairer system of enforcement of our traffic laws, and, second, it will provide the motorist who has been, in many cases, in some cases, improperly charged with violation, a proper forum in which to be heard. I think many of us are aware that frequently aldermen and justices of the peace are reluctant to decide in favor of the defendant and against the prosecutor in a criminal matter. We feel that in a traffic court the motorist is going to get a better break. So much for the bill itself.

As to these amendments, the gentleman from Dauphin is quite correct. Unfortunately there are aldermen who are not competent, in my opinion, to serve in traffic court, and yet this bill would give them the right to sit there whether they were qualified to handle this court or not. We feel that since this is being put under the control of the city administration itself, it should properly be their duty and their right to choose those aldermen whom they feel qualified and competent to handle this court, and I would ask all members on both sides of the aisle to join in rejecting these amendments.

The SPEAKER (Hiram G. Andrews) IN THE CHAIR

Mr. ISAACS. Mr. Speaker, I readily admit that there are probably some magistrates who are not as good as others. I think every member of this House will readily admit there are some judges of courts of record who are more competent than others. However, they are not told to sit in a corner and not be permitted to hear any cases, or not even be permitted to improve themselves. These amendments are the position of the Pennsylvania Magistrates' Association, and let us remember, every one of these aldermen are elected by the electors in their respective wards and they are certainly entitled to their day in court. I ask support for these amendments.

Mr. POLASKI. Mr. Speaker, I urge all the members on this side of the House to please vote for these amendments.

Mr. GAILEY. Mr. Speaker, I do not want to prolong this debate, but I would like the attention of the House for just a second while I comment on the remarks of Mr. Isaacs.

I think all of us will agree that our traffic regulations and laws are passed not for the purpose of putting costs in the pockets of the elected aldermen but are put into effect in order to regulate our traffic systems.

It seems to me that the arguments that they are entitled to their day in court and therefore to their costs has nothing to do with this particular bill. The issue is solely as to whether or not you want a fair system of traffic law enforcement. In order to do that, as the gentleman from Dauphin has said, these amendments should be defeated.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I did not intend to get into this argument but I think there is another point that ought to be considered in this. From the standpoint of pure fairness, aldermen are elected by the people in the ward in which they reside. Evidently they must have some competency about them or else they would not have been able to be elected by those people in that particular ward. I am speaking on the grounds of partisan discrimination on these bills. If a man is elected as an alderman in his ward and you are going to have a traffic court, then I think he should have a right to serve on that traffic court and not be subject to partisan discrimination. And that is what you are trying to do here if you do not adopt these amendments.

Mr. McCANN. Mr. Speaker, our members are divided. If you vote "aye," you are supporting the amendments which rotate; if you vote "no," you are voting against the amendments and you are voting for the bill as it is in its present position. Vote as you please.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

The yeas and nays were required by Messrs. PIPER and BOWMAN and were as follows:
